CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.— Canadian Press. — The demand for cash grain in the local market yesterday was better but the trade in spot supplies continues quiet.

The domestic trade for flour is still active with the prices firm.

There is no actual change in the condition of the millfeed market, but the market for rolled oats was firm under a steady demand. Trade on spot for baled hay was reported quiet.

The prices of eggs remained unchanged with the tone of the market steady. Volume of business in potatoes was not large.

A very firm feeling continues to prevail in the butter market, with an upward tendency foreshadowed in prices in the near future.

Much excitement developed at the meeting of the Brockville cheese board when prices advanced 6 1-16c per lb. owing to keen competition. Otherwise prices generaly were unchanged.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—The local demand for cash grain in the domestic market was again fairly good yesterday. There was no actual change in the market for flour.

The demand for millfeed was exceedingly good and a large volume of business was done with prices firm. Trade in rolled oats was fairly active. Prices were steady under afair demand for baled hay. Prices for grades other than strictly new-laid eggs were without change but the latter advanced a further two cents a dozen.

The market for potatoes was without feature. There was a price advance of 1-2 cent to 1 cent per pound in butter. The cheese market was fairly active and strong and the impression prevails that prices will go higher.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Receipts 1,250 cattle and calves, 530 hogs and 240 sheep and lambs.

The cattle market opened with a slightly weaker undertone apparent. Heifers and butcher steers sold at firm prices and choice quality feeder steers were in fair demand, but other grades were weak and inactive.

The hog market opened at a decline of about 25 cents with packers bidding 9.00 for thick smooth and 9.90 for select bacon.

The sheep and lamb market was

ST. JOHN'S CHURGH

have been Rev. Richard D'Olier, B.A.; Rev. Chas. Wade, M.A.; Rev. Robert J. C. Taylor, Rev. Mark Burnham, Rev. John Walton Rowlyn Beck, Rev. J. C. Davidson (Canon of St. Alban's Cathedral, Toronto, and now Archdeacon of Peterborough), and the present incumbent, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave.

St. John's being one of Ontario's old endowed churches, its rector is appointed life-incumbent. Therefore, Archdeacon Davidson is still non-resident rector, with Dr R. C. Blagrave Vicar and Rev. O. G. H. Lloyd his assistant. Dr. Blagrave assumed office on Sunday, January 16, 1921, when Bishop Sweeney of Toronto introduced him to the congregation at the morning service; and under his exceedingly appreciated ministery the congregation has taken a forward stride which promises considerable expansion. Rev. O. G. H. Lloyd took up his duties as curate on October 18, this year, when he created a favorable impression on the congregation.

The New Vestry.

Among the long-needed improvements to St. John's there now stands the present commodious and well-equipped vestry, with ladies' robing room above, annexed to the ancient structure in 1907. On the top story may be seen a memorial window to the late John E. Belcher, C.E., the church's life-long, open-handed architect, who gave his valued professional services at all times free of charge to the congregation, for work on the sacred building itself.

Picturesque Edifice.

Cruciform in shape, the style of St. John's nave is "third pointed," (the broad flat arches and elaborate bracery of the Tudor gothic) but the chancel is built in "first pointed" gothic (the lancet shaped pointed arches of the Plantaganet age). And situated on the crown of beautifully landscaped and beshrubed sloping grounds, this old landmark of Peterborough is admitted by widely-travelled visitors to be one of the most picturesque and tastefully adorned Anglican churches in Ontario Province. These grounds were laid out years ago, under the supervision of the then Warden, A. P. Poussette, no longer a resident here.

The Memorials.

The appointments and furnishings of this house of worship were in large part donated, in most cases, to the memory of loved ones gone on before to the land beyond. They include six magnificent stained glass memorial windows; a porch lantern, the gift in 1914, of Mrs. Emily Regan, a life long member of the congregation; the large beautifully carved oak altar, and reredos, by T. H. G. Denne, in memory of his late wife, and dedicated on Sunday morning, June 26, 1921; in fact the chancel and every nook and corner of the church breathes of the spirit of memorial contribution.

Flags without and within.

This narratively brings us to the generous expanse of British colors—the flag of St. George, England's patron saint—which may be noticed flying proudly to the breeze from St. John's tower on all festival and other special occasions. That also is a gift, having been sent from overseas by Captain G. D. Frewer, a former member, in or about 1907, a thoughtful presentation from the Captain's father, Rev. John Frewer, rector of Brede, in Sussex County, near Brighton.

Then within the nave, on the north east wall, the old colors of the 57th Battalion Peterborough Rangers, presented by the ladies of Peterborough in 1860, have found fitting sanctuary since 1904.

Touch of Modernity.

While the exterior of the church still retains its memory-quickening antiquity for the older members, its interior has assumed the clothing of modernity in illumination, heating and wall decoration, thus keeping apace with the city's march of progress. The old hot-air furnaces were replaced by an up-to-date steam system last year, while 1916 or 1917 saw modern illuminating facilities, and the nave and chancel were tastefully re-decorated in 1921.

The People's Chimes.

But the most striking addition to old St. John's in comparatively recent years is seen and enjoyed generally in its chimes, conceded to be the heaviest and richest tuned set of 13 bells in the province. Weighing 14,000 lbs., Big Ben alone tipping the scales at 3000 lbs., and costing $5600, these tuneful chimes were manufactured by Taylor & Co., of Longboro, Eng. They were dedicated by Bishop Sweeney of Toronto, on Coronation Day, June 22, 1911; are known as the Peoples' Chimes, having been contributed to by citizens irrespective of their faith or creed, and are housed in the church's ancient tower in trust for the whole community.

R. J. Devey, St. John's organist and choir master for sixteen years, is chimes master, while John Butcher assists in ringing them. Mr. Butcher after rendering the congregation faithful and efficient service as sexton for 39 years, retired in January, 1922.

While no pretension has been made here to cover the whole history of this perhaps most church-like church in Canada occasion is taken in reference to its 87th aniversary of first opening in 1835, and its 40th anniversary of complete restoration, in 1882, to recall a little of its historic association. For, there stands old St. John's to-day, a religious and moral influence in an ever-growing community during a period of but within 13 years of a century, an indissoluble link between early pioneer aspirations and present day consummation.

"Mother Why Not Try The Newer Form Of Iron

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable all the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?"

"The doctor gave some to Susie Smith's mother and she was worse off than you are and now she looks just fine." There can be no healthy, beautiful rosy-cheeked women without iron. Good physicians have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more of the newer form of iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard-looking patients. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks, and strength and vitality from their bodies. This newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in certain green vegetables, is highly recommended to thousands who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you the proper amount of good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale, and sickly-looking, just like a plant trying to grow in soil deficient in iron.

You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women, full of life, vim and vitality. You can get Nuxated Iron from any druggist under an absolute guarantee that it will do the same for you or your money back.

YOUNG MEN

"Our presence here signifies the desire of the young men to organise," was the way Mr. Loucks put it. He proposed that a chairman be appointed, and named Mr. Overend.

Mr. L. Frazer recommended that the proceedings be left to the meeting, and with the appointment of Mr. Overend as temporary president, Mr. Duffus turned the rest of the initial business over to the new chairman.

Mr. Frazer emphasised the point that the present officers have been appointed until the organisation of the Young Men's Chamber has become established with a constitution, by-laws, and probably policy, too. And at that stage the formal election of officers will take place.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., and Mr. J. A. Sharpe were among those who briefly discussed the project. Mr. Kerr said that by reason of their very youth, the young men of Peterborough have a greater interest in Peterborough, because they will be here longer than their elders. They should be prepared to do as their fathers did, to put their shoulder to the wheel and work for Peterborough. It was a duty to find time and to help. He believed that the young men wanted to know where they could take hold and help, and when the opportunity was offered them they would not be surpassed as boosters of Peterborough.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Among those present were:

Fred J. Overend, J. E. Sullivan, A. F. Skinner, G. Loescher, R. A. Dixon, J. R. Turner, M. A. Fitzgerald, W. H. Ford, H. E. Raynor, J. H. W. Cobb, J. D. Patterson, G. Snowdon, W. McMillan, J. J. Hanrahan, J. Milby, R. A. Lyon, D. Loucks, E. Abraham, C. E. Newman, F. M. Heafield, S. J. Richardson, J. S. McDonald, S. Craig, W. J. Nelson, F. Merrett, Chas. M. Thornton, W. E. Brewster, A. M. Irvine, L. Calladine, P. M. Johnson, H. Nellist, W. S. Derry, J. A. Sharp, Peder Westbye, W R. Morris, J. W. Fraser, J. J. Condon, A. H. Munro, G. McGregor, A. Fife, O. W. Hurde, Herbert Huffman, J. SHOULD REVISE BUSINESS TAX

Distribute It More Equally on the Shoulders of the People Says John R. Shaw.

WINGHAM, November 4 (Canadian Press). — "I believe in taxation. Yes, but I do not believe in taxation that would stultify industry and hamstring the nation," declared John R. Shaw, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, to the members of the Wingham Board of Trade here last night. He considered the present form of business taxation was capable of a good deal of revising, so that it might be distributed more equally on the shoulders of the people.

As to the turnover tax, he was opposed to it because of its pyramiding feature. A moderate sales tax was perhaps the most acceptable form available, but anything more, in his opinion, was unwise, since it made it increasingly difficult for a dealer to dispose of his merchandise quickly.

He advocated, rather, the provisions of the recent Canadian Manufacturers' Association in a resolution which imposed the sales tax upon the manufacturer and the distributor.

AVERT OPERATIONS FOR APPENDICITIS —INTERNAL BATHS

Hundreds of surgical operations for appendicitis have been avoided by the timely employment of J.B.L. Cascade. Most troubles arise from the accumulation of waste in the colon, or lower intestine, from which poisons spread.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract with pure warm water, applied with the J.B.L. Cascade, removes the cause of a large number of common ailments—constipation, indigestion, headache, loss of energy and rheumatism.

Mrs. James McLaughlin, of Evanston Street, Winnipeg, writes: I bought a J.B.L. Cascade for the cure of a bad case of appendicitis. My doctors told me I must have an operation at once. I had spent more than $50 in doctor's bills, but the Cascade in a few days completely removed every trace or soreness and pain. I eat and sleep well now and have regained my former weight, and am in perfect health.

The J.B.L. Cascade is shown and explained at Warne Drug Co., Ltd.

CITY ABLOOM WITH POPPIES

Symbol of Valor and Sacrifice Worn by Nearly Every Citizen Today—G. W. V. A. Notes.

The teams employed selling poppies reported at an early hour this afternoon that they had been very successful in their efforts. At noon, when the workers left for lunch, many of them were sold out, and the great majority of them had but a few flowers left.

The large poppies, which were sold for 25 cents each, were well received by the public, and even fewer of them were returned than the smaller ones, which were sold for 10 cents each.

Though many of the veterans were out themselves, they were ably assisted by a corps of workers recruited from among the girls and young ladies of the city, whose efforts contributed greatly toward the success of the day.

When the workers left after the lunch hour there was not a poppy left at the G.W.V.A. headquarters.

Every returned man in the city of Peterborough is urgently requested by the G.W.V.A. to turn out for the veterans' parade to-morrow and so do honor to the memory of their comrades who fell. A special programme will feature the day. Major-General Sir Archibald MacDonnell will give an inspiring address at the G.W.V.A. Hall and later at the Opera House, where the special memorial services will be held.

The ex-service men are requested to be at the G.W.V.A. Hall at 2 o'clock. After hearing the address from General MacDonnell they will fall in and march to the Opera House for the service which will be held at 3 o'clock. Silver collection at the door.

On Monday evening an invitation dance will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ARMY TANKS MOVED BY RADIO

When winter comes, radio regains its popularity.

Static alone is not responsible for his unpopularity. There are other conditions that make Static the outcast that he is. Among these, and perhaps most significant, is summer with its accompanying sun's heat and long days.

Scientists have estimated that the hot rays of the sun absorb about 70 per cent of the strength of radio waves. During summer, the sun is at maxmum strength in the northern section, daylight lasts longer and therefore absorption of the strength of radio is at its highest.

Summer heat greatly influences the amount of electricity, or static, in the air. That produces the atmospheric disturbances that cause so much interference to radio reception.

During cool nights, however, radio fans have been able to enjoy broadcast programs without much static interference. But the nights have been too short.

Autumn and winter mean less of the sun's heat and longer nights, when the atmosphere is cool and clear, and there is so much less chance for static to interfere.

The problem of moving army tanks into battle by radio has been practically solved by officers of the United States army. A hidden operator in each tank receives directions by wire less from an officer inn another tank and movemets are made practically without sight. The officer directing the tank movements is shown above.

DRAINAGE THE SECRET OF GOOD ROADS

(DECLARES ENGINEER)

STATUTE LABOUR A WASTEFUL SYSTEM

John MacVicar, Engineer of Highway Department, Presents Chief Problem of Road-Building in Simple and Interesting Manner.

BUILD FOR TRAFFIC.

"The roads of any community reflect certain characteristics of its people," was one of the aphorisms coined by Mr. John MacVicar, district engineer of the county roads branch of the Ontario Highways Department, in an interview he gave the Examiner at the Empress last night.

Mr. MacVicar has the duty of supervising the work in six Midland counties, including Peterborough. During the past week he has been visiting the townships in the southern part of this county which adopted the good roads system, and will complete his inspection work next week.

"My work takes me over all the roads with the exception of the Provincial Highway," said Mr. MacVicar. "This is brought about by the fact that the Government makes a grant on work done on the roads, if that work is of a certain standard, and as the Provincial Highway constitutes about five per cent. of the total road mileage you see I am interested in the remaining 95 per cent. of the roads."

How Grants Are Fixed.

"How do you deterrine the amount of the grants to be paid?" Mr. MacVicar was asked.

"Well, the roads are classified as township, county, Provincial county and suburban roads. Each of these classes must conform to a certain standard, and in their building, if this standard or a better is reached, then the Government pays a grant. The amount of this grant is set by Act of Parliament. The Act is known as the Highway Improvement Act. It determines the following amounts as payable: Upon township roads a grant of 20 per cent. may be made; for county roads, 40 per cent. may be paid; upon county Provincial roads, 60 per cent. of the cost may be paid; upon suburban roads, 40 per cent., and 60 per cent. on Provincial county suburban.

This Act has been in force since 1903. Some of the counties have been receiving assistance from the Government since 1903. It was not until 1913-15 that any great number of the counties availed themselves of the Act. At present all the counties are working under it."

Need of System.

"How do you explain the necessity of such an Act?" was the next question.

"Books by the score have been written on that subject," said Mr. MacVicar. "It is not easy to state the reasons in a few words, suffice to say the roads were not anywhere meeting the needs of the people. An antiquated system of keeping the roads in repair, namely by statute labour, had outlived its usefulness. Then again the coming of the automobile made necessary the reconstruction of our roads. There is no doubt that the automobile has forced all countries in the world to construct their roads. The road question in countries like Great Britain, France and the United States is just as live a question as in Ontario."

Statute Labour Obsolete.

"How do you measure the response of the municipalities to the Government aid?"

"There are two or three very good ways of measuring it. One is the standard of roads now built and the bridges and culverts constructed as compared with the old ones. And the other is the number of townships that have abandoned statute labour for the system of a road superintendent and day labour or contract.

"In eight years over half the townships in Ontario, numbering 386, have abolished statute labour. That is real progress in the placing of the roads on a business basis. Under the old statute labour system the people were called out ostensibly to do road work, but actually it was a sort of national holiday. They worked as they saw fit, and they enjoyed themselves if they were inclined."

Classifying Roads.

"How are the different standards of roads arrived at?"

Answering this question, Mr. MacVicar said that theoretically a road is built to a certain standard because the traffic over it requires that standard. "You understand," he continued, "that a count is made of the actual number of vehicles using a given road, and a certain number requires a certain kind of road. I do not mean to say that this is actually done in the case of every road, but from the cases where it is done a fair idea is obtained and can be used in regard to another road. The traffic, then, its number, weight and class, determines the road.

"A township road with ten rigs a day can be made a very good road if graded twenty-four feet wide, and the standard bridges and culverts put in for the cross-drainage of the road. With proper maintenance by a drag an excellent road can be provided for that traffic, with the exception of a month in the spring and fall. Such a road provides for all the traffic on it all the fundamentals to good business, namely quality, service and economy.

"Now imagine such a road carrying the traffic as the census shows it on a road like the Hamilton Highway, 12,000 vehicles a day pass over that road. The township road cited above would cost say $300 a mile to build, and the Hamilton Highway $30,000 a mile to construct.

Cheapest the Dearest.

"To the layman the $30,000 a mile road seems a most wanton waste of money, and the $300 a mile road is true economy. Yet a simple calculation, which need not be made here, will show that the $300 per mile road is ten times more expensive in proportion to the number of vehicles using it than the $30,000 per mile highway.

"So I tell all the municipalities to make sure of the number of rigs using their road, and then build a road that will carry that traffic. If this is done, and I might say in passing it is being done in those counties that are abreast of the times, you cannot make a mistake in building your roads.

"Many people have never heard of a 'traffic census.' To them all roads must be built the same whether they carry a thousand rigs or ten, but this is positive foolishness."

Good Road Building.

"What would you say in a word constitutes good road building?" Mr. MacVicar was asked.

"Such a word would be drainage. A good road is simply good drainage. If a road is good and it cost $1,000 a mile, it is good because the drainage is good. If another road is good and it cost $5,000 a mile to build, it is a good road because the drainage is good. And if your road cost $30,000 a mile, it will not stay good many years if your drainage is not good. The road problem is solved in that one word 'drainage.' No road can be made so cheaply that drainage can be overlooked. Drainage along the sides, drainage across the road and drainage to a proper outlet. Neither can money buy a good road, no matter how expensive, without drainage."

Condition of Local Roads.

"How do our local roads measure up in that respect?"

"Drive along your suburban roads built this last couple of years and you will see that drainage has taken a deep root with the local road builders, and I am sure it will grow. No money spent on the roads locally will yield larger interests than the small amounts spent on bridges and culverts and side ditches upon your suburban roads. Build from the ground up, but be sure the ground on which you build is dry. If it is not dry, ma'e it dry."

"What is the most glaring defect in our local road building programmes?"

"To this I am forced to answer lack of drainage. I have been driving over township roads in the vicinity of Peterborough for the past two days inspecting work done, and in only two instances have I seen new work that you could apply the word thorough or complete to. But the idea is taking hold and will develop."

Census of Traffic.

Mr. MacVicar explained the import of a traffic census and how it is taken.

"In the older countries, like Great Britain, France and the United States, they go in for the traffic census very thoroughly. The road is actually barricaded from fence to fence. A gate is fastened on the travelled way and this is only opened after each and every vehicle gives full and complete information as to who they are, where they come from, whither they are going, the kind of vehicle, class, weight, etc. This is carried on for months at a time or even cover a year. Upon completion they have a mass of details to be classified and systematized. When this is done most interesting information is available. A few items may prove of real interest to your readers.

"Of the total traffic on the road 48 per cent. was from the farm to the town and back again to the farm; from the town or city across the country to next town or city and back again, 30 per cent.; from one county into another and back again, 15 per cent., and from one State into another and back again, 70 per cent.

"Thus the tourist trade was only 7 per cent."

NEWEST CONVENIENCE FOR HOTELS

THIS MAY SOON BE A COMMON SCENE IN MOST ANY HOTEL TEA-ROOM, LATEST REPORTS INDICATE. MISS HARRIET BERGWOLL AND MISS MILDRED ANDERSON, BROOKLYN, ARE SIPPING A COLD DRINK. WHILE ENJOYING A RADIO CONCERT.

(By Nea Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Wireless apparatus will be the newest convenience added to modern hotels in the not distant future, according latest reports from hotel managers. As an accessory to hotel interests its possibilities are said to be almost without limit.

Improvements in radio communication are coming so rapidly that hotel men say they cannot much longer do without it. Numerous hotels in various parts of the United States have already instituted radio service for their patrons. Others are falling in line.

The wireless is expected to play an important part in the entertainment of hotel guests. Plans and systems are already being evolved whereby guests may secure such entertainment as desired.

Like Arcade Machine

One of these plans is for receiving sets that operate only on deposit of a quarter—"two bits". A New York concern making such sets announces it has already received orders for 25,000 of them. The orders come chiefly from hotels and hospitals.

Desiring radio entertainment, the hotel guest or hospital patient goes through much the same performance he would to get gum, matches or whatnot from an arcade machine. He merely drops in a quarter and the set does the rest.

Thus for "two bits" he gets everything that comes over the "wire" for the next 12 hours. He gets concerts, jazz, baseball scores, latest news reports, weather reports and everything. C

Say it is Practical

While no definite description of this receiving set is given out, those speaking for it, say it is practical. Tuning in is a matter that has to be considered.

Cost of installation is borne equally by the manufacturing company and hotel or institution where installation occurs. Likewise the profits and losses are equally divided.

More definite word on the workability of this new contraption is being awaited by the public. While most folk are ready to believe most anything as to the possibilities in radio development, yet they want to see the new ideas worked out.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we has nothing better for this purpose in the country. Anything that will reddce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.

Optimism Now the Keynote of Future

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — Statistical optimism was the keynote of the address given by Roger W. Babson, International Statistician of Wellesey, Mass., to a combination of business associations here yesteray on "Five Reasons for better business." He illustrated his address with a statistical chart showing general fluctuations of business from peaks of good times to the bottom of periods of depression. From these he figured that America, including Canada, had come through the period of inflation following the war, endured the subsequent period of depression, and had recently turned the corner toward a gradual procession to better times. While the coming year would be comparatively good, he figured that the next would be better, and by that time business would be so good that industry would resume its previous expansion.

CANADA IS CRYING OUT FOR MORE POPULATION.

LONDON, November 4 (Canadian Press). — Speaking at Lincoln last night, the Duke of Devonshire in alluding to the need of more population by the Dominions, declared that Canada was crying out for people and capital. The solution of many of Britain's problems, he said, could be found in sound schemes for the development of the Empire's resources.

SEAMAN DROWNED.

The average depth of all the oceans, gulfs and seas is estimated at from two to two and one-half miles.

CANADIAN GRAIN IS TOO MUCH FOR U.S.

More Wheat is Being Sent Down the Great Lakes Than Can Be Handled By Railways.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — (Canadian Press).—The difficulty of which United States grain producers and shippers have complained, has arisen from the fact that immense quantities of Canadian grain have been put afloat on the Great Lakes, increasing congestion at Buffalo, where the water route terminates, and limiting the amount of grain that can be moved to export through Atlantic ports. The inability of Western United States growers to get their grain moved through the Great Lakes and upon the Atlantic seaboard is declared to have resulted in a price discrimination against the interior grain.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, or obtain roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of the people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

COPPER STOCKS SPURT

(By Stuart P. West)

NEW YCRK, Nov. 4.—To-day's short session on the stock exchange was a mixture of profit taking sales in the leaders of the previous days and fresh buying in new directions.

The market had plainly returned to the same condition that it was in before the October reaction, where special buying was going on, first in one group of stocks and then another, involving a perpetual shifting of interest.

While Studebaker and other motors and most of the oils were slipping back, and while the steels and rails were barely holding their own, copper shares were suddenly taken up along with a half dozen or so Industrials of the specialty type. The demonstration in the metal group took Wall street by surprise, because this was the one class of stocks which refuse to take part in the campaign of a month and two months ago.

It would appear that while prices of the metal had not yet risen, more account would be taken in the speculative market of the facts regarding copper production and consumption which have so often been pointed out.

The upward drift in the bond market continued. The rise kept on in cotton. The Foreign Exchanges maintained the same characteristics as they have all week.

A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity. Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick,—possibly dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils.

Danderine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women and cleans every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new life, vigor and strength to grow strong, thick, and long.

Danderine is delightful — not sticky or greasy. Go to any drug-store now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, heavy, beautiful hair and lots of it.

HEATED STOVE PIPE CAUSED SMALL FIRE

Two Alarms Called Ous Fire Department Thit Morning-Little Damage

The Peterborough Fire Department had two calls this morning, the first at 12.10 a.m. to a fire at 290 Hunter Street, and the other at 10.57 a.m. at 220 Edinburgh Street.

The first was a fire caused by hot ashes thrown out in front of the brick house, owned and occupied by Dr J. J. Craig. The damage was very little.

The other was a small fire started by a hot stovepipe being too close to the woodwork at the ceiling. The house is owned by Joseph Ferguson and occupied by Joseph Townsend. No damage was done.

DR. N. H. SUTTON GAVE AN ADDRESS TO ASSOCIATION.

Social Hygiene Formed Subject of Interesting Talk to Queen Mary Home and School Association.

The Queen Mary Home and School Association held their regular monthly meeting last evening, which was well attended and very interesting.

Dr. N. H. Sutton gave a fine address on the subject of "Social Hygiene," which will be remembered by all who heard it.

A pleasant musical programme was provided by instrumental selections by Alberta Underhill, a vocal solo by Wilfred Reid, a reading by Mrs H. E. Connolly, and community singing, led by Mrs. Trotter, of Vancouver, and Mr. M. N. Clark.

Mrs. J. E. Johnson presided.

At the conclusion of the programme, candy was served.

It was decided to hold an old-time social in the near future, also the proposed rummage sale.

BAREFACED PORTRAITS

By MARGARET ROHE

Little grains of powder and Little daubs of paint
Often make one beautiful
When one really "ain't."
But to have a photograph
Taken that is fine
One must rub the powder off
And let the nose to shine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Dante fans are all sure to remember the admonition over the entrance to Hell"—Leave hope behind, all ye who enter here." With a slight variation this warning would make a fitting decoration over the entrance of Nickolas Murray's Greenwich Village photograhpic studio.

"Leave make-up behind, all ye who enter here" the inscription should read, and most of his fair photograhpees will agree its purport is even more Hellish than Dante's.

POLITELY ADMONISHED TO PLEASE "UNMAKEUP" BEFORE "SITTING"

Not that Nicholas Murray has any moral scruples against the incarnadined cheek, the rubyed lip or the mascaroed eyelash. Far be it from this young Hungarian artist photographer to join the ranks of the Joy and Beauty Killers Union.

No, indeed, it is simply for photographic reasons that he won't allow any "making up" in his studio.

In the last few years many of the beauties of New York's stage and social circles and its other celebrities have climbed the two narrow flights of stairs in the old McDougall street house that lead to Nickolas Muray's little attic studio to have their pictures taken.

Every feminine climber, however, has been halted at the threshold and politely admonished to please "unmake up" before she has been allowed to "sit." And this right in the heart of Greenwich Village and Bohemia, too, when the bobbed head and the hectic make-up are synonymous with the higher, freer life and love.

While many photographers favor a slight touching up of the eyelashes, a heavy powedring of the face and a light tint on the lips, Nickolas Murray, working with artficial light, found that a counte-nance shining with natural oils takes the lights and shade more beautifully than a much powdered one and that artificially reddened lips photograph as black as the inside of the proverbial hat or some reputations.

"Bareface portraits" would not be an unappropriate name for these sans-make-up feminine photographic head studios that are evolved in the McDougall attic studio.

And whereas "Make hay while the sun shines" is a good enough adage for the truly rural Nicholas Murray's favorite motto is the more profitable urban adaptation, "Make photographs while the nose shines."

Suffered From Pimples and Blotches For Fifteen Years

When the blood becomes impure it is only natural that pimples, blotches boils or some other blood trouble will manifest itself by breaking out of the system.

There is only one way to get rid of these obnoxious skin troubles and that is by giving the impure blood a thorough cleansing by the use of a good blood purifier, such as

Burdock Blood Bitters

This remarkable remedy has been on the market for over forty years; is the best obtainable, and will do all we claim for it as a blood cleanser.

Mr. Albert R. De Witte, Lake Valley, Sask., writes: "I have suffered very much from pimples and unsightly blotches for the past fifteen years, and was so bad that I hated to go out anywhere. I tried many different medicines, but none seemed to help. A friend told me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I have used three and a half bottles, and now I have a clear, rosy complexion."

MARRIAGES A LA MODE.

The Persians sometimes resort to a queer method to test the state of a woman's feelings before suggesting matrimony.

The suitor will often inflict pain upon himself such as burning his hand or face, in the presence of the woman he loves.

If she hastens to bind up his wounds with her silken scarf he takes it as a sign that she cares for him and declares his love.

"INSPIRATION AN INFALLIBILITY" FROM DR. MEYER'S LECTURES

The lecture last Tuesday dealt finally with the Poetry of the Old Testament. Next Tuesday and following Tuesday, the beginning and development of Philosophy, History and Prophecy will be dealt with, so far as possible. In opening the lecture last Tuesday Dr. Meyer said:—

"I love the Bible because I know it. I would rather know it as it is with its human imperfections and limitations and its Divine Spirit, and understand and love it as such, a thousand times than be one of those who hold some dogma about its infallibility as to science, history, religious and moral dogmatic definition and so forth, and yet do not know it but reverently leave it lying on shelf or table; or if they read it the veil is over their hearts" he, accords ing to Hebrew idom their understandings, so that they can only see what agres with their dogmatic position.

"In its highest teachings, I see expressed the highest truth or expression of truth by which I live, but even in its less developed religious and morals ideals.

"I find sympathetic interest in see ing how man, humanity, has gradually grown, has sought after God and found Him, has been led on from knowledge to knowledge by the Divine Spirit. God only is in fallible and unchanging. Man's conceptions of Him are subject to continual change. But to deny infallibility to the sacred Scriptures is not, as some claim; to deny their inspiration It is only to accept plain facts. Inspiration need not at all imply infallibility. Inspiration means that the men who wrote were moved by God's spirit, and being so moved they revealed to men further truth than men then possessed as to God's nature and His will.

"Fuller religious and moral truth. This we believe could be done without interfering with the ordinary and natural operations of the worker's mind; i.e. without making him a mere machine or without making him supernaturally different from his time in knowledge of science and history. It could be given in poetry. In faction (so far as then had fiction or in allegory, myth and fable.

"And each writer as he expressed the nation's ideal would reveal the bent of his own character also. To Ezekiel, the Messianic Kingdom would be the perfect priestly order. Chap. Ezek. XL to end. To Isaiah the Messiah would be the ideal King. To Micah the peasant's champion and friend. While to Jeremiah the spirit and the moral would be more important than any form and "Yahweh's law would be written in the heart."

A Big Football Game For Thanksgiving Day

Quaker Oats and Canadian Woollens Will Meet in the Final Tussle For Gordon Cup.

The battle on Monday afternoon between the Woollens and the Quakers for the possession of the Gordon Cup will be the local football classic of the season.

These two teams have been playing consistently good football since the start of the season, and are about as evenly matched as any two teams can be.

The result will be one of the fastest and closest games the local fans have had an opportunity to witness this year.

Interest in this series has been been among the local football enthusiasts, and a large crowd is expected to turn out for the Thanksgiving Dav battle at Riverside Park.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., who donated the cup which is being played for, will be on hand to witness the game and present the trophy to the winners.

Through the kindness of the Quaker Oats Company, dressing quarters will be provided for both teams in the Quaker Oats building.

The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp, but the players are expected to be on hand at least half an hour ahead of that time.

Arrangements had been made on several previous occasions to play this game, but each time the park was wanted for an important baseball or rugby game, and the Peterborough and District Football Association on each occasion gave up the park for the benefit of the other [illegible] Thanksgiving Dav was then finally decided upon, and the great interest taken in the game has made it the feature sporting event of the afternoon.

"GRID" GAME HAS FLAVOR OF DIAMOND

There was considerable baseball flavor to the recent football game between Centre and Harvard.

Charley Moran, the coach of the Centre College team, is an umpire in the National League during the summer months.

Ernie Quigley, who refereed the game, is also a member of the National League staff of umpires.

During the summer Moran and Quigley were paired up in a majority of the games played. They do say the pair talked college football almost to the exclusion of the national pastime.

Both admit that any time they pulled a raw decision during the summer, their football connection suffered.

"Whaddye think we are playing, football? Wake up and get in this game," was the favorite expression of the athletes."

Quigley says the Centre game is the first contest the ever worked in which he felt certain there would be no complaint from one of the rival coaches.

Twenty-six Runners to Take Part in Examiner Road Race

Junior Race Will Start at 10 O'clock and Senior at 10.30 Monday Morning—Start Will Be in Front of the Y.M.C.A. and Finish at Examiner Office.

When the lists closed last evening twenty-six runners had given in their names as contestants in the Examiner Road Race on Thanksgiving Day morning. Of this number twelve are entered in the senior and fourteen in the junior event. With many good runners in each class the outlook is good for two fast and snappy races. One of the senior entries may not be able to run. This is M. R. Smith, a member of the Peterboro Harrier Club, whom after several weeks of hard and faithful training in preparation for the event had the misfortune to sustain an injury to his ankle within the past few days which may make it necessary to withdraw from the race.

The junior runners will get away promptly at 10 o'clock and the seniors at 10:30. Both races will start from in front of the Y.M.C.A.

From the Y.M.C.A. the course of the race will be south on George Street to Charlotte and west on Charlotte to the boundary line. From there the route will be straight out the Gravel Road to the turning points which have been set two and a half miles from the starting point for the juniors and five miles for the seniors. These points will be well marked and point men will be stationed there to take the numbers of the runners as they pass and show just where the turn is to be made. From the turn the runners will return over the same route as they went and will finish in front of the Examiner office.

Dressing room facilities will be provided at the Y.M.C.A. and the runners will wait inside the building until they are called out to take their places for the start. This will prevent any standing around in the cold.

The entries and the number they will wear in the race are:—

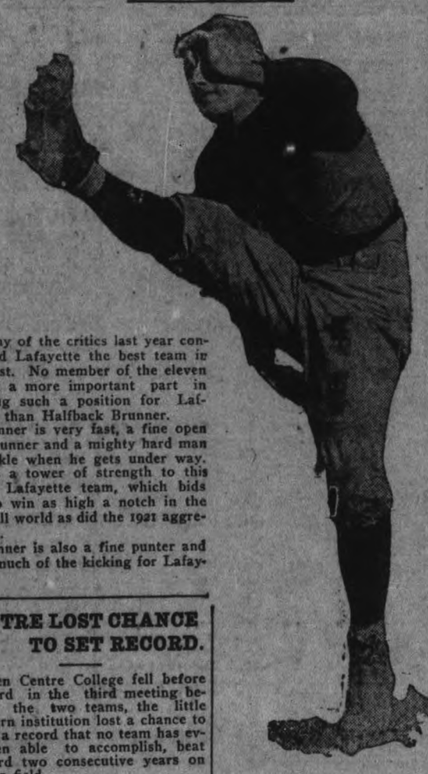
Brummer Hopes to Win All-American Berth



HALF-BACK BRUNNER.

Many of the critics last year considered Lafayette the best team in the east. No member of the eleven played a more important part in winning such a position for Lafayette than Halfback Brunner.

Brunner is very fast, a fine open field runner and a mighty hard man to tackle when he gets under way. He is a tower of strength to this years' Lafayette team, which bids fair to win as high a notch in the football world as did the 1921 aggregation.

Brunner is also a fine punter and does much of the kicking for Lafayette.

CENTRE LOST CHANCE TO SET RECORD.

When Centre College fell before Harvard in the third meeting between the two teams, the little southern institution lost a chance to create a record that no team has ever been able to accomplish, beat Harvard two consecutive years on its own field.

In 1921 Centre surprised the football world by defeating Harvard 6 to 0. Centre, with a veteran team, was given a good chance to repeat in 1922. The team, however, lacked Bo McMillan who had scored the winning touchdown in 1921.

Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton are the only teams to beat Harvard twice or more running, but none of the three has visited the Crimson field two years in succession, each of the series between the teams alternating between the two fields.

Centre, on the other hand, has played at the Harvard stadium for three consecutive years. In a way Centre has performed the rather unusual feat of scoring on Harvard each year and through the medium of crossing the Crimson goal line.

Won't Shave Until His Team Wins a Game

JACK HARROD, JIMMY NIPPERT AND RABBIT KEITH

This is a cruel world as far as the University of Cincinnati football team is concerned.

Two weeks ago, disgusted at their failure to win, the members of the varsity team entered into a pact not to shave until they won a game.

Most of the players figured they would do some shaving at the expense of Ohio Wesleyan when that team played Cincinnati on Oct. 21. Ohio Wesleyan upset the dope of the Cincinnati athletes as far as the shaving was concerned by winning the game.

The victory of Ohio Wesleyan was most aggravating, as a college dance was planned the evening of the game.

All of the players weakened except Jimmy Nippert. He is still wearing his tow weeks' growth and says he will be game to the finish. University of Cincinnati must win before he turns himself over to a barber for treatment.

McMILLIN OFFERS UNIQUE SUGGESTION

By "BO" McMILLIN
All-America Quarterback.

Of the two most noticeable changes in the football rules this season the change from try for goal after touchdown to try for point after touchdown has caused considerable comment and at the present time seems to be the joker of football.

From my experience at the game which runs over a period of 12 years, I must say that I am greatly opposed to this ruling and would like to see the try point after touchdown abolished entirely.

As it stands now it will cause the coaches to develop better place and drop kickers and this takes the life out of the game when you depend so much on individual effort.

A team should win on the merits of team work alone and not through the individual work of one player The new play does not help the game when it comes to measuring the strengh of the contesting elevens, as nine out of ten times a kick will be tried in preference to another play. This will cause the time of playing a game to be slowed to a great extent.

If it is deemed necessary to have some method whereby a try for the additional point after touchdown will be granted, I would prefer going back to the old play where the team making the score had to kick the ball out where the line was crossed. This adds more to the pep of the game, yet there is the individual work in evidence.

I am also in favor of doing away with all try for goals from the field and believe in letting the coaches depend upon real football to win. If an eleven is to win don't you think it much better to let them make a touchdown and not have to depend upon a player kicking a drop or a place kick. There are times when one team might gain several hundred yards in a game and the opposing team not over fifty, yet the latter win by a field if it should happen to get the breaks.

The new ruling on the shift play says "That the player must not only have both feet stationary on the ground, but must come to a full stop so that when he starts again he starts off from a standstill."

The above modification of the old rule I think is a big step forward in improving the game. The former reading of the rule was only a blind for the back field to get in motion before the ball was snapped.

I feel confident that the above statement will be proven this year by the abondonment of all shift formations.

It has been the tendency of the rules committee to alter the rules each year so as to lessen the handicap on the smaller schools. The smaller colleges have not been able to successfully compete wit the larger institutions using the shift play because of the reason that it takes two or more years to develop a shift that will function.

GAVE $50,000 NOTE TO SEE WIFE'S GAME.

Frischkorn Says He Didn't Promise Remarriage.

DETROIT, Nov. 4.—Ephriam E. Frischkorn, real estate dealer testified in Circuit Court that he had given his wife, Marie E. Frischkorn, a promissory note for $50,000, payable after he had obtained a divorce; but that he did it to" find out what her game was," and later had taken it back.

The Frischkorns were divorced Nov. 14, 1921, and the wife is now trying to have the decree granted to Mr. Frischkorn, set aside on the grounds that it was obtained by fraud.

One of her charges is that her husband promised to remarry her, if she would consent to a divorce to "please his parents." Frischkorn denied this on the witness stand, saying that he never made any such promise.

He also denied that he had told his wife he was worth upwards of one and a half million dollars, but said that his total assests would not exceed $187,000.

The case is being heard by Judge Harry J. Dingeman.

A HUMOROUS EXAMPLE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Canadian Press)—A writer in a local weekly publication calls attention to the disadvantages which the U.S. citizen now meets in importing articles from abroad by means of a humorous example. He says:

"A friend of mine has just received from Canada a parcel containing cloth which cost him $5. On this he had paid at various times 11 cents postage, $1 entry fee, 24 cents for documentary stamps, $2.99 duty and 60 cents for storage and appraisal. In two days he also devoted eight hours to the detail of import.

"There is thus no reason in the world why foreign countries should not now develop their commerce with the United States."

MRS. ROSIER COLLAPSES AGAIN IN DEATH TRIAL.

PHILAPELPHIA, Nov. 4 — Mrs. Catherine Rosier, charged with killing her husband, Oscar, and his stenographer, Miss Mildred G. Reckitt, collapsed and was carried out of court unconscious, Mrs. Rosier is being tried for the slaying of the stenographer.

The thirteenth day of the trial was marked by a renewal of the prosecution's attack on Mrs. Rosier's character before marriage and by testimony of Arthur Rosier, brother of the slain man, denying he had forced his attentions on her as part of a plan to help his brother get a divorce. Dr. Charles W. Burr and Dr. Horace Phillips, alienists, testified that Mrs. Rosier was sane at the time of the shooting. The case is expected to reach the jury Friday.

"FASCINATION" AND VAUDEVILLE.

This season's big vaudeville sensation "The Five Magpies" will open a three days' engagement at the Capitol commencing Monday. This attraction direct from America's big vaudeville circuit and has proven a big hit wherever played. Harmony singers, these boys from Dixieland will sing songs as only the real colored folk's can sing. Banjo and Saxaphone Artists, Comedians. This is the best vaudeville attraction ever offered in this City.

In "Fascination," Mae Murray's latest production, presented by Robert Z. Leonard the famous Metro star turns to Spain for her background.

In "Fascination" she appears as the daughter of a Spanish father and an American mother. The combination of the Latin temperament and the Anglo-Saxon gives Miss Murray a wonderful opportunity to do remarkable acting as Dolores De Lisa. She portrays the part of a young girl who, revolting against the chaperonage of an aunt, decides to give herself a holiday. Disguising herself in a black wig and holiday garb she attends a bull fight against the wishes of her aunt. At the bull fight she meets Carrita, a handsome young toreador, who fascinates her immediately. It is this fascination that supplies the main motive for the play, for under its spell Dolores becomes invoved in a series of breath-taking incidents.

The scenes are elaborate and lavish. All maintain the romantic flavor of Spain, and are complete in technical detail.

In "Fascination" Mae Murray adds another famous characterization to her already notable gallery of portraits. All the primitive passion of the Spanish girl is conveyed strikingly by the popular star. In this picture, too, she performs several Spanish dances which even natives declare are every bit original.

An unusually strong supporting cast has been assembeld for the picture. Among them may be mentioned, Helen Ware, Creighton Hale, Vincent Coleman, Courtenay Foote, Charles Lane, Robert Frazer and Emily Fitzroy.

You know that boy Harold Lloyd who made such a hit in "Grandma's Boy" we are pleased to offer him in a short real subject, "Look Pleasant Please."

AT THE GRAND.

CHORUS OF RUSSIAN OPERA COMPANY HIGHLY PRAISED.

It is rare and unusual occurance when the chorus of an operatic organization is the recipient of special and praise-worthy comment on part of the critical press. But, on more than one occasion, the group of men and women forming the choral body of the Russian Grand Opera Company, which is to be heard in one performance at the GRAND Theatre Tuesday, Nov. 7, has been made the subject of the most laudatory mommeent by musical critics.

When the company played in San Francisco, last winter, Redfern Mason, the noted music critic of the "Examiner", paid this remarkable tribute of the minor body of singers. "But it is not the principals only who deserve praise. That chorus is an exceptional body of singers. These men and women set an example to choralists. They really act; they are not the stuffed figures of Italian opera, but vital human beings."

It is of particular interest to learn that with this very democratic organization the members of the chorus are regarded as equals and treated in every way as fairly and impartially as the most talented of the principals. Furthermore, the members of the chorus are understudies and can step into any of the leading roles at a moment's notice in case of emergency.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" SOON.

"Chu Chin Chow" is on the way and if a five-year in London, two in New York, and the guaranteed metropolitan production and cast, the same that has played Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Washington and all the other bigtime cities, mean anything at all to the theatre -lovers of Peterboro, then we are about to enjoy a festival of music and spectacle, of drama and comedy, which it will remember for many a year to come.

Written by Oscar Ashe of London —where "Chu Chin Chow" ran five years—and with music by Frededick Nortonk this gigantic and wonderful spectable ran for two seasons in New York City and is now being presented on its sixth tour of the principal cities. The complete original production intact, elaborated with new costumes just imported from London, will be seen without variation or substitution. It has been the pride of Messers. Comstock and Gest that they have always maintained this brilliant production at the same high standard that prevailed at the time when they first presented it in America. The Mannequin show of the famous models in Bagdad, is a complete show in itself, and it is embellished with 43 new and fantastic costumes designed by Percy Anderson, the famous artists of London. "Chu Chin Chow" is in three acts and 14 scenes and employs a company of 125 people. It is easily one of the largest and most spectacular offerings ever presented on tour.

A notable cast will appear in "Chu Chin Chow," including Lionel Brahm as Chu, Virginia Howell as Zahrat, the desert woman; Albert Fromm as Abdullah, the steward; Don W. Ferrandou, as the merry Ali Baba; Blake Ley Thompson as Nur Al Huda; Charles Jones as the cobbler; Louis Le Vie as Kasim Baba, the miser; Maud Files, as Mahabah, Adelaide Mesmer, as Alcolom, the wife of Kasim Hattie Carmontell as the slave buyer and many others, including a ballet of 60 dancers.

Seats will go on sale Wednesday, November 8th.

AT THE ROYAL.

SOCIETY FOLK SEEN IN FARNUM PHOTOPLAY

Society men, brokers, bankers, and sons of brokers and bankers took part in the big New York Stock Exchange scenes that have a vital part in the William Farnum picture "Shackles of Gold," to be shown at the Royal Theatre netx Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

When Herbert Brenon planned to make these scenes he sent a photographer to the Exchange, with the result that he was able to build a duplicate of the sections of the "floor" necessary to the story.

Always ready for a lark, several brokers asked the photographer when the scenes were to be made. He told them Mr. Brenon would 'shoot' them the following Saturday afternoon.

One of them 'phoned Mr. Brenon later and asked if he and several others could not come up and "act" in the Exchange scenes to lend "atmosphere." Mr. Brenon was more than willing.

FOOTBALL RULING

Decision P.D.F.A. re Comrades vs. Woollens Match to Stand.

The executive of the P. and D.F.A. wish it to be clearly understood that the Woollens-Quakers game as scheduled for Thanksgiving Day will be played in spite of the perfunctory ruling or finding issued by the president and secretary of the O. F. A. Under ordinary circumstances any club has the right of appeal to the O.F.A., but the directors of the P. and D.F.A. are determined that their decision shall be final. Last night's meeting drove another bolt into the coffin of the O.F.A. in so far as football fans in Peterborough are concerned. Not in any specified instance can it be shown where Peterborough has benefitted by their affiliation with the Toronto Football Clubs, who form the major portion of the O.F.A.

The gentlemen who journeyed from Toronto last night would have us believe that Peterborough had not yet reached that stage where it is possible for her to produce men capable of directing the activities of football in this city. The whole thing is a trumped up charge, and the Toronto people with their ever readiness and aptitude for settling other people's disputes, have shown that they have yet a lot to learn.

The sum and substance of it all is that the Woollens won their game on two points, first by virtue of the goals they scored, and secondly that the Comrades 'walked off' their own grounds before the game was finished without first consulting the referee.

The issue is quite clear and the directors are determined that their decision shall be upheld.

The question of the ineligibility of Fred Rappe to play does not enter into the discussion.

Charles P. Lloyd, Pres. P.D.F.A.

HEART PALPITATED And Was Short of Breath

Through one cause or another a large majority of people are troubled, more or less, with some form of heart trouble.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, over work or worry starts it to palpitate and throb, skip beats, beat fast for a time and then so slow as to seem almost to stop, then it causes great anxiety and alarm.

To all such sufferers

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

will give prompt and permanent relief. Mrs. Alice Bishop, 15 Hawthorne Ave., Hamilton, Ont., writes: —"I take great pleasure in recommending Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to all persons troubled as I had been.

I suffered from palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath; my heart would skip beats, and in the night, at times, I would have to sit up to get my breath. I could not go up stairs without my heart fluttering, and my nerves were all unstrung, but since using your famous Pills I have felt like a different person."

RED PEPPER FOR COLDS IN CHEST

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the old remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known.

AT THE GRAND.

"BRINGING UP FATHER."

The combination of Danny Simons, Peterborough's own comedian, and "Bringing Up Father," proved irresistible to Peterborough's playgoers last night. Every seat in the Grand was sold and many people were turned away from last night's performance, while Mr. Simons got a reception from the capacity house that was conclusive testimony of the regard in which he is held by his fellow townsmen.

It was his first appearance in Peterborough in the role of the famous Jiggs Mahoney, a part he originally created and he was the comic story's hero to the very life, his mak-up and actions making his imitation of the McManus chaartoer decidedly effective. He had his audience laughing every minute he was on the stage, and scored heavily in his specialties, his "Island of Coo-Coo" song and his Highland number both going over big. "Danny" has been most successful everywhere in his portrayal of "Jiggs," and last night's audience could easily see why.

The particular edition of "Father" shows Mahoney on his vacation. It is not a very quiet or peaceful holiday because, as usual, he is trouble, and just as usual, "Maggie" is always in the offing and going strong. But his troubles are the audience's amusement, and there was plenty of both last night. "Maggie" is very realistically portrayed by Alice Dudley, who has been seen here before in the party, and who is a splendid assistant in the fun making. Dinty Moore, of course, is always on the job and there is a fascinating widow, a fake detective, a comic negro butler and other characters designed to supply many a laugh.

Nick Glynn contributes a couple of novel musical specialties that make a decided hit and William Frick, Gertrude Morgan and Adelaide Adair are heard to advantage in a number of catchy songs.

"Bringing Up Father on His Vacation" will be seen at the Grand again at a matinee and evening performance to-day.

A winter cold is one of the most tedious, annoying and distressing affections with which humanity is afflicted. Check it in time. If not it may develop into something far worse than a cold, and before you realize it pneumonia or the 'flu" will have you in its clutches. A cold is an indication that the general bodily condition is below normal.

TO PREVENT COLDS

keep your system toned up and in condition to throw off the poisons and you will not be so succeptible to colds. This can be done by keeping your nerves free of pressure so that the organs of elimination will have sufficient energy to properly carry on their work.

SITUATION SERIOUS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7. — (United Press.)— This city is in a fever of apprehension over the Kemalist demands for evacuation of the allied military and naval forces, extension of Nationalist regime here, imposition of confiscatory customs duties, condemnation of the Sultan and indiscriminate arrest of prominent Constantinople Turks.

It is understood that the conference of Allied High Commissioners last night, at which they decided on a firmer attitude of resistance to Kemalists' arbitrary course, even considered expulsion of Rafet Pasha from the capital in the event of the continuance of armistice violations.

It is remarked that for the first time in many weeks there has been complete unanimity reached among the British, French and Italians in their action toward the Nationalists, and the belief is expressed in some quarters that Kemalists will retreat from their arbitrary stand in the face of allied unity.

More Violation.

Turkish Nationalists further violated the armistice agreement signed with the Allies at Mudania by attempting to enforce the tariff laws at Constantinople. Last night they closed the customs house, preparatory to making the proposed new schedules effective to-day.

A storm of protest from citizens of allied countries doing business in Constantinople was aroused by this move. The Mudania agreement guaranteed maintenance of the status quo as far as tariff rates were concerned, until peace was signed. Enforcement of the Kemalists' new tariff amounts, the allied commissioners protest to virtually allied recognition of the National pact, which is but a first step towards abolition of capitulations.

The allied commissioners flatly refused the Turkish demand that foreign warships keep out of the Straits unless they have permission from the new Nationalist Governor, Refet Pasha.

British authorities have ordered the customs house closed and announce they will operate the customs under the former tariff convention. This is almost certain to provoke opposition and resentment among Kemalists whoare seeking to establish their own customs regime.

ARRESTED EDITOR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7. —(Canadian Press.) — Ali Kemal Bey, editor of the Constantinople anti-Nationalist newspaper "Sabas," has been arrested and condemned to death by Turkish authorities, the Allies have been informed. Late last night allied representatives gave Rafet Pasha, the new civil governor of the city, 48 hours in which to release the editor. Rafet replied that he was unaware of the arrest, but would investigate.

It is reported that the editor was hanged after the crowd had lynched him, but this has not been confirmed.

The High Commissioners feel that if the arrest is alowed to stand it would lead to the imprisonment of hundreds of foreigners who enjoy the confidence and respect of the Allies.

ANXIETY IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 7. — (Canadian Press.) — The surprising demands which the Turks have made upon the Allies in Constantinople since they took over the civil government there on Saturday still cause a great deal of anxiety in London. The feeling of uneasiness has been intensified by the scarcity of news from Constantinople in the last thirty-six hours.

All London newspapers treat the situation seriously and prominently.

Deep suspicion of the aims of the Kemalists is almost unanimous among the papers, and all seem worried about the safety of the non-Turkish population at the sublime ports. The Times despatch from Constantinople, dated Monday, said the situation had become critical, and that the Angora goevrnment apparently was determined to take advantage of the confused political situation in Britain.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Three additional classes of Turkish soldiers have been called to the colours.

DECLARE MARTIAL LAW?

PARIS, Nov. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—The Allied High Commissioners at Constantinople have asked their governments for authorization to take all necessary measures to maintain order in Constantinople, it was announced here this afternoon. The commissioners, it was stated, will declare martial law if necessary. The French deadnought, Jean Bart, will leave Toulon to-day to join the Allied fleet at Constantinople.

France to-day named her delegates to the conference at Lausanne. They are Maurice Bombard, ambassador at Constantinople, and Camille Barrere, ambassador to Italy.

When The Canadians Materially Hastened The Dawn o. Peace

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press.) — Blessed by an abundant harvest and a long period of national progress, virtually unmarred by industrial strife, Canadians yesterday observed Thanksgiving Day, set aside each year as a national holiday.

The da yalso marked the fifth The day also marked the fifth Passchendaele, when the Canadian corps, after three weeks of bitter fighting against tremendous odds, carried the Ridge of Passchendaele, in which they routed the flower of Hindenburg's storm troops and in so doing materially hastened the dawn of peace.

All these things were remembered throughout the Dominion by grateful citizens, whether in attendance at thanksgiving services held in the majority of churches, or at family re-unions.

A HEAVY VOTE BEING POLLED

Woodrow Wilson Looks For the Democrats to Gain Control of Congress.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Early reports from various parts of the United States indicated the probability of a very heavy vote in to-day's Congressional elections. Officials this morning were predicting heavy balloting.

The weather conditions are none too favorable in many sections of the country. In the east there was a general heavy rainfall last night, and in many districts rain is falling heavily to-day. In New York the sky is overcast. Unsettled weather prevailed in many parts of the west; in the middle west, where the weather conditions have a strong influence upon voting, early reports indicated unfavorable conditions. In New York spirited campaigns waged by Governor Miller and Alfred E. Smith bore fruit throughout the heavy early balloting. Betting as the polls opened was three to one in favor of Smith, the Democratic candidate, and the general view appeared to be that he was assured of election.

Woodrow Wilson looks for the Democrats to gain control of Congress to-day; a Democrat victory would help him in regaining his health.

The Examiner will bulletin the results to-night and answer telephone calls.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS GAVE THE TOURISTS A REAL SCARE.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., November 7. Canadian Press. — More than a dozen automobiles and considerable merchandise are being held by the Canadian customs officers to-day as a result of close search of machines and pedestrians crossing the bridges here yesterday and last night.

Yesterday a large number of persons took advantage of the holiday to cross the border. Those who did shopping on the United States side found more than the usual cursory examination of baggage and automobiles when they returned.

The action of the customs officials was said to be in response to complaints of Canadian merchants that their business was be' hurt by competition with smuggled goods.

HAMILTON, November 7. Canadian Press. — Magistrate Jelfs today imposed two fines of $100 each on F. W. Woolworth Company, for violating the Pharmacy Act. The company sold hydrogen p roxide and his worship held that they were not qualified to sell drugs or medicines.

FIFTY MINERS RECOVERED IN THE DISASTER

It Is Beleived The Death Toll At The Spangler Mine Will Go Near a 100-Rescuers At Work.

NOW OVER SIXTY

SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Thirteen additional bodies were taken from the Reilly Mine here, bringing the total dead recovered to sixty-three. Thirteen more bodies were in the mine, rescuers said, and 32 injured were in the miners' hospital. An explosion yesterday entombed the men. Mine rescue experts said they had explored all but two of the headings, and did not expect to find any more bodies. Coroner Schwab, of Johnston, shortly after noon, began arrangements for holding an inquest. Volunteers have been obtained to dig graves of the victims, most of whom will be buried in two Catholic cemeteries here.

There was still some uncertainty as to the number of men who went to work yesterday, but it was pointed out that if the total was 112, as some authorities believed, the missing 17 miners would probably be found in the eighth heading, where the water had risen so rapidly that exploration had to this morning been impossible. Even if these men had gone into the mine, it was asserted, they had probably perished.

If that proved true, leaders said, the number of dead would reach 80.

DETAILS REFUSED.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 7. — (Special). — Fifty-one bodies have been recovered from the Reilly Mine, wrecked yesterday by an explosion of gases, it was announced to-day, as rescue workers continued to clear away the debris.

Fifty more bodies are believed lying in the ruined workings of the shaft.

Hope that survivors, other than those rescued yesterday, will be found, has been practically abandoned. Thirty-one men who were brought from the shaft suffering from injuries, and more dead than alive from poisonous gases, were in Spangler, Pa., hospitals. Several first aid men are also recovering from exhaustion and gases.

Mine company officials to-day still refused to give out details of the explosion or make public a list of the employees working in the mine.

As near as can be estimated, about 140 men were in the mine. Of these, about thirty-nine were rescued alive, though badly injured. With the fifty-one bodies recovered, men and women familiar with the size of the shifts worked at the place believe that at least fifty more dead will be found.

FUNERAL OF ERNEST FOY WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

The Salvation Army Temple on Simcoe street was crowded to the doors on Monday afternoon, during the public funeral service for the late Ernest Foy. Staff-Captain McElhinney of Toronto, conducted it, and Adjutant Smith officiated at the Little Lake Cemetery. The private service was held at 1 p.m., at the home of P. Card, father-in-law of the deceased, on Monaghan Road, with Staff-Capt. McElhiney in charge, assisted by Rev. Mr. Morrow.

The funeral from the Temple was given a military touch by the amalgamation of the Salvation Army and 57th Rangers' bands, and at the grave side the Last Post was sounded by Lieut. Peryer, Bandmaster Frank Robinson, Corp. Layfield and Pte. Chas. Gadd, all of whom were comrades of Mr. Foy.

The pall-bearers were W. Jones, A. Wells, G. Sage, B. Bro man, Jas. Watley and Sam Watley.

Lloyd George Makes Some Caustic Reference To Near East Situation

Ex-Premier Was Hooted By The Unemployed. Thinks The New List of Cabinet Ministers Gave The Turk New Hope For "Another Try"

NEWCASTLE, November 7 (Canadian Press). — Lloyd-George made some sharp references to the crisis which has arisen in the Near East since his fall from the Premiership, in the political address which he delivered before a large assemblage here to-day.

He was hooted by the unemployed when he said that firm steps should be taken in connection with the Near East situation.

"The Near East is beginning to show symptoms of inflammation," he said. "Whatever happens, our flag must not be led down."

Later on in his speech he said that "we had got rid of the Turk, but he has looked at the list of new Cabinet Ministers, and come to the conclusion that this is the time for another try."

"If the Government stands by the flag, my friends, I will be wholeheartedly behind them," he continued. "I entreat the Government to show the Turk we will not be trifled with, and that the Turk must stand by the document signed at Mudania."

INDICTMENTS COMING IN HALL-MILLS CASE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 7.—(Special.) —Indictment against Mrs. Frances Hall is expected this week. Two men also to be named in the case.

The story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, woman of considerable mystery, self styled eye-witness of the double murder of Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, on Sept. 14 last, has been definitely corroborated, authorities stated last night. Mrs. A. C. Fraley, who lives near the scene where the bodies were found, is said to be the corroborating witness.

THIRTY TEAMS SOLD POPPIES

With thirty teams working all day the local branch of the G.W.V.A. sold every poppy in the city Saturday and netted a sum of $1266.38. When it came time to close up for the evening meal it was found that a very few flowers were left that had been overlooked during the afternoon and two of the ex-soldiers workers promptly volunteered to sell them in the evening. Their after supper efforts met with almost instantaneous success and when they returned every poppy had been sold.

The veterans were ably assisted by a number of the young ladies of the city and wish to extend their thanks and appreciation to them through the columns of the Examiner.

The highest amount turned in by a single worker was $178.87 which establishes a record for a poppy day collection.

The G.W.V.A. also wish to thank the Ladies Auxiliary and the Children's Aid Society for their assistance.

MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED AT OLD ST. JOHN'S

Impressive Service in Memory of the Late Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Denham and Son.

HANDSOME LAMPS

An interesting feature of the 11 a.m. service in St. John's Church Sunday was the dedication by the Vicar, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, of the two substantial exterior lamps which now illuminate steps and surroundings leading to the sacred structure's main entrance. Octagonal in design and patterned after the old-time lanterns in vogue in the Tudor days of old London, these lamps are in keeping with the antique dignity of St. John's. And, their cost defrayed from a bequest to the church under the will of the late Mrs. W. H. Denham, of this city, who passed away in Chicago, Ill., on November 20, 1920, they were dedicated to the memory of herself and her husband, W. H. Denham, and only son, Donald P., both of whom are also deceased.

In a warm eulogy of the exemplary lives of the Denham family, Dr. Blagrave said the late Mrs. Denham when she died, had already made provision for generous bequests to both the Peterborough Health Association and St. John's Church, each to get the same amount. Speaking from enquiry, not having known the family personally, he concluded that Mrs. Denham, a member of the Chancel Guild and of the local Health Association, had been a lady of that sweet, amiable, lovable disposition which made friends and kept them.

The late Mr. Denham, Dr. Blagrave gathered, was a generous, open-handed citizen of sterling character, not satisfied with "things just as they are and that they are just as they should be," but progressive in his views. He came to Peterborough as manager of the local Quaker Oats Company on August 1, 1904, and died in Chicago, U.S.A., on March 10, 1919 (from the after-effects, it is supposed, of the 'flu contracted in Peterborough a year or a little more before). His character and general disposition being of a bright, cheerful and illuminating nature, the reverend gentleman thought Mr. Denham's personality was appropriately symbolized in a lamp such as those dedicated to-day to his memory. Then he found a significant coincidence in this memorial, from the fact that Mr. Denham had been the first man in St. John's congregation to contribute, and generously, to the present adequate and modern lighting system in the church.

The Vicar also found it peculiarly fitting that not a few of the employes of the Quaker Oats Company should be present on this dedication occasion in memory of an employer whom his hands extolled as plain-spoken and straightforward in dealing with his men, at all times approachable and manifesting a human touch and spirit of comradeship for those in his employ worthy of emulation.

The late Donald P. Denham, who died here from the 'flu on October 23, 1918, Dr. Blagrave had learned from those who knew him, to have been a loyal church young man, an official in the Sunday school, graduate of Peterborough Collegiate Institute, and a promising young engineer cut off in early manhood.

The stone pillars on which the memorial lamps are erected were draped, one with the Union Jack and the other with the Stars and Stripes, the Denham family being American, although they lived in Peterborough from 1904 till the hand of death removed them one by one.

The flowers on the altar Sunday were violet, white and mauve chrysanthemums, donated to the memory of the Denham family by the sisters of the late Mr. Denham—Mrs. W. R. Eichemlaub and Miss E. G. Denham, both of Chicago — who were present at the dedication service.

Both the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services at St. John's were largely attended, this being the 40th anniversary of the church's dedication in 1882, after complete restoration, and marking the 87th year since the ancient structure was first opened.

Excellent Music.

The music throughout the day was admirably sung—evidently carefully selected and rehearsed. No communion in the world has a richer store of music for its liturgical services than the Anglican. At the memorial Eucharist the anthem opened with the recit., "Who Are These," sung by Mr. Fred. Johnson; chorus, "These Are They," ending with an aria, "They Shall Hunger No More," sung by Miss Kitchen. At choral evensong the anthem was "God shall wipe away all tears" (Field).

A Requiem.

A requiem for our soldiers who died in the great war immediately followed the sermon. Rev. Dr. Blagrave read the sentences and pray-

A HONEST DAY'S WORK FOR EQUALLY HONEST DAY'S PAY

More Work The Need of Canada Today—Declared Major-General MacDonnell to Veteran Soldiers After Mamorial Service Here.

After the memorial service at the Opera House on Sunday afternoon, Major-General MacDonnell gathered the boys around him for a few moments of very informal talk before they fell in to march back to the G.W.V.A. Hall.

He urged them to conduct themselves as soldiers should, and pointed out that every ex-service man who did his job faithfully, giving an honest day's work for an honest day's pay, made it easier for the veterans who were out of a job to get work to do.

Those who shirked their work not only made it harder for themselves, but also worked a hardship on their comrades in arms.

"What Canada needs to-day," he said, "is work, and more work. Honest work, honestly given for a fair and honest wage."

REV. J. R. WEBB BIDS FAREWELL AT MURRAY ST.

VERY POPULAR

Although Rev. J. R. Webb, closing on Sunday last his pastorate of nearly sixteen years at Murray street Baptist church, announced that he did not intend to preach any distinctly farewell sermon, as he anticipated visiting Murray street church often in the future, the morning and evening services were tinged with an atmosphere of regret for the final utterances of a popular pastor.

The morning service, marked by the celebration of Baptism and Communion, was the occasion also of a particularly eloquent sermon by Mr. Webb on a text from the 16th Corinthians, 1st chapter, 10th verse: "Now, if Timotheus come unto you see that he be among you without fear, for he worketh the will of the Lord, as also do I."

Eloquent Discourse.

The speaker treated his discourse under three different heads. First, the uncertainty of human plans. "Now, if Timotheus come unto you." Individuals who take an interest in the affairs of the church must remember that if the supreme interests of that church are to be served, it will not be through the plans and desires of men, but because they have formed the habit of looking to Him who has the disposal of all things in His own hands.

The second point, "See that he be among you without fear," epitomized the great requirement of pastoral success in the Christian church, the dependence of a minister upon his people for the success of the church. "It is one of the mistakes of most congregations that they depend too much upon their ministers." Also, "like people, like priest. The minister will be among you with fear if there is a lack of optimism in times of stress in the affairs of the church. The people have a responsibility in the making of their minister as he has in the making of his people. The minister fears nothing so much as a body of individuals in his congregation who always see the clouds and never have a word to say about the sunshine."

Will of the Lord.

Of the third and last point, "For Timotheus worketh the will of the Lord, as also do I," Mr. Webb referred to his thankfulness in having had, during his pastorate at Murray street church, a number of theologians in his church, who, though always friends, had the "courage and masculinity when they felt it necessary, to stand out and differ with their pastor." But it must be remembered, as Paul said, "if Timotheus worketh the will of the Lord, so also do I." Should a newcomer be a more ardent advocate of certain truths, that perhaps his predecessor has touched on lightly, or failed to stress with equal vigour certain other doctrines, that is not sufficient authority for saying that either is negligent.

Enlarged Faith.

Mr. Webb concluded with a reference to the saying of Paul that the death of Christ was the circumference and centre of the church, and he made allowance for an enlarged faith when he talked about a younger man coming to take his place. He said: "Now watch ye—stand fast in the faith—be strong—let all your things be done with love."

The text of Mr. Webb's evening sermon was taken from the ninth chapter of Luke, "and when they were awake, they saw His glory."

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. Haddow of Bolivia, and after the service, the entire congregation met their minister at the front of the church.

Match In Trousers Started a Fire In Peterborough Home

A peculiar fire last Sunday afternoon brought the local brigade to No. 2 Stewart street, at 6.29 p.m.

It appears that Floyd McMaster, owner and tenant of the house, had just placed in a old pair of trousers on the floor, and on his return an hour later, he found the garment on fire, and sent in the alarm through Box 16.

No damage was done outside of the loss of the garment, and a scorched spot on the floor where the trousers had lain.

The origin of this strange fire, as plained by the Fire Chief, was that a match in the garment must have been stepped on when Mr. McMaster left his bedroom, when the match ignited, and started the smouldering flame.

100 GALLONS OF HOOTCH SEIZED

Alcoholic Content Will Be Determined by Official Analysis.

Nearly 100 gallons of hootch were seized by Provincial Officers Cookman and Stewart and Inland Revenue Officer W. Buller at a house on St. James' Street, south of the Exhibition Park, on Saturday at midnight. Samples of it have been sent to Toronto for analysis, and the report that is expected in a few days will determine whether or not the stuff is contraband. If the test shows a percentage of alcohol above the legal measure this seizure will be one of the largest in Peterborough since bootleg raids became a pastime for the police.

The suspected concoction was bottled and barrelled, and in a capacious tub a mash of grapes, raisins, yeast and other ingredients was frothing and bubbling. A charge has been laid against the woman who occupies the house, and it was reported this morning that she was prepared to plead guilty.

PAID TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF SOLDIER DEAD

Ex-Service Men Honor Fallen Comrades At The Cenotaph And In The Opera House.

INSPIRING ADDRESSES

The local ex-service men honored their fallen comrades Sunday afternoon with impressive ceremonies at the cenotaph on the lawn of the G. W.V.A. headquarters, and with a special memorial service at the opera house. On both occasions they were addressed by Major General Sir Archibald MacDonnell, K. C. B., C. M.G., D.S.O.

The Veterans, members of the local militia units, and the ladies' Auxiliary, fell in on three sides of the cenotaph at 2 o'clock with a special guard of honor, representing four branches of the service stationed at the four corners of the monument.

After an inspection by General MacDonnell, who greeted many of his old comrades of the trench days, the "Dead March in Saul" was played by the Peterboro Rangers Band, and the cenotaph decorated with wreaths in memory of the fallen.

General MacDonnell then made a short address appropriate to the occasion, the Last Post was sounded, and the company marched to the Opera House, where the memorial service was held. On the way to the Opera House the four who stood guard at the cenotaph fell in as a special guard for General MacDonnell.

The order of march was:

Colors.
Peterboro Rangers Band.
Guard of Honour.
Major General Sir Archibald MacDonnell.
G.W.V.A., under the command of the president, Corp H. J. Staunton, formerly of the 15th Battalion.
Peterboro Rangers, under command of Major W. G. Hall, M.C.
Third Dragoons, under command of Lieut.-Colonel T. J. Johnston.
Ladies Auxiliary. Fraternal and other bodies.

AT THE GRAND.

At the Opera House, many of the mothers, wives and friends of the veterans were gathered for the memorial service. Here after the playing of "God Save the King," and "O Canada" by the Peterboro Rangers Band, a few introductory remarks were made by the president, Corp. H. J. Staunton, who welcomed those present, and introduced the speakers.

Major eneral MacDo ll gave a brief account of the development of the Canadian soldiers fr m the raw recruits who formed the first contingent at Valcartier to the seasoned warrior of the trenches. Generally speaking, he said the Canadian soldier lacked discipline at fi t, but as he progressed in e perience he realized the need of it till finally the whole corps became as a single unit cemented together by a great purpose.

The Canadian corps, he said, never went the wrong way when an attack was on, and never failed at the parapet when the barrage opened—a statement which could not b made of any other of the twenty-one corps of all nations which at various times

CHURCHILL NOT DESERTING THE FORMER LEADER

SOCIAL REFORMS.

LONDON, Nov. 7. — (Canadian Press.)— Winston Churchill in an election address sent to his constituents of Dundee says he stands as a liberal free trader but is not deserting Lloyd George or the high-minded conservatives who stood by him and who are now exposed to the malicious intrigues of the die-hards and the independent liberals."

"The general welfare of the nation and the Empire must come before mere partisanship," he declares. "The Bonar Law government stands on far too narrow a basis for political stability. It is based far more on the Lords than the Commons. Its character and composition are reminiscent of the George Third policy, an almost mediaval policy. It is pure folly to suppose that socialism, communism and other revolutionary doctrines can be counteracted and arrested by policies of mere negation."

Mr. Churchill favors active and earnest efforts in support of social reform schemes and the development of the Empire. The proposal of a capital levy, urged by labor, would be catastrophic to trade and employment. Nationalization would dry up the springs of enterprise and destroy the livelihood of the bulk of the people. Mr. Churchill urges the electors to follow the middle path of wisdom and safety between reaction and revolution.

ELECTION CLAIMS DO NOT ALWAYS AGREE IN DETAIL

Lloyd George Claims 178 Candidates But Bonar Law Says He Has Only 147 — Lloyd George's Local Machinery is Weak.

LONDON, Nov. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Nomination day has by no means finally sorted out the election color scheme, Lloyd Georgian headquarters claim many candidates who however are down in their constituencies, at any rate have announced themselves, as liberals pure and simple without the prefix "National." So while Bonar Law's supporters declare that only 147 Lloyd Georgian candidates are opposed to them, the Lloyd Georgians themselves announce that their full strength in the field is 178 candidates.

Evidence accumulates that the Lloyd Georgians themselves andraught in the local organization for the storm burst prematurely and, in matters of detail there has hardly been time for them to adapt themselves to the altered circumstances. The former premier's headquarters organizations is efficient enough but the party's local machinery is weak, Lloyd George himself is still in the doctor's hands but he hopes to go to Wales on Thursday for four days of speech-making.

The week end deluge of oratory has really let little new light on the situation. Bonar Law's speech at Leeds was practically a repetition of his previous utterance but it was significant that for the first time the premier allowed himself to express confidence in the result of the election.

The conservative organization in the country is undoubtedly sending optimistic reports to headquarters. The London Observer's estimate Sunday of a possible fifty majority for Bonar Law had the authority of experienced men of the unionist camp who had toured the ridings carefully.

Former Premier H. H. Asquith, leader of the independent liberals in his election address, issued to-day, favors the league of nations, revision of the reparations demands and the allied debts, public economy, unqualified free trade with the immediate repeal of the Safeguarding of Industries Act, land licensing reform and proportional representation.

NEW SYSTEM OF GRADING HOGS

Now in Effect Throughout Canada As Basis of Plans to Increase Export Trade — Farmers Should Know the Various Grades — Hogs Bought According to Grade.

A new system of grading hogs was officially instituted at all the stockyards and larger abattoirs throughout Canada on October 30, and was put into effect here in Peterborough at the Canadian Packing Company's plant, with S. D. Irvine as the grader appointed by the Dominion Government. The first week's operations were carried out successfully, and with full co-operation from the packers, drovers and salesmen, and Mr. Irvine said he was highly pleased with the satisfactory way in which the scheme worked out.

Because the idea was being introduced it was not stringently applied, and Mr. Irvine allowed certain lenience while everyone was becoming accustomed to the system, which from now on will be put into full effect in accordance with the plans of the livestock branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

It is obviously essential that farmers, drovers and livestock shippers—in fact, all those who are actively engaged in the swine industry—should be thoroughly acquainted with the various grades of hogs as defined in the regulations recently published in the Canada Gazette.

The Various Grades.

These grades are briefly as follows:

1.—Selects. A pig weighing from 170 to 220 pounds at the country shipping point, showing good length of side, medium width and finish, trim underside, light in the jowl and of good quality.

2.—Thick, smooth. This is the type which the packer is trying to have eliminated from the shipper's market because such a type cannot be profitable turned over to export trade. It is a shorter pig than the select, one which carries too much width and finish, and one which, although of nearly the bacon type, has been "severely" bruised in shipping.

3.—Shop hog. A pig finished and weighing from 130 to 170 pounds at country points.

4.—Feeders. A feeder forms a contrast with the shop hog in not carrying any finish and weighing 170 pounds and under.

5.—Heavies. In this class are found hogs which dress out too heavy for the Wiltshire trade. The most desirable weight of Wiltshire side comes of a hog weighing from 190 to 200 pounds. A hog weighing 220 to 270 pounds at the shipping point is classed as a heavy.

7.—Sows. All females having had one or more litters are classed as sows. If weighing under 360 pounds they are graded as being No. 1 and over that weight No. 2.

Stags and roughs—these remaining grades need no comment.

In the new regulations appears this clause: "Hogs when intended for slaughter in Canada and when being sold or offered for sale at stockyards and such other points as may be designated by the Minister and hogs arriving at abattoirs for slaughter shall be graded as provided herein."

To Improve Bacon.

The object of the new system of grading is to recover in the British market the position formerly held by Canadian bacon. It is said that Denmark by carefully supervising her swine and pork-packing industry secured a place in the overseas market that seriously challenges the Canadian producers. The new grading system is therefore expected gradually to raise the quality of Canada's export bacon and thereby to react to the benefit of both farmer and packer.

Buy According to Grade.

Hogs are now bought according to grade, and it is obvious that the farmer will strive to learn the different standards as thoroughly as buyers, or even graders themselves. To this end Mr. Irvine has been visiting Campbellford, Lakefield and other country shipping points in this district and grading hogs in the presence of U.F.O. salesmen and other drovers and farmers generally. It is impossible for him to spend much of his time in the country because of the exactions of his work at the Canadian Packing Company, but he hopes to call at shipping centres as often as he can.

Company's Graders.

Mr. Irvine has the assistance at the C.P.C. plant of the company's own grader, William Clark, and his several helpers but the final selection is made by the Government's officer. Several nights last week the work continued until 9.30 p.m., and from all accounts this position is no sinecure.

So far from 18 to 20 appointments have been made as follows: Three at Toronto, two at Montreal and others at Edmonton, Winnipeg, Kitchener, Ingersoll, Brantford, Chatham, Hamilton, Guelph, Hull, Peterborough and Charlottetown, P.E.I. The graders, who are mostly graduates of the Guelph O.A.C., were given three weeks' intensive work at the stockyards in Toronto and Montreal before being sent to their respective posts.

It is provided in the regulations that hogs subject to grading shall not be released for slaughter by a stockyards company or be moved from the holding pens by an abattoir, or be moved by the owner or shipper from such grading centres as may be established from time to time until a signed "release" has been furnished by the grader.

Two Campbellford Young Men Then Let Go on Suspended Sentence.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.—In Police Court on Saturday two young men appeared before Magistrate Payne charged with the theft of a quantity of ammunition, the property of the Public School Board. APSLEY COUNCIL HELD A MEETING.

Disposed of a Number of Claims For Sheep — Change in Mail Service.

APSLEY, Nov. 7.—The Municipal Council of Burleigh and Anstruther held their regular meeting in the Town Hall, Apsley, all the members being present except Councillor Northey. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and signed the following resolutions were passed:

1.—That Albert Wilson be paid $5 for sheep killed.

2.—That Thomas Spencer get a rebate of $6 for overpaid statute labour in 1921.

3.—That the Clerk write the County Treasurer to have Lot 8, Concession 4, Burleigh South; Lot 3, Concession 12, Burleigh South, and Lot 10, Concession 5, Burleigh South, removed from tax sale.

4.—That the following accounts be paid: Albert Wilson, sheep killed, $5; Thomas Stephens, repairing bridge, $5; Review Printing, tax notices, $14.85; Roy Brown, stone hammers, $6.30; Duncan Brown, attending seven Council meetings, $14.50.

The Mail Service.

A change in the winter schedule for the mail service between Apsley and Lakefield is being asked for, and a petition to that effect has been forwarded to the Post Office Department signed by all the Postmasters between those two points. The proposed change would mean that the mail would leave Apsley on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and arrive on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturday—just reversing the order of the usual winter service. Residents to the north of Apsley who have to use Clanncarde and Chandos Post Offices are averse to the change and are protesting to the department. These two offices only have Wednesday and Saturday mail days, and under the new order newspapers printed on Friday and arriving at Apsley on Saturday would not reach Chandos and Clanncarde till the following Wednesday, when the news would be five days old—news no longer, but ancient history.

The kickers seem to have a good case.

NO EMBARGO ON CANADIAN GRAIN GOING TO U.S.A.

Farm Organizations Ask That Canadian Wheat Be Kept Out of the Country —Freight Car Shortage.

FEAR RETALIATION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—No embargo on Canadian grain is probable despite the demands of the American Farm Bureau Federation and other farm organizations. This is the information which is given out here unofficially frm sources intimately in touch with the situation. It is pointed out that to embargo Canadian grain now, inasmuch as there are thousands of Canadian cars on this side of the line, would probably mean retaliation should the United States desire to move grain through Canada, as it sometimes does. Moreover, United States railroads lines promise soon to relieve the congestion of grain at the small elevators in the west and northwest and say they are near the end of the worst of the car shortage.

Mrs. Nelles Says She Owes Her Life To It

"I firmly believe I owe my life to Tanlac, for it has completely restored my health after suffering for twenty-five years," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. S. Nelles, of 208 Parliament St., Toronto.

"During all those years I hardly knew what it was to eat a good meal without suffering dreadful pains in the pit of my stomach and also palpitation of the heart afterwards. My liver was badly out of order and I was troubled a lot with nausea. I generally woke up mornings with a fearful headache and had such spells of dizziness that I had to hold on to the furniture to keep from falling. I was just tired out and weary all the time and every now and then had such a sinking sensation that I thought my end had come. In fact, I was almost a confirmed invalid and never expected to be well again.

"But the way Tanlac has built me up has been really wonderful. After taking eight bottles I can honestly say I am as well as I ever was in my life. I have recommended Tanlac to lots of my friends, and am glad of this opportunity of telling everybody what a grand medicine it is."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

EXPLOSION ON SHIP.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Several persons are reported dead or injured in consequence of an explosion on board the American steamer Mexico at Tampico Saturday, says a despatch to El Universal.

No details are given in the despatch, except the statement that a tank of ammonia exploded.

The Ward Line steamer Mexico, which left New York October 19, for Havana and Mexican ports, was last reported as having arrived at Vera Cruz, October 27, on the way to Tampico.

THE CASE OF MAGUIRE, D.C.M.

A correspondent in a communication to the Examiner calls attention to the case of Trevor Maguire, ex-soldier who has been found guilty of sedition because of utterances he made at a May Day meeting in Toronto.

Maguire, who won the D.C.M. in France, is alleged to have said that the British Empire should be called the British vampire.

There will naturally be sympathy for a man with a good record like his who has got himself into trouble, as so many other people have done by talking wildly.

But what can be done about it?

Maguire has had a fair trial, and on the evidence submitted has been convicted by a jury of his fellow-citizens.

He has not been railroaded into jail by any arbitrary official, but has had the opportunity that British law affords to every prisoner charged with a serious offence of having his case decided upon by twelve good men and true.

They having heard the evidence believe that he has been guilty of seditious language and have brought in their verdict accordingly.

Possibly the case offers the opportunity for the exercise of clemency on the part of the authorities, but it is idle to endeavour to show that this unlucky soldier was the victim of unfair treatment so far as the law was concerned.

A NEEDED REMINDER.

It is well for the people of Peterborough and Canadians generally to hear occasionally such addresses as that given by Major-General Sir Archibald Macdonell on Sunday.

The epic bravery of the Canadian forces in France is a subject that is not talked about enough. Our people should not be allowed to forget how wonderfully our citizen soldiers adopted themselves to conditions they knew little about, how splendidly all of them fought and how nobly many of them died.

We are amused sometimes—when we are not annoyed—by the "We won the war" boasting of some of our neighbors. But, after all, it is infinitely better for any country to feel that sentiment towards its soldiers than to have their heroism fade quickly from public remembrance, as sometimes it seems it is fading from the minds of Canadians.

Speaking with the authority of an officer who saw a great deal of the war and had the distinction of commanding the 1st Canadian Division, Major-General Macdonell left with his hearers some vivid word pictures of some of the accomplishments of the Canadian corps, and he did a splendid service in bringing these facts back into prominence.

Such recitals cannot be heard too often, and it is to be hoped that at least once a year—and no occasion is more suitable than on Armistice Day—the story of Canada's war effort in France and Flanders will be related.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHAMBER.

The enlisting of a large number of the city's young men into a section of their own in the Chamber of Commerce is good business for that organization and should be good business for Peterborough.

There is no reason why community problems or community business should be left to the older men to solve.

The objects of the new organization, which include the interesting of the younger men of the city in public and civic service and the provision of opportunities for activity on their part in advancing the welfare of Peterborough, are highly commendable, and the new movement should attract to it many of the liveliest and most energetic of Peterborough's young men.

The Chamber of Commerce is liable to find that the organization that has just been launched will be a pacemaker for the parent body, and the friendly rivalry that will unquestionably be engendered should have a stimulating effect upon the chamber itself and consequently prove to be of valuable community service.

At the same time, the advice is offered in good faith that the Young Men's Chamber should not attempt too much at the outset. A gradual development on business like principles has a much greater chance for success than an attempt to achieve miracles.

It must be confessed that Peterborough has been rather given to that sort of thing.

There have been many movements that started with much sounding of horns and beating of drums and verbal fireworks—and fell flat in a few months—collapsed like a marathon runner who makes the mistake of starting out at a sprinter's pace.

If the Young Men's Chamber avoids that pitfall and is content to advance by logical stages, it should prove a most valuable addition to the city's organizations.

ARE WE UNDEMONSTRATIVE?

The remark is often used that Peterborough people are not demonstrative; that they are reluctant to display either joy or sorrow, and have an unusual faculty for concealing their feelings.

It is true that, for one day at least, November 11th, 1918, restraint was thrown to the winds and the city gave itself over to wild celebration.

But that, of course, may have been the exception that proves the rule.

The celemonies on Sunday rather go to confirm the impeachment with which this article commences.

Several hundred Peterborough soldiers lost their lives in the Great War. Yet when the public was asked to place wreaths or other floral tributes on the cenotaph at the G.W.V.A. the offerings did not exceed a dozen and not all of them were inscribed in memory of any particular soldier.

Similarly, although all the returned soldiers in the city were invited to take part in the memorial service, not one-tenth of the veterans were in the parade. It is safe to say that more ex-service men stood on the streets and watched the marchers go past than there were in uniform.

It would be folly to say that the relatives of the unreturning brave who did not bring their tributes to the cenotaph do not preserve the memory of their loved ones just as green as the people who did pay tribute in this way.

And doubtless the veterans who did not participate in the parade were thinking of their comrades who are buried across the Atlantic just as sincerely as the men in uniform.

It all goes to show that the theory that Peterborough citizens are not demonstrative has a rather substantial foundation.

THE "VETERAN'S" VIEW.

Under the heading, "Business Before Sentiment," the Veteran, the official organ of the Great War Veterans' Association, says:

"In the minds and hearts of millions of people November 11th marks the anniversary of one of the greatest and most sacred occasions in world history. The eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of 1918 marked the termination of four years and four months of unprecedented human slaughter. Never were more fervent and heart-felt prayers of thanksgiving rendered to the Almighty. Never was a more indelible memorial to those who sacrificed their all on the altar of duty reared in human hearts—yet because of the inconvenience which a broken week might cause to commercial interests the late Federal Government saw fit to tack the anniversary on the somewhat hollow observance of Thanksgiving Day and move the joint holiday to the first Monday preceding November 11th.

"Following the same principle, one might readily look forward to the changing of Christmas Day to the first Monday preceding December 25th, in order to suit the convenience of commercial interests—Armistice Day is only less sacred to Christian peoples. Or perhaps the same interests might be convenienced if Dominion Day was to be observed the first Monday preceding July 1st. What is sentiment and patriotism compared with the advantage of retaining fifty-two business weeks intact every year?

"Fortunately the people of Canada are not guided wholly by orders-in-council in the commemoration of great anniversaries. This year most of the exercises in connection with the observance of Armistice Day have been planned for November 11th. The Flanders Poppy—"the Flower of Remembrance"—is to be worn on that date.

"The present Government will do a sensible and diplomatic thing if it will rescind the measure joining the celebration of Armistice Day with Thanksgiving Day on a day which does justice to neither, and establish the official holiday in accordance with that which will ever stand in the hearts of the people—November 11th."

THE SLANDERER OF THE DEAD.

One of the things that are a constant surprise to Canadians in Congressional elections in the United States is the revolting appeals made to the baser and unpatriotic elements of the population by unscrupulous politicians for the sake of power, says the Brantford Expositor. One of the most outstanding examples of this in the present elections is the campaign of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, in which he caters to the pro-German, anti-American, radical and socialist elements.

In his appeal Senator La Follette exceeds the bounds of all decency. To cater to his hearers he not only denounces his country's attitude in the war, but also slanders the nation's dead, who ought to be above reproach. While speaking at Wausau, in the La Follette stronghold of Marathon County, surrounded by his alien-minded, alien-hearted zealots, and nearing the end of his campaign for re-election to the Senate, this callous-hearted slanderer of his country's dead made comment of the kind contained in the following paragraph:

"The war was purely commercial and the 'boobs' were fools enough to go and fight and die in it, and believe they were dying for democracy. . . . . The American people are the brightest people in the world, but sometimes they look like a set of 'boobs.' I do think they were a set of 'boobs' during the war. You know that I wasn't in favor of going into the war, and I thank God I wasn't."

This indicates the strain of his thought. The wonder is how any decent citizen of the Republic can tolerate it. Such an unpatriotic demagogue serves no good purpose. He merely mixes hatred and poison in the citizenship of the Republic It will be interesting to see what the loyal Americans will say about a man taking his seat in the Senate who calls the seventy thousand dead American soldiers "fools" and "boobs." Such disgraceful sentiments ought to be sufficient to disqualify him even if he is elected by the unpatriotic elements of his own State. If his own State were not utterly cankered by alienism he would be consigned to the political death of an outcast and a parish.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The special O.T.A. officers have been forbidden to carry firearms. Probably because there was danger of both being loaded at the same time.

Although yesterday was officially observed as Armistice Day, it should not be forgotten that Saturday next is the correct anniversary, and that the tribute of two minutes' silence asked for by His Majesty the King will be paid then.

The British people can show the world how to get a general election over in a hurry. A week from tomorrow the fight will be ended. In the United States they wouldn't have started manoeuvring for the primaries in that length of time.

The announcement that the C.N.R. is to be electrified from Cobourg to Toronto seems to have electrified a lot of Toronto people as well.

The request of the Chairman of the Northern Ontario Relief Committee that he be communicated with before any further bails of clothing are sent is of great importance. Cash donations are in a different category. Funds are urgently needed and the Relief Committee would prefer the cash in order that aid can be given in the form most adequate to the needs of the situation. The Examiner will be glad to receive and forward your donation.

MURINE For Your EYES

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Editor:

Sir,—I note with deep regret that a young man, Trevor Maguire who joined up early in the war, fought in France and Flanders and was awarded the D.C.M. for bravery, is languishing in Toronto gaol, for no other reason but daring to criticize the British empire at an open air demonstration. He used the word "vampire" instead of "empire," and for that he has been found guilty of sedition. I happened to be at that May Day meeting in Toronto which was addressed amongst others, by James Simpson, Mr. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg, and Mr. Hector Prentor. They all expressed similar sentiments as Maguire. Perhaps, as one detective in cross examination stated, they were a little more diplomatic. Out of about a thousand demonstators about two hundred were detectives. They had to show results and therefore Maguire not being known and seemingly the weakest was made the victim. Surely in a free country we need no such methods. Trevor Maguire by this time will have to come to the conclusion that "His" Empire he went to defend is not "His" Empire after all. Otherwise one does not usually get punished for criticizing his own article. It is up to every level headed man and woman in Canada, particularly ex-service men and their organizations who believe in Freedom to strongly protest against the childish action of the Toronto Police Authorities ever bringing up such a case and demand the immediate release of Trevor Maguire.

I remain, yours truly,
EX-SERVICE MAN.

TO PROTESTANTS

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Sir,—The power to regulate the conduct of individuals in spite of all opposition, has come to stay. Not only regulation but abolition has come to stay. Up-to-date this new doctrine has only got so far as the people. That is to say some people claim the right to regulate others. Not that the others are committing excesses, but on the ground that it is better for the people as a whole that things like tobacco, liquor, etc., should not be made use of. This power amongst Protestants has settled apparently in Conference, Synods, Assemblies etc., of both sexes. It has been the principle amongst Catholics since two thousand years It resides in the hierarchy of that great church. There is now very little therefore separating Catholics Protestants. Since this supervision of the words of the people in both communions has become one and the same, the great cause of division between them disappears. So much is this the case, that vast numbers are following up the logical course which leads back to the Roman Catholic Church. It was what used to be called the "liberty of the subject" (not to misbehave but to behave himself as he saw fit), that first provoked the schism from Rome. Now that this liberty has been shown to be a mistake and only likely to be abused, very little remains to keep Protestants away from the Mother Church In fact the whole basis and reason of Protestantism disappears.

MILITARY PLANS AGAINST TURKS

Marshal Foch Called Into Conference With Premier Poincare of France.

(By Webb Miller.)

PARIS, November 7. (United Press. — Marshal Foch, the allied war time commander-in-chief, was summoned by Premier Poincare today to consider military plans to be invoked should the Turks violate the Mudania agreement.

A cabinet meeting was also held to consider the inflammable Near Eastern situation again brought to a crisis by the seizure of Constantinople by the Turkish nationalist civil authorities.

Foch, considering the necessity of possible military action, is understood to have maintained to Poincare that it would be comparatively easy for the allies to stop Mustapha Kemal's men should they attempt to cross toward Thrace, as threatened.

Official France, as well as the press executed an about face from its position of sympathy with the Turkish Nationalist manoeuvres to-day.

From all quarters was voiced a demand that the Moslems be not allowed to violate the Mudania agreement or endanger the International regime over the neutral zone.

SCORED FIRE RANGERS OF NORTHERN ONTARIO

Damaging Testimony Offered at Investigation by Fire Marshal Heaton.

ENGLEHART, Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Postmaster Heslip, of Heaslip, brother of Amos, who perished with his wife and her two brothers in the Northern Ontario fire, was the first witness yesterday before Fire Marshal Heaton, who is conducting the investigation into the recent conflagration. He scored the record of the fire rangers in the past, and said that these men sped about the country in automobiles. For this reason and others he, as a member of the U.F.O., had advocated their removal.

He advocated the appointment of one man in every township with authority to grant permits to start fires, this man to be held responsible.

Geo. Bryan, who followed, asserted that he had started a fire, two years ago which became dangerous. He had seen the rangers approaching when this fire was at its height, and instead of suffering prosecution, he had been presented with a permit that the rangers said would protect him if the fire got out of control. In spite of R. E. Laidlaw's cross-examination, witness stuck to the assertion that the ranger was not discharged but had been at work at the close of the season.

Mayor Korman, of Englehart, suggested that municipalities be granted twenty-year loans by the Government, without reserve, to clear a space round the town.

The Fire Marshal promised sympathetic consideration.

TWO BUGGIES WERE TAKEN FROM SHED

Campbellford Delinquents Appropriate Vehicles For Joy Riding.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 7. —Two horses and buggies were taken from the Methodist church shed on Saturday evening between the hours of 9 and 10 p.m. The police were notified and in the meantime the buggies were returned in very bad condition, evidently having received hard usage by some joy riders. One of the buggies was badly damaged, the top and shafts being broken.

The police have been given a description of the parties and their arrest will follow at an early date.

Another case of pilfering was reported to the police by a Front St. liveryman, who had his car stripped of headlamps, fixtures, etc., last Saturday evening. In this case the suspected parties are being closely watched. As there have been a number of similar cases it is likely that a special constable will be appointed to put a stop to such mischievous work.

A BIG WEEK-END AT CAVAN CHURCH

Anniversary Services on Sunday, Followed by Fowl Supper on Monday—Peterborough Talent There.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 7.—Cavanville Methodist church was favored with fine weather for their anniversary services on Sunday, November 5th, when Rev. H. M. Manning, of Peterboro, was the preacher for the day. Congregations were large; the evening one filling the church to capacity. The key-note of the day's service was "Worship", the hymns chosen, including J. G. Whittier's beautiful lines, "O Lord and Master of us all", carrying out this theme which is indeed the point most emphasized by the religious education program of the church at the present time. The Deity and atoning work of Jesus Christ were well illustrated in the evening Scripture lesson from John 1: 1-18, read by the pastor, Rev. S. G. Rorke. Mr. Manning chose his text from Psalm 4, 4th and 5th verses: "Stand in awe and sin not; commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be still. Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and put your trust in the Lord", and his discourse was an illuminating exposition of the four rules laid down by the Psalmist for spiritual guidance. The injunction to "stand in awe" is equally applicable to saint and sinner for God is to be held in reverence of all men only the fool hath said in his heart, there is no God. Veneration includes both fear and love; as a Father, God is entitled to honor, and as a Master to adequate respect and service. Parents and teachers are responsible for impressing the children under their care with the holiness and sacred character of the worship and majesty of God. Sin, which is primarily an offence against the Supreme Being, dulls the sense of reverence, leads to presumptuousness, and brings as penalties the destruction of our innocence, the fact that we fall into its power, and the separation of our souls from our Saviour.

Just as some business men fear to strike a balance sheet, so there are individuals who are afraid to commune with their own hearts in the still night watches; yet it is in the university of solitude that the richest and sweetest experience are gained—Moses, Paul, and Jesus, Himself, being notable examples. Two voices are heard, that of memory, only we often fear what of promises unkept, and ideals not lived up to, may be recalled; the other voice is God speaking, in love but in sternness, just as we make necessary, and the moments alone with Him are very precious ones if our rebellious wills give way to the Divine.

If we would "offer the sacrifices of righteousness", a complete discounting of our own merits, and a whole-hearted embrace of Him 'Who was made sin for us, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him', are absolute requirements. "And put your trust in the Lord", because He is the right one to trust; supposing all that our own hearts know about ourselves, and all that God kows about us, were suddenly revealed to some human friend, what chance of ever again being deemed worthy of confidence would we have? Yet trust is essential for the carrying on of even the most ordinary business of life. The infinite compassion of God bears with our failings, therefore "Brother, make a friend of Jesus who, when all else shall fail, will never leave thee, nor suffer thee to perish in the end."

The special musical numbers prepared by the choir included for the evening service the anthems, "Bless the Lord, O my soul", and, "My Presence shall go with thee", the solo in the latter being taken by Mr. B. F. Carley, and the duet by Messrs. Carley and McDowell.

The Fowl Supper

The fowl supper on Monday evening, which completed the Cavan anniversary occasion, was a decidedly successful event. The church was taxed to its utmost to accommodate the audience which gathered, and the supper was all that could be desired As usual the ladies of Cavan fully sustained their reputation for providing an excellent meal and those who waited upon the guests were most attentive in looking after their wants until all were satisfied. The chairman for the evening was Mr. John Dewart, and the program included musical selections by Miss Saunders of Peterboro, Messrs. Martyn and Simmons, of Port Hope, Mr. R. Hendry Peterboro, and the Cavan quartette Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, Miss A. Tinney, Messrs. B. F. Carley, and G. McDowell, and readings by Miss Brackenridge and Mr. J. Johns, of Peterboro. The hearty applause which greeted every number, and the repeated demands for an encore, showd the appreciation of the audience for the work of the various artists. The accompanists for the evening were: Mrs. W. A. Greenslade of Peterboro; Miss Thyra M. Martyn of Port Hope, and Miss Carley of Cavan.

The pastor, Rev. S. G. Rorke, made a few appropriate remarks at the close pointing out some particular reasons for thanksgiving at this season, and a vote of thanks to those who had assisted with the program was moved by Mr. Jas. Douglas and seconded by Mr. W. Carley. The total receipts from the free-will offering Sunday, and at the door on Monday evening with the sale of baking after the entertainment, were well over $200.

A small dose at bedtime brings relief and laughter by morning

HOSPITAL and doctor's records prove that 75 per cent of human ills has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dangers. Teach children regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intestines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Laxative Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

Mr. A. F. Lithgow of Montreal, keeps his family well in that way, and Mrs. E. Whalley of Winnipeg, Man., has been using Laxative Syrup Pepsin for her baby, her mother and herself. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. It will last you for months, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

Medical assistance was procured, the wounded members dressed and it is hoped that nothing more serious may be the result. TOO MUCH MOONSHINE LANDS MAN IN JAIL

Appropriated Fisherman's Boat and Damaged Nets.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 7. —On Sunday morning at about ten o'clock, Acting Chief Thomas Crowford, received a hurry call from George Potts of Bradley Bay, who stated that his boat had been stolen from the shore and two parties were tampering with his fish nets.

The chief made a record run in a high powered motor and caught sight of the two intruders making for the shore. When the men caught sight of the police they jumped from the boat into the chilly waters of the bay and landed at different points, making their escape into the bush which is very thickly wooded; however after a desperate chase the chief managed to land one of the men. The other is still at large, but his capture is assured as he is well known in the district. The one prisoner appeared before Magistrate Payne on Monday morning at ten o'clock and for breach of the O.T.A. was fined $50 and costs amunting to $66.35, or in default of payment two months hard labor in the Cobourg jail. On the other charge he was fined $25 and costs $42.90; also $25 to go to the owner of the damaged nets. This item of $25 was promptly paid, but in default of payment of the fine for tampering with fish nets, the accused must serve four months hard labor in Cobourg jail. This is a sample of the quick dispensation of justice in the town of Campbellford.

Rescue crews fought debbris and poisonous gases all night in an effort to reach the men believed to be entombed in a large subterranean chamber.

About 40 were rescued. Poisonous gases killed most of the men as they made a vain attempt to throw up air tight barricades against the vapours, it was indicated from incoherent stories told by the rescue men.

A dozen or more of those brought from the shafts are not expected to live.

Their faces and bodies were seared and broken by the force of the blast. A complete casualty list will not be available until to-morrow, it is said.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig Syrup.

Campbellford Correspondence

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7. — David Lynch fell a distance of about 12 feet out of an apple tree last Friday, and while badly shaken up was fortunate in not having any bones broken. His home is in Seymour Township.

Carl Nicholas, aged 4, had the misfortune to break his right arm on Friday while playing teeter-totter with some companions near his home on Inkerman street.

Dr. H. B. Longmore attended both cases and reports the patients doing nicely.

Lecture at Music Hall.

Mr. J. Frappy, former Public School Principal of Campbellford, gave a very interesting lecture in the Music Hall on Sunday afternoon, the subject being "The New World Begun—Millions Now Living Will Never Die," founded on the words in John 11:26. "He that liveth and believeth in Me shall never see death." The meeting was well attended. Mr. Frappy now represents the International Bible Students' Association and is always a welcome visitor in Campbellford.

Armistice Tea, Nov. 11.

The Young Girls' Chapter, "Bemersyde," of the Campbellford Daughters of the Empire held a special meeting Thursday evening in the reference room of the Public Library to elect the officers for the ensuing year. Miss Ruth Diamond officiated as Secretary. It was decided that an Armistice tea should be held in the Kerr Block, Front street, formerly occupied by the MacIntosh Bros., on Saturday, November 11. The Bemersyde is hoping to accomplish more this year than last, as more of the members are in town and a few of the younger girls have been taken in as members.

A delightful little tea was given on Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Ruth Kincade of New York, who is attending Whitby Ladies' College, by Miss Helen Wood, Front street, whom Miss Kincade is visiting. Bunches of autumn bitter sweet brightened the charming rooms. The guests had all arrived by 4.30, and after the usual small talk, music, and dancing, tea was served. Among the guests was Miss Isabel Cook of New Liskeard, also from Whitby College, who is visiting her cousin, Miss Lulu Gay, Rear street.

KEENE CONCERT GREAT SUCCESS

A Splendid Well-Balanced Programme Attracted a Capacity House--Keene News of Interest.

KEENE, Nov. 7.—A very pleasant and enjoyable concert was held on Wednesday night last under the auspices of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian church. The hall was packed to the doors and several people had to be turned away as there was no more available room.

A well arranged programme was very suitably carried out with each number being so well appreciated that if all the encores desired and had been rendered the concert would have been very late in closing.

Colin Comrie and Harry Archibald proved their ability in duet singing, their costumes very suitably lent a touch of the aristic to their appearance which was very audibly received.

The Presbyterian Church Quartette rendered a very pleasing number and the applause showed how much this quartette is appreciated in the community.

Mrs. Gray and Mr. Archibald both proved an immense addition to the programme and the manner in which they rendered their readings was so greatly appreciated that there is no doubt of their being looked for on such another occasion, while Mr. and Mrs. Archibald in their duet on Matrimonial Bliss proved very effectually not only their ability as entertainers but also a very instructive lesson on keeping peace in the home.

Miss Byrce in a solo and Messrs. Hugh Renwick and Wm. Drummond in two duets were as usual two of the attractions of the evening.

Mr. Barnes at the request of Mr. Archibald, spoke for a few minutes on the objects of the Boy Scout Association, and spoke of the work the Scouts are doing in Keene.

The Mock Trial by 15 of the ladies was very pleasantly carried on and proved not only the ability of the ladies to carry on in the work generally allotted to the men but also the ability of the ladies taking part to very beautifully and artistically prepare themselves in appearance and manner for their success on the stage.

The programme was as follows: Instrumental—Miss M. Renwick and Miss Knowles, recitation—Eilen Donaldson, song—Colin Cromrie and Harry Archibald, recitation—Mabel McIntyre, quartette—Presbyterian Church Quartette, reading—Mrs. Gray, duet—Mr. and Mrs. Archibald, recitation—Archie McFarlane, solo — Miss Byrce, duet—Messrs. Hugh Renwick and Wm. Drummond, reading—Mr. Archibald, Mock Trial—15 ladies.

LACROSSE DANCE A HUGE SUCCESS

Campbellford Club and Friends Enjoyed Happy Evening.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 7.—On Monday evening the Music Hall was the scene of a merry gathering, when the officers and members of the Campbellford Lacrosse Club held an informal dance. The hall was tastefully decorated with the colors of the local Club and presented a brilliant appearance. The music was supplied by a 5-piece orchestra, and refreshments were served about midnight. The guests included many out-of-town patrons, and the management wish to convey their hearty thanks to the people who helped to make the evening a success.

No Place Like Home

Thanksgiving Day in Campbellford seemed almost like an old boys re-union. Nearly everybody living within a reasonable distance arrived in time to help out with the turkey, goose, chicken or whatever was going. And perhaps the fact that the Lacrosse Club were giving a dance at the Music Hall in the evening may have had some little bearing on the exceptionally large number of visitors.

HORSE BOLTED AND DASHED INTO CAR

Took Fright From Unknown Cause—No One Injured.

This morning, at about 10.35, the delivery horse belonging to J. W. Edwards, butcher, 421 George Street, when standing in front of the store, took fright from some unknown cause, and bolted down George Street. Achilles Turner, who happened to be at the corner of George and Hunter Streets at the time, seized the horse's head and succeeded in heading it off to one side, where it dashed into a motor car standing at the curb in front of Cressman's stores, thus ending its flight. Fortunately, no one was hurt, and very little damage done to horse, wagon or car.

THE CAVAN FOLKS ARE MISINFORMED

Mark Twain Has Another Rival In Ernest Leith—Now Of Vancouver.

The Examiner has another instance on hand similar to the oft-quoted anecdote about Mark Twain, when he said the report of his death had been greatly exaggerated.

In last Wednesday's edition of the paper, under "Cavan" correspondence, we reported that the news had come to Cavan of the death of Mr. Ernest Leith, a former Cavan resident, now living in Vancouver.

Anxious inquiries from friends and relatives of the deceased elicited the information that Mr. Leith was alive and well, although he had recently undergone a serious operation.

Mr. Leith is naturally quite anxious that the untimely report of his demise should be contradicted.

Just say

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

ers from the beautiful Church of England burial service, commencing "I heard a voice."

Following the "Last Post," admirably played on the organ by Mr. R. J. Devey, came a period of silence in memory of the departed. The kneeling choir and congregation softly sang part of the hymn, "Nearer my God to Thee," thus concluding a most impressive memorial. At the presentation of alms, both morning and evening, the chorus of "O Canada" and the National Anthem were sung.

Although a great deal of harm is done by certain insects, practically no fruits could be formed without the blossom - pollinating aid of others and it is possible that they confer still other benefits of which science does not know.

ECZEMA

Hands Were Raw Would Crack and Bleed

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is commonly called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when exposed to heat, are almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.

The pre-eminent success which

has met with in permanently removing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

Mrs. M. R. Willard, Dudswell Jct., Que., writes: "For about three years I had eczema, in a very bad form, on my hands. They were all raw and would crack and bleed so that I could not do my housework. I tried everything I could think of without any results. At last I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and when I had it about all taken I could see it was helping me; by the time I had taken five bottles my hands were all well again and I have not been bothered since. I cannot praise Burdock Blood Bitters enough."

REPUBLICANS STRIVE TO HOLD TENNESSEE

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 7. — (Associated Press)—Tennessee is expected to pass on the administration of President Harding and the Republican Congress for the voters of the South when they go to the polls to-day. The Republicans are striving to hold the Volunteer state which they captured from the democratic "solid south" two years ago, and the democrats are trying just as hard to "redeem" it.

Governor A. A. Taylor, running for re-election on the republican ticket, and former Senator Newell Sanders, republican senatorial nominee, are heading the orators of the party in power. They are praising the administrations of President Harding and Governor Taylor and asking the voters for endorsement.

United States Senator K. D. McKellar, renominated by the democrats, Austin Peay, candidate for Governor, Cordell Hull, chairman of the national democratic executive committee, seeking his old seat in the fourth district which he lost in the landslide of 1920, and Finnis Garrett, candidate for re-election in the ninth district and minority leader in the lower house of Congress, are members of the vanguard of the democratic party in the onslaughts which they have launched against the national and state administrations of the republicans.

The Tennessee voters are hearing the tariff alternately praised and condemned, the acts of Congress, especially on taxation, given the same treatment, and each party blaming the other for many other things.

The democratic orators hold the republicans responsible for the discontinuance of the "flush" period that followed the war, while the republicans tell the voters that the last democratic administration was responsible.

The recent railroad and coal miners' strikes have come in for attention in some sections of the south, Attorney General Daugherty being criticized especially by some of the labor leaders for the Chicago injunction against the striking shop craft leaders. Republican leaders discount this charge and say the democratic governors in several of the states ordered out troops during the railroad shopmen's strike.

The Harding administration is the leading issue in the seventh and ninth Virginia Congressional districts, which probably are the second battle grounds of the south. C. Bascomb Slemp, who has represented the ninth Virginia district for some years, would not seek another term and the democrats think his retirement is the opportune time for them to capture his seat. They have put forward Geogre C. Peery, while the republicans have nominated J. H. Hassinger. In the seevnth district, where Thomas W. Harrison was unseated and John Paul, Republican, declared the winner, an equally hot contest is raging. Mr. Harrison is running for election and Mr. Paul is trying to retain his seat. The tariff and revenue legislation play an important part in the situation.

The republicans are also stressing the Harding administration in the seventh Alabama district, and the eighth, ninth and tenth North Carolina districts, which they are attempting to take from the democrats. The latter are just as vigorously attacking the official record of the President.

Republicans are putting forward candidates in a majority of the congressional districts of the south, but are centering their attention on the so called "doubtful" districts in Virginia, North Caroline, Alabama and Tennessee. The first and second Tennessee districts still are strongly republican; so much so in fact that democrats consider it a waste of time to campaign them.

United States Senators are to be elected in Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi, and Governors in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, in addition to Tennessee. Little interest is manifested in these races, for the democratic primaries already held, were considered equivalent to election.

ZAM-BUK MAMA!

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children — that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andresen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self meet with an accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor's bill."

Mrs. C. B. Ritcey of Riverport, N.S., writes: "My baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Even the Orient Now cleans teeth this new way

Do you know that careful people of some fifty nations are now brushing teeth in a new way? And largely by dental advice?

If you have not learned what that method means, make this test and see.

They combat film

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. It absorbs stains, then forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

It also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most tooth troubles are due to film. So are most cloudy teeth. Under old methods very few escaped them, for no ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat film.

New methods now

Dental science has long sought to solve the problem of that film. Two methods have been found. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now dentists the world over are advising their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

Fights acids, too

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus those two great natural tooth-protecting agents are given manifold power twice a day. Modern research proves those things essential.

You see new beauty everywhere

Now millions use this method. You see the results wherever you look, in shining teeth which give to people new beauty and new charm. Those whiter teeth mean cleaner, safer teeth. They mean to those people a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film coats disappear.

This test will be a revelation. Make it now. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Bates and Stacey Win Road Races--Quakers Won Gordon Cup

Quaker Oats Won Gordon Football Challenge Cup

SCORE WAS 2 TO 1.

The Quaker Oats Soccer Team won the Gordon Challenge Cup, emblematic of the Soccer Championship of Peterboro and District when they defeated the Canadian Woollens eleven 2 to 1 yesterday afternoon in the final game of the series. Drizzling rain continued throughout the whole 90 minutes of play which made the grounds unsuitable for good soccer but both teams provided their best. A good crowd, considering the weather, was present and both teams had many ardent supporters in the stands.

THE GAME.

There was no advantage in winning the toss. Both teams visited their opposition's goal in rotation, which brougth out the defence of Cridland and Perry who saved the situation time and again for Woollens. On a tackle on the left wing between J. Logan and Downe's, the latter beat along the line like a flash, crossed over to Gaskill who gave Griffin no chance whatever to save. After this reverse the Quakers played havoc with the Woollens defence. From a timely pass by R. Willshaw into the centre of goal, G. Logan had Williams beat with close tactics but unfortunately he hit the ball with his hand before scoring. A foul brought relief but Foster came back only to spoil a great opportunity through getting offside. Play was very slow for the rest of this half, with occasional flashes from each side. Mid-field play continued until half-time.—Canadian Woolens leading one goal.

Second Half.

After the interval, both teams seemed to have gained new vigour with the rest. James Willshaw went up into the front rank while Young dropped back to full back position. It was evident the Woollens noticed the change and made great attempts to increase the score but the Quakers players changed back into their regular positions, where Jas. Willshaw, and Honour played a great game. They always ran the Woollen players to the outside to prevent them from scoring. Many excellent tries by Chambers just missed the mark but he could not find the net. Without question, the Woollens were playing the better football in every department except the centre-forward position. With only 20 minutes to go, the Quakers rallied and a nice piece of combination, between G. Logan and R. Willshaw, resulted in a beautiful placed corner by R. Willshaw into centre of goal. In a scrimmage in the goal-mouth, George Logan put through to even up the score. Encouraged by their success, the Quakers got enthusiastic and well-known as great cup-tie fighters went right after the cup. With seven minutes to go, Foster and Croft, along with George Logan had the Woollen's defence in queer street up in the corner. Foster carried the ball into the corner, shot it back to the centre-forward, who being of miniature size against the Woollens big defence, left them bewildered by the uprising ball that went up into the net like a rocket from his right foot. From now on the Woollens tried hard to even up the score but were held out by the whole Quaker team that fell back to play the defence game that won them the Gordon Challenge Cup for the first time. Quaker Oats, 2 goals; Canadian Woollens, 1 goal.

CUP PRESENTED.

Great jubilation was shown by the Quakers supporters who made themselves heard after the second goal. George Logan, the centre-forward, was the hero of the day. He played a great game and his two goals were of the most opportune kind. Charles P. Lloyd, President of P. and D. F. A. made a few remarks then asked Alex. Kay, well-known Baseball umpire, to present the cup, in place of G. N. Gordon, who was absent through sickness. Mr. Kay made a few complimentary remarks in regard to sport, and then asked James Willshaw, Captain of Quaker Oats, to accept the trophy who paid a tribute to all the players for the sportsmanlike manner the game was played.

The players were: Woollens; Williams, Cridland, Perry, Reed, Monkman, Roberts, Rappe, Gaskill, Shuttle, Chambers and Downes.

Quakers: Griffin, Honour, James Willshaw, Hepburn, Young, T. Logan, Robt. Willshaw, Russell, George Logan, Croft and Foster.

GROVE OLD BOYS MET WITH DEFEAT.

LAKEFIELD, November 7. — The Grove first team defeated the Grove Old Boys 22 to 18 in a football game yesterday morning. Many of the Old Boys were back for the holiday, and the match was easily arranged.

The game started at 11 o'clock with the Grove team playing on the up slope, the Old Boys taking the kick. Grey received the ball on the kick-off, and ran it up to the quarter-line. Grove then carried it over for a touch in three downs. They scored again after some broken play, but failed to convert either play.

A show of strength on the part of the Old Boys, with some good bucking plays, carried the ball down the field for two touches, both of which were converted, giving the Old Boys a lead of 12 to 10.

In two extra ten-minute periods the Grove team scored twice, and converted both times, giving them a good lead of 22 to 12.

In the last period the Old Boys scored once again, and again converted, giving a final score of 22 to 18 in favour of the Grove team.

RACE HORSE SET A NEW TRACK RECORD.

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Radio, owned by Will Perkins, negro horseman and plioted by Jockey H. Thurber, won the Latonia Cup event at Latonia Saturday, established a new United States record, and clipped three-fifths of a second from the track record for the distance by running the two and one quarter miles in 3:49 flat.

Rockminster, coupled with Rouleau as the Montfort Jones entry, was second, and Mose Goldblatt's Cherry Tree, third; Rouleau, Blarney Stone and Firebrand, the other starters, finished in the order named.

The race, which featured the closing program of a 31-day meeting at Latonia, carried an added value of $7,500, $800 of which went to the second horse and $400 to the third.

MILLIONS ATTEND ENGLISH FOOTBALL

London Teams Won But One Game Saturday — 54,000 Attend Newcastle-Sunderland Game.

LONDON, November 7 (Canadian Press). — The extent of unemployment in Great Britain can hardly be gauged from the attendance at football matches. Saturday's first-class league matches attracted well over a million spectators, the Newcastle-Sunderland match heading the list with 54,000.

The feature of the day's play was the appalling fate of the Londoners, six teams losing, four drawing, and Brentford alone winning.

It is often said that the Metropolitan environment disagrees with the professional footballer, but the Southerners' doleful plight so far this season can scarcely be attributed solely to that. The season is sufficiently advanced to suggest that the prospect of success for the Southerners in either of the first two divisions is by no means good. Liverpool, Sunderland, Middlesbro, and Burnley stand out as the most convincing sides of the first division, but the Midlands can derive satisfaction from the state of affairs in the second division where Notts County and Leicester City are putting up a keen struggle for the leadership.

Burnley's score of 8 was a record for the season, but the score did not exaggerate their superiority.

High tension prevailed among the huge crowd on the frost-bound ground at Newcastle owing to the evenness and balance of the two sides. The deciding goal was secured by Aiken from a corner.

Nothwithstanding the presence of five International players on each side, the Tottenham-Liverpool game was dull except in the last half-hour, when the goals were scored.

QUEENS' DISPOSED OF RED & WHITE

McGill's Only Show of Strength Came in the Last Few Minutes and Netted Nine Points.

KINGSTON, Ont., November 7 (Canadian Press). — Queen's disposed of McGill on Saturday afternoon at the Richardson Stadium by the score of 20 to 10, showing superiority in all departments, though in the final few minutes McGill scored 9 points and looked extremely dangerous.

It was, however, when both Batstone and Leadley were out of the game, that the red and white uncorked their rally, and for a few minutes made things look glum for the tri-colour.

The wonderful work of Queen's wings, the line plunging of McKelvey, the work of the half-backs, and the sterling generalship of Evans brought victory to the tri-colour.

Queen's were without Dave Harding, but Campbell nicely took his place on the half-line, with Mundell filling in at ying wing.

"Bud" Thomas and "Liz" Walker gave a wonderful exhibition of tackling, and the way they got down under every kick was a treat.

McKelvey time after time tore holes in the McGill line, while on the other hand the failure of the red and white to work through Queen's line spelled defeat for them.

Carroll was the bright start of the McGill team. He played a grand game until injured. He handled practically every kick, and with Ambridge and Baillie, was the only one to show any success through the Queen's line.

ROAD RACES WERE WON BY BATES AND STACEY

Annual Thanksgiving Day Sport Classic Drew Some Good Runners in Both the Senior and Junior Events—Winners Made Good Time Over Bad Roads.

Dick Bates romped home a winner in the senior section of the Examiner Road Race yesterday, while Stan Stacey for the second time carried off the honours in the Junior event.

Bates completed the ten-mile course in 1 hour 2 minutes 42 seconds, which when the conditions under which the race was run, are considered was exceptionally good time. He finished strongly and fresh, coming up to the finishing mark with a burst of speed that showed he had plenty of energy left for a final sprint if his competitors had crowded him closely at the end.

J. Ward who took second place, also finished strong. His time was 1 hour, 3 minutes, 32 seconds.

Third and fourth places were taken by G. N. Grose and R. J. Miller who covered the course in 1 hour, 5 minutes, 7 seconds and 1 hour, 6 minutes, 7 seconds respectively.

The four prize-winners ran a closely contested race from start to finish, being separated by a few yards for practically the whole distance. In fact, the fourth man was but a few yards from the leader when they rounded the half way mark.

When the leading four reached the city limits and entered Charlotte street on the return journey they were all grouped within ten or fifteen ayrds. It was at this point that Bates, showing the great reserve of strength he had to draw on, steadily pulled away from the others and by the time he turned the corner to start up George Street had taken a commanding lead and crossed the line two and a half minutes ahead of the fourth man.

The Junior Race.

In the Junior event, the leading four were well bunched from start to finish. In fact, but twenty-two seconds separated the first and fourth man as they crossed the line.

Stacey was forced to extend himself to the very last and crossed the line just ten seconds ahead of Lorne Combe while John Holland came in five seconds later and Jack Thornton was another seven seconds to complete the distance and took fourth place.

Stacey's time was 31 minutes, 40 seconds, which was exceptionally good for five miles over muddy roads in yesterday's weather.

Reaching the half-way mark, Stacey, Holland, Thornton and Combe were bunched. There was no sign of a sprint in making the turn. All four runners were going strong. Thirty seconds later Cross, Woods and Walsh arrived, also bunched, and showing no sign of tiring. Manning was the eighth runner to start for home. Whitlow was the only entry to make the distance, one minute and 15 seconds behind Manning. The tall youth wore his usual smile and did not appear to be worrying over his position in the race.

Four other Juniors finished in the following order: W. R. Woods, Wilham Walsh, G. Manning and J. Cross. Two other starters did not complete the course.

Both races were started well on time, the Juniors getting away at 10:10 and the seniors at 10:35. A Scotch mist which prevailed at the time made the day both wet and cold, so the runners were kept in the Y. M. C. A. till the last minute. When everything was ready they were brought out and started off without being allowed to stand around in the cold.

Ten runners of the fourteen entered started in the Junior race and eight got away in the senior. In the latter event twelve names were received but four failed to show up.

In each case the start was timed as well as possible to escape any traffic congestions at the corner of Charlotte and George Streets and no trouble was experienced from this source. At the finish of each race, however, the runners were hampered to a certain extent by the fact that the many spectators crowded off the sidewalks into the streets almost completely blocking the roadway despite the heroic efforts of the police to keep it clear. An attempt was made to rope off the street for the finish of the senior race but the crowd swarmed over the ropes and blocked the roadway almost completely.

Senior Race.

With Ward, Bates, Miller and Grose in close company at the end of the five miles, it looked to be anybody's race. The quartette were in good shape after the hard grind up the hills, and a battle with a cold wind and rain. All four lined up to do the turn where Bert Cranfield stood to give directions.

Champion and St. Clair made the turn one minute later, running in company. They were also standing up well, Mayette arrived alone, five minutes after Champion and St. Clair, and he decided he had had enough. Mayette was the last runner to do the distance.

By virtue of winning the senior event, Bates wins the large dinner-set presented by the Examiner and also wins possession of the Examiner Shield for one year. The shield will be presented in the near future.

The officials in charge of the race were:

Starter, George Roper.

Judges:—Walter Jackson, P. Cranfield.

Clerks of the course:—Senior race R. M. Glover, Fred Craig; Junior race:—Alex. Kay, James McMartin and J. Solomon.

Point Men—Charles Curtis, Cranfield.

RUBE MARSHALL A BIT ECCENTRIC

Wichita Falls of the Texas League boasts of a hurler named Rube Marshall, one time with the Ottawa Canadian League team. Rube is a bit eccentric, as can be gathered from his nickname, and occasionally springs a mild sensation.

Once he went to bat with an alarm clock to his belt. Naturally the umpire, who spotted it first, was a bit curious.

"What's the big idea, Rube?" he inquired, pointing to the clock. "Why the ticker?"

"I've been batting so punk of late I thought I'd bring it along and time my hits," replied the pitcher.

Marshall was engaged in a game against Shreveport. He scored a run himself and was behind, 3 to 1, in the fifth inning. Shreveport hammered him out of the box in the sixth, sending seven counters across the plate.

He was removed, of course, and the final tally was something like 12 to 1. When the last man was retired Rube leaped from the bench and ran out to the score board.

Reaching up, he yanked down the figure 1, which indicated the number of runs scored by Witchita Falls. He carried it into the club house and deposited it in his locker.

"What are you going to do with it, Rube?" asked a mate.

"Keep it for a souvenir," he replied.

"The Bluebird Passes"

In all the fulness of its charm, the "Bluebird" joined the departing migrants last night in a farewell flash of colour and burst of song, leaving with its admirers pleasant memories of its lyric message of gladness.

One of the most gratifying impressions it must have left with the large Thanksgiving Day audience at the Grand was the uniform excellence of this "Made in Peterborough" production, which has won for Mr. Asa Huycke, its composer, an enviable success in his own city, and deserves the broader recognition which it would surely receive if conditions permitted its transportation and presentation elsewhere.

In the twenty-four musical numbers there isn't a dull or blurry bar. That alone is real achievement which is appreciated not only by musicians, but by any intelligent and experienced theatre-goer. And this accomplishment is heightened by the diversity of moods and themes employed, the haunting tunefulness of the lighter melodies, the splendid harmonies of the choruses and other concerted numbers, the authoritative manner of the recitatives and arias, and the striking imitative effects as for example in Mr. Huycke's bass olo, "Old Mother Sea." The music of the "Bluebird" can easily stand alone upon its genuine merit. It may be further observed that Mr. Huycke's resources of musical ideas enabled him to avoid repetitions, and, as pointed out in previous comments, the score is altogether original with the possible exception of one passage which suggests the influence of an old and classic chorus. In its music, apart from other contributing elements, "The Message of the Bluebird" bearing the stamp "Made in Peterborough" is a credit to this city. It represents a new stage in Mr. Huycke's career which his friends hope may be only an incentive to further endeavour and a step and guide to greater success.

The "Bluebird" is replete with song hits, the lilting, whistlable kind that linger in the memory and are otherwise classed as popular. Mr. Huycke might easily have exploited the waltz chorus of "The Legend of the Bluebird" which the average musical "road show" would be lucky to have in its score. Another decidedly catchy refrain was "For I Can Smile Divinely" and "It's Getting Quite Old Fashioned" is a veritable hit. "Sweetheart I Have Come to Tell You" is a beautiful number. It is a duet sung by Mrs. Perrin and Mr. Huycke. "The Evolution of the Fox Trot" is a clever idea, tuneful and wholesome, and was delightfully sung and danced by Mrs. Park, Mrs. Perrin and Miss Sanderson. The Sextette is the big number of the production, with an enchanting melody and glorious harmonies that sustain the dignity of the theme.

Last night's production was marked by a smoothness and finish worthy of professionals enhanced by the freshness and sparkle that characterize the work of amateurs. There wasn't a weak spot in the caste, nor any marring delay or hitch in the movement. Not only was the action at its best, but also the singing with the honours nicely and harmoniously distributed. The principals gave a performance that brought everything in the libretto and did justice to the music. Mr. Huycke, Mrs. Perrin, Mrs. Park, Miss Ida Sanderson, Mr. Picard, Miss Greta Lebarr, Mr. Everitt, Dr. Graham, Mr. Legendre, Mr. R. A. Brown, Dr. L. J. Graham, Mr. Perry and the others of the caste comprised an exceedingly well balanced company, and it is regrettable that their disbandment will no doubt follow the final presentation. Most of them have pronounced talent and also the ability that is gained by experience. The chorus was always welcome and might have been used more often, and the assistance of the orchestra under Mr. Renwick's direction was a big factor in the general success. Incidentally a word of commendation is due the house electrician, Mr. Tom Stenton, who operated the foot and stage lights and Mr. Jack Cook at the gallery "spot."

OXFORD CONSIDERING COURSES FOR MIDDLE AGED STUDENTS.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(A. P. Mail for Ams., Nov. 7).—Jolly old chappies of four-score years and ten, frolicing on the Oxford playing fields, and doddering septuagenarians lolling in cushioned punts on the upper reaches of the Thames, may become realities if the plan for the entry of the old as well as the young to the famous English university is carried out.

The suggestion is that a college be established for adults, as Ruskin College was established for the education of men from trades unions. Such a college, it is pointed out, would be a haven of refuge for extramural activities of the university, and would enable many adults to carry on studies which they started under the extension course idea and which they have been unable to complete.

RUSSIAN OPERA COMPANY WILL NOT PLAY HERE

Owing to the indisposition of one of the star performers in the Russion Grand Opera Company, which was to have played here to-night, the local engagement has been canceller. Manager W. P. Phillips, of the Grand Opera House, received word to that effect this morning.

At The Theatres

The first of the vaudeville offerings for this season at the Capitol Theatre made a distinct hit with large holiday crowds yesterday. "The Five Magpies" are a quintette of colored musicians who know how to sing and play, and whose numbers were greeted with enthusiastic applause. They sing in the real negro minstrel manner, play the banjo and the saxaphone in solo and duet, and there is a particularly clever variation in the cornet work and imitations of one of the dusky players, who have a variety of popular musical nevelties.

Mae Murray has a Spanish background for her feature picture of "Fascination." As the half-Spanish daughter of an old world don, she goes through a series of spectacular scenes, in New York and in Madrid, where a real bull fight is staged, and where she becomes involved in an intrigue with a real toreador, a hot-blooded product of the sawdust ring. The actress' dancing art is called into play in her solo dance, which mimics the bull fight, and there is a wonderful storm scene near the finale of a picture of color and warmth.

Harold Lloyd is good in a short comedy, "Look Pleasant, Please."

AT THE GRAND. "CHU CHIN CHOW"

After three years of preliminary announcements lauding "Chu Chin Chow" to the skies, that famous musical extravaganza of the Orient will be presented by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest at the Grand for 3 performances on November 10 and 11.

This big London and New York musical success is a story of Ancient Bagdad, written by Oscar Asche, with music by Frederick Norton, and was staged in America by E. Lytall Swete. "Chu Chin Chow" ran five years in London, and comes here with the record of an entire season at the Manhattan Opera House and the Centruy Theatre, New York, with a second engagement at the Century Theatre. The absolutely metropolitan cast and complete production will be seen here, while the scenery and costumes, all made in London, are exact duplicates of the originals used at His Majesty's Theatre in London.

The cast includes Lionel Braham as Chu; Miss Virginia Howell as Zahart, the desert woman; Albert Fromm as Abdullah, the steward; Lorraine Weiner as the fortune teller, Don W. Berrandou as the merry Ali Baba; Maud Files as Nur-al-Hudal; Hannah Taback as Marpanah, the singing girl; Charles Jones as the cobbler; Louis Le Vie as Kasin Baba, the miser; Maud Files as Mabubah; Adelaide Mesmer as Alcolom the wife of Kasim Baba; Hattie Garmontell as the slave buyer, and many others, including a ballet of 60 dancers.

The story is based upon one of the Arabian Nights, and deals with the entry into Bagdad of Chu Chin Chow, a notorious robber chief disguised as a Chinese Mandarin. The slave girl Zahrat-al-Kulub, exposes him and fools his scheming. Meanwhile, there are many songs and dances, many picturesque scenes, 18 musical numbers, 4 ballets and a host of other entertaining features. The slave market scene in particular is a brilliant and colorful pagent.

Judging by its remarkable success elsewhere, "Chu Chin Chow" will be the sensation of the year in this city.

AT THE ROYAL. WILLIAM FARNUM IN HENRI BERNSTEIN'S GREATEST PLAY.

Old-time society folk rub shoulders with the newly rich in William Farnum's latest William Fox picture, "Shackles of Gold," which is being shown at the Royal Theatre to-day and to-morrow.

The play is based on Henri Bernstein's great stage success "Samson," which, as all followers of the stage know, was a strong, thrilling play. In the screen version, under the able direction of Herbert Brenon, William Farnum is declared to have achieved another notable success.

He begins as a dock laborer, rises to great wealth by shrewd speculation in oil, and marries a girl who consents to become his wife merely because her parents need Farnum's wealth to maintain their social position. She scorns Farnum and his love. He bears his position patiently until he learns she has gone to a cabaret with another man.

Then come the deadly wrath and the big thrills. Farnum breaks the market to ruin the man who had tempted his wife. He breaks the man and—himself. But through the strange workings of the human mind he wins the very thing he thought impossible—the love of his wife.

"Samson" was a strong play. William Farnum is said to make it even stronger and more thrilling.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR ACID STOMACH

Quickly Neutralizes Acidity. Stops Fermentation, Sweetens the Stomach

Nine people in ten, when food upsets the stomach causing distress, think they have indigestion. In realiy, they are suffering from "acid stomach.' An excess of acid in the stomach causes gas, heartburn, bloating and sourness.

To have a strong healthy stomach capable of easily and normally digesting three hearty meals a day you simply must keep these stomach acids neutralized and the stomach contents sweet. No artificial digestents necessary. Just ge a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any good drug store and take a teaspoonful of the powder or two tablets in a half glass of water right after eating or whenever the slightest pain is felt. The result is amazing and you will be delighed with the almost instant relief it brings. This famous stomach sweetner combines Magnesia and Bismuth in desirable proportion and is not only splendidly effective but perfectly harmless. Its regular use keeps the stomach sweet strong and healthy all the time.

Bisurated Magnesia is well known to druggists everywhere and is used annually by more than a half million people who now eat as they please, in reason with no fear of indigestion.

These Tanol Calomel Tablets are wonderfully invigorating, with no bad after-effects, and no salts, seidlitz are necessary to remove it from the system as they are self-eliminating. THE ELECTION RESULTS SHOW DEMOCRAT WIN

A LARGE VOTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—At noon to-day twenty-five States had completed their Congressional election returns, but neither Republicans nor Democrats had progressed much toward control of the House of Representatives. The vote at that hour stood: Democrats 187, Republicans 185, Socialist 1. The majority needed to control is 218. Iowa was the only State which has returned a solid Republican delegation.

Changes in Senate Seats.

Returns to-day supplementing those of last night, showed that Republican Senate seats from Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Michigan and West Virginia, apparently had been captured by Democrats and that Republicans had captured Senate seats held by the Democrats from Nebraska and Ohio.

Tabulation of Vote.

The Associated Press tabulation of the vote for the House of Representatives showed at 8.30 o'clock this morning: Democrats 178, Republicans 171, Socialist 1, only twenty States being then complete. Two hundred and eighteen members are required for a majority.

Belleville Is Credited With Developing Another Industry

Hamilton Inspectors Say Belleville Is The Source Of Illicit Liquor Traffic—One Man Caught and Fined

HAMILTON, November 8 (Canadian Press). — Belleville is the source of some of the illicit liquor coming into Hamilton, according to the discovery made by the officers of the License Department on 4th November, when they raided the restaurant run by David Little.

When Dave pleaded guilty to having liquor in an illegal place this morning, he was given the minimum sentence on the second offence—two months in jail, and a fine of $200.00, or an additional three months.

"Your Worship," said Mr. Connor, "this whisky left distilleries at Belleville this year, and we would like to know how Little and others in Hamilton secure it."

"I got it from a man who brought it from Buffalo," Little said.

TORN BY GRIEF AND YET HAPPY

Tamaki Muira, Prima Donna, Finds Only Joy In Her Audiences.

NEW YORK, Nov .8.—She says she is the happiest woman in the world and then tells a story of grief and domestic trouble that would give another woman cause for perpetual self-pity.

In her native land she is socially ostracised. Her family has witnessed her world-wide success without enthusiasm. Her husband's family bitterly condemns her. Her husband, whom she left in Tokio, made an unsuccessful attempt to prevent her from continuing her stage career.

Speaking slowly, as if fumbling over a pile of unfamiliar nouns and verbs, Mme. Tamaki Miuri, Japanese prima donna, told how she struggled through the unhappiness of an opposition undreamed of by an American girl until she could truthfully say, "I am the happiest woman in Japan, in the whole Orient, in the wide world."

Sets Precedent.

Mme. Miura's struggle gives Japanese women a precedent. By shattering the traditions that it is a disgrace for a woman to sing anywhere except in her own home and for a husband's entertainment, she has opened a new future for her countrywomen.

"When I sing in the United States, in Europe, in South America—there is a fresh happiness—something I feel when I see my audiences. If I do not have this happiness, I die. I cannot have this happiness if I stay in Japan and there sing only in my own house.

She cupped her two small hands.

"It is in this they wanted to put me. Shut up in a little box. My husband and my husband's family all say it is a dishonor to sing before the audiences. I must come back to Tokio, they tell me. But you know, I can't! I really can't."

Married 10 Years.

Mme. Miura has been married for 10 years, her marriage taking place two years before she made her debut in London at the farewell concert of Adelina Patti in 1914.

"What about your husband?"

"He has been very difficult. He knows how I love to sing and I told him I would come back to Japan every year. But he listens to his mother and father who believe it is a dishonor to be on the stage and so he wants me to stay at home.

"But when I made my debut I knew I could never live without the happiness of singing before an audience. That night in London I sang before the king and queen. First I sang from Rigoletto and then two Japanese songs. Mme. Patti kissed me after the concert.

"It was the first kiss I had ever received in my life. We do not kiss in Japan. My husband would be angry if I tried to kiss him.

"My mind is changing from Japanese to America. I like to live in America but"—she placed her hand over her heart—"I can't go back to Tokio. It would kill me to do without my one great joy in life—my happiness in singing before my audiences."

"PROHIBITION IS ALL WRONG" DECLARES LOU

One Time Admirer of Geraldine Farrar is Mum on his Domestic Life.

LONDON, Nov. 8 — (Canadian Press.)—New Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, is going to the United States before the first of the New Year to conduct war debt funding negotiations in place of Sir Robt. Horne, who was forced to forego the trip because of the change in government, it was announced by Foreign Secretary Curzon to-day.

Will Not Send The Toronto Hydro Rail Question To People

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—After a warm debate, the City Council shortly after midnight defeated Alderman Risk's moiton to submit the question of the waterfront entrance for Hydro radials to the electors at the netx municipman Risk's motion to submit teen to ten.

The composite argument in favour of sending the question to the people was that the former vote in 1916 was on a less ambitious project, entailing less expenditure. It was also contended that the Drury government would not validate an agreement without consent of the people.

The argument against sending it to the people was that the people had voted on four different occasions in favour of bringing radials into the city and in favour of providing these radials with an entrance into the heart of the city.

THE COWPUNCHERS TAKE BACK SEATS

Welcome Now Goes to the Automobile Tourists In The West.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—"The desert ain't what it used to be," wail the cowpunchers.

Formerly when a "cow poke" came to town in company with one or two congenial souls, he found himself welcomed as the prodigal son. He had the freedom of the place, at least until he spent his money.

Now it's different. All along the Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada deserts the tourist has first call.

The cafes and hotels which formerly credited the cowboy as their best cutomer now spruce themselves up for the auto-tourist.

Summer and winter the auto pilgrims to the Pacific Coast swarm the roads crossing the "Great American Desert." No longer is the trip considered even a hardship. The series in question have constructed excellent roads for transcontinental travel — and many of the tourists are now reporting that the worst part of the trip is between the Mississippi River and the Rockies, instead of from the Rockies west.

It is a poor day indeed when a dozen tourists, coming or going from the Pacific Coast, do not roll into each small town on the desert, dust-covered, with their luggage piled into the back seat and along the running boards, and the dog crowded on somewhere barking gleefully at the sight of a town.

CLOSE ESTIMATES.

Surprising Results in the Contest During P. S. White Co. Ten Days' Sale.

A bag of granulated sugar, ten pounds of butter, and three pounds of good tea to be given away free, created considerable interest at the Porter S. White Co., store during the past ten days. The attractive prizes were offered to the customers who made the closest estimates of the number of parcels the store would deliver in the ten days of their special sale of groceries and feed. The actual number of parcels taken from the store to Peterboro homes, by their own deliverey outfit, by careful record was 4721. How the people who won managed to estimate so closely is a wonder, for the lady to whom the bag of sugar was awarded had made an exact estimate, and one of her tickets contained the correct figure of 4721. The winner of the second prize of ten pounds of butter also proved herself a good calculator for her figure was 4720, just one short of being correct. The third closest was itself no mean attempt for it was within seven of being right and secures the three pounds of tea. The winners are Mrs. S. Cottingham, 430 Donegal street, 4721; Mrs. J. T. C. Lang, 629 Rubidge street, 4720; and Mrs. W. A. Richardson, 299 Frederick Ave, 4728.

THE BAPTISTS HEAR REPORTS THE MEETINGS

OFFICERS ELECTED

The forty-sixth annual convention of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of Ontario West opened this morning in Murray Street Church, with some one hundred and twenty-five delegates present.

Yesterday afternoon Mission Band and Directors' Conferences were led by Mrs. N. Mills, of London, and Mrs. D. C. Jones, of Toronto, respectively, with a prayer meeting in the evening of both Home and Foreign Mission Boards, led by Miss Kate McLaurin, a missionary home on furlough from Avanigadda, India.

To-day is Foreign Mission Day. The morning session was presided over by Mrs. Albert Matthews, of Toronto, president of the Foreign Mission Board. At 9.30 devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Thomas Urquhart and Mrs. W. R. Henderson, of Toronto.

Mrs. W. D. Scott, president of the local Missionary Circle, welcomed the delegates to Peterborough in a delightful manner. She reminded the guests that it was twenty-seven years since this convention had met in Murray Street Church, and referred to the pleasure of the local committee in their splendid church building in which they could entertain their visitors. Mrs. Scott also referred to the missionaries connected with this church, Rev. A. S. and Mrs. Haddow, of Bolivia; Miss Abbie Garbutt, in Saskatoon, and Miss Janet Robinson, on furlough from India.

Annual Reports.

Annual reports were then presented and received. Mrs. F. H. Bigwood, of Toronto, reported the work of the Foreign Mission Board for the year; the report of the treasurer, Mrs. G. Campbell, of Toronto, who was absent, was read by Mrs. T. F. Matthews, of Toronto, showing a gratifying balance on hand of $5,113.01. The year's receipts were $29,539.40, disbursements $27,729.52. This was recorded as the best financial report made in thirteen years, with all bills paid, investments made in Dominion of Canada bonds, and a deficit reported last year of $2,000 made up.

Mrs. Bigwood's report contained a special mention of two young women sent out as new missionaries to India, Miss Grace Kenyon, B.A., and Miss Pearl Scott. The latter's passage was paid for by special gifts from the Young Women's Mission Circles.

The reports of the committees in charge of the various departments of Publication and Literature, and also those of the Directors of Associations, showed progress in almost every instance. The former were read by Mrs. E. J. Zavitz, Miss Edith Dale and Mrs. J. C. Doherty, of Toronto. Mrs. Zavitz referred to the question of combining "The Link" and "The Visitor" into one publication, which had again come up, with its rejection once more on the same grounds as formerly advanced, that it would interfere with the work of home missions, the freedom of both publications would be destroyed, and possibilities for friction established.

Mission Homes.

Mrs. C. Senior, of Toronto, reported on the Mission Homes and Muskoka bungalow, referring to letters received regarding the pleasure afforded missionaries who used the Muskoka rest cottage at Stephen's Bay, and reading from a letter written by Miss Pearl Scott, of Bobcaygeon, after a pleasant visit spent there by her.

Mrs. Senior reported that the two Mission Homes in Toronto on Ellsworth Avenue were now for sale, with their contents, as the building of car barns in their vicinity by the Street Railway Company had destroyed their possibilities of restful comfort for the missionaries who occupied them when home on furlough.

Mrs. C. W. Dengate, of Toronto, reported on Foreign Mission Boxes, giving some pithy instructions for their betterment. Mrs. Dengate reported the rate on these from their point of departure to the Cocannada Homes as ten cents per pound, a very reasonable cost.

Read Reports.

Mrs. H. H. Lloyd, of Toronto, secretary of Directors for Foreign Work, presided during the reading of their reports, which were given by the following: For Collingwood Association, Mrs. W. C. Dennis, of Bracebridge; Elgin, Miss Annie Crane, of Aylmer; Guelph, Miss I. S. McAlpine, of Hespeler; Middlesex and Lambton, Mrs. Baldwin, London; Norfolk, Mrs. Geo. Pearce, of Waterford; Northern Association, prepared by Mrs. Norman Phelps, of North Bay, read by Mrs. Lloyd; Owen Sound, Mrs. C. P. Day, of Leith; Oxford-Brant, prepared by Miss Jennie Whiting, of Brantford, read by Mrs. N. Mills, of London; Thunder Bay, Mrs. F. E. Wood, Fort William; Toronto, Mrs. Crosby, Regal Road, Walkerton, prepared by

Abductor Enters Marquette Prison

"I Ask No Sympathy" He Tells Warden.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 8.—"I am sorry for the girl. I have no excuse to offer for my crime, and I ask no sympathy, but am ready to take my punishment. I had been drinking moonshine when I did it, but that makes no difference. I pleaded guilty."

With this statement to Warden James P. Corgan in the Marquette Branch Prison here, Raymond E. Wilson, confessed abductor of 12-year-old Rosalie Shanty ,was locked in a cell to begin his sentence of 35 to 40 years.

Wilson was brought here, handcuffed, by two deputy sheriffs. As he stepped from the train in front of the prison and walked up the road leading to the administration building, his face was pale, his shoulders drooped a little, and he moved rather slowly. He said nothing as he approached the walled institution which may be his home for the rest of his life.

"I will get along the best I can here," he said.

MET HIS DEATH IN RAIL YARD

Conductor W. Barnett Instantly Killed When Van Toppled Over.

SMITHS FALLS, Ont., Nov. 8.—(Canadan Press.)—Wm. Barnett, C. P.R. freight conductor, aged about 40 years, Havelock, Ont., was instantly killed in the railway yards here this morning, when the van of his train overturned following a collision with another freight.

It is understood that Barnett's train was slowly entering the yards when another freight, coming up behind, crashed into the van, derailing it. Visibility was poor owing to a heavy mist.

Barnett was not hurt at the time of the smash, which did little damamge beyond derailing the van. But he went back into the overturned van to secure some papers, and while in it, the car toppled completely over and rolled down an embankment, crushing the conductor and killing him instantly.

Coroner McAllum opened an inquest immediately after the fatality.

HON. W. C. KENNEDY IS STILL ON THE MEND.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8, Canadian Press —For the first time in many weeks Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways and Canals, was able to establish telephonic communications with his office in the west block this morning.

Mr. Kennedy is still in the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, where he is convalescing after two serious operations. The Minister is now able to sit up in a wheel chair, it was stated, and is making good progress toward recovery. It was while in his wheel chair that he telephoned his secretary in Ottawa.

STREET CAR COLLIDED WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

This morning a touring car was struck by the Charlotte street car, at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte, about 9.30. The automobile was going south on Aylmer street when struck by the street car going east. The only occupants of the automobile were two men, one of whom was slightly injured, but the car, which belonged to Roderick Grant, 417 Water street, had the right mud guard and the rear right wheel broken.

WREATHS INCREASE THE POPPY RECEIPTS

At the meeting of the local Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association last evening it was announced that in addition to the money collected from the sale of poppies on the streets and already, reported $58.75 was received from the sale of wreaths. This brings the total of the money collected by the veterans on Saturday to $1,325.13. It was also announced that the expenses for the day amounted to a little over $500 so the Veterans were able to turn almost $800 into the treasury to be used in aiding ex-soldiers and their dependants during the coming winter.

A motion was put before the meeting and unanimously carried extending the heartiest thanks and appreciation of the association to the workers, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the young ladies of the city, The Grafton Company and all others who contributed to make the day such an unqualified success.

Among other business of the meeting two applicants for membership were received and accepted by the members present.

It was also announced that on Saturday a social evening with dancing and cards will be held for the members of the Association, their wives, families and friends.

PLAYING FIELD FAVOURED BY THE ROTARIANS

Discuss Question As Best Use of City's Property South of New Bridge.

TODAY LUNCHEON

The conversion into a recreation ground of the property between Riverside Park and Hunter street Bridge which was purchased by the city sometime ago, formed the subject of a most interesting discussion at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club, as a consequence of which the directors have been instructed to draft a resolution making concrete recommendations to the City Council as to Rotary's ideas as to the best use of this property.

The discussion was precipitated by Rotarian Ald. Jas. Hamilton who remarked that the providing of playgrounds was a matter that was directly in line with Rotary's aims and objects. He suggested that the club should make some suggestions to the council as to what should be done with this property.

Rotarian R. M. Glover declared that everybody with whom he had discussed the matter was in favour of this ground being converted into a playing field for the citizens of Peterboro. It would be possible to have a miniature baseball diamond for the youngsters tennis courts, bowling greens and other facilities for sport and a very attractive appearance could be given the property at the same time.

"Peterboro is well provided with sitting parks," remarked Rotarian Glover. "What is needed, however, is more a playing park."

Rotarian V. J. McElderry concurred in this opinion and pointed out that with little difficulty the property could be converted into a playing field. He suggested that hard ball courts might be included in the list of sports provided for.:

Rotarian Leon Frazer submitted plans for the development of this area as prepared by the City Planning Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. He was of the opinion that the gravel pit would very easily be turned into a children's play ground. However, any changes decided upon he thought should be made with a view of having them form part of a general development scheme for this property.

On motion the matter was referred to the directors who will bring down a resolution at the next meeting. Among the guests to-day were Rev. Dr. Young father of Rotarian Rev. Harold Young and Mr. Maurice Park. The latter was heard to great advantage in two most enjoyable vocal numbers and was given an enthusiastic reception.

President John Crane was in the chair.

TURKS MENACE WORLD'S PEACE

Their Protestation Without Justification and an Afront To Allies.

LONDON, Nov. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Foreign Secretary Curzon, in an address to-day declared that the position in the Near East at this moment "constitues most a definite menace to the peace of the world". He asserted that Turkish protestations were without justification and could not be tolerated. There is only one way whereby you can make peace," he said "and that is by an absolutely harmonious action by the principal powers".

"In the last 24 hours, however, events have dealt rather a rude shock to the expectations of the Allies from the Mudania conference and the forthcoming conference at Lausanne. The policy of the Turks is one of Nationalism gone wild, and is almost suicidal in character."

"The pretentions of the Turks can not be tolerated. They have no conceivable justification. They are an affront to the Allies and a challenge to Europe." There is absolute accord between the Allied generals and the High Commissioners on the spot. "Turkey must learn that there is a limit to concessions which we are willing to make her. We cannot purchase peace at the cost of humiliation and disgrace."

"Turkey must learn that the strength of Great Britain and might of Europe are a rock against which she will hurl herself in vain."

Lord Curzon said recent Turkish action was a complete answer to the largely fictitious agitation among among Indian Moslems representing this country as hostile to Islam. The Turks had themselves done very things Great Britain was represented as aiming at.

Reparations Question

"If we are returned to power", he added, referring to the coming Parliamentary elections, "I shall wish to take up the questions of reparations in the Near East and at Tangier.

"I shan't be a party to evasion by Germany of any just obligations, I won't save her at the expense of our (old ally France), but I will try to be fair between the two. I am hopeful we shall be able to arrive at a conclusion by peaceful means.

"Our friendship with America is tradition and the principle of British policy. We shall pay our debt to America. We are paying it, and great substantial payment will be made this month."

With regard to the League of Nations the Foreign Secretary said, "I am not one of those who regard the League as merely a great concep tion, too abstract, too ideal or too good for this wicked world. I regard it as a practical body and a useful instrument for settling certain international disputes."

Cabinet to Meet

A special cabinet meeting was called this afternoon to consider the Near Eastern crisis. General Earl of Cavan, chief of the Imperial General Staff, was obliged to cancel a previous engagement under his summons to attend meeting.

STATE OF SIEGE

PARIS, Nov. 8—(Canadian Press) —The Allies are to proclaim a state of siege in Constantinople unless the Turks observe the Mudania Pact.

BOARD MAY ASK THE RATEPAYERS TO VOTE NEW SCHOOL PROJECT

Toronto City Will Acquire Whole of Suburban Railway

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press). — On behalf of the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission, Sir Adam Beck, chairman, will sign an agreement between the Commission and the National Railways for the purchase, on behalf of Toronto, of the whole of Toronto suburban railway, as authorized by a vote of the people last January. Following this, within a short time, the Hydro Commission and the City will sign an agreement regarding City portions of the line, and these will be turned over to the Toronto Transportation Commission for operation and rehabilitation, so that West Toronto may secure equal transportation rights with the rest of the city.

This was made possible by the action of the City Council at 1.30 this morning in passing, by a majority of fourteen to ten, a by-law authorizing the execution of an agreement between the Hydro and the City.

Education Board Carries Resolution That City Council Be Requested To Invite Public Opinion At Polls On Three Questions.

MRS. MORRIS PROTESTS

According to a resolution declared carried by Acting Chairman Roland Denne, at the Board of Education's regular meeting last night, ratepayers may be asked to voice their opinion at the next municipal elections as to just exactly what action shall be taken regarding the projected high school and vocational training accomodation. The questions involved in this course of procedure are three in number, embodied in the following motion by Chairman A. A. Fowler and Dr. Neal:

"That this Board request the City Council to submit to the qualified property owners at the next municipal election the following questions:

"1. Are you in favor of building an addition to the present Collegiate Institute to serve as a combination Collegiate and Vocational school?

"2. Are you in favour of building an addition to the present Collegiate Institute for high school purposes only, and later, if found necessary, to build a separate Technical School?

"3. Are you in favour of building any addition whatever to the Collegiate Institute at the present time?"

Question three was added on the suggestion of Mr. Wearing, and by permission of the mover and seconder, without a vote being necessary.

But following a debate on this resolution, with Mr. Denne in the chair vacated by Chairman A. A. Fowler to permit of his moving the motion and talking to it, Mrs. Morris and Mr. McKone moved an amendment that the ratepayers be asked "are they willing that money shall be expended on increased secondary educational facilities." And here's where Mrs. Morris finds occasion to protest to the press that the adoption of the original resolution was somewhat unconstitutional in that her amendment being defeated only Mr. McKone and herself supporting it, the acting chairman then declared the original resolution carried, without taking a definite vote on it in the regular way.

However, while this technical omission complained of by Mrs. Morris seems correct, the resolution would have in all probability been adopted even had the ayes and nays been taken, for the board adjourned apparently satisfied in majority with the declaration by Mr. Denne that it had been carried. As the situation now stands, the three questions cited will go to the ratepayers.

Let the People Decide.

Mr. A. A. Fowler, in introducing the foregoing resolution, said prominent citizens and some aldermen had pronounced themselves to him in its favour. Having turned down this year a proposition to build an addition to the Collegiate Institute to serve as a combined Collegiate and Vocational school, he advocated the Board's putting the whole question to the people and letting them vote on it at the municipal elections. The board is divided on the issue, he said, let the people decide. He could see no reasonable objection to such a procedure any more than in candidates for the board seeking the support of the electors.

Mr. Fowler also thought the board might give an unbiased statement to the public, through the press, of the whole question in detail from every angle, from which they could reach an intelligent decision; the board also to submit to the city council at an early date plans for building on the projects entailed by questions one and two in his resolution.

Took Exception.

Mr. Wearing here took exception to Mr. Fowler's statement that the board was divided on the question of increased accommodation for Collegiate and Vocational training purposes. The way he understood it was that while the board had ac-

WRIST CORSAGES.

Wrist corsages are a novelty and promise to have a vogue among the younger set. It is quite effective to have velvet flowers, matching the evening frock, twisted about the wrists to form bracelets.

ROUTINE BUSINESS EDUCATION BOARD

Col. Gillespie Reports King Edward School Cadet Corps Best In City.

The report from Col. Gillespie on his recent inspection of the local school cadets, received by the Board of Education last night, gave the King Edward School boys credit for being the best corps in the city. The Collegiate Institute Corps he characterized as remarkably smart in its machine gun section, and excelling in rifle shooting. This corps as a whole he reported very efficient. The report on the other corps in general was of a complimentary character.

Routine Business.

The Supervision Committee was given power to act on the recommendation by Public School Musical Direstress Miss Rannie that Columbia grafonolas be installed in all the schools. There are already one in each of two public schools, the J. M. Greene Music Co. having donated one.

Principal H. R. H. Kenner reported that the grant of $100 made by the board last February for books in the P. C. I. library had been exceeded by $40, and on motion of Messrs. Neal and Wearing, that amount will be paid by the Board.

Miss Gladys Collinson, public school teacher, was allowed an extension of her leave of absence till the end of November, without salary. The resignation of teachers, Miss Lillian Cadwell, Miss Chapman and Miss Hazel Dick were accepted. The former teacher having served on the public school staff some 12 or 13 years, the clerk was instructed to forward her the Board's appreciation of her faithful and efficient service.

M. B. Chenhall was appointed musical director in the Collegiate Institute at $50 a month for November and December, the chairman and Principal Kenner to arrange with him the terms and conditions for extended service. Mr. Chenhall has hitherto been doing this work voluntarily, and Mr. Kenner spoke very highly of his qualifications and attention.

Physical Exercises.

The following report by J. A. McKone, chairman of the Supervision Committee, was adopted:

Your Supervision Committee beg to report and recommend that the present arrangement with the Y. M. C. A. for the use of the gymnasium and the service of the physical director be continued for the present term of five months, from the 1st November, at $700, payable monthly in the usual way.

Your committee also recommend that the arrangement made with the Y.W.C.A. for the use of their gymnasium for the Collegiate Institute girls, on Tuesdays, from 5.30 to 6.30, and Thursdays, from 4 to 6, for the sum of $30 for the season, October to May, be confirmed, the amount to be paid by the Board.

THE HUNTERS.

As school boys as glad and with spirits as gay,
They are off, on the trek, to the tall woods away,
The sky may be murky, or frosty the air,
But, for fair or foul weather, 'tis little they care.

Of course there's some shouting, and running around
And searching for things which somehow can't be found;
There's excitement and hurry, that brooks no delay,
Pandemonium indeed, till they get under way.

With munitions and rifles, and loud baying hounds,
And canoes, they are off to the old camping grounds,
Well freighted with baggage, the rollicking band
Are away to the wilds of the northern land.

To chase the fleet deer, and to his lone lair,
In Burleigh's dense jungles to track the black bear;
Now, to the deep thicket, ye plump partridge fly
Or for these hungry hunters, fowl supper supply.

Like Indian braves, on the warpath to slay,
O'er hollow, and height, they will persue the prey,
With vim, unabating, as thirsting for blood,
Will range the dark forest, or fish in the flood.

Till deepening shadows show daylight far spent,
Then they'll hike briskly back (or be lost) to their tent,
There, the long autumn evening they spend (so some say),
In rehearsing the thrilling exploits of the day.

Bye and bye, smouders down to dim embers, the fire,
And wearied, to warm, cozy couch they retire,
Soon their mind, with bright visions old Morpheus fills,
And all night, they are hunting, o'er dreamland's high hills.

Home again, for twelve months, we must list to them brag
Of shooting, bold bruin, or antlered stag;
They are all mighty hunters, like Nimrod, of old,
If we trust to the wonderful tales that are told.

TRADE TREATY WITH ITALY IS A POSSIBILITY

Negotiations For a New Trade Agreement Have Been Going on For Some Time--Announced Last Night.

PROMOTE TRADE.

OTTAWA, November 8 (Canadian Press). — The Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, has for some time been in negotiation with Italy with regard to new trade arrangements between these two countries, it was announced by the Prime Minister last evening.

The Right Hon. Mr. King spoke of these negotiations as part of the present Government's attempts to secure better trade arrangements for Canada with the various countries who are in the markets for Canadian produce.

The Prime Minister pointed out that at the present time the Hon. James Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is on the other side of the world arranging a new reciprocal trade arrangement with the Australian Government.

At the present time no details of the negotiations between Mr. Fielding and the Italian Government have reached Ottawa, but it is understood that satisfactory progress is being made with the arrangements as far as they have gone.

THIEVES AT WORK IN EMILY TOWNSHIP.

One Farmer Lost Three Sets of Harness—Several Robberies Lately.

LINDSAY, November 8. — Thieves made a great clean-up at the farm of Mr. Timothy Callaghan, of Emily Township, three miles north of Downeyville, late on Sunday night.

They entered his stables and stole three sets of harness, buffalo robes, blankets, and a quantity of grain.

His poultry house was also visited, where a general clean-up in fowl took place.

Mr. Callaghan's loss is a heavy one.

The theft is supposed to have been the work of three men who carried off the spoils in an automobile, which was traced some distance on Sunday morning.

This is the second big theft within a few days in this section. Last week two Ops farmers lost all their hens and ducks, motor thieves doing the work.

Turkish Situation Again Threatened By Warclouds

Allied Commissioners in Constantinople Have Been Given Full Authority to Deal With the Turks If They Start Anything — Mudania Convention Must Be Observed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—The Allied Commissioners in Constantinople have been given full authority to declare a state of siege or take any other measures to preserve order.

This was the response of the Allied Governments to the cabled requests of the High Commissioners for permission to take complete and speedy action. It is now certain that the Allied authorities here will deal with any attempts at disturbances or infringement of the Mudania convention in a drastic manner.

British, French and Italians are as one in their determination to check the powerful movemen which the Kemalists have set in motion. The British have at no time since the intentions of the Turkish Nationalists were made evident relaxed to the least degree their vigilance, and now French warships are about to proceed here or are on their way to strengthen the Allied authority.

Lieutenant-General Harrington, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces, has informed Rafet Pasha, the new governor, that he would permit no usurpation of the Allied authority, and Rafet explained that the sweeping demands for evacuation of the Allied military forces and for other concessions came from the Angora Government. The Kemalists have even attempted to take over the Customs' revenues, but the British authorities have decided to operate the Customs themselves.

France Must Be Made Secure From Germany

Louis Locheur Warns That France Must Be Protected Whether Germany Pays Or Not.

FOREIGN LOANS.

PARIS, November 8 (Canadian Press). — France might better forego payment from Germany than to be endangered by a new attack from a resuscitated country across the Rhine, Louis Loucheur, former Minister of Liberated Regions, told the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

"If by one of these plans," he said, discussing proposals for the rehabilitation of Germany during the debate on the budget, "Germany is made strong, what will become of France's security?"

"I tell you bluntly that, between not being paid and not being in security, I would rather be in security."

This statement brought strong applause.

Premier Poincare interrupted M. Loucheur's suggestions for a change in the administration of the Rhineland with the declaration that that territory would not be evacuated until Germany had fulfilled the treaty requirements.

"These requirements," he declared, "have not been fulfilled; they will not be fulfilled for a long time, and so long as they are not, France will continue the occupation. Preceding Governments have said so, and I repeat it."

M. Loucheur urged the Chamber to get together and try to find a remedy for the country's financial condition. "or soon we will be at the brink of the abyss."

Foreign loans to stabilise French exchange were urged by M. Loucheur, who warned the country against the danger of the franc drooping.

"Take care, gentlemen," he said. "Exchange is a rolling ball which there is the possibility of not being able to stop if one does not act soon enough.

"What is really needed to stabilise our money is for the Government to create a big reserve of foreign moneys by loans abroad and by appeals to the patriotism of Frenchmen, for there remain in France billions in foreign securities."

BODIES RECOVERED.

EAST BROUGHTON, Que., Nov. 8.— (Canadian Press.) —The bodies of all four miners who were buired alive in the Asbestos Mine here in a cave-in about two weeks ago have been recovered, the remains of Odillon Grosleau, and Edmond Breton, having been found over the week end. The bodies were found under the steam shovel in the mine and in order to recover Grosleau's body it was necessary to cut through the steam shovel.

NEW PROHIBITION LAWS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press)—New Prohibtion regulations which restrict a ship's liquor to medicinal purposes only, appear to be causing serious epidemics on tranatlantic liners. The President, Van Buren of the United States Line, on her last westward voyage, brought in 100 passengers, all of them first class, and, according to the ship's surgeon, nearly every one of the 100 were afflicted at some time on the trip with colds, chills, flu, la grippe, or some other allied ailment until it became known definitely that a passenger must be near death before liquor enters into medical treatment. Then the health of passengers showed a surprising improvement.

OTTAWA, November 8 (Canadian Press). — Two judicial appointments in the Province of Quebec were announced last night. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Justice Archibald as Chief Justice of the Superior Court, Montreal, has been filled by the appointment of Justice J. E. Martin, of the Court of King's Bench, as acting Chief Justice of the Superior Court.

The vacancy thus created in the Court of King's Bench has been filled by the appointment of A. Rives Hall, K.C., of Montreal.

FREIGHT RULING OF IMPORTANCE IS HANDED DOWN

The Decision of Justice Audette States When Railway Company is Entitled to Charge Demurrage.

FIRST IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, November 8 (Canadian Press). A judgment of importance o shippers of freight by rail, as as well as to the Canadian railways, was handed down yesterday by Mr. Justice Audette, in the Exchequer Court, in the case of the King vs. Frank A. Gillis Company of Halifax, N.S.

The decision, which is important as being the first judgment given in Canada determining the conditions under which a railway is entitled to charge demurrage, was made public last evening.

Mr. Justice Audette, in giving judgment in favour of plaintiffs, finds that a railway is entitled to charge demurrage after a car has been available for unloading by the consignee, from a proper and reasonable team track, for a period of forty-eight hours.

"It is not necessary, thereafter, for the railway company to keep the car on a team track to enable it to claim demurrage, and the consignee has no right to ask the railway company to keep his car indefinitely upon a team track, thus paralysing the business of the railway company," states the judgment.

The case, which has been decided by yesterday's judgment grew out of a claim by the Canadian National Railways against the Frank A. Gillis Company of Halifax, for $5,011 for demurrage charges. The Frank A. Gillis Company, engaged in the business of builders' and contractors' supplies, contended that certain cars which should have been placed on specified sidings, were either placed on storage sidings or on sidings other than those assigned by it and unfit to be used for unloading.

The Crown, on the other hand, contended that as the company had no place to take the sand and gravel and store it before delivering it to the purchaser, it became of great advantage to it to keep it in the railway yards until a customer was found.

The Gillis Company, it was claimed, was negligent and dilatory in taking delivery of the contents of the cars.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME IN APSLEY

Children Saved in the Nick of Time—News of Interest —A Freight War.

APSLEY, November 8. — News was received here to-day that the home of Elijah Whitmore, near Coe Hill, was totally destroyed by fire this morning, together with all the furniture and contents. Mr. Whitmore was away, and it appears that Mrs. Whitmore lit the fire and then went to fetch the cows. When she returned she found that the house was in flames and was only just in time to rescue the sleeping children at great risk.

Mrs. P. Rusaw Dead.

Mrs. Phoebe Rusaw, an aged resident of Chandos township, passed away at her home on Tuesday after a long illness. Besides her husband, Peter Rusaw, there are four children surviving: Charlie at home, Mrs Louisa Post, Glenalda; Mrs. Dorothy Post, Rose Island; and Wilbert, in the States. The funeral took place on Friday, service being conducted by Rev. Daniels, Methodist minister. The deceased was laid to rest in the new cemetery at Glenalda, her's being the first grave dug in this burying ground.

Hunting Season.

The hunting season opens with wet and gloomy weather, and not many deer will be killed the first few days. Monday was so dark it would be difficult to distinguish a deer at a hundred yards.

A Freight War.

It is rumoured that a freight war will soon be launched here, if not already in operation. With an ever-increasing number of auto trucks running between Peterboro and Apsley, a competition in freight charges is bound to result to the benefit it is hoped of the householder, who has to pay high prices for commodities, due, it is claimed, by the storekeepers, to the high cost of transportation.

Market Prices.

Prices for household staples here are approximately Flour: $4.20 a bag sugar 10c lb; rolled oats, 6c; soap 10c bar, while a loaf of Peterboro Nut Krust bread weighing 1 lb., is 15c. Local produce costs about as follows: Eggs 35c; butter 40c; fresh pork, 17c by the quarter, beef 17c; hay $13 to $15 ton; marsh hay $5 to $7 ton; oats 50c bushel.

Personal Items.

On Saturday evening the A.Y.P.A. paid a surprise visit to Mr. and Mrs. Grant and a pleasant evening was spent in music, singing and games.

Armistice Day will be observed on Saturday next when a memorial service will be held in St. George's church at 7.30 p.m.

A YOUNG VERULAM MOTHER SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS

Beatrice Nicholls Found Guilty of Causing the Death of Her Illegitimate Child on May 5 Last.

LINDSAY, Nov. 8. — At nine o'clock this morning Mr. Justice Riddell imposed a sentence of fifteen years in Kingston penitentiary on Beatrice Nicholls for manslaughter of her infant.

A verdict of guilty of manslaughter was returned by the jury empanelled at the sittings of the Supreme Court here yesterday to enquire into the charge of murder preferred against Beatrice Nicholls of Verulam township. The 21 year old girl had thrown her illegitimate baby from a C.P.R. train in motion between Burketon Junction and Lindsay on May 5 last. At the time of her arrest, the day after the episode, the girl made a confession to Crown Attorney Anderson and Inspector Ward of the Provincial Police. In it she stated that the babe had been born at the Toronto General Hospital two weeks before. When she left the hospital she had taken a train for Bobcaygeon. Between Burketon Junction and Lindsay the child had taken what she thought was a convulsion and had stiffened and turned black. She did not want her pastor, who was on the train, to see her with the baby, so she stripped the clothing from the child and threw it out the window. She left the train at Lindsay, disposed of the clothing on a side street and went to her sister's home, where she was found by the police the next day.

Before Mr. Justice Riddell and the jury yesterday, she gave evidence practically the same as that of her confession with the exception of the actual throwing of the body, which she described as follows: "On the way home the baby choked and stiffened and turned black. I loosened its clothing. Then I don't remember what happened. After a while I wondered why I had thrown the baby out of the window." Evidence was given for the prosecution by the police and the doctors as well as by Mrs. Margaret Bewey, of the Social Service branch at the Toronto General Hospital. The latter had been in charge of the girl's case while she was in the hospital and had sent her on her way home. The defence emphasized the fact of the girl's extreme nervousness, introduced a family doctor's evidence to show

NEW YORK CITY WITHOUT NEWS LAST EVENING

Pressmen on the Evening World Decide Not to Work So None of the Papers Printed Election Extras.

STOPPED AT 7 O'CLOCK

NEW YORK, November 8 (Canadian Press). — With interest in the election greater than it has been for years, New York last night had no extra editions of evening newspapers after seven o'clock, as the result of an agreement entered into by newspaper publishers when notified that the pressment of the New York Evening World had elected not to work after that hour.

Under the provisions of the recent Manton award, the pressmen are given the option of working after the regular hours, which, on the Evening World, end at seven o'clock. The agreement of the newspaper owners, entered into when the pressmen announced their intention of ceasing work at the regular hour, despite the press of election news, provided that morning papers should not issue extra editions before 10.30 p.m.

Thousands jammed before bulletin boards near Park Row and in other centres, were forced to avail themselves of incomplete election editions which were turned off the presses of four newspapers before seven o'clock.

DONATE OAK CHAIRS FAIRMOUNT CHURCH.

In Memory of the McIndoo Family — Were Cavan Pioneers.

FAIRMOUNT, November 8. — The gift of two handsome solid oak pulpit chairs, upholstered to match the other furnishings of the building, has recently been made to Fairmount Methodist Church by Messrs. Matthew, James, and William McIndoo, of Fresno, Cal., in memory of their father and mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McIndoo, who were amongst the pioneer settlers of Cavan Township, and who worshipped in this sacred edifice from the time of its erection in 1858.

The congregation have this fall re-decorated and thoroughly renovated their church both outside and in, and the chairs were in place for the anniversary services on Sunday, 29th October, when Rev. Benjamin Greatrix, of Peterborough, preached morning and evening, delivering two able discourses to the edification of his hearers.

The annual fowl supper, held on the following Monday evening, was, as usual, a decided success, Mr. George King, of Peterborough, providing an excellent programme in which a number of his pupils took part, assisted by a reader, thus giving pleasing variety to the evening's entertainment.

The receipts were nearly $150.00.

THE P.A.A.A. DRIVE.

It is pleasing to hear that the membership drive of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association is making splendid progress.

Organized sport under wholesome supervision is a decided factor in the progress of any community, and the local association has shown an ability in that direction that should be recognized by a large addition to the membership.

Its record of achievement during the past twelve months has been such as to justify those at the head of the association appealing with confidence to their fellow-citizens.

Often the assertion is made that the people on this continent are becoming a race of on-lookers; that they are satisfied to sit in the grandstand and watch athletic specialists perform rather than take part in healthful sport themselves.

Organizations such as the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association are doing much to prevent this tendency. They are endeavouring to interest the boys and girls and the men and women in the enjoyment and health that are to be obtained from active participation in organized sport.

Splendid results have already been obtained since the P.A.A.A. began to function, and with the co-operation and assistance of citizens generally there is every reason to expect an even more satisfactory showing in the coming year.

The Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association should have at least fifteen hundred members in 1923.

THE RISING CURVE OF MURDER.

United States newspapers have been discussing the rising curve of murder in the Republic and seeking to find the cause for the appreciable increase in homicides.

Last year there were 9,500 murders in the United States, an average per day of 26 killings.

One reason may be that American legal machinery does not seem to function rapidly enough or effectively enough in the detection and punishment of murderers.

In the majority of cases the guilty parties are never discovered or brought to justice.

And when arrests are made the legal procedure lends itself to delays and technicalities, divided juries, motions for new trials, the introduction of "unwritten law" pleas, doubtful insanity claims, dragging murder cases on for months and even years.

An even more potent reason for the large number of killings is that advanced by the Examiner on several occasions—the ease with which criminals are able to secure firearms.

Ninety per cent. of the homicides are done with the revolver, and it is evident that the regulations in regard to the sale of these weapons are inadequate and defective.

So long as revolvers are manufactured it would be difficult to devise a law that would keep them out of the hands of enemies of society.

There is, however, one plan that would go a long way towards doing so.

The Examiner has suggested it before.

Stop the manufacture of revolvers.

H. M. S. VICTORY.

Nelson's old flagship at Trafalgar, H.M.S. "Victory," is in need of immediate extensive repairs, if she is to be preserved to the nation and the world. An appeal has been issued by Admiral Sturdee, the victor at the Falklands, explaining that the British Government cannot afford to make the necessary grant, owing to financial stringency, and that the countrymen of Nelson must foot the bill if the "Victory" is to be restored to her condition at Trafalgar, says the Montreal Star. "She must be preserved," declares the Admiral, "in order that our children's children may draw from her the same inspiration that we have drawn ourselves, and our fathers before us."

Surely the privilege of ensuring that this historic ship shall not pass into dust is one in which the British Dominions may claim a legitimate right to share also? The "Victory" has been the dominant symbol of British sea-power ever since the immortal Nelson trod her deck and died in her cockpit. Upon that sea-power the British Empire was founded, and by that sea-power it has been maintained. Upon that selfsame sea-power its very coherence today similarly depends. It would be a lasting reproach to the Empire if the "Victory" were to be allowed to decay for lack of money to effect the necessary restoration work.

Although we in Canada are three thousand miles away from the spot where the "Victory" now lies in dry-dock, yet the ideals for which her story stands and the watchword of duty that once fluttered out from her mastheads are treasured just as jealously here as elsewhere. We would not willingly let them die, nor can we look on with unconcern while the "Victory" stands in need. Admiral Sturdee's appeal will find a responsive echo beyond the shores of the land that Nelson loved and served so well.

ANOTHER FUEL WAR.

The sooner Canada places herself in a position to be independent of the United States so far as fuel is concerned the better for this country, for it is evident that labour troubles in the American mines are far from being settled.

Another coal war next spring would seem to be imminent.

The United States mine workers have announced that they have levied a $2,000,000 assessment in readiness for the expected walkout in April.

At the same time, they propose to President Harding the complete unionization of the entire coal mining industry as the best hope of escape from troubles like those of the past summer.

No wonder the New York Times remarks that "no monopoly is more odious than that of labor," and declares it to be "the culmination of inhumanity towards all other classes."

The United Mine Workers seem to be insatiate in their demands, and their latest ultimatum that they should be given a complete monopoly is liable to arouse public resentment.

The American Congress may and should have much to say about the matter before next April, and legislation to control the mine workers would seem to be in order.

Meanwhile Canada's Government does well to endeavour to make the Dominion self-sustaining in the matter of fuel.

GROWTH OF PUBLIC UTILITIES.

The Citizens' Research Institute of Canada has just issued an illuminating and useful bulletin dealing with the growth of publicly-owned utilities throughout the Dominion. The volume of development has taken place very largely during comparatively recent years, and marked progress has been made in both the number and variety of municipally-owned utilities. For example, between 1920 and 1921 the advance is represented in an increase of capital liability from $162,370,935 to $194,196,902.

It is instructive to note the character of the utilities and the liability attaching to them. This is indicated in the following summary:

Waterworks	$95,529,899
Electric light and power	42,820,305
Street railways	39,352,413
Others	16,494,285

Winnipeg leads in the waterworks division with an investment of $20,642,097. Toronto comes next, with $16,684,904. Some of the other relatively expensive waterworks systems are: Vancouver, $4,749,351; Victoria, $4,131,643; Quebec, $4,150,000; Ottawa, $3,444,658; Hamilton, $2,977,608, and Edmonton, $2,511,741.

Toronto is much the heaviest investor in street railways, with a capitalization of $25,481,737. Edmonton occupies second place, with a liability of $3,143,121, and Calgary comes next with $2,450,000. The Regina system has cost $1,586,971.

Under the head of municipal light and power systems, Toronto again holds first place with a charge of $10,752,920. Winnipeg is well up with $9,652,000, and Edmonton comes third with $3,115,397. All the Western cities have made heavy investments in this division. Ottawa is in twelfth place with a modest liability of $700,000.

Toronto	$56,733,057
Winnipeg	31,834,097
Edmonton	10,907,347
Calgary	9,308,679
Vancouver	5,028,351
Regina	4,937,567
Ottawa	4,894,658
Hamilton	4,774,145
London	4,492,699
Victoria	4,307,643
Quebec	4,150,000
St. John	4,123,988

It is from the per capita point of view that one gets the relative standing of Canadian cities in the matter of liability. Among the more striking examples are the following: Winnipeg, $219.28; Port Arthur, $156.97; Medicine Hat, $165.82, and Regina, $121.12. With few exceptions, all the Western cities are in excess of $100. Toronto is close to the century mark with $96.58, while Ottawa is far down in the list with $38.03. There are nearly a score of smaller cities and towns which stand above the Capital in that regard. As an example, Fort William has a per capital liability of $109.30.

With a gross capitalization of $194,196,902, and a growth which now averages more than $30,000,000 a year, it will be seen that our larger municipalities are moving rapidly in the matter of publicly-owned utilities. From every point of view this is a stimulating suggestion of genuine progress—if expenditure has taken place prudently, rates are adequate, and sinking fund provisions are sound. With respect to the last named it may be observed that the aggregate of sinking fund is $27,145,680, which would establish a ratio to liability of slightly under 14 per cent. That tells us little, however, in the absence of specific information as to maturities; yet, having regard to the obviously recent date of a considerable volume of the outstanding indebtedness, the reserve seem to be satisfactory.

Montreal does not appear anywhere in the statement. This is due to a system of accounting by that city which prevents the identification of each class of liability as well as the various sinking funds. This is an exceeding important matter, and, unhappily, Montreal does not stand alone in having continued an obsolete and quite unsatisfactory plan of book-keeping. The Institute has time and again called attention to the fact that there are few municipalities which keep their accounts in accordance with standard methods, and, as a remedy, it has suggested Government action to bring about not only a greatly needed betterment, but uniformity throughout the country as well.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lloyd George describes the new Government's policy as a "yawn." But yawns are generally catching, and this one may prove to be so far as votes are concerned.

Evidently the Kemalists do not believe very much in Bonar Law's tranquility policy.

Mrs. Gordon Wright declares that the cigarette must go. And judging from her own statistics, a whole lot of them did go last year.

The flapper is passing, they say. But a flapper by any other name would be a flapper still.

If the majority of those women candidates are elected in England it is difficult to see how there will be much tranquility in the next Parliament.

They now declare that J.J. Morrison is to succeed Mr. Crerar as leader of the Progressives. That would be the last evidence needed to show that the Farmers' movement is a class one, pure and simple.

Mussolini, Italy's new Premier, we are told, is "given to driving motor cars at terrific speed." In that event his reign in office is likely to be terminated at any time.

Angora seems to be trying to get the Allies' goat. The result may not be pleasant for Kemal and company.

The turkey that escaped yesterday can be thankful that Christmas is still a few weeks away.

CHAIN OF STORES FROM PETERBORO

Large Buying Reflects to Advantage of Patrons in Moderate Prices.

In the opening of two other ladies' and misses' exclusive ready-to-wear stores—one in Belleville and another in Kingston—J. A. McNabb Co., Limited, this city, reflect a spirit of agrressive business enterprise that will not be denied. This progressive Peterborough firm opened up here in December, 1920, and with an ever growing patronage were encouraged to institute a Kingston branch on August 30, and still another store in the Bay of Quinte city on Thursday, October 26, this year. The same trade winning Peterborough business principle of the maximum value at a minimum selling price, together with a store policy of efficiency and service being naturally applied to the two new branches, Mr. McNabb is today congratulating himself on the gratifying success of his firm's expansion abroad. For, in both cities, not only were the opening days of their new stores marked by the invasion of small armies of buying visitors, but business has kept up to a high level of satisfied patronage. And customers there are unquestionably appreciating the opportunity offered for securing quality garments built on models to please the most discriminating feminine public.

This expansion of J. A. McNabb Co., Limited, is significant in that, by controlling a chain of three up-to-date stores they are unquestionably the largest buyers of ladies' fashionable ready-to-wear in Ontario today. Consequently, they enjoy the pick of certain markets at prices reduced to a level which enables them to offer the highest values at figures marked down to a purse-saving minimum. All three stores are the home of correct styles, durable fixtures, and the art-creative in approved garments for woman and miss which never disappoint either in quality or cost.

J. A. McNabb, head of the firm, has a host of friends and satisfied patrons in Peterborough who will wish him continued success in his expansion undertaking; and Mr. McNabb takes this opportunity of returning thanks for that generous patronage here which encouraged his house to start a chain of stores which he confidently expects will not long be confined to Peterborough, Kingston and Belleville.

BILLY MATHESON TALKS OF EARLY GAMBLING DAYS

Noted Evangelist Holds Interest of Large Audience in Royal Theatre—Touching Story.

Last Sunday evening, William Matheson of London, delivered a powerful address in the Royal Theatre on his life history. The large audience which was greatly moved by the speaker as he gave an outline of his varied life as saloon-keeper, pugilist and gambler. William Matheson, more commonly known as Billy, gave in full details many of his interest holding experences.

The speaker, who was introduced to the audience by Rev. R. B. Pogue of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, opened his talk by carrying the people back in mental vision to his birth-place. Billy was born and brought up in Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, receiving his early training in a Christian home, where whistling, laughing and loud talking was absolutely prohibited on the Sabbath Day. Their clothes were all homespun and made at home and also their shoes. But Christian influences at home was little heeded by Billy, who left home as early as possible. While a young man he entered a lumber camp in Pennsylvania, and worked with some of the most reckless and toughest in the world. The speaker here briefly explained the dreadful condition of this camp, stating how lumber-men would defy God to come down off His Throne to fight a round with them. Describing an experience of his own in the woods, most vividly told of a narrow escape from death when they were felling two large trees and the trunk of one shot back and tore the hat from off his head. Instead of being thankful to God for not being killed, the speaker in turn cursed the Almighty.

Later, in 1889, Billy went to the City of Boston, where he engaged During the following four years.

The Evangelist here described some of the many riotous incidents in his life, episodes in which even shooting and bloodshed ensued.

Billy Converted.

In conclusion, Mr. Matheson told the touching story of his conversion by an Evangelist name I Rev. Anderson, after the former had been thrown out of a bar-room.

That night Billy heard the voice of the Lord speaking to him, and would tell of his new experience to all of his friends, and also preach the Gospel. At first the "old boys" thought that Bill was exceptionally drunk, and they called him a "nut" when he told of his salvation. But he found a friend who sustained him in his determination to adhere to his changed condition in life.

Mr. Matheson finally returned to his home in Cape Breton, determined to pay back all debts incurred by him during his drinking and gambling days, also pledging himself to the service of the loving saviour.

Billy engaged in many fistic encounters, scars on his hands and part of his right ear as the result. Billy firmly declared that he was never beaten in a fight by fair means but nearly killed several times by foul play.

Billy Moralizes.

There is no decency or honor in selling liquor here, continued the speaker, and if the boot-leggers of to-day knew what I know and could see what I have seen, they would stop that illicit trade at once. He stated that he was thankful that Canada and United States are as dry as they are to-day, when one sees very little, if any, drunkenness on the streets, and he hoped that the next generation would not be addicted to the liquor habit.

ELABORATE SET ON JAP SHIP

Honors for the most elaborate radio set in the world are given to the Kamoi, fuel ship for the Japanese navy.

When the Kamoi left New York on her maiden voyage to Japan she was equipped with three different kinds of transmission equipment and four kinds of receiving apparatus.

The feature of her equipment is her radio telephone exchange, the first of its kind in the world. By means of this exchange system the radio operator may transfer the control of the receiving and transmission instruments to any one of several stations on the ship. The stations are located in the commander's room, his office, the senior officer's wardroom, the bridge and other important points.

The exchange board, under control of the wireless operator, is little different from the regular line telephone switchboard. A red light shows the receiver has been taken from the telephone hook. The operator throws a switch and the officer is connected to the radio instrument.

BAILIEBORO AND DISTRICT

The Fraserville Methodist Church Anniversary a Wonderful Success — Ducks Plentiful.

BAILIEBORO, November 8. — The anniversary services held in the Fraserville Methodist church Sunday November 5th, both morning and evening, were both a wonderful success.

The weather and roads were ideal for the occasion and the church, which was prettily decorated with flowers, was well filled on both occasions.

Greatrix, of Peterboro, a former pastor of the Fraserville circuit, and at present a superannuated minister residing in Peterboro, where he discontinued his life's work, having preached in St James' church in that city until about three years ago, conducted both morning and evening services, which were much enjoyed.

The music rendered by the choir was excellent. Mr. Edgar Finley rendered several beautiful solos and he is to be congratulated on the efficient manner in which he trained the choir for the occasion.

The thankoffering at the morning service amounted to $74 and it was hoped that the evening's collection's would amount to equally as much, as $150 was the sum asked for.

In the morning she sang "A Hymn of Thanksgiving," while in the evening Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Cecil Corneil rendered a pretty duet, entitled "The Morning Land," and later Mrs. Irvine sang in a very pleasing manner, "Building a Temple."

On Monday evening a very successful fowl supper was held in the Sunday School Room of the church. Supper was served from 5 o'clock until 8.30, and to avoid the jam in the auditorium, the tickets were sold by numbers, which mounted as high as 450, and after all had partaken of the fowl, mashed potatoes with gravy, beans, pie and cake, and all the other good things, there was still no shortage.

W. M. S. Met.

The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held in the Sunday School Room on Thursday afternoon last. Mrs. Bradburn read the devotional leaflet, which was followed by a most interesting chapter from the study ook entitled "In Factory and Field," by Mrs. Bushnell.

A splendid report of the W.M.S. convention held recently in Lindsay was given by the delegate, Mrs. P. Magahey.

Two crates of fruit were donated by the ladies to be sent to the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto.

No refreshments were served on account of the fowl supper on Thanksday.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. David Deyell on Wednesday afternoon last. There was a fair attendance of members and several visitors present. A very interesting chapter on Trinidad was given from the study book by Miss Edwards. Mrs. F. G. Sandy and Mrs. Kelly also read short papers.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Hallowe'en Events.

Hallowe'en was duly celebrated in our village by not only the youths and smaller children, but by the older generation, who seemed to delight in the damaging of other people's property. The iron bridge over the river was blocked for traffic, and the rope on the school bell was knotted, also many other pranks were indulged in.

In the earlier part of the evening, the children, disguised in varied costumes had charge of the town, calling on their many friends, whom they claim treated them most cordially, and gave them abundance of apples, candy and cookies.

Later in the evening the grown-ups were on parade, and many residents lost a few hours' sleep by the actions and continued merriment which kept up until near morning.

HYDRO SCHEME WAS UP AGAIN

Sir Adam Beck Declares That Flat Rate System Is Not Equitable.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Broad question of Hydro administration and specific question of flat rate for electrical energy throughout the province came before the Gregory Commission at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. Representatives of Eastern Ontario municipalities charging grievances against the Hydro scheme of management where suitors who argued that it was time for a change. They may, however, have a doughty opponent in Sir Adam Beck, who insisted that the present Hydro Commission was carefully handling Ontario's power development.

Patrons of Eastern Hydro development declared that Chesterville and Winchester were now paying $86 per horse power instead of $35 estimate which had been represented to them when they had been induced to vote in favor of the Hydro project. In view of this condition, eastern municipalities considered that some form of redress was due to them and in order that it might be secured they advocated that the government should have a more direct voice in Hydro administration, that it should obtain certain tax from every horse power developed, and, in substance that Hydro should be administered as a public service, not as a purveyor of commercial commodity.

Sir Adam Beck told the Commission that a flat rate system was not equitable, as Hydro was a municipal and not a provincial undertaking, and he further argued that it was satisfactory. He advanced the opinion that Hydro be allowed to issue its own bonds and have them guaranteed by the province.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Concert Held Under the Auspices of St. Thomas' Church—Personal Mention.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 8. — That Jessie Alexander Roberts has lost none of her old-time power to charm her audience was evidenced here last Thursday evening at the entertainment given in the Town Hall, under the auspices of the W. A. of St. Thomas church. Unfortunately the wet weather somewhat lessened the attendance, but those present enjoyed a treat in the character of the program provided which is all to seldom heard in our town. The vocal solos by Mrs. George King and Mr. Rush of Peterboro, both of whom were heard for the first time, and by Miss M. Money, Millbrook, were greatly appreciated, while of the readings given by Mrs. Roberts possibly the clever character sketch, "Incidents of Registration Day", and "Her Gift" with solo, Home, Sweet Home, by Mrs. King, were her most popular numbers, though each one of her selections was a source of pleasure to her audience. Rev. Canon Allen acted as chairman, and, at his special request Mrs. Roberts gave as her closing number, "Now bairns, cuddle doon". Miss Mamie Collins was the efficient accompanist for the evening. Some of those present were Rev. Canon and Mrs. Allen, Rev. C. R. and Mrs. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. (Dr.) King, of Peterboro; Mrs. G. Fowler, Mrs. H. Russell, Mrs. W. American Money.

There is quite a good deal of American money in circulation at present which is rather a novelty and is decidedly one of the signs of the times for when American money was at the premium even the pennies were scarce, but now that it is discounted in many Canadian cities they are trying hard to get it in circulation.

THE BAPTISTS HERE REPORTS MEETINGS

Mrs. T. T. McDonald, of Wingham, read by Mrs. Lloyd; Western, Mrs. J. D. MacGregor, of Wheatley; Whitby and Lindsay, Miss Sara Evans, of Claremont.

Picton is Winner.

The report for Peterborough Association was read by the director, Miss M. A. Nicholls, 216 McDonnel Street, who reported a total of 19 churches in the division. Picton is the banner circle, while Port Hope leads in highest average giving, Murray Street standing second and Gilmour Memorial Church third. In the district, Colborne interests itself particularly in the work of Miss Pearl Scott, missionary, and Murray Street Church makes a point of giving at Christmas time to those at Feller Institute who are unable to be at home at this season.

The President's message was a thoughtful and inspirational message, enjoining on the workers in missionary fields, both Home and Foreign, their imitation of the attitude of the lay workers amongst the Apostles. One of the special followers of St. Paul was held up as an example of a helper who did indispensable work for the great Apostle, in his execution of small tasks of a secular nature. He was beloved by his chief, and a dependable man. The quality of faithfulness in endeavor was particularly emphasized by the speaker, and the endeavoring to look to the spiritual motive for work, rather than measure it by size. The love of Christ behind such work will make it acceptable to the Lord and satisfying to our own hearts, and a pure, true motive in all things will make the burden of opposition which is occasionally encountered much easier to fight against.

A United Front.

The attitude of striving to know God personally rather than simply to know about Him was commended, and the effect of the lives of the missionary workers on the lives of those about them was also referred to. Mrs. Matthews spoke of the necessity for a united front of prayer in one particular instance of clerical opposition in South America, where she said the Romanist authorities were setting their efforts against the work of the missionaries.

Elections of officers and members of the Foreign Mission Board which followed the President's address resulted as follows: President (re-elected), Mrs. Albert Matthews, of Central Baptist Church, Toronto; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. J. G. Brown, St. Clair Avenue Church, Toronto; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. W. Pugsley, Walmer Road, Toronto. Members of Board: Mrs. A. J. Vining, Toronto; Mrs. Jno. MacNeill, Toronto; Miss Martha Rogers, Toronto; Mrs. C. W. Dengate, Toronto; Mrs. McClaghan, Stratford; Miss Gertrude Dayfoot, Georgetown; Mrs. Geo. Holmes, Toronto; Miss Bathgate, York Mills. Mrs. W. D. Scott, of Peterborough, was appointed in place of Mrs. Jas. Wood, of this city, who resigned.

CONVENTION NOTES.

This convention is well equipped with reporters. The "Link" is covered by a competent representative in the person of Mrs. C. W. Dengate, of Toronto, while Miss Grace Matthews acts for the Year Book and "The Canadian Baptist."

There are a number of good exhibits in connection with the convention. Both the Home and Foreign Mission Boards have special tables set apart for their display of literature, cards, etc. The Mission Band has a section, there are plenty of excellent works on mission work in the foreign and home fields; "Mook," the Chinese boy, "Inida Inkling," the story of a blot, an African volume, New Testaments and hymnals in handsome limp leather binds, and upstairs, there is a very pretty and attractive exhibit of Mission Band posters and work.

Mrs. W. H. Kidd, Miss Mary Stratton and Miss Annie Walton have charge of billeting arrangements for the delegates. Mrs. Louis Smith is looking after the registration.

Supper last evening was served to the executive by the ladies of Murray street church, who will also provide for the needs of the directors on Friday. Meals for the general sessions to-ady and to-morrow are being served in St. Paul's Presbyterian church buildings, by the Ladies 'Aid Society of that church.

Interest of children in the mission work of the church and reported by several directors. Mrs. Baldwin, for Middlesex and Lambton, spoke of the formation of The Little Jewel Band in London, of tots of six years; and Miss A. M. Nicholls of Peterborough, spoke of The King's Own Lamplighters, of Cramahe, with a membership of 22 children.

One of the missionaries in India, Miss Priest, wrote asking that an ox might be procured for her for transportation from village to village. The convention was of the opinion that an automobile of a certain popular make would be better, and Mrs. George Pearce, of Norfolk, offered $25 from a special fund in her district towards this purchase.

Mrs. Percy McRae, Little Shemogue, N.B. writes:—"Three years ago I had the "Flu" which left me with a very bad cough. I tried different medicines which did me no good, so I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It relieved me of that awful cough in a short time."

EXHIBITS OF BLIND GRADUATES' WORK

May Be Seen In South Window of Turnbull's —It's Worth While.

The Turnbull Company, Limited, have turned their south window over to an exhibit of some of the work done by the blind graduates of the National Institute for the Blind in Toronto. Here is a collection of dainty basketry and here, the cynosure of many eyes at all times, of the day, sits one of the blind needlewomen, a graduate of the Institute, Mrs. Laura Stokes, of Toronto, who operates a sewing machine and turns out the carefully-made garments that are on view in the window: neat, spotless aprons, house dresses with edging of ric-rac braid, overall aprons in colored gingham.

The operator, blind for the last fifteen years, and with a sightless husband blinded in an explosion, is a nice-looking woman, with the patient face and the mild expression of the blind, the sensitive mouth and the delicate, seeing fingers that follow the tiny, perfectly-fashioned seams. She has a mannerism that is said to be characteristics of those who were born with normal vision; the habit of following each movement of the cloth and of the machine with her eyes, as though the darkened orbs could really see, and there is a little pucker between the brows, caused by the effort that never seems to vanish, the struggle to catch one little glimpse of light through the twisted lens of the eyeball.

With Mrs. Stokes is a guide from the Institute, Mrs. Giesecke, who looks after her charge. Her duties are evidently not arduous. Mrs. Stokes smiles and chats pleasantly to her, and seems absolutely absorbed in her work and in the turning out of perfectly - fashioned, careful little garments. From 10.30 to 12.30, from 3.30 to 5.30, from 7.30 to 8.30, she will be in the window all week, sewing on the machine kindly loaned by the Singer people, and hereafter, the Turnbull Company will keep in stock at all times garments made by the blind workers of the Institute, each garment with its significant emblem, sounding the note of pathos that is always associated with these dwellers in the dark, happy and busy as they may be, the little figure of Hope with the broken lyre, the girl with the bandaged eyes who epitomizes defeat, and yet is in some subtle way, curiously triumphant.

The work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is widely varied, with its motto in all cases, "to help them to help themselves." Field work and registration obtain for the Institute necessary information concerning the blind, and gives the latter similar information, enabling the Institute to advise widely and maintain helpful connection with blind individuals. Home teaching reaches those blind who cannot or do not care to leave their homes. Instruction in reading and writing, in sewing, knitting and basketry is given by visiting instructors. Vocational instruction is given in the Institute itself in shops where blind women and men are taught broom-making and weaving of baskets, chair caning and other handicrafts; women are taught machine sewing, rug weaving, etc. Both are given a vocational allowance of $9 per week while in training. Clarke-Wood is a delightful residence maintained for blind women, where board and lodging is given for $5 per week. Guides are furnished free to those who require assistance in coming to the Institute. To those who become qualified as operators in any line, wages are paid in the Institute on the piece basis, and many individual workers earn $25 per week, although the average workers usually obtain less than this amount. A sales-room department carries stocks of material, which are sold to blind home-workers at wholesale prices; the sales-room then buying the completed articles and markets them at the identical price paid the workers. "After care" is given to blind people by helping them to build up in any line of work not directly connected with the Institute's activities. Blind soldiers are given residence and vocational training at Pearson Hall, through co-operation with the Department of Soldiers' Civic Re-establishment.

The Institute is at present conducting a campaign for funds to enable them to proceed with this work of removing one of the most terrible of the burdens of the blind man or woman, that of the feeling of uselessness, and the Turnbull Company is giving their window space for the week and helping in every way to make this campaign a success locally.

THE BOARD MAY ASK RATEPAYERS TO VOTE NEW SCHOOL PROJECT

cepted the building committee's report for this proposition, its putting into effect had been left in abeyance for the lack of money."

Mr. Greene fell in line with the resolution and suggested that copies of the ballots, with detailed information, could be published in the press a week or two before the date of voting.

Mr. Wearing here was willing to the people to decide a question of which we ourselves, while having to hand already all information, yet cannot come to a decision. And can we expect the public to do so after a week or two's publicity?

Add Third Question.

Mr. Wearing heer was willing to support the resolution were a third clause added: "Are you in favour of any etxension at all to the Collegiate?"

Mr. Greene said he did not think Mr. Worth had any right to voice the opinion of the board by saying that it could not reach a decision. "We can do so ourselves."

Mr. Wearing—"Individually, perhaps, but not as a board, so far."

Fair at First Sight.

Admitting that the proposition seemed very fair at first hearing, if the board wished to get the majority voice of the people, still Mrs. Morris pointed out that in adding up the ayes and nays on the three questions it would be perfectly possible for the minority to secure domination. She would like to know how the board intended summing up the vote and said, in effect, she could not see how a conclusive majority will of the people could be reached for or against either the larger or smaller propositions, as the voting would offer a complex situation.

Be Sure of Majority.

If you decide this question by a vote of the people, Mrs. Morris continued, be sure you get what the majority of the people want. She here took exception to the latter part of Question 2: "and later, if found necessary, to build a separate technical school," and she though the board should put itself on record that such an institution is needed. As far as the publicity scheme, Mrs. Morris did not believe that for $200 the board could lay before the people all the facts connected with this issue, and she urged that Dr. Merchant come here and explain the whole situation and its potentialities to the public. "The public look for leadership in their Board of Education, and it is not fair to shift the responsibility in this school matter on to the public."

Mr. A. A. Fowler retorted that he did not think it fair to force the people; they should be permitted to judge for themselves.

Mrs. Morris countered, in effect, with if you wish for an expression of the ratepayers' will, their opinion at the polls should be an intelligent one. At present they are in no position to give that, not having had an opportunity of learning the benefits of technical education and exactly what it portends and entails.

Mr. Wearing—"That ballot would not be binding."

Mrs. Morris—"But it would be; Mr. Fowler brings it forward in that way for a settlement of the question."

A Money Measure.

Mr. McKone here wanted to know would the proposition, as submitted to the people, be classed as a money question in which only property owners could vote.

Mrs. Morris replied that both City Clerk Armstrong and a lawyer had advised her that logically it would be in the same category as a money by-law.

Mr. Wearing —"Not necessarily so; this might only be a plebiscit we are discussing, on which all th electorate could vote." He woul like to have an expression of th people on the proposed expenditur of money.

Referring to Mrs. Morris' fea that the minority might dominate i this issue, Dr. Neal pointed out tha the minority rules in this and othe provinces.

There were present: Chairman A A. Fowler, Mrs. W. R. Morris an Messrs. J. M. Greene, E. B. Fow ler, Roland Denne, Dr. Neal, J. W Worth and J. A. McKone.

Luxurious Winter Coats of Novelty Pile Fabrics

Much of the beauty and most of the warmth of handsome fur garments is expressed in these superb COATS of rich pile fabrics that simulate the popular furs of the season.

Duvetyne cloth and velour are most widely favored and these mostly made in long full shapes like the fur garments whose purpose they so widely serve at so much less cost.

A very interesting and diversified collection of models awaits your selection here.

NUBIAN BROWN DUVETYNE supplies the nucleus for a delightful garment that possesses the most wonderful sleeves. They are ever so wide and have a pointed cuff finished with a tassel, but the cuff portion proper is just average size and trimmed with a band of natural walrus. The entire sleeve is heavily embroidered and braided with brown silk. The roll collar is of walrus, too, and the back is plain except for the narrow belt. Lining of floral satin. Priced at $62.

MIDNIGHT BLUE DUVETYN that is rapturously soft and pleasing to the eye. Can be worn to advantage by miss or grown-up. The unobtrusive corded side panels on the back furnish a pleasant deviation, and likewise the large black bone buttons. Straight sleeves with open cuffs and large roll collar of seal. Full grey satin lining. Price, $55.

BARK BROWN VELOUR in a lovely tone and considerably enriched with fur trimmings of black lamb. Noteworthy are the sleeves, with the fur-finished cuffs that dome all the way across the wide opening. On the back the side panels of cordings just reach the waist-line, where they are met by a narrow belt. A deep collar of lamb, and lamb also bands the top of the pockets. Price, $79.

BLACK BROADCLOTH lends itself admirably to the tailored model. Six horizontal cords adorn the back panel, commencing at the waist and ending at the hem. The deep sleeves have a tailored turn-back cuff trimmed with a single button. A pretty round-shaped collar of seal finishes all this loveliness. Lining of Skinner's satin. Price, $65.

NAVY OR BROWN DUVETYNE takes on an air of simplicity and looses none of its enchantment. Fancy silk stitchings appear, back and front, from beneath the French beaver collar and in the vicinity of the shoulders. The stitching again is noticeable just above the fur banding of the pretty cuffs of medium dimensions. Full lining of satin. Priced at $59.

HOW LAVENDER MADE GIRL A BUSINEESS SUCCESS

By MARIAN HALE.

The judicious use of a little lavender crepe paper proved to be the turning point in the career of Julia Kahn, self-made business woman, who did not linger over the job.

The color may not have been the important feature, but it became Miss Kahn's favorite color and she always wear something lavender when she has an important business deal on hand.

Here's the way it happened:

"At the age of 14 I started out to make my fortune," she explains, "beginning modestly with a $2-a-week job as a messenger girl for a dressmaker.

"Officially my hours were from 7.30 in the morning to 6 at night, but I always had to put in an extra hour after that picking pins from the floor.

Becomes "Red."

"Six months of this and I began to develop some very Socialistic ideas regarding the disposition of capital and the use of labor. So I quit the shop and went to a department store where I earned my $5 a week selling combs.

"One day the girl who had the silver department became ill and I was put in her place. Her stock, I noticed, was very dirty, and no one seemed interested in silver. So I had plenty of time to shine it up without neglecting customers. When I had finished it my eyes fell on some lavender crepe paper.

"It looked as if it would make an attractive background, so I decorated the shelves with it and placed the clean silver against it. In a week the sales had picked up to such an extent the manager came around to investigate.

Then Rise Starts.

"From that day I was put in full charge of the silver, and later promoted to the diamond counter.

"One day a shabby-looking woman came along and none of the clerks paid any attention to her—she certainly didn't look like a diamond prospect.

"However, I gave her the best attention I could, and before she left she had bought the largest amount of stones we ever sold to one individual. That little incident did not do me any harm.

JULIA KAHN.

"Meanwhile I was studying everything I could find on the subject of jewels and settings, and I was taking a night course in design. In a short time I was designing settings myself.

On Her Own Hook.

"I undertook it merely as an aid to the customers, but I found it so interesting I gave up my position and started to conduct a small jewelry shop on Fifth Avenue.

"In a short time I had taken it over myself and it has been my own project ever since. My customers all followed me from the store here and I have all the business I can attend to.

"It is nothing now for a man to come in with a check for $15,000 and give me his Christmas list and never look at a stone.

"Business is full of wonderful opportunities for women," she concluded as she smoothed the sleeve of her lavender blouse, "if they'll just get interested enough to recognize them."

FLAPPER GIRLS ARE NOW DISAPPEARING

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(Associated Press) — The "flapper type" of young girl is rapidly disappearing in London. The first signs of waning popularity is the discarding of the bobbed hair.

According to West End hairdressers shortened locks are no longer approved, and the coming winter season will see new styles in the art of hair dressing. The most popular substitute for bobbed hair is a short pompador, and the use of a small ribbon or wreath. This is the favorite style of Princess Mary.

The reversion in hair dressing has even gone to the extent that small amounts of false hair will be used this winter.

The new color for fall hats is "green almond," and veils will be worn extensively. The small hat with a veil fastened across the front, which was popular during the war, is to be worn again. The hats will be smaller this fall, but huge shapes, rivalling the "Merry Widows" of years ago, will be the rage in the spring.

The new evening dresses in the Regent Street windows are entirely minus a back, and a cord of white silk has taken the place of a wider shoulder strap. The materials in vogue are dark shales and purple, and heavy silks and satins will be almost the only materials used. Long trains will again grace the ball-rooms, and three distinct trains are not too much for one gown.

Rich oriental brocades and bejewelled ornaments are to be seen on all of the gowns.

Interest Programme for Local Artist—In the Toronto Conservatory.

Appended is a copy of the programme which Dorothy Allan Park is to give to-day at the Toronto Conservatory in conjunction with Mr. Dalton Baker.

It will be noticed that the greater portion of the programme consists of modern songs, and those who have studied the recent development of song composition with its general loosening of harmonic texture, and complexity of rhythm will realize that only a singer possessed of a very highly developed sense of musicianship, together with a very beautiful natural voice, could undertake such a programme as the one to be given.

Mrs. Park may rest assured that the best wishes of her many musical friends in Peterboro will be with her to-day and all hope that she will score the success she so thoroughly deserves:

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists everywhere.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called Anuric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package of any of his remedies.

NATIVE KOREAN PREACHES HERE

Gives An Interesting Discourse on Orientals and the Potentialities of the Far East.

Rev. H. Y. Cho, B.A., of Korea, who is studying ministerial work in the Toronto University, conducted the evening service at the Truth Mission, last Sunday, when a large number of worshippers were present.

Mr. Cho told of the condition of Chinese and Koreans before Christianity was first introduced to them by Egerson Andrew, a little over seventy years ago. He also landed the name of Miss McClean, a Presbyterian missionary from Ontario, in Korea, who was the first one to tell him of Christ.

The will power of the Chinese, said the speaker, cannot be surpassed by that of any other race. A very intelligent example of this was explained when Mr. Cho told of a shoemaker trying to live a good life and to get out of debt. The first time he shaved the top of his head which made him one of the lowest caste, and he remained in the house for three years. He paid up all his indebtness and started life anew, he once more found himself in debt. His next step to free himself was to pretend that he was deaf and dumb for three years, until he had discharged his liabilities; but to drink and gamble away his substance again. There seemed no help for him until he accepted Chirstianity.

Women Intelligent.

The speaker then pointed out that the Chinese women are just as intelligent as the British or any other of their sex. To illustrate this, he told of a little girl he knew in Korea who lived with Rev. McKenzie and family from Nova Scotia until Mr. McKenzie's death three years later. She was the first pupil who was taught by missionaries; and as a result she could read, write and speak Chinese, Japanese and English; could play the piano, sing and teach, and she knew her Bible exceptionally well. On one occasion, she even repeated the whole book of Revelation, from memory. This girl was imprisoned later for three years in the penitentiary for being at the head of the Womens Christian Association. She was forced to work twelve hours a day steadily on a sewing machine, and in her spare time she taught other prisoners. She not only taught them their language, but also taught them of Christ, and finally succeeded in converting nearly every inmate of that penitentiary. Thirty-five years ago, continued Mr. Cho, there wasn't a Chinese woman in Korea who could read; and now there are about one thousand, five hundred and fifty women able to read in their own language. At the present time where there is a school for the boys there is also a school for the girls.

To Young Folks.

In Rev. Mr. Cho's closing remarks he addressed the young people urging them to help Christianize all the yet unchristianized parts of the world. China itself is one of the three greatest pagan nations. In that country and Japan there are 440,000,000 people in great need of the Gospel and its missionaries.

Referring to the recent World War, Mr. Cho asked, if sixty million men who had forty years training could see the world ablaze, what could three hundred million Chinese do with similar military education.

Now is the time, concluded the speaker, to Christianize China and Japan before they grow powerful in their unchristianized state. He appreciates the good work already done and being accomplished in the Orient, by our missionairies, but stressed the great need for more missionary work there.

SASKATCHEWAN WOMAN RECOVERS

Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Melaval, Saskatchewan.—"I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised for women's troubles and when a friend recommended it to me I tried it and it has done me so much good in the two years in which I have been taking it that I find I am a different woman since then. I recommend your Vegetable Compound as much as I can and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Wm. J. Thomas, Melaval, Saskatchewan.

These letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ought to convince women of the great worth of this medicine in the treatment of ailments to which they are often subject.

Mrs. Thomas writes that she is a different woman now. If you are suffering from troubles women often have, or feel all run down, without any ambition or energy for your regular work, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a natural restorative and should help you as it has Mrs. Thomas and many, many other women.

This medicine has been helping sick women nearly fifty years—surely a long record of service.

MARKING OUT THE 6TH MERIDAN NORTH

Local Man is Engaged in the Work—Formerly Employed on Trent Canal.

The Calgary Daily Herald, for Tuesday, October 3rd, has the following news item regarding the marking out of the sixth meridian north to the Mackenzie river. The Mr. Cameron referred to in the article is a son of Mr. John Cameron of 441 Reid street, this city, and was formerly employed in the local Trent Canal office:—

Taking up the marking of the sixth meridian where Akin's party left off in 1915, B. W. Waugh's party has returned from the far north, and his assistant, M. G. Cameron, visited Calgary Monday on his way to Southern Alberta where he will join another Dominion topographical expedition. Mr. Cameron reports that the line was produced straight north 100 miles, reaching and extending across the Mackenzie river one mile, and two miles past the boundary of Alberta.

The federal surveyors left Edmonton in April, traveled to Peace River Crossing by steamboat, and thence to Fort Vermilion by scows. There they took wagons and pack horses to Hay River Post and after that they used horse and man-power for packing.

They wound up about 12 miles wast of Providence. The object of their work was connecting the Dominion land surveys with traverses run last year. They finished their mission on September 8 and two days later set out for the south from Providence.

Mr. Cameron said that a line of levels was carried through for the 100 miles which will prove of value for the making of contour maps.

The supplies for the expedition were put in last winter by the Hudson's Bay Trading Company, and caches were established about every ten miles. There is no such thing as living on the country as game is very scarce and the only native food that is plentiful is fish. One other native product is very abundant. It is the fly. There are innumerable species that bite and harass human beings, Mr. Cameron observed with feeling, and a new variety is discovered every day. The black fly was very trouble some this year.

There is no settlement in the entire country which is made up principally of muskeg and spruce ridges.

On the way out they passed "The Northland Trader" and "The Pioneer', which were taking in oil drilling equipment and a crew to Fort Norman.

Read This Ere You Write Plays

(By Marian Hale)

"Good morning, have you finished your play?"

This may become the accepted formula of social greeting if the dramatic urge continues to dominate the nation.

"Never before in history have so many people, old and young literate and illiterate, felt such a responsibility to write the great American play," says Rosalie Stewart, playbroker, vaudeville booker, and now Broadway producer.

"On every mail the manuscripts come in, and not one out of five hundred has any merit, and not one out of a thousand betrays any knowledge of the technique of the stage."

She handed me an imposing looking volume of one-act plays.

"Here," she said, "is an ambitious person who has had his play privately printed at great expense. He has one play here of six pages—that would last about two minutes. Can you imagine any person producing a two-minute play.

All Kinds of Boners.

"Here's another where nothing happens for the first 15 minutes. Now in a one-act play there must be a situation in three minutes after the curtain is up—otherwise it is impossible.

"We are flooded with sex plays no one would care to see, mystery plays whose only mystery is why anyone would take the trouble to write them.

"Hair-raising plays are the vogue this year, but by next year they may be a drug on the market—probably will be. By trying to copy the prevailing style in drama, instead of developing some new idea many a good writer goes wrong.

"My advice to all budding playwrights is—know something of the back of the stage before you begin to write plays.

"If yo ucan't get on the stage to act, get a job as maid or carpenter or anything that will give you a chance to see it from the inside and enable you to learn the psychology of the crowd and enable yo uto see how situations are built up and developed.

Enters Vaudeville at 16.

Miss Stewart's career has been a most interesting one. At the age of 16 she had to leave high school because of the illness of her father and take charge of his chain of vaudeville houses in St. Louis.

She succeeded so well that her work soon brought her to New York, where she buys and sells plays as well as books vaudeville.

This season she tried to get a New York producer to produce "The Torchbearers" which she felt was an unusual and novel paly. Five told her the second act couldn't be done.

"I'll just do it myself, and show them" she decided. So she invested her own savings in settings and scenery, selected her cast and brought her production into New York.

It proved all she hoped it would be and more—and it established her as one of the few women producers on Broadway—besides proving that a woman is usually right.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS LAKEFIELD VILLAGE

Anniversary Dinner By Ladies' Aid — Grove School Dance.

The anniversary dinner of the Methodist Church given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid was held on Thanksgiving night according to the established custom of more years than most people remember. The dinner was served in the basement of the church and was a success in every particular as the service was absolutey perfect. The corps of waiters, who were in charge of the various tables under the direction of the matrons, were efficient and spared no pains to supply the wants of the crowd. The tempting wiands were abundant, so much so that the social was repeated Tuesday. The committee in charge is to be congraglated on the success of their effort.

The concert was also high class and much appreciated; the talent being entirely from Peterboro.

Rev. C. S. Reddick was the chairmain of the following programme:

Chorus—Skippers of St. Ives; piano duet—Misses Blanchard and Brown, baritone solo—Mr. Gall, address, Rev. Weir of Warsaw, soprano solo—Miss Kemp, piano solo—Master Walter Townshend, contralto solo—Mrs. Kitney, ladies chorus, piano solo—Miss Brown, address—Rev. P. L. Jull, soprano solo—Miss Black, piano solo—Miss Blanchard, vocal duet—Mrs. Doig and Mrs. Kitney, contralto solo—Miss Payton, piano solo— Miss Phillips, chorus, solo—Scott Medd, address—Rev. S. A. Kemp of Warkworth, soprano solo—Mrs. Doig, trio piano—Misses Phillips, Blanchard and Brown, chorus. National Anthem.

The proceeds amounted to $240 which was most gratifying to those who had worked so hard to make the affair the success it undoubtedly was .

Grove School Dance.

One of the most enjoyable of the holiday functions was the dance given by the boys of The Grove School on Monday evening. The presence of a half a dozen or more girls from Bishop Bethune College gave variety and added greatly to the eclat of the affair. Several of the old boys were present also, as the school never ceases to be a home to its old boys. The big school room was decorated with the school colors, and presented a festive appearance. And with excellent music and a good floor, it is not to be wondered at that everyone enjoyed the evening. Rev. and Mrs. Mackenzie made ideal hosts, and the midnight hour came all too soon.

CLOSE SHAVE FOR HARDING

Democrats in States Piling Up Gains and the President's Administration Will Have at Best Small Working Force.

New York, November 8. — From the latest returns in the United States elections, at 11 o'clock this morning, it looks as though the Harding administration will at best be reduced to a slender working majority.

The Democratic gains in the United States national elections continued to pile up steadily as belated returns came in from all parts of the country early to-day.

Throughout the night Democratic gains in the House of Representatives accumulated without a countergain for the Republicans in a single Congressional district. The great majority rolled up for the Republicans in the Harding landslide of two years ago was gnawed into by the Democrats in districts in all debatable states until there seemed a chance that it virtually might be wiped out or at least be reduced to a slender working force for the administration.

Some important figures in the Republican administration went down to defeat and some members of the Senate and House personally close to President Harding, will return to private life with the rising Democratic tide.

Republican forces failed to break into the Democratic ranks in the south and lost one Congressional district which they have held there for years—ninth Virginian; Speaker Gillett was re-elected; "Uncle Joe" Cannon passed on his seat from Illinois to a Republican.

With the defeat of Governor Miller of New York by Alfred E. Smith, the Republicans also lost 13 seats of the Empire State in the House of Representatives; and Senator Wm. M. Calder, who was beaten by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democratic Health Commissioner of New oYrk City.

ATTACKS VOLSTEAD ACT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(Canadian Press)—In a new attack on the Volstead Act, by the Old Victory Distillery, Judge George T. Page, in Federal District Court, has been asked to restore mince pies to their pre-prohibition standing when brandy sauce was a legitimate ingredient.

Attorneys for the distillery contended the Volstead Act is unconstitutional if it prohibits the sale of spiritous liquors for cooking purposes.

Babe Ruth Must Adhere to Training or Pass Out

One year ago Babe Ruth was baseball's biggest hero.

Today Babe Ruth is regarded in the light of a very ordinary player by fandom.

Ruth, because of his ability to hit home runs, became the idol of the fans over night. They are forgetting him just as quickly.

Ruth, with the puny batting average of .118 was the "bust" of the 1922 series.

Success in any sport depends on co-ordination of brain, eye and muscle.

Jack Dempsey is the heavyweight champion because he possesses those three requisites. Bill Tilden is the world's greatest tennis player for the same reason.

Babe Ruth, when he was the talk of the baseball world because of his marvelous slugging powers, possessed co-ordination of brain, eye and muscle.

For two years the brain end of the game has been passed up by Ruth. He has traveled along on past reputation. Little or no attention to training soon robbed the eye and muscle of their value.

Is Babe Ruth through or can he come back? That is a question of great interest to the New York American League owners who are building a new park seating 65,000 people. Ruth's slugging ability was banked on to fill that park on many an occasion.

Strict adherence to training is Ruth's only hope. Will he realize it before it is too late? Possibly not.

Big doing are promised at the week-end when two rugby games will be played at Riverside Park. Oshawa, Interscholastic section winners, will meet the local Collegians in the morning and Strathconas of Toronto play an intermediate O.R.F.U. contest with the Peterborough team in the afternoon.

* * * * * * *

Oshawa won easily at home and at Belleville. The Motor Town squad put up a fancy brand of rugby last season when they were beaten by the Central Park team for group honors. They are stronger this season.

* * * * * * *

Strathconas will bring several former local boys who are playing on the team, and if the same stands for anything, the visitors should be strong. Strathconas and the Petes will play home-and-home series for group honors.

Lakefield curlers are rejoicing over a gift from Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald, who has presented a silver trophy to the Lakefield Curling Club for competition in the schedule games. The northerners are looking forward to a banner season on the ice.

Dunsford has just opened a fine new rink, having an ice surface of 150 feet x 50 feet. The people of Dunsford made sure of making a good start by opening the rink with a fowl supper and a concert. The Pigeon River quartette from Omemee took part in the festivities.

Lindsay promises a fast intermediate O.H.A. team. Coombs, Carew, Brownscombe, Green, McClory, Gage, Moody, Lipsett, Onlette, McMahon, Metherel, Williamson, Rogers and others are available. The junior team, if one materializes, will be made up of players new to the game. The team that did so well last winter is no more.

Representatives of the P.A.A.A., the Peterborough Baseball Club and the City Baseball League attended a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce and appointed a committee to interview the City Council and invite the city fathers to take part in a big baseball night which will be arranged in honor of the two Ontario championship ball teams.

The silverware won by the champions in the several divisions of the O.B.A.A. will be handed out at a meeting of the association at Toronto next Saturday.

SPORT NOTES

Miller Huggins by again accepting the management of the New York Americans, proves that he is a glutton for punishment.

Despite the walloping the Yankees received from the Giants, Ty Cobb insists the Yankees are the greatest team in either major league. Wonder if Huggins believes it.

Looks very much as if Catcher Schmidt of the Pittsburg Nationals had a press agent. It's a quiet day when he doesn't break into print.

The slogan in the west relative to Iowa by all other "Big Ten" teams is "Beat the team that beat Yale." Coach Howard Jones is in for a busy fall.

Cy Young and Amos Rusie, star pitchers of other days, insist there is one sure way to stop home-run hitting, use high balls. Present day pitchers ask where are you going to get 'em.

Champions who fade seldom come back, but Willie Hoppe looks as if he might be the exception. Hoppe is training faithfully for the coming billiard tournament and feels confident he will regain the title he held so long.

Rogers Hornsby, in explaining how he supplanted Babe Ruth as the home-run king of the majors, very modestly says: "Either the ball is livelier, the fences shorter or the pitchers poor. I swung at the ball in the same old way, but when I hit it, it sure went much farther."

The team of major league players now on their way to the orient will play the first game with Keio University at Tokio. The closing game of the trip will be at Manila on Dec. 30.

SECRET PRACTICE FOR QUEEN'S SQUAD

Kingston College Preparing For Hardest Battle of the season in Clash With Varsity on Saturday.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 8—(Canadian Press.)—Queens got down to work again yesterday afternoon at the stadium in preparation for their battle against Varsity on Saturday. The Queen's players are all in the best of condition with the exception of Harding, but he will be worked this week in order to have him ready for the big battle of the season. All practices will be held behind closed doors. The latest reports from Queen's this morning were to the effect that the demand for seats has been such a tremendous one that it is expected that seats will have to be put around the cinder path all around the track at the stadium to provide accommodation. The crowd expected will number over 8,000, but assurance is given that there will be accommodation for all who wish to see the game.

PRIVATES MARCH OVER THE SCOTS.

The Privates beat the Caledonians, 18 to 17, in the second game last evening after a light argument. Strathconas Play Here On Saturday

Through an error it was announced yesterday that the Argonauts second team would play the Peterboro Intermediate O.R.F.U. team here on Saturday. The name should have been the Strathconas, who will meet the local rugby team at Riverside Park, Saturday afternoon at 2:15.

This is Peterboro's first break into Intermediate rugby in many years and many rugby fans are expected to turn out for the opening battle. The visitors are reported as a fast aggregation and are said to have developed some very clever tactics. The local boys have been hard at it practicing faithfully for the game and under efficient coaching have rounded into a good team. As a result a good fast game is expected.

PSYCHOLOGY IS A BIG FACTOR IN FOOTBALL GAME

Yale Thought Invaders From the West Were Wild and Woolly.

RECORD GAMES.

Psychology plays its part in football like any other sport.

Coach Howard Jones of Iowa must have figured a number of the young men on the Yale eleven were of that opinion.

When the Iowa team came on the field at Yale they were swathed in blankets and wore huge headgears.

When it came time to start practice they removed the blankest, peeled of their huge sweaters and walked around the field in a strange serpentine formation, stretching their arms and legs and grunting lustily as they did so.

The first impression counts in soprt an dIowa certainly gave Yale something to think about as the western team made its appearance.

When Chuck Palmer of Northwestern ran 102 yards after recovering a fumble in the game with Minnesota, the claim was advanced that he had tied a football record of long standing. It was an error.

McCaa made his run against Swarthmore in 1909, while Boynton performed his against Hamilton in 1920.

Palmer's run enabled Northwestern to get a 7 to 7 tie with Minnesota, the first big upset of the year in western football.

Centre versus Washington and Lee.

That game is already attracting much attention in the south.

The meeting of these two great teams will be staged at Louisville, Ky., on Nov. 11.

Centre by its great showing against Harvard, is conceded to have another wonder team. After being scored on three times in the first period, largely because the breaks favored the Crimson, Centre came back and outplayed Harvard the rest of the game.

Washington and Lee showed its strength in the game with West Virginia by holding that team to a 12 to 12 tie. West Virginia had previously defeated Pittsburg, 9 to 6, the first time such a feat had been accomplishel in 20 years by a West Virginia team.

While both clubs are rated strong, it looks as if Centre should have a slight edge.

The longest drop kick of the season is to the credit of O'Hearn of Yale, who scored in that manner from the 52-yard line. As yet no player has run the length of the field from a kickoff in any of the bigger college games.

Nov. 18 is a gala day for the football fan. Some of the best cards of the year are scheduled for a decision on the afternoon of that day.

Prominent among the games scheduled for Nov. 18 is the Princeton-Yale clash. Harvard meets Brown, Michigan takes on Wisconsin, Ohio State plays Iowa, Chicago is scheduled with Illinois, Pennsylvania plays Pen nState, and so on.

WILDCATS TOOK THE FIRST GAME

Defeated Sergeants in the Opening Game of New Section of Men's Soft Ball League.

The new section of the Men's Softball League began its schedule last evening by playing a double-header. "Ab." Frick's Wildcats, composed principally of the Maple Leafs, Ontario juvenile champions, easily trimmed the Sergeants, the score being 24 to 4. Both teams are new to softball, but the youngsters have baseball brains and will soon learn the game. Scott, the Sergeant's hurler, was hit hard and far and he received poor support from his teammates.

On Saturday afternoon, November 4, the Woollens defeated the Quaker Oats, 12 to 2. The steady work of McLean of the Woollens along with loose infield play on the part of the Quakers gave the Woollens the long end of the score.

The second game on Saturday afternoon between the Raybestos and Brinton Carpet finished with a score of 15 to 4 in favor of Raybestos. The Brinton team were without their battery, Bishop and Taylor, although Shaughnessy, on the rubber for the Brintons, turned in a first-class game.

World Series Won by Ball Player's Queer Mistake in Reading Signals

George Burns, first baseman of the Cleveland Americans was sitting on the edge of the dugout in the Brooklyn ball park watching the infielders as the third game of the world series of 1920 was drawing to a close. Burns suddenly became more alert, gazed intently for several minutes and then, turning to Manager Tris Speaker, remarked:

"I thing I got 'em."

"Who's giving 'em?"

"Kilduff—there at second. Watch him!"

Pete Kilduff, Brooklyn's second baseman, was bending low as the catcher signaled the pitcher before the delivery. Then, when the pitcher prepared to wind up, Kilduff picked up a few pebbles of dirt. At times he tossed the dirt ahead of him; at other time he tossed it behind him, his bared hand and arm swinging at his side or between his legs.

"Notice him?" asked Burns after Speaker had watched Kilduff on several pitched balls.

"Looks like it. We'll try him out," replied Speaker.

Calling the next batsman to his side, Speaker gave the player implicit instructions. He was to wait the pitcher out and he was to watch every pitched ball closely and discover what it was.

From the dugout Burns and Speaker watched Kilduff and when the batsman returned to the bench they had the key to the Brooklyn signal code. They knew then that whenever Kilduff tossed dirt in front of him the pitcher was about to deliver a fast ball and whenever he threw the dirt behind, it was a spit ball or a curve. The same signal was used for any ball other than a fast ball.

The discovery came too late in the game. Cleveland was beaten. Cleveland had been beaten on the previous day. The first game of the series was a Cleveland victory.

The scene shifted to Cleveland and after one day of rest the series was resumed. The Cleveland players took the field with instructions to watch Kilduff. They were to set themselves and prepare to meet a fast ball whenever Kilduff tossed the dirt in front of him, the signal for a fast one. They were to ignore the delivery whenever Kilduff tossed the dirt behind him.

The mastery of the Brooklyn pitchers disappeared in that game Cleveland won, scoring five runs and five runs was more than their total in the first three games. The next day they scored eight, including a home run with the bases filled. They knocked out Grimes, leading pitcher of the National league and a spit ball pitcher. Grimes wondered why they swung only at his fast ball and ignored his spit ball. This baseball route marked the turning point in the series. With Grimes knocked out of the box, with no pitcher able to stop Cleveland, the issue was all but completely decided and Cleveland achieved a complete victory in the next two days, winning each day and landing the championship, five games to two. The series, as Wood had predicted, ended in Cleveland.

Several months later, one bleak winter day, McAllister, the Cleveland coach met Kilduff on the street in Columbus, Ohio. The world series was introduced into the conversation.

"I've never been able to understand how you fellows got on to our pitchers all of a sudden. The way you looked those two days in Brooklyn I thought you'd never be able to hit them," observed Kilduff.

"Oh, it isn't so funny" replied McAllister. "Not funny at all if you'd been where I was on the Cleveland bench."

"I don't understand."

"I know, but if I were you, I'd get a different set of signals for next season. It's all over now and it makes no difference to us and that's my friendly advice to you."

"What do you mean? I don't need anw advice. What have I got to do with a change in signal system?"

McAllister told Kilduff in detail how Cleveland das discovered the key to the Brooklyn signal code by watching him and how the batsmen, by observing the movement of his arm, had been able to know whenever a fast ball was coming up and bat accordingly.

As McAllister finished Kilduff laughed. "Yes, that is funny and you don't know how funny it is for I didn't give a signal all through the series. It wasn't me but Ivy Olson, our shortstop, who was signalling the outfielders on every pitched ball."

The strange revelation, months after, that Kilduff did not give any signal, does not destroy the value his movements had for the Cleveland batsmen. Kilduff unconsciously went through a certain motion when a fast ball was about to be pitched and through another motion when a curve ball was asked for. Ball players frequently do that.

This story is told in the Dearborn Independent by H. G. Salsinger in a series of articles on unusual incidents in baseball.

A NEW MANAGER FOR THE PHILLIES

Owner of the Philadelphia National League Team Says Wilhelm Will Not Be in Charge Next Year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.— (Canadian Press.) — William F. Baker, owner of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, admitted last night to the Associated Press that he will not retain Irvin K. Wilhelm as manager of his team next year, but he denied the report that he is negotiating with Hugo Bezdek, athletic director of State College, Pa., with a view to his taking charge.

Wilhelm took charge of the Quakers during the season of 1921 and finished last, climbing out of the cellar to seventh place this season. He formerly was a pitcher and has been in major league baseball since 1903, except from 1914 to 1921. He first was with Pittsburgh, and then with Boston, Brooklyn, Baltimore, and finally Philadelphia.

Coach Yost's Team Will Make Trouble

By BILLY EVANS.

Michigan is certain to be a trouble maker in western football this year.

Coach Yost has a team with great possibilities. It has plenty of power, drive and fight.

For several years many of the western experts have insisted that Michigan teams were not making the most of their possibilities, due to the fact that too much old-style football was used.

It has been argued that Michigan for several years have been lacking in variety of play and deceptiveness of attack. Michigan, according to the experts, was playing a rather stereotyped game that could be easily diagnosed after a period or so.

Team Is Well Coached.

The Michigan team that lined up against Ohio State certainly refuted any and all such arguments. While Michigan didn't open up to any great extent against State I feel that it was due to the fact that Michigan always held the upper hand and was forcing State to do the leading, as they say in boxing circles.

Michigan having gained the lead, forced State to press its game and was quick to take advantage of every slip in State's play. In other words, Michigan played a wide-awake game, never failing to follow the ball and often profiting thereby.

Yost's pupils showed they were well coached in the fundamentals of the game. The rather green and inexperienced line charged low and hard. The secondary defense of Michigan was a thing of beauty. Seldom have I ever seen better work on the part of a team's secondary defense.

State Used Many Passes.

Knowing that State would attempt to bewilder Michigan when Wilce's charges opened up their game, Yost had his team prepared for such a happening. After Michigan forged to the front Workman started to spray forward passes all over the gridiron.

Michigan soon showed that it was prepared to cope with the forward passes of State. The fleet Maize and Blue backs always covered their man. On almost every play one or more Michigan forwards would sift through and force Workman to hurry his passes.

In an attempt to win State uncovered its bag of tricks. In the last two periods Workman opened up everything. Michigan, in winning, disclosed but little of its strategy. One of the very few trick plays used by Yost's team resulted in a touchdown. It was a beautifully executed delayed double pass.

Uteritz Stars at Quarter.

Quarterback Uteritz of Michigan, who ran his team in brainy fashion, had been using Fullback Cappon a great deal in crashing off tackle. Such a play seemed to be on tap when the delayed pass was pulled. With Uteritz handling the ball, Cappon dashed past him and into the left side of State's line. Most of the State team was pulled over to stop the plunge of Cappon, who had been a consistent gainer.

While State was watching Cappon, Uteritz tossed the ball to Roby, who in turn slipped it to Kipke. From start to finish the play was well executed, the deception perfect. It was an easy matter for Kipke to run 25 yards for a touchdown, only one State runner, Isabel being close.

Michigan's game with Ohio State proved that the Ann Arbor eleven has great possibilities. I also proved that Fielding Yost and his assistant, George Little, are not going to use any antiquated stuff in 1922.

The power of the Michigan eleven was further emphasized in the game with Illinois, which Yost's team won by the decisive score of 24 to 0.

Illinois had surprised the football world by holding Iowa, the conqueror of Yale, to an 8 to 7 score. It looked as if Michigan was in for a lot of trouble.

Yet minus Kipke, the star of the Michigan backfield, Illinois was soundly trounced.

BOWLING

The Y. M. C. A. Bowling League opened last night with Aberdeens and Murray Street as the contending teams. The League is composed of eight strong teams, four of which formed the nucleus of last year's league, which from the point of interest, was one of the best ever conducted on the Y.M.C.A. alleys. The new teams are all enthusiastic, and are confident that they can provide strong competition for any of the veteran teams. Aberdeens won three games last night. The scores were:

INCREASED STAFF AT LOUIS' CAFE

Business at Louis' Cafe during its first week has so greatly exceeded expectations that it has been necessary to increase the establishment's staff. The restaurant now has a first and second chef and a pastry chef and more waiters. Last week the patronage was so large that the staff was unable to handle it rapidly, but now efficient service is assured.

An added feature of the cafe's service that will interest ladies is the sale of pies and other pastry for use at home.

The management promises that the present excellence of the cuisine and service will continue, and makes a special appeal to those who have not been satisfied with local restaurant service. Prices always the same.

FARNUM AT BEST IN "SHACKLES OG GOLD"

William Farnum gave a splendid performance in "Shackles of Gold" his latest Fox picture at the Royal Theatre yesterday, and sent every one away feeling that he or she had seen a worthwhile, entertaining picture—one that was graced with real acting. In its chief role it showed the genius of this popular star for portrayal of highly emotional scenes.

America has produced few actors who have pleased the picture going public so well. Of course, beauty, daredevilry and other attractions have drawn the public to the picture houses, but for big emotional acting Farnum has no equal on the screen.

"Shackles of Gold" is based on Henri Bernstein's great stage play "Samson." In it Farnum ruins his rival financially, but in doing so also breaks himself. And out of the wreckage comes what he did not belive could come—a wife's ardent love. Myrta Bonillas plays the wife.

The picture which Herbert Brenon directed, will be shown at the Royal for the last time tonight.

A person to whom the most beautiful diamonds were merely "bread and cheese!"

This was the financier, philantropist, imperialist and one of the most romantic figures of his time—Cecil Rhodes. Through the BeDeers syn- Rhodes. Through the BeBeers syn- output and price of diamonds from the Kimberely fields, the largest in the world, but he often referred to them in the words quoted. However, he did not abuse his power, but used it for the betterment of Rhodesia, and the furtherance of his pet dream of a South African Federation.

The idea of an unscrupulous man in such a position is a fascinating one, and Cynthia Stockley developed it in the story upon which Penrhyn Stanlaws' production of "Pink Gods" is based. The character of John Quelch is supposed to have been suggested by the romantic life of Cecil Rhodes, but the dramatic adaptation by J. E. Nash and Sonya Levien includes incidents which have never been credited to the late "master of Kimberley."

John Quelch subjected men to involuntary operations for the recovery of diamonds which they had stolen from him; Cecil Rhodes gave thousands of pounds to charity and wept when a poor woman told him of her child's hunger. John Quelch used the flashing gems he owned to test the beautiful women he met; Cecil Rhodes received many notes from women, which he had his secretary answer, without granting interviews.

But John Quelch is human and the story of "Pink Gods" which comes to the Capitol Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, has a human theme; the almost hypnotic power of jewels over some women, making them forget duty and self-respect, if not honor. Bebe Daniels and Jame Kirkwood are featured, and the supporting cast includes Anna Q. Nilsson, Raymond Raymond Hatton, Adolphe Menjou and others.

MAE MURRAY in "FASCINATION" AT THE CAPITOL. Last Chance To-Night.

AT THE GRAND.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" MAIL ORDERS.

Mail orders for "Chu Chin Chow" are coming in so rapidly that the Manager of the Grand Theatre has been obliged to engage a special secretary to handle the details and file the applications for seats in the order they are received. The first letter that was opened Monday morning contained an order for twenty seat for the matinee, while other large orders are for the opening performance and in fact through out the entire engagement. All indications are that "Chu Chin Chow" will break all box office records in this city. The fact that for once we are to enjoy that great rarity, an absolute metropolitan production and cast, precisely as such other large cities as Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington and San Francisco, have seen it, is the magnet that is sure to draw crowded houses to the very beginning of the engagement.

The box office sale is now open.

DOCTORS STOP MEAT IN KIDNEY TROUBLE

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, begin on Salts

No man or woman who eats too much meat can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Big meat eating may develop uric acid, which excites the kindeys; they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood; then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleepiness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or of the urne is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, annd in a few days your kidneys may act fine This famous salts is made from the acid of grape and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which every one should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

The bride was dressed in a navy blue suit, with a black picture hat and bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Please allow me to express my grateful appreciation to the theatregoing public of Peterboro for their very generous patronage to my recent production whatever the fortune of the "Bluebird" the Peterboro people have surely done their part in boosting it along: four large audiences surely is an indication of real appreciation and I am very grateful.

To all the members of the cast principals, directors, members of the chorus, Mr. Phillips and his Grand Opera House staff, goes a tremendous amount of credit for the success of the offering. HELD A SOCIAL.

On Monday evening a social evening was held in the Parish Hall of Ennismore, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, in aid of the fire sufferers of the northern country.

MR. BAIRD.

At Gospel Hall last night an audience that was a surprise, listened to an address on the first Epistle of Corinthians dealing with the first seven judgments mentioned in the book. 1st, motive judgment. That is, judging the motive behind an act which is God's alone to do, but men sometimes step in where God only can see. 2nd, self judgment. 3, assembly judgment. 4, sentimental judgment, where people are warned not to eat the Lord's Supper unworthily. 5, outside judgment, and 7, Divine judgment. To-night seven more aspects of the same truth will be the theme. Mr. Baird is a most forceful speaker, driving home the truth to the heart and conscience, under the Divine power. Everyone should avail themselves of so great an opportunity.

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.— (Special.)—In to-day's markets it was hard to say that Tuesday's election results cut much of a figure. Some professional selling occurred at the opening of the stock exchange, obviously by way of experiment. But there was no real liquidation and no reason why there should have been.

That the heavy Democratic vote denoted widespread dissatisfaction with the high tariff was conceded in Wall street as elsewhere, but from a practical standpoint the main consideration was that no amount of adverse voting could result in a change in the new import duties, at least for another two and a half years to come. Consequently there was not a ripple of excitement even in the shares of the industrial companies which are the chief beneficiaries of the Republican Tariff.

Very early the general share list forgot the election altogether and settled down in the same sort of irregular price movements that were the rule before.

The two most important occurrences of the day were a further violent break in French and Belgian exchange, and a jump of over 100 points in cotton. A good part of the drop in the Belgian and French exchanges had come while business was suspended here on Tuesday. The rest of the decline took place this morning before New York was ready for business.

There had been some question Monday how far the Turkish crisis was a factor, but there was no such question to-day. Had there been acute uneasiness over the situation at Constantinople it would have been found to show in other foreign countries as well as in French and Belgian. As it was sterling was up over a cent and Italian lire were decidedly strong. This left no doubt that the drop of nearly half a cent in French and Belgian francs—carrying rates down almost to the very low figures of January, 1921—were almost wholly a reflection of the concern felt for the financial outlook in these two countries in view of the apparent failure of the Berlin conference on reparations to accomplish anything.

WITH THE MINES.

TORONTO, Nov. 8. — Kirkland Lake is quoted 45 and 47 and Beaver 25 to 35. The party of brokers who have just returned from their visit to this camp report the Kirk Lake vein to be very rich and to extend over a wide area at the 1,000-foot level. Considerably higher prices in these shares seem practically certain.

STOCKS ADVANCE.

NEW YORK, November 8.— Believing that the action of the market during the first hours indicated that the stock prices had already taken into consideration the outcome of the elections, big operators renewed their activity on the constructive side during the early afternoon. Many large traders who sold Studebaker above 130 are re-accumulating their lines Studebaker sells ex-dividend $2.50 a share on Friday. Kayser advanced to 46 7-8, but did not hold its gain. Stephen J. Leonard, who is one of the largest holders of this stock, with his associates, were purchasers of Arnold Constable and Co. This purchase is expected to result in great benefits to J. Kayers. Trading in Arnold Constable stock began on the curb at one o'clock to-day.

RADIO NEWS

Automobile clubs in the future will become centers of advice to travelling motorists.

They are such aids now, but the future will see them sending out advice as to roads and directions while motorists are speeding along the highways. It will be done by radio.

Some time ago there came a suggestion from an automobile inventor concerning this form of help. He had designed an instrument for the automobile by which the driver could keep on the right track to whatever town he wanted to reach by means of a method of radio signaling. Wires strung along the roads would carry the signals which could be caught by the instrument on the dashboard while the car traveled ahead.

This is only a crude beginning to what automobile manufacturers eventually expect to install in their cars. A radio receiving and telephone transmitting set, compactly set on the right side below the dash, could be made to carry on conversation with the nearest automobile club. From the auto club, in this way, the driver could learn the way to his destination or he could get aid in event of a breakdown.

In such cases the radio will be supreme. The telephone cannot reach into the out-of-the-way places from which a person can flash his call for help by wireless.

Efficient Housekeeping

The modern idea of efficiency extends into the household as well as into every branch of business. Most housewives pride themselves upon the fact that their homes are conducted in an efficient, business-like manner.

Every housewife knows, too, that the business of running a house, providing for the wants and needs of the different members of the family and meeting the almost daily emergencies is second to none.

The Want Ads. in the Examiner are a great boon to the efficient housewife. In securing helpers, in purchasing various articles of household equipment, disposing of discarded furniture, in fact in countless ways, the Want Ads. are the housewife's most valuable assistant.

OTTAWA VIEW OF ELECTIONS

Democratic Victory May Be The Sign of Protest Against High Tarif Legislation.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.— (Canadian Press)—In no capital outside United States perhaps, will results of United States elections be followed with keener interest than in Ottawa. Democratic victories yesterday, although, so far as announced, they are insufficient to secure majority in House of Representatives are interpreted as indication that recent high tariff legislation at Washington has not been favorably received by people of United States.

It is in possible effect of Congressional elections on trade relations between Canada and United States that Canada is most interested. Passing of Fordney Tariff Bill followed by adoption of permanent tariff seriously affected export of agricultural products to United States.

DIVORCE ACTION AGAINST SON OF TORONTO PHYSICIAN

TORONTO, November 8 (Canadian Press). — The action of Mlle. Mariette Van Hoorde, of Belgium, against Walter W. McKeown, law student, and son of a well-known Toronto physician, for alleged breach of promise, was set aside to-day for hearing in the Assizes here to-morrow.

The action arises from a romance which took place while the defendant was a student at Cambridge University prior to the war.

STRIKING PAGEANT AT CONVENTION HERE OF WOMEN BAPTISTS

EVENING SESSION MURRAY ST. CHURCH

Last night's session of the convention of Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary societies for Western Ontario was featured by addresses on India and Bolivia, delivered by Miss Janet F. Robinson, formerly of Bobcaygeon, who is home on furlough from her station at Samalkot, India, and by Rev. H. E. Stillwell, of Toronto, General secreatry of the Missionary Board, who was for many years a missionary in India, and who just recently took a trip to South America to observe conditions in that country.

Capacity Attendance

The church was filled last evening with an interested audience. The president, Mrs. Albert Matthews, occupied the chair. Miss Robinson, whose address was delivered with a degree of humorous vigor that was much appreciated by her hearers, spoke mainly on the conduct of the boys' school at Samalkot, of which she has charge. Prefacing her remarks with an allusion to the influence exersiced by a mother on her children in their formative years, illustrated by historical examples, she quoted Dr. Saleeby's assertion that the greatest product of Canada is not wheat nor nickel, but Canadians, whose quality is being formed by the mothers of the present growing generation.

Miss Robinson has worked in the Samalkot school for nearly seven years. Here there are about 175 boys, with their ten teachers, two of whom are women. Each boy, if he can afford it, pays eight cents per month for his keep, his tuition, food, laundry, etc., in fact, everything he needs. If he cannot afford this much, he pays four cents, or nothing at all. The children are taught everything that an English-speaking child learns, and, in addition, a great deal of the Bible is studied. Here Miss Robinson interjected the query: "Do the children in your public schools have a Bible lesson every day?"

The curriculum of the eight standards into which the work of the preparatory school is divided was described in detail, giving an idea of Bible teaching undertaken that would probably make a child in any of the public schools of this country gasp with surprise, and it is all done in Telagu, the language of that section of India. From 7:30a.m. to 11 a.m., and from 2p.m. to 5 p.m. the children study, and, in the intervals, do such small chores as are necessary, such as pounding their rice food, which is prepared freshly every day, drawing water, splitting wood, etc. They play a great deal, with much vigor, declared the speaker, are fond of football and do beautiful folk dances. As they have very little money, their method of making offerings to good works is to save some of their rice food every day. This is purchased by the missionary, and the money returned to the children, who give five coppers, equivalent to about two and one half cents in our money, to the Lord's collection box every month. Eighteen rupees, or nearly six dollars, was divided by them in a recent year into three parts, one towards the fund for building a small chapel, one to the leper home at Ramachandrapuram, one to help the starving children of Europe. On Sundays, some of the older boys go down to the large village near and hold small evnagelical meetings. "These are some of the things," said Miss Robinson, that these children give in return for your money expended on them," concluding her address with an earnest exhortation to parents to give what they could; their own child for the work of the missionary fields, and extending a cordial invitation for attendance at the 1924 celebration of the jubilee of the schools at Samalkot and Cocanada.

Review of Trip

Rev. Mr. Stillwell followed, with review of his trip to South America in December of last year. He told of his encounters with the mountain sickness and the intense cold of that southern continent, and of his reception there, when he was greeted by a speech from a reformed drunkard, a man whose eloquent address was "one of the miracles of the grace of God in that black land that you can't make much more pitch black, even though it is nominally Roman Catholic."

Mr. Stillwell and his companions made a trip of 53 miles by auto to Peniel Hall Farm, the place of between eight hundred and one thousand acres given to the Baptist church by a converted Italian, who wished it used as an educational centre for the Indians of the land. Mr. Stillwell's address here was translated first into Spanish, and then into the dialect of the natives here, called Aymria.

"I wish," declared the speaker, "that Spain had never seen South America. They had a simple civilization of their own there, that of the sun worshippers, but Spain went down and, in the name of the Holy Christ and of the Crucifix, enslaved these people until to-day they are so far down that they merely say "good day." in their own language when passing a stranger, and seem to want to get away from one as quickly as possible. Their great towering cathedrals were built with their toil and tears, and it is up to the Protestant church, with the true meaning of the cross, to give them the real true meaning of communion

Women In England Seriously Advised To Smoke The Pipe

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press).—English physicians are urging women who are addicted to smoking to use a pipe and good tobacco instead of the cigarette. The doctors point out that the nicotine found in the cheaper brands of cigarettes is much more injurious to women than to men, and they declare that the perfumes and scents used in brands prepared for the fair sex also are injurious.

Two recent deaths of women have been attributed directly to cigarette smoking. While these cases have been due to excessive smoking, the physicians say that the same amount of pipe smoking probably would not have had fatal results.

Smoking among women in London is now almost universal, and one rarely goes to a theatre, dance or restaurant where the majority of the women present are not smoking.

Recently two young women appeared at an athletic meet smoking pipes, and many of the fashionable shops of Bond street have exhibited stocks of pipes designed for the feminine smoker. However, the innovation has made little progress, and cigarettes are still the favorite.

FINAL RESULTS OF ELECTIONS

Republicans Will Continue To Control Congress Majorities Cut In Two.

NEW YORK, November 9. Canadian Press. — Continued Republican control of Congress, but with Senate majority cut in two and House majority of 160 slashed to a scant handful, appeared to-day as the net result of last Tuesday's Congressional elections, with the returns almost complete. Tight races in a few undecided districts not affecting the general result, and delay in counting, however, threaten to postpone the final figures until to-morrow.

Belated Montana returns this morning sent Republicans over the top in House contest. The election of R. Scott Leavitt, Republican, in Montana, gave the Republicans 218 votes necessary to control the next House.

With seven Congressional districts in Kansas, North Dakota, Washington and West Virginia to hear from, the roll in the next House stood — Republicans 220; Democrats 205; Socialist 1; Farmer Labor 1; and independent 1.

Returns from all but three Congressional districts where results were still undetermined at noon today, show 224 Republicans, 205 Democrats, one Socialist, one Independent and one Farmer-Labor elected to the new House of Representatives.

Whether the Republicans will have six or seven votes over the necessary majority of 218 for control of the House of Representatives probably will not be known until to-morrow. One district (third Kansas) is delayed. With this district missing Republican strength is 224; Democratic 207; Socialist 1; Farmer-Labor 1; and Independent 1. Majority is 218.

PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY IS NOT IN THE MARKET.

WINDSOR, November 9. Canadian Press. — Frank B. Alfred, the President of the Pere Marquette Railway, this morning forcibly denied the rumour that the Pennsylvania Road is contemplating purchasing the Canadian Division of the Railway.

"The Pere Marquette Railway is not for sale and it is not contemplating consolidation with any other system," he said. "The Pere Marquette Railway will doubtless take over some of the smaller roads in the territory, to round out its system and there is no doubt but that in the interests of the people of Michigan this plan should follow.

THE REPORTS AT BIG CONVENTION ARE GRATIFYING

Today's Business For Baptist Women Is Devoted To The Work Of Home Missions.

GIVINGS INCREASE

This morning's session of the Women's Baptist Missionary Convention at Murray street church opened at 9.30 with devotional exercises led by Mrs. E. H. Richards of Toronto. The convention to-day being devoted to the work of Home Missions, the sessions are presided over by Mrs. Chas. J. Holman, of Toronto, who in this morning's elections, was returned as president of the Home Mission Board of Ontario West for the 29th consecutive time. Mrs. Holman's re-election, which had but one opponent, Mrs. W. R. Henderson, of Toronto, was greeted with enthusiasm. Mrs. Holman asked for help in carrying on the arduous duties of her position. Re-elections marked the nomination of the other officers also:—Mrs. John Lilley of Toronto, being returned as 1st vice president; Mrs. W. W. McMaster of Hamilton as 2nd vice president, and Miss Emma Fox of Toronto as recording secretary. Elections for Board of Directors were left over for this afternoon's session.

Increase in Work

Reports showing a gratifying increase in enthusiastic work and in givings were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. C. Jones, of Toronto, who also read the report of the recording secretary, Miss Emma Fox of Toronto, and Mrs. Harper's report on Literature.

The treasurer's report by Mrs. V. J. Towers of Toronto, showed receipts during the year of $21,738.04, with expenditures of $22,977.54, with a balance from last year of $2159.82, leaving a balance on hand this year of $920.32. In givings, Toronto, stands highest, with Oxford-Brant second. Peterboro district gave $830.47, with $320 from Murray street church, and $73 from Park street.

Miss Josephine Wright of Toronto, gave a report on 'Comfort Boxes', reporting 102 sent out. The financial statement of the "Baptist Visitor" publication showed a balance on hand of $318.05.

Our Literature

Mrs. W. L. Kingdon of Toronto, spoke on "Our Literature", commending to the attention of the meeting the various interesting tracts, books and leaflets on sale. Mrs. Kingdon also spoke of the 'Visitor's' troubles with its mailing list, a copy of which she had brought along with her, to show the delegates. There were now 9,100 names on the list, she reported, 550 more than last year's total.

The suggestion of the president that telegrams be sent to two absent members, Mrs. John Lilley of Toronto, and Miss C. McLean of Toronto, was adopted.

Rev. Mr. Hatt of Toronto, manager of the Baptist Book Room in that city, was a visitor to the convention this morning, and addressed the meeting briefly, asking their co-peration and support in the work of the Book Room.

A very enthusiastic address on Mission Bands was given at this morning's session by Mrs. N. Mills of London, the Mission Band superintendent for the Eastern Convention.

Many New Bands

Mrs. Mills reported 49 new or reorganized bands, with Toronto and Oxford-Brant leading in totals of bands, and Niagara-Hamilton close behind. The givings this year for both home and foreign missions amounted to $5393.27, almost twice as much as the total Band givings ten fears ago. By personal endeavor, for a special fund 'a love gift" to help augment the general funds, the sum of $123.14 had been realized from an appeal for postage stamps.

The Intercession Hour at the close of the session was led by Mrs. Holman.

CONVENTION NOTES

For to-day, Home Mission Day, Mrs. J. L. Sloat of Niagara Falls, is acting as Convention Secretary, and Mrs. P. E. Roberts of Toronto, as reporter for the Canadian Baptist.

Miss Abbie Garbutt of Saskatoon, who will give an address, illustrated with slides, this evening, is a daughter of Mrs. W. Garbutt, of Douro, and has been a pioneer worker in the western mission field for the last three years.

Ushers for yesterday morning and afternoon and this morning at the Convention were:—Mrs. Joseph Wearing, Mrs. L. B. Webb, the Misses Florence Scott, Robina Montgomery, Emma Aldrich and F. Routley.

HUNTER SPENT THE NIGHT IN TALL TIMBERS

Was Lost For a Part of a Day and One Night---Deer Plentiful In The North.

To be lost in the woods north of Buckhorn overnight, while on a deer hunt, was the experience of Daniel Morgan, an American hunter. On Tuesday Mr. Morgan, accompanied by George Taylor, an Indian guide, residing at Curve Lake, started out in search of game. Taylor instructed Morgan to take a position at the top of a hill, but apparently he misunderstood these instructions and went around the hill. Later, when Taylor went to look for his charge, he failed to find him. The search was continued until darkness settled over the woods. Morgan spent the night out and yesterday at noon was found by another hunter. He had suffered no ill effects. The party was hunting in the Turtle Lake district. Deer are plentiful this year and the hunters are said to be getting their quota without much difficulty.

A STRONG CAST IN CHU CHIN CHOW

Notable Array of Players Will Present Famous Musical Extravaganza Here.

A notable array of players is engaged in "Chu Chin Chow," the big musical extravaganza which opens at the Grand Theatre here tomorrow night. Here for the first time we have an organization numbering into the hundreds, whose principals enlist some of the best known names on the American stage. "Chu Chin Chow" is not only a musical comedy extravaganza and spectacle, but it has moments of strong dramatic power, in at least two of the climaxes, which call for acting of no small order. This is why Morris Gest engaged Miss Virginia Howell, who won fame as "Iris" in "Ben Hur" to bring her superb diction and dramatic fire to the intense and colorful role of "Zahrat," the slave girl, the chief dramatic figure in the spectacle.

Others in the superb cast that F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest have assembled include Lionel Braham, as Chu; Albert Fromm as the steward Abdullah; Don W. Ferrandou as Ali Baba; Hannah Toback in the prima donna role of Mabubah; also Adelaide Mesmer, Blakely Thompson, Maud Files, Hattie Carmontell, Lorraine Weimer, Louis Le Vie, Ernest Elliott, Charles Jones, Roy Tracy and many others.

The entire ensemble runs into the hundreds, including the most beautiful chorus and ballet ever seen in this city and numbering more than sixty.

The regular orchestra will be strongly reinforced for this engagement. Mail orders are now being received, and the public box office is now open.

Crerar Is Ready To Resign As Leader Progressive Group

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—A special despatch from Winnipeg states that Hon. T. A. Crerar's resignation from the leadership of the Progressive group in the House of Commons has been written and signed and will be read at the Progressive gathering in Winnipeg to-morrow.

"The resignation will be a valedictory paragraph of his address," says the despatch, "which will be an accounting of his stewardship as Federal leader of the Progressives, the position which he accepted for one session of Parliament that passed into history less than a year ago.

"No recommendation as to his successor is attached as a rider to the resignation."

ILLUSTRATED TALK IN "HOME GARDEN"

George Baldwin, F.R.H.S. Here Monday, Nov. 13.

Dr. J. E. Middleton, President of the Horticultural Society, has advised the Examiner that arrangements have now been completed to have Mr. George Baldwin, F.R.H.S., visit Peterborough again next Monday, Nov. 13th, for the purpose of giving an illustrated lecture on 'The Home Garden' to the Society, in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, over the Dominion Bank.

Mr. Baldwin is specially employed by the Dept. of Agriculture, Provincial Government, for the purpose of developing the activities of the Province on Horticulture, and is therefore thoroughly conversant with his subject, which should prove to be interesting and instructive. Having acted as Judge in the last Annual Lawn and Garden Competition conducted by the Society, he therefore will deal directly with this subject on Home Gardens from his information gained of Peterborough on that occasion.

The Society believes that Mr. Baldwin should be greeted with a large audience to take advantage of first hand practical information on horticulture.

QUICK CLEAN-UP BY DEER HUNTERS

Bradburn and Wood Each Secure Quota On First Day.

Frank Bradburn and Gerald A. Wood, who left Sunday for the deer hunt, each secured their quota, in the shape of a large buck, first thing on Monday morning, and on Monday afternoon it was in cold storage.

This is about the quickest clean-up of the deer hunt that Peterboro hunters have had in recent years.

Bradburn and Wood were located at Mr. Sherry's cottage, Burleigh, and hunted between there and Apsley.

RULES NOTHING TO SHOW BRICK SOLD TO HAYES

Justice Middleton Dismissed Action By Curtis Bros. Against John Hayes, Both of City.

RED ARROW TIRES

TORONTO, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press).—The claim of Curtis Bros., brick makers, against John Hayes, contractor, for some $6,000 for brick supplied in connection with building a factory for the Red Arrow Tire Co. has been dismissed by Justice Middleton after the trial at Peterborough.

Hayes was under contract to erect a $120,500 building for the Red Arrow Co., which was supposed to be a wealthy concern, but which has since proved insolvent. It is held that there is nothing to show that the brick was sold to Hayes. Everything that happened was consistent with it having been sold to the Red Arrow Co.

Hayes clapped a lien for $38,000 on the building to cover his own claim. Curtis Bros. registered no lien. The building was sold for a sum to realize 50 cents on the dollar of Hayes' claim. At the trial Justice Middleton suggested that Hayes should allow Curtis Bros. to share in the proceeds of the lien in proportion to their claim. The court remarks that it seems unfair that the proceeds of the sale of Curtis' brick should go to pay some part of Hayes' claim, but he has no alternative but to dismiss the action.

It is understood that Curtis Bros. will appeal.

JUDGMENT FAVORS PETERBORO WOMAN

Sherin Action a Most Interesting Case at Lindsay Assizes.

The trial of cases at the Assize Court at Lindsay concluded yesterday, Wednesday, at the noon hour. An outstanding feature of the sittings was the number of High Court cases which were disposed of and tried by Mr. Justice Riddell, the presiding Judge. From Tuesday at one o'clock, when the sittings opened, until they closed the following day, the Trial Judge heard and dealt with a murder trial and six civil actions.

Among the most interesting cases contested was that of Miss Millie Sherin, Sheridan St., Peterborough, against the Executor of the Estate of the late Rebecca Sherin of Omemee. The Plaintiff claimed for services rendered the deceased Rebecca Sherin for a period of some four years during which time it appeared that the deceased was incapacitated by old age and required constant attention. The Plaintiff admitted that there was no distinct bargain for wages, but claimed that the statements of the deceased and the surrounding circumstances showed clearly that the Plaintiff was to be paid for her services. The contention of the defendant, Richard Grandy, the Executor of the Estate of the deceased, was that the services rendered by the Plaintiff to the deceased were given through family affection and without the intention on either side that the Plaintiff should be paid wages, and further alleged that the bequest of $400.00 made by the will of deceased to the Plaintiff for kindness received was all that the Plaintiff was entitled to. Mr. Justice Riddell, who tried the case without a Jury, after hearing the evidence, rendered judgment in favour of the Plaintiff for $6,000.00 (in addition to the $400.00 left by the will), together with costs of action.

The Trial Judge at the conclusion congratulated the counsel on both sides for their presentation of the case and noted with approval the truthfulness and candor of the witnesses on both sides.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C. (Peterborough), was counsel for the Plaintiff, Miss Millie Sherin, and Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., (Lindsay), represented the defence.

An earlier despatch in to-day's mail edition read that Miss Sherin was alowed only $1,000 in addition to the $400 bequeathed her in a codicil to the will. This was an error; the judgment giving her an additional $3,000—$3,400 in all.

A QUEBEC MAN GAVE A STIRRING ADDRESS TO LOCAL KIWANIANS

Peterboro Club Carries Out The Wishes of the Windsor Convention---Promote Better Relations.

SENDS GREETINGS

"Let us first be true Canadians. Canadians we are and Canadians we will die, thank God." with this ringing message, Kiwanian Edward Tanguey of Quebec City, concluded a stirring address to the Peterboro Kiwanis Club which met last evening in the Empress Hotel. The speaker is a prominent business man of Quebec and his mission here marks the initial efforts of a Kiwanian movement to promote a closer entente cordial between Ontario and Quebec. At the Kiwanis convention held in Windsor recently, the question of an exchange of Kiwanis speakers between the two provinces was endorsed by a resolution and the Peterboro organization is one of the first clubs to give material expression to this project.

Kiwanian Joseph Wearing presided at last night's meeting and supplemented the usual singing of "O! Canada" at the opening of the meeting with two stanzas in French, as a compliment to Mr. Tanguey.

Introducing the speaker, Kiwanian Wearing said that Canada's early history centered in Quebec. He referred to the provinces of Ontario and Quebec as twin planets shining with equal brilliance. Each of them has made notable contributions to the political and business life of the two provinces. On the one hand Ontario gave that outstanding leader of men in the late Sir John A. Macdonald and out of Quebec came the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Greetings from Quebec

Kiwanian Tanguey prefaced his address with a reference to some of the historical aspects of Quebec. He conveyed the greetings of the Quebec Kiwanians to the Peterboro Club and said that at the close of the meeting he would send a message of greeting from the Peterboro Club to the club in Quebec City, which was holding a ladies night coincident with the Peterboro meeting.

Many of the first things of Canada, such as the first parliament originated in Quebec, said the speaker. Many of us have but a very faint idea of the vastness of the country in which we live. One of the problems of our country is to increase its population. If we had the same class of immigration now as we had in 1880 we would have little to worry about. You will not find better Canadians any place than in Quebec. Whether we like it or not we have got to live together and might just as well make it pleasant. To help promote the entente cordial between the two provinces we are using the medium of the Kiwanis club. In the past dissension has created between the two provinces as a result of the activities of a few politicians and fanatics. We are all made of the same flesh and bone and live under under the same flag. When you come to visit Quebec do not come as Kiwanians, but come as Canadians Let us forget that I may belong to the Knights of Columbus and you may be a member of the Orange Order. Let us remember we are all true Canadians and love the country in which we live.

The sentiments expressed by the speaker were endorsed by Kiwanians James Rollins and John Dewart who moved and seconded the vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mr. John R. Ball favoured the gathering with a vocal selection and responded to an insistent encore. Mr. Ball possesses a voice range of unusual quality and his appearence at the Kiwanis Club meeting was much appreciated.

TURKS CUT IN ON THE CABLE

Extremists Appear To Be In Power In The Near East---Today's Events.

LONDON, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.) — Because of cutting off of Eastern Telegraph Company's cable on the Kemalist side of the Chanak zone by Turks and their refusal to permit the company to repair it, London morning newspapers failed to receive their usual quota of news from Constantinople to-day. So far as is known no over act has yet been taken at Constantinople either by Allies or Kemalists. But the situation is known to be extremely tense and insistence of Nationalists upon their demands for Allied evacuation have made it increasingly critical. Everywhere in Britain satisfaction is expressed over recent evidences that Allies are acting unanimously at Constantinople.

EXTREMISTS IN POWER.

PARIS, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—Two British soldiers were assassinated at Kassimpasha, according to Constantinople correspondent of the Petit Parisien. Colonel Charpy, commander of French troops at Constantinople, said he considered the situation one of the gravest nature. Attitude of Kemalists becomes stiffer every day and extremists seem to be in power at Angora.

The situation in Constantinople is described as "somewhat easier," is the message received by the War Office to-day.

Although no information was vouchsafed by the war office concerning the details of the situation, aside from the fact that one British soldier had been killed, it was intimated that the message contained assurance that the Turks were inclined to modify their demand that the Allies quit Constantinople, government officials refusing to state by what route the message had been transmitted in view of the cutting of the cable near Chank by the Turks, but it is thought that it must have come by wireless, by way of Cairo, or by relay from British warships in Near East waters.

Officials of the Eastern Telegraph Company which operates cable out by the Turks, say Kemalists have refused company permission to repair the line for reasons unknown. Company is planning to have wireless service in operation within few days.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED ON RAIL

Struck By G.T.R. Train At Windsor and Hurled To Death.

WINDSOR, Nov. 9.— (Canadian Press.) —Louis Spencer and Dominique La Plante met death at 9.20 last night when a wagon in which they were riding was struck and hurled more than 100 feet by a Grand Trunk train approaching Windsor. The accident occurred at a crossing on the Pillette road, Ford City, of which town both men were residents.

Witnesses of the accident claim that the engineer blew his whistle for the crossing, but the men evidently did not hear it. They were directly in the path of the locomotive when struck. La Plante was dead when picked up, while Spencer was rushed to the Hotel Dieu, where he died 10 minutes after being admitted. The horse was found dead in a field 20 ofeet away from the scene of the accident.

Experts Advocate 2-Years Moratorium For Germany

Also Suggest That Half the Reichsbank's Gold Reserve Be Used to Stabilize the Mark at 3,000 For £1.

BUY PAPER MARKS.

BERLIN, November 9 (Canadian Press). — The report of the experts who have been investigating economic conditions in Germany, Professors Kaynes, Brand, Jenks and Cassel, advocates a two-years' moria-Cassel, advocates a two-years' moratorium from reparations payments of cash or in kind, and stabilisation of the mark on the basis of 3,000 to 3,500 marks to the dollar by utilising the Reichsbank's gold reserve.

The report contends that the financial problem cannot be solved unless the mark is stabilised, and that stabilisation would be impossible without a moratorium.

The experts suggest that half the Reichsbank's gold would suffice, and should be devoted to re-purchase paper marks, the re-purchase to be restricted to German bank notes, especially those in foreign countries, and that in return for a moratorium Germany should offer the Reparations Commission the following definite guarantees:

First, an independent board of exchange control, constituted as a special department within the organisation of the Reichsbank, and an understanding that the Reichsbank would hold adequate gold from its reserves at the disposal of such a board.

Second, so long as any part of such gold is unpledged, paper marks should be purchased by the Board of Exchange on demand.

Third, the aggregate value of the net floating debt shall not be increased beyond a defined figure, all other governmental requirements for credit to be covered by a funded loan.

It shall also be provided that the resources of the Board of Exchange control shall be exempt from interference.

The report states that on consent of the Reparations Commission to the foregoing measures the following steps should be adopted:

First: Financial co-operation and the support of an international financial consortium to be invited.

Second: A foreign currency reserve, on such a scale as may be required, to be created on a basis of the gold at the disposal of the Board of exchange in conjunction with cities which may negotiate with the international consortium.

Third: Abolition of exchange regulations and restoration of free and unrestricted dealings in exchange and foreign securities.

It is recommended further that the bank rate be raised to a high point and dear money maintained until stabilisation is quite secure. In order to concentrate into its foreign currency reserves the largest possible amount of free foreign assets of German nationals under conditions inspiring confidence, the Board of Exchange would issue gold bonds guaranteed by the Reichsbank at an adequate rate of interest repayable in gold in one or two years in exchange for foreign bank notes, bank balances, etc.

The Board of Exchange would buy foreign exchange at spot and sell it for appropriate corresponding rates for various periods. Additional notes required to carry on the business of the country during the period of the return to normalcy would be issued by trade discounts and trade advances by the Reichsbank and the sale of marks by the Board of Exchange against the receipt of foreign currency and to the least possible extent, and for a period not exceeding six months, against further treasury bills issued to cover the budgetary deficit during the transitional period before the budget can be balanced.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.) — Involving approximately $12,000 Joseph C. Dussault, former Treasurer of St. Boniface, was arrested yesterday by Provincial police on new information charging embezzlement. The alleged embezzlement is said to cover a period extending over six years and the money is alleged to have been paid to Dussault in taxes for which he failed to make an accounting. He was out of bail in connection with another theft charge. The former treasurer was recently acquitted on a charge of arson, following a fire in the St. Boniface City Hall.

MICHIGAN ELECTS FIRST DEMOCRAT IN SEVENTY YEARS

OTHER RETURNS.

DETROIT Mich., November 9 (Canadian Press). — Former Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris, of Big Rapids, the first Democrat in seventy years to be elected to the United States Senate from the State that saw the birth of the Republican Party, continued to maintain his lead of approximately 17,000 votes last night over his Republican opponent, Senator Charles E. Townsend, as further returns from Tuesday's election were received.

With 2,586 of the 2,906 precincts in the State reporting, the vote stood:

Ferris, 274,186; Townsend, 256,575.

Governor Alex. J. Groesback, Republican, and his entire state ticket have been returned to office by majorities averaging two to one over Democratic opponents.

ST. PAUL, Minn., November 9 (Canadian Press). — Frank B. Kellogg, Republican, junior Senator from Minnesota, was defeated in Tuesday's election by Dr. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labourite, it was shown in unofficial returns available here late yesterday.

JOLIET, Ill., November 9 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downer's Grove, will be the first woman to sit in the House of Representatives at Springfield as a member of the General Assembly. Mrs. O'Neill on Tuesday led the four candidates in the race for three seats in the Assembly.

BOSTON, November 9 (Canadian Press). — Senator Henry Cabot Lodge had a plurality of 8,425 votes over William A. Gaston for United States senator, according to a revision of returns from Tuesday's State election. The revised vote follows:

Lodge, 413,563; Gaston, 405,138.

When Senator Lodge was last elected, in 1916, in the days before women had the vote, he won by a margin of 32,939 votes over John F. Fitzgerald, who on Tuesday was defeated as the Democratic candidate for Governor. His first election was in 1893.

In order to obtain his narrow margin of victory, Senator Lodge was forced to overcome an adverse plurality of 47,809 in the city of Boston.

The Democrats in their campaign against the veteran Senator, attacked his record at Washington as reactionary, and laid much stress on his support of the new tariff measure.

Colonel Gaston announced last night that he would seek a Statewide recount of the vote cast on Tuesday.

DALLAS, Texas, November 9 (Canadian Press). — R. B. Vresger, Republican State chairman, announced yesterday that Republicans would contest the seating of Earl B. Mayfield, elected United States Senator on the Democratic ticket.

The fight against Mayfield, which began after the primary election, "will be continued as long as the Ku Klux Klan appears as an influence in politics," he said.

He did not indicate specifically what form of contest would be made.

DR. HALLAM INSTALLED.

SASKATOON, Nov. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Dr. W. T. Hallam, recently appointed Principal of Emmanuel Anglican Divinity College, Saskatoon, was Tuesday night officially installed in his new position by Bishop G. Exton Llyod of the Diocese of Saskatchewan and a former Principal of the Institution. Dr. Hallam comes to Saskatoon from Wycliffe College, Toronto.

Mennonites Ready To Come To Canada

SASKATOON, Sask., Nov. 9. (Canadian Press.)—Three thousand Russian Mennonites who are migrating from Russia, have decided to come to Canaad in preference to Mexico, says H. Schroeder, Aberdeen, Sask., agent of the Mennonite Colonization Association of North America, Limited. They are coming to western Canada, he declares. The contract was signed with the Canadian Pacific Railway in July and the emigrants will come as quickly as shipping can be provided and the necessary arrangements made.

While Mennonites are migrating to Mexico from western Canada, says Mr. Schroeder, those in Russia are convinced, after investigation, that Canada is a better place than Mexico.

VALUE OF POUND RISES IN FRANCE

Parisian Bankers and Brokers Nervous Over the Sudden Rise in Value of Pound Sterling.

PARIS, November 9. Canadian Press. — Parisian bankers and brokers, nonplussed by the continued sky rocket rise in the pound sterling, have ceased their predictions as to its extent, although in some quarters fear is expressed that it will go higher than 75 francs on the Paris Bourse.

The high point was supposed in banking circles to have been reached when the record of 67 francs 45 centimes, established in April, 1920, was surpassed, and they see nothing to justify continuation of the present advance other than speculation and the panicky feeling among the French houses requiring pounds for early engagements.

Experts believe the limit of the normal advance of the dollar and the pound sterling on the strength of French payments abroad, was reached last week. They are now unable to account for the non-arrival of the reaction which they looked for and are beginning to wonder how the depreciation of the franc may be stopped.

The press is preaching to French buyers a policy of abstinence from buying non-essentials in countries where the exchange rate is abnormal. The reaction in business is showing itself in considerable cancellations of orders in Great Britain that are not subject to contract.

Negotiation of important coal contracts in London has been broken off since Monday and it is expected in financial circles that the stagnation of business between France and Great Britain will be complete in another week unless the situation is relieved meanwhile.

The amount of business done on the Bourse in exchange is out of all proportion to the violence of the fluctuations. Only small transactions are recorded and at infrequent intervals, but the sensitiveness of the market is such that even these produce sensational rises.

It is expected the Government will take measures to eliminate speculation but in the opinion of some bankers this feature will be eliminated automatically since business has become dangerous for all who have not dollars and pounds bought before the rise.

At the opening of the Bourse today the pound sterling was quoted at 71 francs, 50 centimes, and the dollar at 16 francs, 10 centimes.

TWO MEN KILLED.

EVERETT, Wash., Nov. 9. — (Canadan Press.)— The eastbound Great Northern fast mail went into the ditch near Gold Bar thirty miles west of here at six o'clock yesterday morning. Thomas Brown, engineer, and Harry Johnson, fireman, both of Levenworth, were killed.

GOLD STRIKE MADE IN LABRADOR WILL START GOLD RUSH

Seven Hundred Claims Have Already Been Filed in the Vicinity of Stag Bay—Claims Are Large.

RUSH IN SPRING.

SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—That the Newfoundland Labrador next spring will see a gold rush that will outrival the famous Klondyke stampede of '98, is the opinion expressed by W. T. O. Hall, a veteran prospector, who has just come down from the North after staking extensive claims at Stag Bay, where rich strikes have been reported.

During the last three weeks news of the strike has created a gold fever in Newfoundland and more than seven hundred claims have been filed at St. John's. The claims are large, comprising 320 acres each.

Owing to the severe weather climate, nothing in the way of development will be done for some months, but North Sydney in the spring will, it is expected, be the outfitting point for scores of expeditions which are being projected to the new "El Dorado."

Prospectors from as far distant as Alaska and South Africa are planning to join the rush.

NO CONTEST FOR QUE. BY-ELECTION

Eusephe Roberge, Liberal, Is Unopposed in Federal By-Election in Megantic County.

INVERNESS, Que., Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—It is practically certain that the by-election in Megantic County, brought about by the appointment of Lucien Pacaud, sitting member, to the post of Secretary for the Canadian High Commissioner's office in London, will not furnish a contest. A few days ago, although no opposition was looked for from the Conservative party, there appeared to be a slight likelihood of two Liberals contesting the seat. However, this possibility now appears to have passed and at the Liberal convention held here yesterday afternoon Eusephe Roberge, merchant of Laurierville, was elected the government standard bearer. There were some two hundred delegates at the convention and the names of Roberge and L. Dussault, of Thetford Mines, were placed before the meeting as Liberal candidates. A vote was called for and Mr. Roberge was elected by a majority of sixty votes. The Liberal candidate is well known throughout the district and is president of the Megantic County Liberal Association.

EDMONTON, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.) — Applications from debtors in the northern part of the province who wish to take advantage of the government'se offer to mediate between them and their creditors are now being dealt with by Commissioner E. A number of cases of this kind were already on file when the government decided on the extension of the scheme and further applications have since been coming in.

NEAR EAST SITUATION A DEFINITE MENACE TO PEACE OF THE WORLD

Marquis Curzon Says the Attitude of the Kemalists Will Not Be Tolerated — Sounds a Warning of the Gravity of the Present Situation in Near East.

ALLIES MUST ACT TOGETHER.

LONDON, November 9.—Canadian Press.—Great Britain refuses to purchase peace with the Turks at the cost of "humiliation and disgrace," Marquis Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared yesterday in the course of an address at the Cannon Street Hotel.

The attitude of the Kemalists, reflected in their recent demand that the Allied troops leave Constantinople, will not be tolerated, he added; and he gave flat warning to the Nationalists that they will come to sure disaster if they venture to oppose their military power to "the strength of Great Britain and the might of Europe."

The gravity of the situation in the Near East was emphasized by Lord Curzon when he termed it the most "definite meance to the peace of the world."

Replying to what he described as gibes made at himself by Former Prime Minister Lloyd George and Winston Spencer Churchill, he declared that Mr. Lloyd George did much to win the war and that his record would be inscribed in lasting letters on the pages of history, but that some of his actions as Prime Minister had not been helpful to Curzon's department.

The Secretary for Foreign Minister referred to the issuance of the Premier's manifesto on September 16, in which it was asserted that Britain was prepared to fight to maintain the freedom of the Dardanelles. This, he said, was not only issued without his knowledge, but was "unfortunate in its character and tone."

When there was a premier with the peculiar gifts of Lloyd George, such a man must exercise unusual influence on Foreign Affairs. General opinion, however, he thought, was with the new Premier Bonar Law, in his declaration that the work of the Foreign Office, which is largely expert, must be done by the department itself ,subject to the control of the Cabinet, and the personal supervision of the Premier..

"All that the Foreign Office asks," declared Lord Curzon, "is that it should not be interfered with by irresponsible amateurism, however brilliant it may be."

"The foreign policy now," he added, "is the foreign policy of the British Empire. I lay down the cardinal principle that peace can only be recovered by the common action of the principal allies who achieved the victory in the war."

In another part of his address, dealing with allied solidarity, he said —"You will only settle the reparations and the Near East questions if France, Great Britain and Italy act loyally toward each other, and with each other. What we have to do is to get back to the condition of mutual esteem and regard, which existed before the war, between France and ourselves. The resuscitation of that is much more important than any written document or signed pact."

MANITOBA ROADS HAVE BIG DEFICIT

Adjustment of Expenditures to Meet Economic Conditions As They Exist To-Day Will Be Necessary.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— "We are faced with the problem of turning a deficit of a million dollars into a credit balance," declared Hon. W. R. Clubb, Provincial Minister of Public Works, when discussing highways problems at yesterday's session of the Union of Mantiboa Municipalities convention. Adjustment of expenditures to meet economic conditions as they exist to-day will necessitate a change by the provincial government in the present method of administering the highways, Mr. Clubb stated. He said the provincial government and Mantioba Municipalities had expended a total of $9,182,000 on roads, of which amount the government had contributed $5,128,000. This covers a period from shortly before the inauguration of the Good Roads Act in 1914 to August 31, 1922. Manitoba has a total of 3,165 miles of improved highway.

There are 205 navigable rivers in the United States.

Order Release of British Schooner

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— The British schooner Buena, of Yarmouth, N.S., which was seized September 14, with a cargo of 1,200 cases of liquor nine miles off the New Jersey coast was released by Untied States authorities yesterday on instructions from the Treasury Department.

The release was in line with the decision to attempt to hold no ships found outside the three-mile limit for violation of the prohibition enforcement law, unless it could be proved they were communicating with the shore by means of their own small boats.

The Buena, skippered by John Simms, of Yarmouth, had papers for a voyage from the Bahamas to St. Pierre, Miquelon, when she was seized.

OUR VANISHING DEER.

The number of deer hunters, according to the figures as to the licenses issued, in the northern woods at present is the largest on record.

Thousands of Ontario peope, and many hundreds from the United States, are engaged with guides and dogs and powerful rifles in the warfare on the deer.

Warfare on that scale can only end in one way—in the total extermination of the game.

Already the deer are becoming rapidly fewer in numbers, and in a few years, at the present rate of extinction, they will be as scarce as the buffalo.

It is time that the situation was realized by the Provincial Government.

Hunters being sportsmen should be generous, ready to make sacrifices for other hunters in the years to come. Deep in their hearts they must realize that if the annual slaughter is allowed to go on unchecked, it will not be long before there will be nothing to slaughter.

What is to be done to save Ontario's deer?

One suggestion is that there should be a closed season for a term of five years.

Another is that no hunter be allowed a license for two years in succession, thus cutting down the numbers.

Still hunting is advocated by some and as strenuously opposed by others.

Despite these varied opinions, one fact stands out prominently, and that is that unless Ontario awakens to the situation, deer will soon be as extinct as the dodo.

FLAT RATES FOR HYDRO POWER.

The question of the advisability of inaugurating a flat rate or something resembling it for the Ontario Hydro-Electric power system is occupying considerable attention before the Gregory Commission.

Advocates of equalization of rural and urban power rates declare that the Hydro enterprise is financed by the people of the whole province and that therefore all should share equally in the benefits.

That sounds plausible, but it must be remembered that because the province has made a loan to the municipalities whose foresight and enterprise made the whole scheme possible that surely does not carry with it the right to practically confiscate the system and distribute it all over Ontario at a flat rate.

There is no more logic in a flat rate for power than there would be in a flat rate for transportation.

You might just as well expect the railways to transfer freight from Peterborough to Vancouver as cheaply as from Peterborough to Toronto as to ask that power be transmitted to all points in the province at the same rate.

Ontario has done very well in furnishing a bonus to rural power users on primary lines—a concession that has not been made anywhere else, and rural power users in this province should be satisfied.

The flat rate theory is unsound and impracticable, and the Gregory Commission can do a good day's work by a recommendation in its report to that effect.

A DEADLY MENACE.

The President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Gordon Wright ,in her annual address urged the organization to work for the abolition of the cigarette, on behalf of childhood and potential motherhood.

Cigarette smoking, she declared, induced high blood pressure, increased the pulse and caused heart irritations.

This indictment may be quite true, but a good many people will be inclined to think that the cigarette evil can be endured for a while longer, and that the W.C.T.U. should, instead of wasting its ammunition and energy in an anti-tobacco campaign, turn its guns upon the greatest menace to health and morals that Canada is facing just now in the alarming growth in the use of drugs and "dope."

The drug habit contains terrors that make the injurious effects of the use of tobacco seem trivial.

And it is spreading, especially in the larger cities, to such an extent as to give cause for serious alarm.

The number of addicts is ever increasing, for it is a peculiarity of this curse that many of those who find themselves in the grip of the habit seem anxious to entice others into the snare. Many of the victims are boys still in their 'teens who have been persuaded by addicts to try the effects of heroin or cocaine "just once."

"Just once" often means another addict and another boy on the way to physical and moral demoralization.

That sort of thing is happening every day, and it is not necessary to go outside of Peterborough to find illustrations.

New addicts are being developed right in our own city, in spite of the vigilance of the police, and all over the country the habit is on the increase.

Why then should the W.C.T.U. concern itself about the comparatively harmless cigarette when there is an opportunity for the organization to take part in a crusade against a much deadlier enemy—the drug habit?

THE CITY'S OPPORTUNITY.

The local Rotary Club, in bringing before the City Council the advisability of converting the city's property just south of the Hunter Street Bridge into a recreation ground, is performing a good service on behalf of the community in general.

As it remains at present, this ground is an eyesore; it is neither beautiful nor useful, and it detracts from the appearance of the new bridge.

That something should be done before next summer to improve this property is the unanimous opinion of the citizens, and as to what form that something should take there seems to be a very decided sentiment in favor of turning the ground into a playing field.

The expense of such work would not be excessive, and the outlay would be more than justified by the results.

With the ground levelled and sodded, and tennis courts, bowling greens, a miniature ball diamond for the youngsters and other facilities of the same kind, the property would be of great benefit to hundreds of citizens, who would eagerly welcome the opportunities offered for healthful recreation.

At the same time the view from the bridge would be very materially improved, for it is not necessary to sacrifice attractiveness in preparing a playing field.

Eventually this whole area, including the property under review, Riverside Park itself, the land south of it and the group of islands just beyond will doubtless be developed into a park and recreation grounds that will stand comparison with anything of the kind anywhere.

That of course cannot be done in one year.

But the Council should have vision enough to plan for it, to see that any improvements that may be made are such as to fit readily into the more comprehensive plan.

There is an opportunity for a wonderful playgrounds for Peterborough in this property, centrally located, situated alongside the beautiful Otonabee, and lending itself readily to the art of the landscape gardener.

Other cities with far less to start with have, through vision and enterprise and public spiritedness, produced results that are amazing.

Let us hope that Peterborough's opportunity will not be frittered away by parsimonious and visionless councils.

It is too great a chance to be lost.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

So far as it has been demonstrated, there is reason to wonder whether or not fuel control in Ontario is proving a success.

Fuel Controller Ellis is doubtless doing what he can to handle a difficult situation.

That he has apparently not succeeded is probably the fault of the regulations and not due to inability on his part to cope with the perplexities of the crisis.

The fact nevertheless remains that the dealers in many centres are carrying on business as usual with prices that vary as much as three or four dollars per ton, and that in cities where the Controller has been called upon to fix a local price there are complaints that the ruling is being ignored.

Some of them have stopped taking orders for coal, and one dealer threatens to cancel an order for 5,000 tons he has been expecting.

Where these tactics will lead to is difficult to forecast at present.

But it looks as if the Controller will have to be given more drastic powers and will need to exercise them vigorously if a policy of price-fixing is to have any chance to succeed.

So far at least it cannot be claimed that the consumer has gained very much in the matter of prices at least from the Provincial Government's attempt to regulate the situation and deal with the fuel emergency.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Republican candidates and the Volstead Act both seemed decidedly unpopular in the United States on Tuesday.

So far nothing has been broadcasted as to the fate of Andrew Gump in the Congressional elections. He was a popular candidate all over the continent.

Turkey is not usually so defiant around Thanksgiving time.

The announcement that the United Farmers of Ontario are solidly against fusion with either of the other parties is pretty conclusive proof that J. J. Morrison is firmly in the saddle.

Armistice Day in the United States will not be a holiday this year. Nor will it be in Canada for that matter.

If the Turks have succeeded in bringing the Allies to a better understanding and a determination to stand together, their attempts at bullying may prove a blessing in disguise.

The King's request for two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, as a tribute to the memory of the Empire's dead, should not be forgotten. It was not as generally observed last year as it should have been.

The fact that Senator La Follette has been re-elected in Wisconsin occasions no surprise. He is just the type of representative that people like his constituents should have, seeing that the ex-Kaiser was not available as a candidate.

LITERARY GEMS

A SONG OF EARTH.

Infinite wealth is not yours, my patient and dusky mother dust!
You toil to fill the mouths of your children, but food is scarce.
The gift of gladness that you have for us is never perfect.
The toys that you make for your children are fragile.
You can not satisfy all our hungry hopes, but should I desert you for that?
Your smile, which is shadowed with pain, is sweet to my eyes.
Your love, which knows not fulfilment, is dear to my heart.
From your breast you have fed us with life, but not immortality, that is why your eyes are ever wakeful.
For ages you are working with color and song, yet your heaven is not built, but only its sad suggestion.
Over your creations of beauty there is the mist of tears.
I will pour my songs into your mute heart, and my love into your love.
I will worship you with labor.
I have seen your tender face and I love your mournful dust, Mother Earth.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Editor Examiner.

Sir,—As this is the fifth anniversary of the Russian revolution, it would not be out of place for the benefit of all students of the Russian situation to give a brief review of events leading up to and following the revolution.

The revolution of 1905 when the Czar saved himself by granting a democratic duma was really the forerunner of the revolution of 1917. Three times the people of Russia elected somewhat liberal representatives to the Duma and each time the Duma was dismissed by the Czar. In 1906 the Czar succeeded in floating a loan in London and Paris. In spite of Russian Socialists warning the financiers that should they ever get into power they would repudiate the loan. Then began the series of horrible Jewish pogrom and terrible persecution of all liberally inclined individuals. Thousands were done to death, some in a most brutal manner, whilst thousands more were exiled to Siberia. Organizations of all kinds were suppressed. Secretly, however, organizations of workers were being perfected for a final effort. It is now no secret that in 1914 Russia of all countries needed a war badly, so as to avert a revolution. On the eve of the outbreak of war barricades were to be seen in the streets of Petrograd. The threatened revolution was suspended when war was declared. Then comes the series of defeats that the Russians suffered during the war. Three armies at different periods were sent into the Pripet marshes, only to be completely annihilated by the Germans. Millions of men were killed and wounded. Those men were betrayed by their generals, who were in the pay of Germany, and were tried and executed by the Bolsheviks.

Their land going to rot owing to lack of machinery and no one to work it, their cattle and horses commandeered for the army and their women and children lined up in the streets crying for bread—can one wonder that the soldiers' cry following the first revolution in March was for peace and bread Many are apt to condemn the Russians for not sticking it out to the end when the Allies asked them to keep on fighting. Had we have been in their position we undoubtedly would have done the same. Kerensky failed, because he could not make them keep on fighting whilst their women and children were starving.

Then came the Bolsheviks with their Marxian program of "All for each and each for all and everything for everybody." They made peace with Germany, gave the land to the peasants and established as a transitional necessity a "Dictatorship of the Proletariat." They appealed to the workers in other parts of the world to do likewise, but were sadly disappointed. With the exception of Germany and Hungary, whose soldiers and sailors mutinied and were the cause of shortening the war and thereby saving many thousands of lives, the rest rather helped their imperialistic rulers to establish what the French termed the "cordon sanitaire," or the cordon of death, and what the British termed a blockade, around that unhappy country, and it has not yet been lifted.

Whether we agree with the Russian experiment or not, we must admire the capabilities of the Bolshevik leaders and the courage and tenacity of the Russians in striving against desperate odds—no food, no clothing, land rotten, no machinery, transportation wrecked and fighting the world and their own counter-revolutioneries—to uphold that they believe to be a wonderful ideal.

I remain,

Yours truly,
B. MARKSON.

I also took these spells in the night and during my daily work on the farm. COAL IN ENGLAND BECOMING DEARER

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press). — Coal prices in England probably will reach the highest level in history during the coming winter, according to London retail dealers. A general increase of three shillings a ton was made recently, and another will be announced within the next few weeks, it is expected.

The price of the best hard coal is now 57 shillings—about $12.00 a ton—graduating to 45 shillings for kitchen coal. The highest prices last year for the same grades was 61 shillings and 48 shillings. A further increase of six shillings may be looked for.

The labor troubles and the forecast of an early and severe winter are given as the reasons for the added cost.

DOMINION RUBBER SYSTEM

PROHIBITIONISTS IN LAST STAGE OF FIGHT

Plea That Laboring Man Wants His Beer Said to be Largely Wet Propaganda.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — The fight for prohibiton is over. The struggle against lawlessness has taken its place.

This is the declaration of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Soloon League of America, on the eve of the greatest attack on prohibiton since the passage of the 18th amendment, the attack at the coming election.

Dry forces are at present pitted chiefly against the wet attempt to gain the approval of the people by states for the return of light wines and beer, Wheeler makes the following charges :

1. There is no evidence that the majority of the voters of the country are for beer and light wines.

2 .Brewers and former saloonkeepers are largely supporting the wet move

3. The wets deny they want the return of the saloon. But they must know they will have to have some commercial system to distribute light wines and beer, if they are legalized.

Last Stage of Fight

4. The plea that the laboring man wants his beer is largely wet propaganda. As a matter of fact, the man who is putting up the greatest howl for the return of liquor is the rich man whose cellar supply is about gone and who sees no legal way to get any more.

How long the struggle against the attempt to revive John Barleycorn will go on, cannot be prophesied, he says. But Wheeler points out that it took about 70 years for the people to accept the national educational laws of the country.

"It has taken more than 50 years to get the people of the United States to adopt national prohibition, Wheeler declares. "We have reached the last stage in the struggle. That is the fight against lawlessness.

On Guard.

"We do not know how long it will take to convince the outlawed liquor interests that they ought to respect the constitution and the laws enacted to enforce it. Whether it takes five or 50 years the friends of prohibition and of law and order will remain on guard to see this fight through to the end.

"Parents often find that it takes 21 years to train a child to the responsibilities of real citizenship.Governmental tasks are as much greater than this as the difference between one child and a nation of 100,000,000 people.

"We will not get discouraged if we do not attain our ideal within a short period of time."

Human beings struck by lightning are killed in about 25 per cent. of cases.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

School For Motorists.

A special school is held by the city police of Sioux City, Iowa, for traffic violators. The offenders are fined $3 each and are then placed in a class in which they spend two hours rehearsing a long list of published traffic rules.

WHAT CAMPBELLFORD EXPECTS TO GET IN THE NEW INDUSTRY

Campbellford News of Interest — Accident Victim Was a Former Resident—Belleville Cheese Board.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 9. Mr. S. G. Way, proprietor of the Dominion Foundry Co., of Tweed, Ont., was in town last week looking for a suitable location for his plant, which on account of increased business he intends to enlarge, and also engage in the manufacture of lawn mowers, whiffletrees, neck yokes and maleable castings of all kinds. The town council have already drawn up the necessary agreement and bylaw, which will come before the ratepayers in the very near future. What this will mean to Campbellford can hardly be estimated; large numbers of skilled workmen will require additional home buildings, with an attendant demand for materials and supplies, to say nothing of clothing, food and other household necessities. Thanks to the unlimited supply of electric power manufacturers are beginning to take notice of the little town in the Trent Valley, where the wheels keep turning day and night.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

SHERIN SUIT AT LINDSAY ASSIZES

Miss Millie Sherin of This City Awarded Sum of $1,000 in Addition to $400 Provided in Will.

LINDSAY, Nov. 8.—For services rendered to her aunt, the late Rebecca Sherin of Omemee, during her last serious illness, Miss Millie Sherin of Peterboro was given the sum of $1,000, in addition to a sum of $400 given in a codicil to the will. The case was heard at the Wednesday morning session of the Supreme court before Mr. Justice Riddell. Mr. T. H. Stinson of Lindsay represented the defendant and Mr. F. D. Kerr of Peterboro, the plaintiff.

Responding to a letter from her brother near Omemee, Miss Millie Sherin, at that time in employment came to Omemee to take care of Rebecca Sherin, relieving a trained nurse, Miss Kelly. For a matter of three and a half years she remained on the job and according to the evidence the job was no light one. The eldery lady was childish at times and was a very difficult as well as strenuous case to handle and Miss Millie was the only one to do all the work. During the time that she was there was no pay given to her although she was given to understand by her aunt's lawyer, that a codicil to the will gave her $400. Her aunt petulantly said on one or more occasion when there was a slight hitch in the work, that "she would be well paid for it."

When the will was read, the $400 was the only money coming to Miss Millie and she did not regard that as sufficient remuneration for her long labors. She therefore entered an action against the executor of the estate, Mr. R. J. Grandy of Omemee.

For the plaintiff, evidence was given by herself, Miss Mitchell of Omemee, who had been a neighbor; Dr. Earle who had attended the deceased lady at times; Miss Kelly who had been the trained nurse before the arrival of Miss Sherin; Miss Robinson of Omemee and Mrs. Sherin of Emily.

For the defence, Mr. R. J. Grandy of Omemee, the executor of the estate, gave evidence. He stated that he had no personal interest in the matter at all and that his only aim was to administer the estate according to law. When he had seen the deceased she was always perfectly rational. He had issued sums of money to Miss Millie Sherin at various times for household expenses, according to the instructions of Rebecca Sherin.

At this point, His Lordship asked the lawyers whether they were anxious to argue the matter or whether they would abide by his decision at the time. This they agreed to and he proceeded to state that he thought the claim justified, as it had been brought ut in evidence, that the deceased had stated her intention of paying the Miss Sherin well, after she had made the codicil to the will. His Lordship stated that he had based his estimate o the figure given by Dr. Earle as the pay usually received by practical nurses. He allowed $2.50 per day and ordered that judgement be entered for the plaintiff for $1000 in addition to the $400 of the codicil.

Justice Riddell also took occasion to remark that the case had been excellently conducted by all who had taken part. His task had been a very pleasant one, as it had been throughout all the session of the Assizes.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid; put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you have enough for a batch of clothes. ...NING EXAMINER PETERBORO'G...

All the Way

by Jack Lait

WHEN I was a pop-eyed cub on the "dog watch," the shift between the time the last morning edition went to press and the first afternoon issue got stirring, there was a service-worn detective, who had grown too fat and old for active field service, who had the same function on the force that I had on the press. He, too, was a sort of night watchman. I was too young, he was too old; his best years were past, mine had not yet begun.

It used to take him half an hour to get his heavy feet on the desk, and once he got them there it took a 4-11 alarm to drag them down again. His life was all memories, mine was all sopping up new impressions. And he used to tell stories of his bygone accomplishments and I would sit half out of my seat on the squadroom bench and listen like a child to fairy stories.

He had been a famous copper in his days, had Andy. And he knew a lot. The bulletins used to come in on flimsy, and he would read the details of a safeblowing in Mankato or in Tallahassee, and then he would tell me how it was done, maybe even by whom it was done, and then about petermen of his heyday.

And one night, as he sat there under the single droplight allowed in the "bureau" at that time by the economical municipal government that had burned up millions of the public's dollars, he related the tale of a crook he had set to catch another crook, and neither of them had ever come back, the double-crossing heels.

"So," I ventured, "you don't believe in this honor-among-thieves thing, Andy?"

He sat a long time, rolling it over in his mind, and then he slowly answered:

"No, sucker—I guess they ain't no better than the rest of us."

I lived to write his obit and cover his funeral. There, at the grave of this had-been terror of metropolitan malefactors were gathered a horde of the guns who had known him. I was among them. I mean I stood among them. I had grown, meanwhile, to know a few of them myself. Paper-Collar Pete was there, and he laid a wreath upon the fresh mound. The illustrious Mike the Bite was there, a tear trickling down his pallid face; he was only out on parole, but he was not ashamed to weep.

Andy was a detective sergeant when he died. He was buried according to the full ritual of the department, and that demanded that he be interred in full regalia. It had been years since Andy had pounded a beat in "harness," but they had found his old patrolman's uniform, and put it on him. He had grown very stout since the days when, fresh from Limerick, he had joined the finest, a stripling, so they slit the blue coat up the back where it did not show. And there he lay, the dead veteran sergeant in the uniform of the tyro patrolman. And, as Charlie the Wolf contemplated him, just before the coffin was lowered, he sighed and whispered:

"Poor Andy—reduced and transferred!" —

And on the way back from the last honors to my friend at Calvary Cemetery I told Charlie the Wolf the epigram that Andy had coined about thieves and their honor, and Charlie the Wolf, who was a four-time graduate of Joliet, a second-story man of many aromatic experiences, told me a yarn of the Canada Kid and his red-headed wife, Jewel, both of whom I knew well, and about whom I have tattled many a tale.

The Kid, who had won his stripes at Moose Jaw, where he had done his stretch for nicking a come-on at a Canadian grain carnival, was one of the most scientific pickpockets of my fondest acquaintance. His technique was the envy and despair of the whole profession. But, like all temperamental guns, he had a blowhole—a failing. Some crooks fall for the hop, some for the wheel, some for the cabarets. The Canada Kid's destroying vice was Jewel.

A no-good shoplifter whose old lady had stolen wet wash off the line to feed her and whose old man had been bumped off trying to scale the walls at Leavenworth, Jewel had grown up a ravishing doll with a front like a duchess and the conscience of a boa constrictor. The Kid had no illusions about her. He knew all she had been and all she was, and suspected a few things even she had never hoped to be. But he loved her. It wasn't blind love—it was just bonehead infatuation.

A dozen times she had left him—cold. A dozen times he had cursed her and sworn he would see her die in the gutter or rot in the jug. But every time he had not only gone after her, brought her back and taken her to his pining bosom, but as likely as not had put up bail for her to "jump" and for her lover, as well. For Jewel never traveled alone.

The last one had been "Whitey" Kellam, a sneakthief with five thumbs on each hand, who couldn't stick his fingers in an empty barrel without turning in a general alarm. For Kellam, Jewel had taken the gate and left the devoted Kid bereft and desolate. And the Kid had raised his tired eyes unto the unlistening skies and breathed a hoarse and profane oath from the bottom of his troubled heart that this was the blowoff.

"I been a glutton for her rough stuff," he moaned, "but this is gettin' to raw. When any jane—not to talk o' Jew'l—after the breaks I slipped her—can pass me up for a bushleague chump like Kellam, I'm washed up. Besides, she's my wife an' she ain't got no call to pull that kind o' work at all. Yes—we're married—up an' up. They way I treat her nobody don' believe it. But we're married. An' after this she can shift for herself an' grift for herself. This is the cat's meow, this is. You can tell the world this lets me out."

"Go as Far as You Like, You Poor Cluck. I been Just as Crooked Wit' You as You Think, an' a Whole Lot More You Never Will Know."

And I will tell the world that the Kid did not, this time, whizz about in circles looking for his lost Jewel, though he wandered around like an acrobat who had lost his handkerchief, and though he did occasionally boost a purse or roll a sleeper, his heart wasn't in it.

He sought no consolation in any other woman. The Kid's heart was a one-Jewel ticker. He would drift around now and then to the cigar store where the boys dealt a little stuss off the bottom, but mostly he remained in the four-room nest that Jewel's deft touch had fixed and the Kid's deft touch had feathered.

And he sat thus, morose and miserable, when the door opened and in walked Jewel.

"H'lo, Kid," she chirped. "Miss me much?"

The Kid arose. He felt his head grow light and his feet grow heavy.

"Where's that lowdown heel, Kellam?" he breathed.

"Oh, Whitey? I d'know. How sh'd I know? An' what's the diff'rence, Kid?" and she glided over and coiled her sinuous arms about her husband.

The Canada Kid felt the little jiggly thrills caper up and down his spine. It was all wrong, but here was his Jewel, his again. And the Kid closed his eyes and listened to his own pulses pound.

"Babe," he gasped, "I'm glad you come back."

"I'll never breeze out on you again, Daddy," she throbbed. "Never."

"All right, then. I'll forget ev'thing you done. We'll turn the las' page o' the squeal book an' start fresh, 'without prejudice,' as they say in court. An' nex' week we'll run down to Pa'm Beach, where the goin' is good, I hear, an' where we can shoot wit' the best while we're still pickin' up expenses."

"Aw, no," pouted Jewel. "Let's stay right here in the li'l flat."

"Nix. We're gonna pull a reg'lar honeymoon. My sweetie is back in the team again, an' I'm gonna go all the way. Say, you'll make them bow-legged, slabsided, pie-face society chromos wit' their busted arches an' their bum ritz look like second-hand Fords down there. We start Tuesd'y. Get your self some new rags if you wanna—we ain't cleaned yet."

Jewel purred and teased and argued, but for once the Kid was obdurate. He stood pat, and it was so ordered—Palm Beach.

At the toppiest hotel in Florida, with a fine outlook on the ocean, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Holliday, of Pittsfield, Mass., were installed and received.

At a shabby boarding house half a mile away Frank Payson, of Terre Haute, Ind., the same day got a room facing the back yard, with a clear view of foothills of tin cans.

Mrs. Hamilton Holliday, with her warm red hair and her splendid lines, drew attention everywhere, especially on the beach.

Mr. Hamilton Holliday, a retiring and unassuming sort, attracted none beyond being pointed out now and then as the husband of the bewitching Jewel. The better people failed to understand what a dashing queen like her could see in such an insignificant shrimp—perhaps he was rich, eh?

The Kid did not accompany Jewel to the beach every afternoon. He had his knitting to do, and he wasn't exactly a sea-going Palm Beacher by nature. On those days when he was absent Mrs. Hamilton Holliday was often seen with a tall blond stranger who came up from somewhere down the shore. Who he was no one could handily guess. He wasn't a guest at the hotel, and in bathing togs one does not so readily suggest his grade and station, as the selection in male swimming attire is so limited. It is usually safe to rate a man, within reasonable limitations, if you can see him fully dressed. Something will tip off the lowdown, be his clothes the best or the poorest. But on the beach a millionaire looks just like a shoe clerk—only not so good.

The blond-haired boy from below swam well and bore himself with attractive poise. He rarely remained longer than an hour or so at the exclusive portion of the sand reserved for the patrons of the hotel. It was obvious that the handsome Mrs. Holliday welcomed him, so the patrol accepted his presence without a demurrer, though it was against the rules for outsiders to swim in or walk up.

The keenly observing—and there were many with no more engrossing business than keenly observing Jewel—noticed and noted that the golden-haired stranger never appeared when Mrs. Holliday was with Mr. Holliday. And there were more than the customary chuckles, with all the women tut-tutting and commenting that it was quite obviously crude, and the men snickering over it and voting it served the poor fish right for thinking he could hold a wild vamp like that red-headed hulu—and leaving her alone for hours—at Palm Beach—moreover.

One fine night, after the Kid had put his late afternoon to good uses and had dined with his entrancing wife at the Casino and put in a rather successful sally against the trick wheel, they wafted into the hotel in formal evening dress, radiating an aura of prosperity and felicity, and retired to their suite.

Next day was to be the second anniversary of their marriage. Jewel had, perhaps, forgotten it, but the Kid hadn't.

In his wallet, which he carried in a concealed and especially designed pocket in all his coats—for the Kid was a strictly tailor-made dresser—he had slipped five $50 bills. He had gotten crisp, fresh ones from the bank, numbered consecutively. The five were to be Jewel's gift to dedicate the day.

The Kid slept later than usual next morning, and when he emerged from his tub at about noon his Jewel had already ordered up the seductive breakfast, which was smoking and flirting on the natty room-service table. The Kid sipped his orange juice and waited—hoped. But there was nothing beyond the now serenely habitual amiability of Jewel to intimate that this day was different from other days. The Kid, a forgiving sort where his red-haired eye's apple transgressed, coughed and mentioned the date with some collateral small talk regarding the delightful weather. Jewel agreed that it was glorious for November—that was all.

The Kid was hurt. Well, it was early in the day, and Jewel hadn't probably collected all her wits. He would let the matter ride—try her again at dinner. And he kissed her and went out for the afternoon.

The Kid's programme that afternoon took him down by way of the main poolroom, where wagers were being accepted on certain horses entered at certain scattered distant tracks. The Kid was a splendid mingler, if not so distinguished a mixer, and he loved the poolroom because there the gathering was dense, the gatherers were tense, and they carried cash—currency—for poolrooms are sticklers for honesty, as indicated by the laying down of the Federal Reserve certificates so attesting.

And whom should the Kid meet, face to face, in the poolroom, but "Whitey" Kellam!

The sentimental little pickpocket felt the bad blood rush to his brain. There stood the good-looking, no-good penny-ante crook who had stolen from him the most precious Jewel under the sun. Humph! Doormat snigging must have grown suddenly profitable, and Kellam must have turned astonishingly clever at it, to bankroll this piking swill-skimmer to Palm Beach.

Well, it was a cue for exit, at best. He would not let Jewel remain in the same town with this former partner in the treachery against him. That she might already know of his presence never struck him. The Kid was wise and always suspected the worst—except of Jewel, who had too often given him cause to.

Kellam turned sharply, made as though he had not seen the Kid, and walked to the desk where the bets were being laid. He inquired the odds on the steed of his choice and laid fifty against them. The sheet writer recorded the wagers, filled in a ticket, held it 'twixt thumb and finger, while Kellam went through one pocket after another, the sweat beginning to stand out on his forehead.

"Come on," snapped the bookmaker. "I can't hold up the line all day while you frisk yourself."

"I—I lost my dough," stammered Kellam.

"Slip that old one to Sweeny," snorted the house man. "An' don't start to stall. We don' take no mind bets here."

"Guess I—it looks like I been touched," moaned Kellam, and with a sudden meeting of one and one to make two in his brain, he spun about. The Canada Kid had disappeared.

"Whitey" Kellam had no sense of humor, or he might have laughed.

As it was, he hurried down to the beach. Jewel was sitting on the shore, wistfully stringing meaningless sand through her soft, white fingers.

He called her before he reached her, and she sprang up with a little glad start. He drove the smile from her face by the expression on his.

"What's wrong?" she asked.

"The Kid—I step into him in the poolroom."

Jewel wetted her lips.

"H'm—that's a rotten break. What'd he say?"

"That ain't all. He didn't say nothin'. But he did somethin'—an' when I see him, I'm gonna bust him loose f'm his Adam's apple, the dirty rat."

"What'd he do? Come clean."

"He fans me for that fifty!"

"What? The thievin' crook! That fifty I give you to-day! I'll break his heart for that, see if I don't."

The Kid was in before Jewel turned up for dinner. She gave him her most saccharine smile of greeting, and a little peck of a kiss which, in the customary routine, was only a feeler to have him seize her and kiss her with violence. But he didn't.

"Do you know what day is to-day?" he asked.

"Sure—We'n'sd'y."

"It's our weddin' anniversary."

"Aw—gee—so 'tis. Can you beat it? I forgot, daddy; honest I did. . . . You'll forgive me, an' we'll put in a nice, happy evenin', an'—come through, where's my present?"

"You got it."

"I got it? Where?" And she flashed about the room.

"Out o' my kick—this mornin'."

"I—how d'you mean?"

"You copped a half a cench'ry while I was asleep. . . . Jewel, I never give you credit for bein' able to crawl as low as that, touchin' me!"

"Oh, I did not. How can you say a thing like that?"

"You did more'n that. You dipped me for the fifty an' you went an' give it to Kellam."

"That's a lie!"

"Is it? Well, here's the fifty. I whiffed that cheap thief for it myself."

"Maybe you did. But where'd you get the crazy bull that I handed it to him?"

"Becus it was one o' five fifties I got at a bank yest'd'y for a weddin' present to you. The numbers match."

"Well—what are you gonna do about it?"

"I'm gonna leave you—cold. Go on to Kellam, the white-livered pup what steals a man's wife an' makes her rob her husban' to keep him. See what he'll do for you. You'll cross him faster'n you did me, becus there ain't a straight hair in your whole red head. An' if you ever come back in any home o' mine, I'll pitch you out on your face. Good-bye."

"Go as far as you like, you poor cluck. I been just as crooked wit' you as you think an' a whole lot more you never will know. Take that wit' you, an' I hope you choke on it."

And the Kid burst out, quivering and blazing.

And across the street he saw "Whitey" Kellam, with a strained look, waiting in the shadows. The Kid slid behind a telegraph pole to see what would happen. He saw Jewel, half an hour later, walk boldly forth with a couple of porters carrying her luggage into a taxi. And beside her was the bookmaker.

"Depot, please," he heard her say.

COBOURG WILL CASE.

Last Testament of Late Alexander Appleby is Attacked.

A contentious claim argument was heard by Judge Ward in the surrogate court here, in which two of the children of the late Alexander Appleby, of Cobourg, who died on Feb. 24th last, at the age of 93 years, brought action to have the terms of the will set aside on the grounds that undue influence was used on deceased in the making of his will. The will, which was made in 1905, left everything to his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Daley, after providing for his wife during her life time. If the interest on the capital was not enough sufficient of the capital was to be withdrawn to provide for her support. His wife, however, predeceased him, and according to the terms of the will, on Mr. Appleby's death the entire estate went to Mrs. Daley. A son, A. B. Appleby, of Cobourg, and a daughter, Mrs. Howard, of California, brought action to have the will annulled. Only the son was present at the action. Two witnesses were heard, Rev. A. F. Pollock, of Ottawa, a former pastor of deceased, who testified as to the mental and physical condition of Mr. Appleby, and Mr. Wainwright, of Peterborough, an employee of Mr. Appleby from 1895 to 1903, with whom Mr. Appleby had discussed his will, and how he intended making it. He did not think any influence could be brought to bear on Mr. Appleby to change it. The balance of the hearing was postponed until December 4th.

FLOCKING TO THE BEAUTY PARLOR.

By MARGARET ROHE.

Oh, you red-blooded male, oh man,
It's sad these days to know
You're not out battling for the right
Nor giving blow for blow;
Nor out to fight the honest fight
'Gainst greed and labor's foe.
Instead you're in a beauty shop,
You're noble head laid low,
To have each eyebrow plucked and shaped
Into a perfect bow.

NEW YORK.—Ever since our husbands and fathers and brothers and best beaus began wearing those dinky little feathers in their fedoras we feared the worst and now that the Barber Supply Dealers' Association of America has spoken right out at its annual convention at Chicago the worst is verified.

Here's the awful truth as handed out by the tonsorial supply dealers and they don't care who knows it. Men have become far beter customers than the women for highly scented soaps, perfumes, toilet waters and face creams!

But that is not the half of it, Imogene. These erstwhile cave men, red-blooded he-men, and dominant males are simply overflowing from the barber shops into the beauty salons to have their eyebrows plucked.

Just Like Flappers.

Those few straggling hairs sprouting haphazard between the eyes that make the eyebrows a continuous performance across the forehead are no longer to be tolerated by the fastidious male.

Tweezers and depilatories have been pressed into service and masculine eyebrows are plucked and coaxed unto as attenuated and clear-cut arches as are any painstaking flappers.

Loud was the masculine chorus of protest when the female invaded the sanctity of the male barber shop to have her feminine locks bobbed, but now it's a different story when lovely woman finds every booth at her favorite hairdressers cluttered up with husky males having permanent waves and their eyebrows shaped.

Indeed the arrival of a gentleman client for a permanent wave has become such an everyday occurrence in the best hairdressing salons that the feminine attendants have long ceased to be either thrilled or amused by them.

All Succumb.

Even the more conservative of the male contingent succumb to their weakness for strong perfumes and scent by such a generous application of odorous pomades and brilliantines that they fairly reek and their abject devotion to scented massage cream, tissue cream and toilet water would make even a professional beauty weaken.

Though by their brilliantine alone we have scented for some time these barbarous masculine failings as just revealed by the Barber Supply Dealers' convention, it is really almost more than a weak woman can stand to learn on top of this that the latest fashion hint from Paris for "le monsieur, tres-chic" is a lace-edged handkerchief peeping coyly from the breast pocket of the coat.

CANADIAN POETESS DEAD.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—The well known Canadian poetess, Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts MacDonald, aged 58, died in hospital here yesterday as the result of an accident which occurred three months ago, when she fell and broke her hip. William Carman Roberts, political editor of the Literary Digest of New York, and Theodore Roberts, novelist of Fredericton, N. B., are brothers, and Bliss Carman is a cousin.

STATE HIGH COURTS A FIELD FOR WOMEN

A Close-up Of a Highly Interesting Women—Wants Women Judges.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 9.—"I am but the forerunner of what is bound to come in every state—a woman member of the Supreme Court. With women comprising more than half the population, it is high time they were taking action to have legislation affecting them reviewed from a woman's viewpoint."

Thus does Florence E. Allen, who may be the first woman to be elected to a state Supreme Court, summarize. Miss Allen is a candidate for a seat on the Ohio Supreme Court bench.

Miss Allen did not make her campaign on the platform advocating a woman for supreme judge; she ran as a non-partisan on her record as a judge of the Common Pleas Court here. Her record for quick handling of cases, sympathetic interest in litigation before her, and low proportion of reversals, won her not only women's support but following of both Democrats and Republicans.

First woman to be a Common Pleas Court judge, Miss Allen also was the first woman judge to try a murder case. She has tried half a dozen in the last two years. In only one was her procedure reversed—and that for an action of the sheriff.

Wins Fight For Women.

Quiet of manner, low of voice, Miss Allen has made the law her calling since she was admitted to the bar in 1910. Her experience in that time has covered a wide variety of cases.

She is credited with winning the fight of the East Cleveland women for the vote in 1916, a fight that went through the East Cleveland charter commission hearing and up to the Supreme Court. She represented the union street railway employes of Cleveland as arbitrator in the 1918 wage dispute.

As the first woman to appear before the National Labor Board, Judge Allen represented the women street car conductors. She is credited with making the best presentation of a case ever given before the board.

In 1910, Miss Allen was chosen assistant county prosecutor here. A year later, she was elected judge of the Common Pleas Court by the greatest vote ever given here for any candidate for that office. Thereby she became the first woman ever to sit as a judge in a court of general legislation, and has since worked in law, equity, civil and criminal cases.

Wants Women Judges.

"There is no reason why a woman who has made a thorough study of the law should not be qualified to become a trial judge", says Miss Allen.

"There is every reason, too, why a woman should be a member of the Supreme Court of each State.

"Through its decisions to establish constitutionality of new laws, the State Supreme Court assumes a quasi-legislative function. As a result of awakened women's organizations and women legislators, many new laws are being made affecting women. It is certainly fitting that a woman's viewpoint should be included in the deliberations on these and other laws affecting women and children, when they are up for test of their constitutionality."

COAL IN CELLAR BECOMES HEATED

Makings Of Disastrous Fire In Oshawa Nipped In The Bud.

OSHAWA, November 9.—What might have developed into a disastrous fire was nipped in the bud in the basement of D. A. Tait's Music Store, Simcoe street north. The soft coal, of which there is about thirty tons, became overheated and almost ready to burst into flames. Mr. Tait, who had returned to the store to fix the fire in the furnace, detected the danger.

Fire Chief Cameron, who was summoned at once to inspect the premises, called out the brigade. A large quantity of water was thrown over the coal, temporarily removing all danger of fire. However, there being a possibility of the coal again becoming overheated, the fire chief detailed one of his men to watch the building all night.

CROP REPORTS

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

The remarkably open weather of the past week or two has helped orchardists to clean up their work in picking, packing and storing apples, pears, etc., of which there has been more than an average yield.

Kent quotes King, Spy and Baldwin selling at $5 a barrel and Greening at $2.50. One farmer in the county of Grey sold his apple crop for $2,250, the buyers to pick and pack.

Fall wheat is looking well, and practically no complaint has been made of injury from the Hessian fly or any other pest.

Lambton says: "This week has practically completed the sugar beet harvest. The yield per acre in this county is considerably larger than in the counties to the south of us. Average yields range from ten to fourteen tons per acre, but in two instances twenty-two tons have been reported."

Essex reports: "Weather conditions have been very favorable for sugar beets. The sugar content is running as high as 19 per cent., and will average about 15. Yields have been reported as high as thirteen tons per acre, but will not average over nine or ten."

Essex states that there is a keen demand for temporary labor for corn husking at five cents the measured bushel. The demand greatly exceeds the supply at present.

Peterboro says: "The milk supply at the factories is low. Cheese sold on the Peterboro board at 21 3-16c. One of our cheese factories has turned to butter making for the winter, and is getting a nice supply of cream."

Grey reports that on creamery has been buying cream and selling butter on the graded basis, and has received orders for all the pound prints they can make this autumn.

Bruce says: "A local Shorthorn sale was fairly successful. Scotch heifers sold from $150 to $220. Mature cows sold from $100 to $150, while bulls ranged from $80 to $150 according to age."

Peel reports: "At a sale of good grade Shorthorns held this week, prices averaged about $5 a head less than at the Ayrshire sale last week. Cows sold from $75 to $100. Two year old steers sold for $60. Some good yearlings brought about $40. Several carloads of stockers and feeders have been brought in during the past two weeks. One uniform load of stockers cost $4.00 per cwt., while a mixed load, mostly westerners, were purchased for $3.85."

Victoria says: "Live stock are coming in off the ranches and are in fair shape for winter. A good many are finding their way to the market, but prices are not very encouraging. Hog grading is being put into effect at the different shipping stations, and is creating a good deal of interest and discussion."

Little pigs are selling at from $8 to $10 a piece in Lennox and Addington, but are bringing from $10 to $12 in Brant.

Lennox and Addington states: "Farmers realize that there will be no sale for poorly finished poultry, and as a result many farmers are buying crates and crate fattening their chickens in order to market them to the best advantage."

Plowing is not a lost art in this Province. The Dundas Representative says: "There is a marked improvement in the ploughing of the younger men and boys throughout the district in our recent ploughing competition some of the contestants who did not stand very high last year, have come up strongly this year. Never before have we had such keen interest manifested especially in the sod class."

WHERE SOLDIER DEAD ARE BURIED OVERSEAS.

The Public Library is in receipt of a communication from the Imperial War Graves Commission stating that they have published a number of Cemetery Registers relating to the Great War.

The lists furnished are of cemeteries in France and Belgium, with one or two in Italy.

The Librarian will be pleased to furnish inquirers with the names of the cemeteries so far received, as doubtless there will be many in the city and county who would be glad to obtain some permanent record of the burial places of friends and relatives lost in the Great War.

The prices of these different registers are 3s apiece, and can be obtained on application to the Imperial War Graves Commission, 23 Baker Street, London, W.1., England.

FRENCH WOMEN ATHLETES SIGN A PEACE COMPACT

PARIS, Nov. 9. — (Associated Press).—Peace has been officially signed between the two warring feminine federations of athletic women of France. A temporary truce was declared last July in order to hold at Pershing Stadium the first feminine Olympic Games on record, in which the United States team carried off second honors.

Gaston Vidal, Under Secretary of State for Physical Culture and Sports, acted as peacemaker. Both federations elected officers to represent them in the Union of French Sporting and Athletic Federations, and henceforth they will be known as the Feminine Federation of France.

The new federation comprises 144 feminine clubs and athletic organizations throughout France, with a membership of nearly fifteen thousand young women and girls.

SCULPTURE NEEDED IN YOUR HOME BUT IT SHOULD BE PRACTICAL

By MARIAN HALE.

Of all the arts sculpture seems to have the least place in the modern home. Most of us satisfy our desire for chiseled marble or bronze by a trip to the art museum or the courthouse or the public library where stones friezes grow.

According to Renee Prahar, the Bohemian sculptress, who just completed the figures for the terrace and interior of the new home of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, this is all wrong.

Sculpture, she believes, has a very definite place in our modern scheme of decoration, but it needs to be adapted to our modern needs. That is why instead of designing cherubs or figures to be placed on a table to collect dust she designs instead a beautiful stand to hold some useful object.

Makes 'Em Useful.

She uses her lovely modeled figures for unusual wall lamps and lightning systems designed for a particular type of home, for fire sets, garden pieces, fountains, sundials and the articles which have a definite use as well as an artistic value.

"We now live in a practical age and we have eliminated unnecessary trimmings from our homes," she explains, "so it is more important than ever before that the things remaining should be beautiful and delight the eye."

She was working on a model for a fountain for Ogden Mills as she talked, wearing a khaki suit with its straight mannish trousers.

"Recently," she continued, "a friend of mine, a poet, told me that she could no longer do any creative work. Her manuscripts were unfinished and her thoughts refused to assemble themselves, even though she devoted herself assidously to her work.

It's the Atmosphere.

"One day I went to her study and I could understand why she couldn't write there. She had an excellent place to dream in, but no one could have concentrated there.

"There were things collected from all parts of the world. A bit of Java here, Rome and Paris there, and all about were things of sentimental association—even a pair of baby shoes from the public."

RENEE PRAHAR

"I redecorated her place for her. I took out all the trinkets, had the wall painted a delicate, restful color, and kept plain. The only things I allowed to remain in the room were the necessary pieces of furniture and the things that called no attention to themselves.

She Works Now.

"When she sat down to work in that room she could write—it was a room planned for that purpose. Sentimental keepsakes, like one's sentimental feelings, should be kept

New York society women have not been slow to appreciate Miss Prahar's very modern sculpture, which she sometimes paints in very modern gay colors to get certain effects.

She does not limit herself to bronze and marble. She does her own marble cutting as well as her modeling and hopes some day to have her own foundry.

Miss Prahar is one of the few women whose sculptured figures have found a place in the Metropolitan Art Museum.

CONSULTED FORTUNE TELLER IN SEARCH FOR MISSING CASH BOX

An Unusual Feature in Slander Action on the Docket of the Cobourg Assizes — Both Parties Live in Alnwick Township, Near Roseneath.

Woman Seeks Damages.

COBOURG, Nov. 9.—The divination of a "fortune teller" is involved in a slander action in the local assize of the Supreme Court of Ontario which opened here on Tuesday afternoon with Mr. Justice Latchford presiding. In this case Mrs. Richard Thompson, who lives near Roseneath, in Alnwick township, is suing a neighbor, Edward Weir, for $2,000 and costs on the accusation that the defendant circulated a report that she had stolen a sum of money from him.

It is stated that, after the death of the defendant's wife, the sum of $600 was missing from a box in her secretary. The maid, who was employed in the Weir home, wishing to clear herself of suspicion, proposed that defendant consult a woman who was reputed to be a fortune-teller. It is alleged that Mr. Weir reported certain "occult disclosures" he had heard at the seance and that they implicated the plaintiff.

In her statement of claim Mrs. Thompson says that the defendant told Thomas Droupe that "the woman who took the money from my house went out the back door, through some gates and over a fence, down past an old barn, and went into a funny coloured house and left the money in a drawer, and I do not intend to tell Dick (meaning the plaintiff's husband) as he is a good fellow and I do not like to tell him," meaning thereby that the plaintiff had stolen certain money from the defendant's house.

It is also alleged that Weir repeated this statement to William Coyle, Mrs. John Brickman and Hugh Masterson.

In October 1921, defendant is said to have told Richard Thompson, plaintiff's husband: "The woman who took the money looked just like the fortune teller's daughter-in-law, and the fortune teller's daughter-in-law looked just like your wife."

Mrs. Thompson also charges that in August, 1921, the defendant said in the presence of Mr. Thompson: "The fortune teller could come out and get the box for me, but she could not get the money, and the reason why I didn't bring the fortune teller out and a detective to clear the matter up was that I wouldn't take $600 and have it come out where the money went," and also that in October, 1921, Weir said to plaintiff's husband: "The people are pitying you, Dick, on account of what I told you down there."

Defendant denies the allegations of the plaitniff, and also asserts that if anything was said by him it was not directed at Mrs. Thompson.

W. F. Kerr is solicitor for plaintiff, acting for G. A. Payne, of Campbellford, and G. N. Gordon, K. C., M.P., of Peterborough, is counsel for Mr. Weir. The case will likely go to trial on Thursday.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Receipts 3,160 cattle and calves; 960 hogs, and 330 sheep and lambs.

The cattle market had a decidedly weak undertone yesterday morning and most classes and grades sold at lower prices. The quality of the offerings still continues very poor with the undesirable stockers and feeders and plain and medium butcher stock being largely represented.

The hog market was unchanged at 8.75 for thick smooth classes.

Prices generally easier on the lamb market. A few early sales of good lambs were made around 10.00.

Mutton sheep of good quality in fair demand at 5.50 to 6.50.

SCOTLAND YARD PRECINCTS RAIDED BY THIEVES

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press).—Scotland Yard, the world's most famous sleuth centre, has been the victim of burglars. The thieves entered the lost property office of the bureau one night recently and stole a number of unclaimed umbrellas and overcoats.

Entry to the offices, which is on the top floor of the low building, was made through the skylight and the thieves escaped by jumping through a window on to the roof of an adjoining building.

BOILS
Made Him Sick and Miserable

Mr. Richard Zalenzoski, McLean, Sask., writes:—"I had been suffering continuously, with boils, for three years, and during that time I tried many different remedies without any success whatever. In spite of all my efforts I was compelled to go to the hospital. This was in the Fall of the year, and right in the busiest time of the season. Upon my return home it just took about two weeks until my neck and arms were again occupied by the boils which made me feel very sick and miserable.

One day one of my friends advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used less than two bottles I was very much surprised at the result.

It is now over two years since I got in touch with B.B.B., and I have had no bother with boils since. I will recommend it to all persons suffering from any defect in the blood."

B. B. B. is manufacutred only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WHERE SCORES LOST THEIR LIVES

When the first of the Entombed Miners were reached in the Spangler, Pa., mine disaster, a multitude of relatives, friends and co-workers, surged as close to the mouth of the pit as the authorities would permit to hear the story of the first miners brought to the surface after the explosion and cave-in, which cost more than a hundred lives. Picture shows rescuers bending over the rescued men, administering first aid.

MOSCOW IS COVERING UP SCARS OF REBEL BULLETS

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press.)—Putty and cement by the ton are being used in Moscow in an effort on the part of the government to blot out traces of the 1917 revolution.

There is scarcely a house in the Soviet capital which was not bullet marked, or less, in the fighting, and some of the larger buildings were peppered with lead and steel from rifles, machine guns and shrapnel. Within the last few weeks hundreds of workmen have been engaged in the task of filling the bullet holes with cement and putty, and in many instances the walls have been painted, thus wiping out the visible scars of the days of terror which swept the Bolsheviki into power.

GLOWING TRIBUTE REV. F. O'SULLIVAN

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Ordination to Priesthood.

PORT HOPE, Nov. 9.—A glowing tribute of esteem and good will was paid to the Rev. Frank O'Sullivan, son of the late Cornelius and Mrs. O'Sullivan, on Tuesday, November 7, at Port Hope, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. The day was also marked by its being the Diamond Jubilee (75th year) of the establishment of the parish at Port Hope.

On Sunday, Nov. 5th, an address was read on behalf of the congregation appreciative of the excellent service Father O'Sullivan had rendered as priest of the parish. The address was accompanied by a handsome purse.

On Tuesday about thirty priests representing the dioceses of Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston were present to pay their respects to Rev. Father O'Sullivan. The principal speaker was Rev. Father McBrady, who for many years held the chair of Philosophy in St. Michael's College, and whose lectures Father O'Sullivan attended thirty years ago when a student at college. Rev. Father McBrady preached the sermon on the occasion of Father O'Sullivan's ordination a quarter of a century ago in Campbellford.

Father O'Sullivan was also presented with an adress and purse by his fellow priests and similar gifts were given by the Cobourg Chapter Knights of Columbus, of which he is lecturer.

A banquet and toast list followed at which the members of the priesthood and out of town guests were present. Many compliments were paid to the guest of the evening on his admirable social qualities, his literary ability and his faithfulness as a priest. Father O'Sullivan is widely known as an author, having been associate editor of the Catholic Record and Register, as well as editing text books used in colleges and seminaries. He has also contributed important articles to the daily press of Ontario.

Father O'Sullivan is well known in Peterborough, where he resided in his early manhood.

THE BULL PEN GOES; THE ROCK PILE NOW

Marquette Warden Believes Hard Labor More Humane Than "Solitary."

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 9.—The rock pile and chain gang soon will replace the "bull pen" at the State Branch Prison here.

James P. Corgan, Warden, has concluded that breaking stone with a heavy sledge every day, winter and summer, will be more effective and more humane punishment for incorrigible inmates that inactive confinement in the narrow "solitary" cells.

The rock pile will be new at Marquette. Men sent to the rock pile for punishment will be clothed in prison garb and will wear ball and chain.

The rock pile will be located in a high-fenced stockade and a tower will be erected in the centre of the enclosure from which guards, armed with rifles, will watch the sledge-swingers.

Job for "Gypsy Bob."

The rock pile will mean the release from solitary confinement of Arthur "Gypsy Bob" Harper, Jasper Perry and Frank Roberts, who have occupied cells in the "bull pen" since Dec. 11, 1921, when they attacked and fatally wounded the late Warden, T. B. Catlin, and the late Deputy Warden, Fred C. Menhennitt.

"Prisoners put in the 'bull pen' are not abused or mistreated, as some persons believe," said the Warden. "Their cells are well ventilated and heated, and are kept clean. They have the same kind of bedding used in other cells. The occupants are well fed, bathed and shaved, and their physical condition is carefully watched.

"They are not handcuffed or chained. I do not believe, however, that they receive the most effective punishment. They do not have to work. While the other prisoners are working, the men in 'solitary' stand up with their hands strapped to the doors of their cells so that they can not sit down.

Approved by Governor.

"I think that the worst punishment they receive is a kind of mental torture and this, I think, is not so effective for the purpose of discipline or punishment as hard work on a rock pile would be."

Gov. Groesbeck, the Warden said, approves the abolishment of the "bull pen."

CACTUS CANDY

Sent From El Paso, Texas, to A. A. Fowler Are Delicious Confections.

The popularity of Mr. A. A. Fowler, local optometrist, seems to extend for some distance from home. A day or so ago a heavier package than the usual parcels of eye-glasses and parts, came through the mail, postmarked El Paso, Texas.

On opening it the parcel was, found to be a well filled box of candy. That in itself was not a matter for special comment, but the candy turned out to be unique in its composition. Each piece was labelled and the greater part of it was a product of cactus plants, surely a home grown commodity in the region around El Paso. The cactus that is used principally in the candy making is called Visnaga or Barrel Cactus. This grows in the form and to the size of a barrel and is covered with very stout bony spines which are its preservation against the attacks of hungry or thirsty animals. Others pieces were labelled Camota or Sweet Potato, Catabaza, or Squash, Catabaza or pumpkin, and Manbrillo or Quina. All of the different pieces were sampled and the Examiner representative can vouch for the superiority of the southern sweetmeats. They were made by the Desert Candy Co., El Paso, Texas, and San Francisco, California.

Nicholls Hospital Alumnae are holding an Armistice dance in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Friday evening of this week. One of the objects for which the Alumnae is anxious to augment its funds just now is its contribution towards the war memorial for Canadian nurses which is in process of completion in Ottawa. Hundreds of Canadian girls took part in the great struggle, and nearly one hundred and twenty-five of them gave up their lives in one way or another during the war. Fourteen of them went down with the ill-fated Llandovery Castle. The nurses of the Dominion purpose honoring their memories with this memorial, which has followed out the original idea of being useful as well as ornamental by the erection of a drinking fountain to commemorate their sacrifice. Every graduate nurse in Canada has been asked to contribute, and each Province has been allotted its share in the payment of the expenses of the memorial, which, it is estimated, will cost about $65,000 when completed. It is anticipated that it will be finished before the end of the present year.

SOMETHING BESIDE THE BOOKISH WORLD.

Prof. B. K. Sandwell of McGill University, Montreal, addressing the Women's Canadian Club last week on the subject, "Why We Need Canadian Books," referred in commiserating tones to the interest taken in other things besides the production of books by those literary Canadians who have proved their worth in the pen and ink arena. He referred to two instances—one of a man whom he considers the best writer of sea stories in Canada, who is compelled to earn his living by working as secretary for some kind of organization that preserves the interests of Canadian fishermen, and the other, the case of Mrs. Arthur Murphy ("Janey Canuck") of Edmonton, who has just lately taken up the cudgels in battle against the organized drug traffic of the Dominion. Prof. Sandwell considered it, evidently, a black mark against the fame of Canada that these things should be so. His conception of the right and proper mode of action for these two people (and others like them) was to have them engaged everlastingly in the production of Canadian literature. He averred that he could not see the necessity for keeping a man of talent immersed in the affairs of a society for the preservation of fishermen's interests, however worthy that society might be, and, as he was not a user of drugs himself, did not care about trying to prevent their use in others, and could not see why Mrs. Murphy, a talented writer, should bother about them.

This is probably the attitude of the real bookworm, the man who has a narrow horizon bounded by written words, to whom real matters of flesh and blood have little or no significance, but it does not seem to be a praiseworthy attitude. The producer of books, probably, has not an inexhaustible fund of mental wealth upon which to draw. It is quite likely that the material for Prof. Sandwell's secretary friend's good sea stories comes in part from knowledge gained in the pursuit of his work in connection with the fishermen's society, and it is quite within the bounds of probability that Mrs. Emily Murphy has a mind and heart big enough to go ahead with her campaign against drugs, and still be a good fiction writer, too. Probably the Canadian novel-reading public may benefit at some future time by the special knowledge gained by her in this work, and her literary work be made stronger and better by her interests in something beside the bookish world.

LEATHER HATS.

Leather sports hats are quite the vogue. Usually these come in bright shades of green, rose or blue, as well as tans. They are self-trimmed.

BATTLE BETWEEN COATS AND CAPES ENDS IN A TRUCE

The case of capes vs. coats has been settled satisfactorily for both factions.

Capes win! Coats win! Other seasons' fashion has refused to be divided. It must be one or the other. This season both are to be worn.

The coat pictured blouses at the waist and droops from the shoulder wrappily—but that is due to the very new sleeve.

Collars this winter are high, more for smartness than for warmth, yet fashion is to be thanked for combining the two.

For those who like the comfortable voluminous folds of a cape there is the style illustrated. Panel-like trimmings are the real reason for its very popular and fashionable existence.

WOMEN AND EQUAL RIGHTS CAMPAIGN.

According to a detailed report of the Woman's party, more than four million women have been affected by the "equal rights" campaign. The first national conference of the party's leaders since the reorganization will be held in Washington on Nov. 11 and 12.

Miss Alice Paul, the party's vice president, reports legislative victory in 9 states—Maine, Delaware, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Mississippi, Maryland, Virginia, Massassachusetts and Georgia. In Maine the women were given the right to serve on juries; in Delaware the right to hold all public offices; in Wisconsin women were granted full equality with men in every respect; in Louisiana, thirteen specific discriminations against women were removed, granting women greater right in the guardianship of children ,the control of property and political offices; in Mississippi, and equal guardianship law was passed; in Virginia women were given greater property rights and the right to choose their own voting residence; in Maryland women were given the right to hold certain public offices; in Massachusetts mothers were given equal righ: with fathers in appointing a guardian for their children by will; in Georgia the mother was given equal right with the father to inherit from a deceased child; married women were given the right to be appointed guardian.

SENSE OF SMELL.

"It is extraordinary," a blind man has pointed out, "how useful the sense of smell may prove in getting about alone. In picking out a particular shop in a long row it is often the only guide for a blind person. Almost every shop has its own distinctive smell, which has been familiar to us from childhood, though we may never before have had reason to turn this familiarity to account."

Gems of Thought

It can no longer be taken for granted that women are destitute of business ability, and the man that looks with contempt on her as adviser and helper is getting away from the path that leads to peace and plenty—the path that was designed for them in the beginning when it was given to the man and woman together to have dominion over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

How many Christmas days, how many June days, how many fair mornings, dewy, fresh and sweet with summer bloom does it take to make up the summer mornings of fifty years? How many snow falls, cold bleak mornings of snow and ice, and dreary midnights, does it take for a half century of years? How many births and how many deaths, how many proud hopes to rise up into grand results and tottet over and bury the hopeful builder in the ruins? How many heart throbs, how many heart aches, how much joy, how much grief are crowded in fifty years? Reader, this is a beautiful thought for you.

Every man, every woman, every child, has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it, it gradually increases, improves and becomes native to the character. As we neglect it, it dwindles, withers and disappears. This is the stern but benign law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels and virtue into goodness.

There is untold wealth locked up in the long evenings ahead of you. A great opportunity confronts you. What will you do with it?

"He who spendeth his money for naught shall come to poverty" and ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, it's the poverty stricken class who do it.

While a man is regretting the fact that a deed cannot be done, he is often interrupted by someone doing it.

Hold on to the troubles you have for when they go there may come worse ones.

A THOUGHT

Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule; let us mind the same thing.—Philippians 3:16.

If any little move of mine
May make life sweeter;
If any little care of mine
May make friend's the fleeter;
If any lift of mine may ease
The burden of another,
God give me love, and care, and strength
To help a toiling brother.

RECIPES

COOKIES.

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

The following is a very good foundation recipe for a rich, crisp cookie. If cut with a medium-sized cutter, having the dough rolled as thinly as possible without breaking, the recipe will make 60 or more cookies.

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
¼ teaspoon soda
4 cups flour

Cream the butter and sugar together until light. Add eggs unbeaten, one at a time, beating well with the addition of each egg.

Add soda dissolved in milk. Add flour, thoroughly mix and place in a cold place for several hours.

Take out a small amount of the dough at a time, roll cut and bake in a moderate oven 10 minutes. When finished cookies should be a golden brown.

Nutmeg or cinnamon may be put in when mixed, but a very good way is to mix the spice with sugar and sprinkle over the top before baking.

Raisin—the seedless ones—grated cocoanut, chopped nuts, cherries, currants may be used for garnishing the tops.

Brush the cookies with slightly beaten white of egg, mixed with one tablespoon water.

SMALL NUT CAKES.

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

1 cup pecan meats, thinly sliced
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Beat eggs very slightly, add sugar a little at a time, being sure there are no lumps in the sugar. Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Add to eggs with the nuts. Stir until well mixed and bake in well-greased, small, shallow tins 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven. These cakes need to rise quickly and be taken from pans as soon as they come from the oven.

CORN MEAL BATTER BREAD

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

1 cup white or yellow corn meal
2 cups hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
2 eggs
2 teaspoons baking powder

Pour the hot milk over the corn and salt. Let stand until cool. Add the butter or bacon fat, melted, the eggs well-beaten and lastly sift in the baking powder.

Beat for a few seconds and turn into a well-greased, deep baking dish. Bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve from the dish in which it is baked.

This bread is very good with meat and gravy instead of potatoes or rice.

BROWNIES.

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

¼ cup butter
½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
½ teaspoon soda
1 egg
1 cup flour
1 cup pecan meats

Cream together butter and sugar. Add molasses, egg (well beaten) and flour sifted with soda. Add nut meats cut in small pieces.

Turn mixture into buttered small tins, place a pecan meat on top of each and bake in a hot oven 12 minutes.

By "hot oven" is meant oven enough to send cakes to top of pan in three or four minutes. Then reduce heat and finish baikng.

SALT CODFISH.

By Bertha E. Shapleigh.

There is much fun at the expense of people living on the ocean side of Maine and Massachusetts because of their liberal use of codish. Where is there a dish more appetizing than "picked up" 'ish with a baked potato, done to a turn?

Or those delicious fish balls, or cakes, but with no tomato sauce. There is a great difference between an ordinary tomato sauce and a good tomato catsup when served with salt codfish.

1 cup salt codfish,
2 cups potatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup rich milk
Paprika to taste.

Soak salt codfish over night and cook till tender. Cook potatoes with jackets on and let stand over night.

Shred codfish, peel potatoes and cut into small cubes.

Place butter in sauce pan. When melted add codfish and potatoes.

Pour over milk, dust with paprika and cook until milk is absorbed. Add more milk if necessary. Cook slowly, stirring with fork occasionally.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED.

You know that a man's position when walking with two women is the outside—that is, the curb side of the sidewalk—not between the women.

A man, of course, never takes a woman's arm. This savors of undue familiarity.

If he feels she needs protection or guidance he may offer his arm, but no attempt to thrust his arm through hers or grasp her by the elbow to guide her across the street.

Fashion Hints

IN BLUE SERGE.

A wide band of skunk trims the flaring skirt of a blue serge dress with an elaborate steel girdle. It has very long, close-fitting sleeves and a high choker.

REAL LACE COLLARS.

Real lace collars and cuffs are now greatly in demand for the dark satin and velvet frocks. Very large and very small ones are equally fashionable.

VELVET AND SATIN.

Velvet and satin are effectively combined in the winter materials. Alternate stripes of velvet and satin sometimes reach a width of six or eight inches and are made up without trimming.

BRAIDING POPULAR.

The coat and medium-length jacket of a chic Paris costume are braided solidly with black braid. Hudson seal edges the coat and the collars and cuffs.

COLORFUL EMBROIDERY.

Cross-stitch embroidery in heavy silk or in yarn, or peasant embroidery in gay colors, is the most effective and one of the least expensive ways in which to trim a serge or Poiret twill costume.

WHITE SATIN AND LACE.

One of the most beautiful evening frocks worn at a smart function was a gown of cream-color lace, draped softly over the slip of supple cream satin. The frock was very long but had an even hemline.

LEAF TRIMMINGS.

A velvet gown, cut on very plain, classical lines, is trimmed with cascades of leaves of a darker shade than the material and is outlined with silver.

The best dressed girl in Paris is said to be Mademoiselle Frances Suval, who is also one of the prettiest.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

A very old custom still prevails at a Beoduin marriage.

The bridegroom come to the home of his bride bearing a lamb in his arm.

When the guests are assembled he cuts the lamb's throat. As soon as the blood falls upon the ground the marriage ceremony is over.

The guests then repair to the feast.

WHY BABIES CRY
It's often hard to find the trouble—It may be teeth—it may be stomach—but oh! so often it is just a chafed irritated skin on which poor Soap has been used.
The remedy for this is so simple! Hours of suffering—night after night of disturbance—have been avoided by mothers, who have insisted on—Baby's Own Soap. Of course it costs a little more, a very little more, however—than what is often bought and used—but four generations of Canadian Mothers are there to vouch for its purity, for the soothing healing effect on Baby's delicate skin, for the lovely pure flower fragrance it leaves when Baby fresh and clean is taken from his bath.
Don't you think, Madam, it's worth paying the 15c. a cake, a little less if you buy a box (3 cakes) which your dealer asks for Baby's Own Soap. Ad*

In its consideration of immigration, Congress will not be likely to take this fact into account: Europe desposited a half million women on the shores of America last year, most of them in search of husbands. But "we should worry," there are three and a half million more unmarried males than females in the United States.

STRIKING PAGEANT AT CONVENTION HERE

with Christ." Mr. Stillwell referred to a young man now taking a course in Guelph Agricultural College who will go to South America in May of next year, to take up the work of Peniel Hall Farm, both from an agricultural and a spiritual standpoint.

At Cochabemba, a drop to the lower levels of some six thousand feet, where the fruit lands and orchards were a pleasant change from the high plateaus, Mr. Stillwell met Johnson Turnbull, and the two honorary missionaries of the Baptist church in South America, Mrs. Wilkinson and Miss Morton, one 62 years of age the other 52 years, who removed to South America from the United States some years ago when they heard that there was a need in that country for those who could simply "go down there and live the Gospel of Christ."

A humorous reference was made to the "patting bees" of the South Americans, in their habit of embracing an acquaintance of either sex and patting one on the back. Quichua was another of the dialects encountered by Mr. Stillwell in the course of his travels. The address concluded with a strong assertion in the belief of the speaker, which he said he knew was not shared by all, of the strong need of missionary endeavor in South America.

Striking Pageant

Mrs. Gordon Blackadar of Ottawa, superintendent of Young Women's work in the Eastern Convention, gave a brief pithy discourse during Young Women's Hour, on the beauty and value of missionary sketches. This was followed by a very striking pageant, composed and directed by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, and entitled, "The Great Physician." With a clear dramatic delivery of the several long speeches, carefully carried out costuming, and an exceptionally brilliant rendering by Mrs. Pettit herself of the final oration, it was a clever and brilliant piece of work, and watched throughout with close attention. The pageant depicted in successive scenes the condition of the sick world, portrayed by Harry Doughty as a wounded creature on a bed of pain, with the various remedies prescribed by different physicians; the allurements of the world described in well-rendered paragraphs by the different Vices, and the final remedy in the return to Jesus, the Great Physician. Faith, Hope and Charity, were constant attendents of the patient, in white nurses uniforms, Hope, the principal speaker, being portrayed by Miss Clara Doughty, Faith by Mrs. W. Barringer, and Charity by Miss Olive Johnson. The different grave physicians attired in grave caps and gowns and flowing white Grecian costumes, were Philosophy, Maragret Eastwood; Science, Eva Ross; Education, Ethel Garbutt; Religion, Mabel Darling; Progress, Lillian Eastwood; Art, Mrs. Louis Smith; Literature, Elizabeth Webber, and Government, well portrayed by Mrs. C. Westbrook.

The Vices were enacted as follows: Avarice, in green, wraithlike draperies, Miss Mary Scott; with her followers, helpless children and a girl clutching money bags; Autocracy, in red Turkish costume with red fez, Mrs. Joseph Wearing; with boy with bandaged head and two ragged children; Pleasure, Miss Florence Scott, in green and silver evening dress, attended by her companions, representing Folly and Indulgence; Mrs. Sage and Mrs. C. Lapp, with Miss Margaret Tewsley and Miss Olive Doughty portraying Conscience, in white robe. Miss Scott sang very beautifully during this scene.

Despair, Miss Sarah Eastwood in sombre brown veilings, followed, with Mrs. Jno. Jary as Ignorance in grey, attended by two representatives of India, in native costume; Selfishness, in yellow, Miss Lillian Scott, companioned by Miss N. Curtis as the mother attending to her own little child (Della Smeddmore) and turning away from the supplications of the two little things, Alex. and Mary Haddow, children of Rev. and Mrs. Haddow, who were dressed in quaint South American native costumes. A girl in furs (Miss Marion Duncan), looks scornfully on.

Sin approaches and claims her victim, the world. This was a splendid characterization by Mrs. H. H. Graham, dressed in red with flowing red veil and head band, but later, Dr. Church, enacted by Mrs. Pettit in flowing graceful white draperies turns the tide to Christ and rescues the dying world.

Others taking part in various minor roles included: Mrs. R. Gavine, Miss Sadie Garrett, Miss Myrtle Knapp, Miss Ethel Smeddmore, Miss Ethel Hardwick and Harry Yelland. During the final scene, Miss Lillian Eastwood sang a sweet hym to Jesus. Miss Ida Sanderson presided at the organ, playing soft music during the rendering of a very striking pageant, a credit both to its clever composer and to all who took part in it.

Devotional services last evening were led by Rev. J. R. Webb, the afternoon session being led in prayer by Mrs. E. A. Cale of Toronto. The first vice-president Mrs. J. G. Brown of Toronto presided during the afternoon, which was begun with the minutes of the morning session, read by Mrs. F. H. Bigwood of Toronto, followed by the report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. E. Stillwell of Toronto.

Interesting Report

Attention was directed in this report to the work in Bolivia, where the Women's Board of Ontario West, has one young woman missionary; Miss Alice Booker of Hamilton. Miss Booker has been in Bolivia for two years, has completed her study of Spanish and is now undertaking the study of Aymria, the language of the aboriginal Indians, among whom she is working at the peniel Hall Farm. The need of more young women for that country was emphasized, particularly of trained nurses. The work among women in the Telagu country of India is more advanced and there we have 14 women missionaries at work besides those on furlough and four on their way out. These women are in charge of boarding and day schools, or are teaching in the zenanas, and have all reported a splendid year of work. The great need is for more prayer and more workers, both Canadian and Indian, and the most urgent need is for a young woman doctor to carry on the work left unprovided for by the death of the former medical missionary.

Missionary's Address

An address by Miss Lucy Jones, a missionary on furlough from Ramachandrapuram, in India, was much enjoyed at the afternoon session. Miss Jones, who has been fourteen years in India, has a pleasant manner of address and an evident whole-hearted absorption in her work. She spoke of a certain small village in her district which has now fallen in partical decay but which has sent out in its time many zealous workers for the Lord. The open doors for grace which are often discovered in unlikely spots were emphasized by the speaker, who recounted her experience of many years with different native workers. Sarah, the old Bible-woman, whose son Michael is pastor of a native church; Samuel, Daniel, Mary, the teacher wife of the lazy Lazarus, who finally reclaimed her husband as well as her companions; the child of the woman who promised her late-born babe to the Lord's work, a promise that has seen rich fulfillment; the Weaver Man of the Telugus, were all alluded to in a thoughtful and interesting discourse. Miss Jones referred to three recent letters received by her since her furlough began, recounting the conversion inside of one month of three natives from the caste men and women of the Telagus. An earnest appeal was made by the speaker for definite prayer in Mission Circle meetings and, if possible, for small circulating libraries.

An address, vivacious and earnest, was given by Mrs. Gordon Blackadar of Ottawa, on "Young Women's Work." The speaker recounted her experiences as superintendent of Young Women's Work in the Eastern Convention, with the results both in grace and in money accruing from the efforts of the girls in her charge, and made a strong plea for co-ordination in such work in the Western Convention. The three qualities of a superintendent which she considered necessary were (1) a love for girls, all girls, even the flapper. "Let her flap if she wishes to. It is her business, and won't hurt so long as she flaps the right way." (2) A love for missions. (3) A lack of fear of work.

An Eloquent Speaker

Mrs. H. H. Graham of Peterboro was an eloquent speaker of the afternoon, speaking on Christian Education, with especial reference to the advantages held out to young Baptist womanhood by education received at McMaster University, Toronto. Besides the educational value and opportunity offered for self-development at this institution, Mrs. Graham considered the strong religious atmosphere and religious activities a great incentive to the spiritual life of the girls attending there. Wallingford Hall was an ideal residence, with a social life which had for its basis, not class, but intrinsic worth, a wholesome, bright and attractive athletic side and at atmosphere of general culture and friendliness. Symbolical of McMaster were its crest, the open Bible, and its motto, "In Christ all thing exist."

Convention Notes

Little Masters Leslie Chen and Fred Stanley are acting as small pages for the Convention, bright eyed lads, with spotless black suits and flat white collars.

Mrs. F. M. Somerville is presiding at the organ during the Convention.

Mrs. Norman Phelps of North Bay, one of the delegates, has been taking care of four small children left in her charge by a sick mother who was through the Haileybury fire.

Mrs. H. H. Graham of this city, who gave an address on Christian Education at the afternoon session yesterday, was formerly Miss Evelyn Davis, daughter of the late John Davis, an Indian missionary.

CIRCUMSTANCE MAY SEND MAN TO DEATH

F. L. Flory Will Face the Jury Today on a Charge of Murder.

SIGOURNEY, Ia., Nov. 9.—Circumstantial evidence, that grim weapon of death that has taxed the judgment of many a jury, again hovers over the cell where sits F. L. Flory awaiting trial for the murder of his wife.

Flory will face the jury here today eight months to the day after Mrs. Flory was found dead from poisoning in their farm home near South English, Ia. The prosecution has built up a powerful case, all based on circumstances, by which it hopes to show that Flory put bichloride of mercury in his wife's food in order that he might collect $5000 in life insurance and be free to wed another woman.

There is evidence of quarrels, of separation and negotiations for divorce, according to prosecuting officials. Three months before the tragedy a $5000 life insurance policy for Mrs. Floyd was made payable to her husband, they say Also, they declare, the name of a other woman will be brought into the case.

Flory remains unperturbed in his cell. He is in good spirits and asserts that when the time comes, he will prove his innocence.

Ambassador Harvey says women have no souls and manages to get his name in our paper again.

"You may eat chicken with your fingers," says etiquette hints. You may, but you may need a hachet.

Rent But 40 Cents a Year With Bread At $9 a Kilo

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—In Vienna a street car conductor receives 600,000 kroner, or Austrian crowns, a month. His rent, based on pre war prices by the law of the land, remains at 260 to 800 kroner a year.

On form that sounds "just grand," but a litttle figuring, as far as the income is concerned, will put a different aspect on the question. The pre-war value of the crown was 20 cents. A year ago the exchange was .05 of a cent.; today it is .0015!

"A little sum in decimals will show that the conductor is receiving about $9 a month, and that he is paying a little over 40 cents a year for his habitation," said Dr. J. M. Sutherland, who has just returned from more than a year's residence in Vienna, Budapest and Berlin, where he has been taking postgraduate work.

"The situation, as it applies to the street car conductor parallels that in other wage-earning walks of life in Austri aand Hungary. The folk who were rich, either as land owners or security owners, find themselves in a worse position than the lowest type of proletariat experienced before the war.

"Land values are indicated by the rent paid by the conductor, the returns from securities of Austrian origin are no better, so that the man who was rich in 1914 finds himself reduced to extremities. The rapid decline of Austrian crowns carried distress to this once 'better element.' An example of the drop in exchange was illustrated in my case. Before I went to Hungary from Austria, I bought a couple of hundred thousand crowns to pay bills, etc. I kept 40,000 thinking I could use them when I returned. When I did, a few months later, my 40,000 kroner would not pay for my luncheon on the train. In August a kilo of bread cost 6,000 kroner.

Ill-Feeling Marked.

"There is considerable ill-feeling between Austria and Hungary and it is impossible to purchase a through ticket from Budapest to Vienna. The ticket can only be bought to the border. The best stores in Vienna as well as in the Hungarian capital have been pretty well cleaned out by bargain hunting 'auslanders,' as the foreigners are called.

"Conditions in Germany are better than elsewhere. There the industries are fairly active and laborers are better off than any other class. For example, in Hamburg, where the highest wages are paid, it is better to be a truck driver than a university professor. Eighteen-year-old drivers of delivery wagons receive a little more than 4,700 marks a week, that is about 19,000 marks a month. Judges receive from 16,000 to 21,000 marks a month and the highest class of public school teachers get from 14,000 to 21,000 marks a month. The par value of the mark was 23 cents, and its present quotation is .02½.

"Of course, these Teutonic countries, as well as that of the Magyars, will recover, but it is bound to be a slow process. I did not find social conditions to be in the least objectionable. English speaking people were received without any display of ill-will, although in some of the hospitals American and English physicians found a little discrimination. For example, we were, we discovered, paying much more for class instruction, and clinical work, than other foreigners were paying. We got together and made a protest with the result that it was changed.

Medical Standards High.

"Hospital and medical school work is maintained at a high standard, but in Vienna there is fear that this can not long continue, for there is no money with which to carry on activities. Another situation confronts the students. Patients or those who would be patients, are too poor to get to the hospitals, and so don't go. The result is a scarcity of patients. We foreigners raised pools and arranged to pay transportation from different parts of the city for ailing citizens.

"In Austria, Hungary and Germany some remarkable achievements have been recorded in eye, ear, nose and throat work. The same is true of plastic surgery by which the whole contour of the face is changed for the better. I believe that in this branch Berlin is more advanced than Vienna. In the former place I was fortunate enough to work under Dr. J. Joseph, who I look upon as the leader in this particular field."

SPIRIT OF OLD LOVE CHARGED WITH A PART IN MARITAL TRIANGLE

Husband's Belief in the Spirit World Responsible for Break-up.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Forming the third corner of an "eternal triangle" here is the ghost of a former sweetheart.

The spectral figure, claims the wife in the case, has come back to earth and is luring her husband's love away.

The couple had separated, and on the strength of her story of spiritual lure, Mrs. Bertha Lahm is petitioning the courts for separate maintenance from Fred Lahm, alleged host to the spirit flame.

Under oath Mrs. Lahm declares their married life has never been happy since the return from the great beyond of a girl named Evelyn whom the husband admits he loved before her death eight years ago.

Lahm's belief in the spirit world came to him a few years ago, says Mrs. Lahm. Ever since, he has been covering the house with pictures of Evelyn, she says.

Conditions in the Lahm household became more and more serious until recently, the wife says, her husband held his daily seances with his ghostly visitor. He sought advice from the spirit, Mrs. Lahm charges even neglected her and their child, also named Evelyn to be with the spirit of his former love.

"I simply couldn't stand it any longer" said Mrs. Lahm, who has taken her daughter to her mother's house to live.

Nothing could be done in the household, she said, unless Lahm first consulted the spirit. It got so, she alleges, Lahm went to other women whose name was Evelyn, on the pretext that the spirit had guided him to them.

Lahm denies her charges. "None of it is true" she says.

That is as far as he will go, however, in explaining the alleged presence of the spirit of his former sweetheart.

ENDS 600-YEAR DYNASTY.

The collapse of the Turkish Sultanate, announced in cable dispatches, brings to a termination the peculiar situation which has obtained in Turkey since the World War, with the ruling power of the country in dispute between the Sublime Porte, or Sultan's Government in Constantinople, and the Nationalists, with their capital at Angora.

Sultan Mohammed VI., the ruler whose power is declared at an end by the Nationalists, is the thirty-sixth in male descent of the House of Othman (or Osman), founded in 1288, and the thirtieth since the Moslem conquest of Constantinople. He succeeded to the throne on July 3, 1918, after the death of his brother, Sultan Mohammed V.

In addition to his position as political head of the Turkish Empire, the Sultan, under the title of Caliph, has always been the supreme religious head of the Mohammed world, a fact which has raised difficulties for the great powers in their attitude toward Turkey since the Sublime Porte and the Nationalists have been contending for power.

The Nationalist movement, which started in the interior after the World War, culminated in the convocation of a National Assembly at Angora in April, 1920, under the auspices of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, who has since continued as the head of the mopement. Immediately after coming into existence this assembly declared itself invested with all legislative and executive power in Turkey, without, however, throwing off its allegiance to the Sultan as Caliph of the Moslems.

The Sublime Porte has made numerous attempts to bring this dual system to an end by peaceful means, but the Angora Government has steadfastly refused a rapprochement and has now, by its latest act, thrown down the final barrier to its complete Government of the country.

The effect of the change in Turkey is likely to receive early attention from the allied powers when the Near East peace conference meets on Nov. 13 at Lausanne. The agreement on the conference gave specific recognition to Turkey, but did not distinguish between the Constantinople and Angora Governments.

A dispatch from allied sources on Thursday said that it would be left for the Turks themselves to determine which was the real representative of Turkey. It is evident that the Kemalists have foreseen the near approach of this issue at Lausanne and have taken these decisive steps to assert that theirs is the one and only Government of Turkey.

GANGES IN FLOOD FAULKNER OBJECTS TO WIFEY'S BATHNG SUIT

Court Case Follows With Results in Favor of Mrs. Faulkner.

CHICAGO.—Wives, don't let your husbands tell you what to wear or what not to wear.

They have no right to dictate to you, at least when it comes to clothes.

This is the opinoin of legal experts here who point to the precedent recently set in the case of Mrs. Doris Faulkner against her husband, David C. Faulkner.

Faulkner saw wifey in a bathing suit at a cabaret style review. He had ordered her not to appear this way in public, so, it is charged, he tried to tear it from her.

The quarrel ended when the judge granted a decree of divorce to Mrs. Faulkner.

Which means, say legal authorities, that husbands cannot interfere with wifey's attire.

A FRENCH MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION KNOCKED OUT.

Siki May Be Disqualified As a Result of His Attack on Manager.

PARIS, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press).—When Balzac, the French middleweight champion, whom he was seconding, was knocked out in the 11th round by Maurice Prunier last night, Battling Siki, European heavyweight champion, walked across the ring and struck Fernan Cuny, manager of Prunier. The spectators were furious and tried to get at Siki, who was rescued by the police and taken from the hall. The French Boxing Federation will decide whether Siki will be permanently disqualified from the French ring because of his misconduct.

DEAF BOY IS NOTED COMPOSER OF MUSIC

Leroy Henderson Has Turned Out Some Good Songs in Spite of His Affliction.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. — Twenty years ago—a deaf scullery boy kicked and cuffed about the cattle ranches of the southwest.

Such has been the career of Leroy Henderson here who can't distinguish one note from another, and who hasn't heard a sound since he lost his hearing when he was 6.

For years Henderson, an orphan, wandered over the western plains picking up any sort of odd job, and living with friendly Indians.

Later, in company with a wounded soldier who played the piano and sang, he sold his songs on Mississippi River excursion steamboats, until stray dime contributions enabled him to come to Chicago.

Henderson's greatest dream was realized when he placed his fingers to the throat of Cyrena Van Gordon, Chicago grand opera star, and through them "heard" her render his latest composition, "Love of the Ages," which musical critics have pronounced a masterpiece.

DOWNFALL OF GIRLS.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—"Eighty per cent. of our social problems would be solved if we had proper places in which to care for the feeble minded," declared Dr. Margaret Patterson, police magistrate, Toronto, here last night. The constant demand for "thrills," automobiles, public taxi cab drivers, unsupervised boarding houses, commercialized dancing halls and the baneful education of the movies were stated by her as contributing causes to the downfall of young girls.

CITY BILLIARD LEAGUE.

A general meeting was held in the G.W.V.A. last evening to discuss the programme for the season of 1922-23. A number of fraternal societies were represented, and it was decided to invite teams of the city to enter for the Gordon Cup, now held by the Sons of England.

Officers for the coming season were elected as follows: President, W. G. Shiner; Vice-President, T. Guerin; Secretary, F. W. Eggleton.

LONDON, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—The Home Office announced to promoters of the Beckett-Siki bout, scheduled for December 7, that the contest will not be allowed to take place.

REAL DIAMONDS IN "PINK GODS"

A production hazard not usually considered, has been met in Penrhyn Stanlaws Paramount production of "Pink Gods" a picture featuring Bebe Daniels and James Kirkwood. This is the danger of loss and the cost of insurance of tens of thousands of dollars worth of diamonds and jewelled pieces, which are seen in the picture.

The theme of "Pink Gods" which plays the Capitol the last half of this week is the fatal lure of diamonds for women, and the dramatic action revolves about a young wife, played by Miss Daniels, and the lengths of indiscretion to which she goes to obtain the precious stones. Mr. Kirkwood is seen as John Quelch, the "the man who made Kimberly" and the man who has in his gift innumerable gems.

Such is the effect of the "Pink Gods" upon which the character played by Miss Daniels that she is required to go into what amounts to a state of hypnosis, while gazing at some of the wonderful gems. In order to make these convincing, Mr. Stanlaws, the producer, arranged with a diamond broker to rent some of the finest stones which could be obtained some of which were unset and some in beautiful combinations and settings.

These gems were placed in a safe deposit each night, and removed in the morning by a plain-clothes officer, who turned them over to Miss Daniels when they were needed for scenes. This officer never got farther from the star than just outside the camera lines, and he was responsible for the safe return of the jewelry at night.

The remarkable cast of "Pink Gods" which is from a story by Cynthia Stockley, includes Bebe Daniels, James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Raymond Hatton, Adolphe Menjou and others as well-known. he adaptation was made by J. E. Nash and Sonya Levien.

AT THE ROYAL.

EARLE WILLIAMS AND RUDOLPH VALENTINO IN "A ROGUE'S ROMANCE."

Two of the most popular male stars of today, Earle Williams and Rudolph Valentino, are starred in "A Rogue's Romance", a Vitagraph release. The picture was directed by James Young and the cast includes such well-known players as Kathryn Adams, Brinsley Shaw, Marion Skinner, Maud George, Harry Van Meter and Herbert Standing.

Earle Williams has climbed to popularity through years of hard work and clever performance. His films are always heralded with enthusiasm by picture lovers throughout the country.

Rodolph Valentino leaped to popularity almost overnight. Aside from his ability as an actor he has won an enviable reputation as a dancer. Perhaps the best known and most popular of those performed by Valentino is an Apache dance. This number was filmed for "A Rogue's Romance" and is on of the highlights in the production.

James Young, who directed the picture, is one of the oustanding directors of today. His pictures are unexcelled for direction and the atmosphere contained in them. The lure and romance of Paris with its underworld and police system have all been caught by the camera. It is the type of story that has made French fiction so popular in America. The plot deals with the adventures of a master criminal who antagonizes a dangerous power in the underworld. The introduction of a strong love interest provides material for thrilling escapes and dramatic situations. The element of suspense is maintained until the final denouement. It is from the pen of H. H. Van Loan, whose work always brings to the screen photoplays of exceptional merit.

In "A Rogue's Romance" Rodolph Valentino is cast as The Ferret, a cafe dancer and member of the underworld. It is considered dangerous to cross The Ferrett and yet Mons. Picard, a role assumed by Williams, deliberately antagonizes this man and engages in a fist fight with him. From that hour The Ferret hounds Picard and informs the police of his every move. But Picard is always able to outwit the police and make an exciting escape.

A girl induces Picard to turn his powers to the benefit of society and this man, whose love for children has caused him to adopt three, aids the police in capturing a dangerous band of grafters. He is cornered without visible means of escape, several times; but in each instance manages to elude his pursuers in the most natural manner.

The story is full of surprises and unexpected twists, furnishing both Williams and Valentino difficult and exacting roles. The action is exceptionally tricky and the business of a kind that keeps the players on the alert at all times.

"HER NIGHT OF NIGHTS" FEATURE NEW FASHIONS

Fashions withheld from New York and Paris for three months are shown in a style display in "Her Night of Nights", a Universal attraction in which Marie Prevost will star at the Regent Theatre, on Nov. 9, 10, and 11th.

Peggy Hamilton, "the Lady Duff Gordon of America", who dictates the styles not only of the exclusive society set of Southern California but of many cities of the English speaking world, staged an elaborate revue in the filming of "Her Night of Nights", which was directed by Hobart Henley.

Peggy Hamilton's styles are always exotic, never bound by any fashion restraints. One of the features of the style show in the picture is a gown of batik in bizarre effects, which it is predicted will awaken unprecedented interest in Parisian circles when it is allowed to be shown there.

AT THE GRAND.

The night of August 30th, 1916, in the city of London, will always be memorable in theatrical history, because on that night at His Majesty's Theatre "Chu Chin Chow" began its remarkable run of five years. Then New York saw it for two years when produced by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest. Others of our leading cities had it; and now, in due course, it comes to Peterborough where it will be seen at the Grand Theatre tomorrow and Saturday.

Written by Oscar Asche, with music by Frederick Norton, "Chu Chin Chow" is a musical extravaganza based upon the fables in the Arabian Nights. Little was expected of it in advance. The late Sir Herbert Tree, lessee of the theatre, had no faith whatever in its success, and therefore stipulated that he could close the theatre and discontinue the performances if the receipts ever fell below $15,000 for one week. Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton, who created the leading roles, had every confidence in "Chu Chin Chow," however, and so they agreed to insert this clause in the contract.

It was an enormous success in London from the start. In spite of air-raids, business depression and a thousand other detrimental influences, it continued to play at His Majesty's Theatre for five full years and has only recently ended its run, although enormously popular to the end. Furthermore, Sir Herbert died a rich man as the result of "Chu Chin Chow;" his executors sold the theatre in which the play was presented, but the new owners were unable to take possession until three years after they bought the playhouse, assuming the management only when "Chu Chin Chow" was finally withdrawn.

F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, who bought "Chu Chin Chow" for America, presented it at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, on October 22nd, 1917; in January, 1918, they moved it to the Century Theatre, New York, where it finished the season, and the following year they brought it back to the Century for a second engagement. It has been hailed everywhere as the crowning artistic achievement of the decade, as well as one of the smartest, most brilliant and most alluring stage productions ever made. The cast will be the same that has played all the other large cities of the country.

The sale of seats is now open.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: The revolt of the American people of exemplary habits against the oppression and slave-driving propensities of the Drys, has been complete—perhaps too complete. There is danger that the pendulum will swing to the other extreme. Lawlessness of every kind has been on the rampage wherever the proper liberties of the people have been curtailed. Hatred of the oppressors has become fierce and deep-seated, and is the worst if not the most apparent result of the whole unscrupulous and unhappy business. Let me appeal to the extremists in Ontario to get back before they are beaten back and before the damage to public good feeling and the sentiment of justice has become so great that only a revolution can rectify it.

LIBERTY FOR THE DECENT.

MAY MODIFY THE VOLSTEAD TERMS

Action May Follow The United States Elections on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Proposals for legislation modifying the Volstead Act with respect to the sale of beer and light wines were regarded to-day at the Treasury as extremely likely, as a result of the outcome of Tuesday's election.

In the meanwhile, however, Secretary Mellon was reported as holding that the Treasury's policy of strict enforcement of the prohibition laws would continue unchanged.

Unless the question actually comes up in Congress, high Treasury officials indicated little consideration will be given to the possible source of revenue which might be developed from taxes on beer and wine.

SWEDISH AUTO TAX WILL BUILD BETTER ROADS

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press).—Swedish motorists will begin to pay taxes on their vehicles and [illegible] on January 1, 1923. Tourists from foreign countries, however, may still bring their own cars into the country and roam about at will for as much as twelve months without any charge whatsoever.

The new auto tax, which is to be applied to the repairing and improvements of roads in Sweden, is levied on cars and tires according to their weight. Each car using rubber tires is taxed 8 kronor for every hundred kilograms or fraction thereof, which amounts to about $1 per hundred pounds. The tires are taxed 1.50 krona for every kilogram of weight. Tires in use at the beginning of next year will be exempt, and in the case of pneumatic tires, two extras will be exempt.

International Soccer May End In Easy Walk Away

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press)—The International Soccer Tournament threatens to become farcial, according to a sporting writer in the Daily News. He says for years Ireland and Wales have been agitating for Saturday dates for their matches with England, and they were granted a concession in that direction at the last International Board meeting. To get Saturday dates they had to promise not to approach any players with English clubs before obtaining the permission of the clubs concerned, and apparently they were thoroughly content to do that. The result, however, cannot be described as satisfactory.

The Irish selectors have met with several refusals. Liverpool, because of injuries to players, intimated that the club could not spare its Irish players. Hamill of Manchester City, begged off after being chosen, and Emerson, of Burnley, and McCracken, of the Crystal Palace, also had to refuse to play for Ireland at West Bromwich. Burnley had several international players and as the English selectors have called upon Watson, Burnley's captain and left-half back, to act as reserve, the East Lancashire Club officials felt that they could not also spare Emerson from their important league match against their local rivals, Blackburn Rovers. The Crystal Palace club is doing badly and could hardly be expected to let its best half-back off.

Thus Ireland has been put in the position of having to make a third choice for right half-back to get another left-back.

A victory for England under such circumstances would be no great accomplishment, the Daily News writer says, and the International Championship is robbed of much interest as the result. In fact, he says it is farcical to describe it as a championship unless all the countries concerned can claim the players they consider the best no matter in which country they are playing.

It may seem unkind on the part of clubs not to release Irish players, but in these days of fierce competition, when the absence of a noted player may mean the loss of two points, and probably lead also to serious consequences for the club, the Irish and Welsh authorities are unwise in holding out for Saturday dates. The financial side is an important one, of course, but that might be overcome by the "predominant partners" agreeing to pool all gate receipts in the Internationals. The Daily News correspondent is strongly of the opinion that only the English vs Scottish match should be played on a Saturday.

Clubs would not object to players being called upon for mid-week matches, and the Irish and Welsh would then be able to compete with their best players and there would be real championship matches. So long as England can force all players who are chosen to play for them, and deny the two countries named the same privileges, public interest in the Internationals in England will only be lukewarm.

Carr, of Middlesborough, will be unable to play for England this season. This is regretted generally, for Carr is looked upon as the best outside right in England at the present time, and would have gained the distinction of having played for his country in two positions, for he figured at inside right against the Irish at Belfast in 1920. Mercer, of Sheffield United, chosen to take his place, is regarded as a very good substitute.

What was the prize bonehead play of the year in baseball?

The Yankees in the world series pulled enough to last them a couple of seasons.

Bob Meusel, when he failed to run out a hit on which he would have easily been safe, only to have the next batter follow with a home run that would have tied up the game, was a thing of beauty.

There were scores of others in both major leagues that are eligible for first prize, but most of the experts concede the honor of pulling the brize bone of the year in baseball to Toporcer of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sent up as a pinch hitter in a game at Philadelphia he hit the ball over the right field wall for a home run. There was a man on first base at the time. The runner on first feared the ball would be caught and stopped between first and second awaiting results. In the meantime, Toporcer, positive he had made a home run, dashed around the bases at full speed, passing the runner on first between that base and second.

For so doing Torpocer was, of course, automatically out the moment he passed a preceding runner. Instead of a home run he received credit for only a single.

What about the biggest bone in football?

Up to date that title goes to Dickinson of Rutgers College.

In a game with University of West Virginia, Dickinson, after recovering a fumble, lost his sense of direction and started for his opponents' goals.

Then to cap the climax, Setron and Howard of the West Virginia team completed the prize "bone" by tackling him instead of permitting him to go on his way.

EASTERN EXPERTS LANDS IOWA'S FOOTBALL TEAM

By BILLY EVANS.

What do the eastern experts think of Iowa, the conqueror of Yale?

This expert attended the Yale-Iowa game as a scout. He was there for two purposes, to scout both Yale and Iowa. It happens that one of the western teams to play Iowa is coached by a personal friend and he was there to pass on his impressions to said friend.

First I asked him what he thought of Locke, who I regard as one of the best fullbacks the west has developed in years.

Locke Fumbled Badly

"Locke has a lot of drive and determination, but against Yale he spoiled his efforts by fumbling after being tackled," he said. "In a measure this fault may be attributed to the terrific tackling of Mallory, the Yale back, who is undoubtedly one of the greatest defensive backs of modern football. Defensively Locke played a great game, offensively he was a bit of a disappointment."

A year ago I had sung the praises of Aubrey Devine to this eastern expert. I was much interested in getting his impression of Leland Parkin, successor to Devine at Iowa.

"Prior to the Yale-Iowa game a number of people told me that while Parkin was a good quarter he was not a patch on Aubrey Devine. All I have to say is, that if Devine was any better than the Parkin who played against Yale he must have been nothing short of supernatural.

"I have also been informed that Parkin is a sophomore and the contest with Yale was his first big game. If this was his first big game then I must predict that Parkin is one of the seven wonders of the world. If Parkin could only be used as a punter, and using this attribute as a threat, he could easily be classed as one of the greates football players of the present generation.

"One of the very few criticisms that I could offer against Iowa's play was the punting. The criticism I desire to make is merely against the style of punting. Minnick, the Iowa guard who did the kicking, had plenty of distance to his boots, but his kicks were far too low. In fact, so low that his ends were not able to cover his kicks in true football fashion. This fault allowed Yale's defensive backs to run back most every kick 60 per cent farther than they should have under other circumstances.

Iowa Was Well Coached

"Iowa was well coached in the fundamentals. Yale was in better shape physically. Iowa tired badly in the third and fourth periods.

"While the formations of Iowa bewildered Yale for some time, I personally feel that any team with two high-class tackles and a couple of good ends could stop Iowa's formations any time. The dope I am sending west on Iowa should make it a bit harder for the "Big Ten" champions.

There you have the dope from an eastern football authority who, to my way of thinking, has few, if any, superiors in a working knowledge of football. Because of his connections both as coach and official I do not feel that I can in justice to him use his name in connection with the interview.

The outcome of the Illinois game in which Iowa had a tough time winning, 8 to 7, after being outplayed during the greater part of the game, made me think that possibly the eastern expert had passed the dope along to Coach Zuppke of Illinois.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

BARRE, Vt., Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)— A stray bullet, believed to be from the rifle of a hunter, entered a window at the home of Mrs. Edwin M. House, of Waitsfield, late Tuesday, while Mrs. House was telephoning. The missle clipped off two of the woman's fingers, fractured her jaw and finally lodged in her shoulder.

New Record of Six Drop Kicks

"FLASH" COVINGTON.

Herbert "Flash" Covington, successor to "Bo" McMillin as quarterback at Centre College, made six successful drop kicks in the game at Danville, Ky., on October 28 with the University of Louisville.

In performing such a feat, Covington established a world's record for drop kicking. The best previous record was five successful drop kicks, held jointly by B. W. Trafford of Harvard and Walter Eckersall.

Trafford made his record in 1890 in a game with Cornell. Eckersall twice turned the trick while at Chicago. First against Illinois in 1905 and the following year against Nebraska.

Of the six successful field goals made by Covington, the longest one was from the 40-yard line, while one was from the 32-yard line and two from the 30-yard mark.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR RUTH THIS WINTER

No More High - Priced Watering Places But Back to the Farm Till Spring.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press)—Slimmer around the waist and a bit leaner about the pocketbook, Babe Ruth, once the great home run king, is back from a missionary tour through the bush.

The Babe and his brother exile of last spring, Bob Meusel, found the trip interesting in that they saw new faces and new country, but they didn't see much money, according to intimations of the Babe.

They ran into some rain in the big burgs and the gates suffered. However, Ruth had some satisfaction out of it. He told with a touch of his old pride that he had smacked twenty homers in seventeen games, and that he thought he was back.

Yankee owners were told by the Babe that strict training rules were observed on the tour and that several times games were postponed when the two orphans found that some ineligible talent had been booked to oppose them.

The Babe also disclosed some of his winter plans. He is not going to "put on the swell" around Cuba or high-priced Florida watering places this winter. Some rumors are floating that the family bank account is so low that he cannot afford it, but the bam remains silent on that question.

He has a farm up in Massachusetts and he's going to hurry up there with the wife and the baby girl, and remain until the horn sounds for spring training.

UMPIRE KLEM PAYS TRIBUTE TO DONAHUE

"Donahue is the best young pitcher that has broken into the National League in years."

There you have the opinion of Bill Klem, generally considered the premier of the National League staff of umpires. Klem goes even farther in paying his compliments to the ace of the Cincinnati pitching staff.

"I know that is some compliment when you consider that Mathewson and a number of other great pitchers have won fame at National Leaguers.

"This fellow Donahue seemed to be a finished pitcher the very first game he worked. He had the poise, the courage and the stuff.

"Usually when a youngster comes to the big show the manager of the team he joins is satisfied if he has good speed an a fair curve. The manager figures he can teach him the tricks of the trade.

"Donahue had the big league polish when he joined the Reds. He was able to do everything like a veteran. That is why I say he is perhaps the best young pitcher that ever broke into the majors."

ROAD RACE WINNERS KEPT THEMSELVES IN TRAINING

Six of the Eight Prize-Winners in the Examiner Road Race on Thanksgiving Day Were Members of the Harrier Club.

It is a significant fact that of the eight winners in the senior and junior events of the Examiner road race held on Thanksgiving Day, six were members of the Peterborough Harrier Club. This number included all four prize-winners in the senior event and two of the junior boys.

These boys had been practicing regularly with the Harrier Club and had been running under the direction of a willing and experienced coach, and were consequently in tip-top shape. That is why they were able to cover the distance and cross the line as winners.

The two boys who took prizes in the junior event and who were not members of the club had nevertheless been keeping themselves in training and practicing regularly and were in good condition for the contest.

All the runners who did not train faithfully or who tried to crowd all their training into a week or ten days before the race, feil by the wayside. They were not in a physical condition to stand the grind, and when they attempted to keep up the pace set by their better trained competitors were forced to drop out of the race.

The race showed clearly that any runner must put in a long and faithful period of training before he can think of winning his race, and those who do put in this period of training will be rewarded for their efforts.

Another Boy Wonder

WELKER COCHRAN.

Welker Cochran, who has usurped Hoppe's title of the "Boy Wonder," is one of the three American players to contest with the foreign billiard champions in the international tournament to be staged in New York, November 13 to 21. Cochran, because of his youth is inclined to be a bit erratic when paired with a more experienced player. This one fault has hurt his chances on several occasions. He is a brilliant player when right.

Here and There in Sportdom

If they keep on spoofing Jackie Williams, the bronzed hurler will require the services of a traffic cop to get him out of the haze. The latest report has the Belleville twirler headed for Chicago to join the White Sox.

Soccer in Peterborough will receive a helping hand by the coming to this city of H. M. Niven, a well-known soccer referee who has been doing good work for several seasons in the Toronto and District and Intercity Leagues.

* * * * * * *

A meeting of the City Hockey League will be called in the near future to look over the prospects for the coming season. Bankers and Hamiltons, it is stated, will not be starters, and some difficulty would be found in lining up new clubs. There is talk of an entry from Lakefield, in which case the Northerners would confine their O.H.A. activities to a junior team.

* * * * * * *

Cobourg will trot out two teams for the O.H.A. battle, and the lakeshore club are hopeful that the Intermediates will go a long way in the race. New players are required for the Juniors, only two of last season's team being able to qualify under the age limit.

The Collegiates and their supporters are looking forward to a lively game in the Interscholastic series when they play Oshawa at Riverside Park next Saturday morning. The game is announced to start at ten o'clock. The games last fall between these two teams aroused a lot of interest, and Saturday's contest should attract a large crowd.

* * * * * * *

Baseball in Peterborough is to have a place in Spaulding's Official Canadian Baseball Guide for 1923. A request has come in for an article on local baseball activities during the past season, and photographs. Needless to say, this opportunity to tell the world of the season's success will not be neglected.

Welcome, Campbellford! The town will be represented in the Junor series of the O.H.A. this coming winter. Campbellford has always loomed big in the lacrosse game, and there is good reason to believe that hockey will grow and thrive in the busy burg on the Trent.

Boxing enthusiasts are turning out well at the boxing classes conducted by the P.A.A.A. at the Armouries, and Instructor Wilfred Jones is putting in a busy time. All clubs in the city are taking advantage of the classes and good results should be realized.

MILLER SIGNS WITH THE LEAFS.

Saginaw Product is First Toronto Player to Send in Contract.

Otis L. Miller, the shortstop secured by the Leafs from Saginaw last year, is the first Toronto player to sign a contract, his John Hancock being received yesterday afternoon at baseball headquarters.

Miller had a good year with Saginaw last season, his first in professional baseball, and his M.-O. friends predict that he will earn a regular berth with the Leafs next year. He hit .322 for Saginaw, having 36 doubles, 14 triples, and 11 home runs, while he pilfered 16 bases.

The signing of Miller is particularly pleasing to the Toronto Ball Club, as some time ago he threatened to forsake professional ball for semi-pro, unless the Saginaw Club parted with part of the purchase money.

However, the Toronto Ball Club showed him where he would be making a mistake, and, after much correspondence, his contract has arrived.

DIED OF BURNS.

EAST ANGUS, Que., Nov. 9. — (Canadan Press.) — Mrs. James Omara, an old resident of this district, is dead as the result of burns. Mr and Mrs. Omara had retired early on Friday night and about ten o'clock Omara was awakened by the smell of smoke. It was discovered that the bedding was on fire.

With the assistance of neighbors the flames were extinguished, but not before Mrs. Omara had received burns that eventually resulted in her death a few hours later.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.) — There was an improved demand from local buyers for Canadian western oats in the domestic cash market here yesterday, but trade in spot continues quiet. There were no new developments in the flour situation. The undertone in the millfeed market was strong with a continuous good demand for supplies. The rolled oats market was firm. Prices were unchanged under ample supplies in the baled hay market. The feature of the egg market is the advance of prices of new-laid eggs by five cents per dozen owing to the great scarcity of supplies and there is every prospect of a further advance. Prices of other grades ruled steady.

The potato market continued unchanged. A fair trade with unchanged prices prevails in the butter market. The undertone to the cheese market continues very strong with supplies limited.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—A special cable from Liverpool dated yesterday stated that eggs are in better demand and that the heavy stocks of United States eggs over there are clearing and the market will in all probability be better for Canadians. Local situation remains unchanged. CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Wheat averaged lower in price yesterday, chiefly as a result of a decline at Liverpool and because of reports that gain purchases made for Italy and Germany had been cancelled. WALTHAM 6/0 Size Convertible and Ribbon Watches

Variety In Watch Fashion

TWO interesting ladies' watches—alike, yet not alike. The same famous Waltham movement inside—but dressed in different styles.

The one be-ribboned in pure black silk (changed at the slightest of cost)—the other a bracelet watch, convertible according to the wearer's mood or the "dress" occasion. Because of the disappearing "eye" in the case, you can wear it around the wrist or as a chatelaine watch or on a chain.

These jeweled, fashionable Waltham Watches will keep time for a life-time. Whichever one you prefer. They are sold by first class jewelers. Ask your jeweler to show them to you. He knows what fine watches they are.

T. BAIRD.

Numbers increased last night to hear Mr. Baird. He spoke on seven judgments: 1st, Private judgment. That is where God has not spoken, everyone has a right to his own private judgment; 2nd, Court judgment; 3rd, Human judgment; 4th, Sinner judgment; 5th, Ministerial judgment. The man speaking is not to judge what he says, but the folks who hear; 6th, Spiritual judgment. He that is spiritual judges all things. 7th, Impossible judgment.

To-night Mr. Baird will finish with eight more judgments, and Friday night he will speak on the judgment seat of Christ.

He has a word for the bobbed hair girl to-night. All come.

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — (Special.)—The most interesting side in to-day's price movements lay in their test of the sensitiveness of the market to the Turkish crisis.

Cable reports on their face were sufficiently disturbing as suggesting that if a clash between English and Turks has not occurred, it was likely to come at any moment. But even in the quarters where reflections of political uneasiness is always keenest the foreign exchanges and the commodity markets, there was no sign of any apprehension.

Sterling exchange was higher. Italian lire went back almost to their recent high, and there were further sharp recoveries in French and Belgian rates.

Cotton, which always goes down on the hint of any war scare, made another new high record for the year, while wheat, which usually moves upward sensationally on any threat of war, did very little one way or the other.

The security markets, guided by the action of these other and more impressionable markets, ignored the Turkish news altogether, seemingly there was a quiet feeling of confidence that the important thing was for the Allies to stand together, that having agreed to present a united front against the demands of the Angora government, there was no serious reason to fear that the Turks would carry on their bluff.

The stock market went ahead in precisely the same way as it was going before the revolution at Constantinople and before Tuesday's upheaval at the polls.

Nearly all the important changes of the day were upward. But there were a few notable exceptions like General Asphalt, which broke badly on reports that the revenues of the company are not such as to warrant continuance of the preferred dividends. Stocks of companies known to be doing well, like the Motor, Equipment shares and some of the Steels and Oils were consisently strong.

INUNDATES MANY VILLAGES IN INDIA

Rise of the River Has Broken All Records of the Past Thirty Years.

CAWNPORE, India, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press).—The great rise of the Ganges River, which has broken all records of the past thirty years, has led to the flooding of vast districts on the Unao side. Many villages on both sides of the railway line to Unao are under water, and hundreds of hamlets have been washed away.

The floods are on the decline now, but the rains continue intermittently, making the lot of those rendered homeless still harder. People whose houses have been washed away have taken shelter in neighboring villages, and some have been accommodated in railway cars. Virtually all the villages situated along the banks of the Ramganga River have been inundated. Houses and cattle have been washed away, and standing crops ruined.

In some places the rise of the river was so sudden that people who were in the fields tending their cattle or crops were cut off. Many were compelled to take refuge in trees until the floods subsided. Others were rescued by relief parties. Planks were tied together and let down from railway bridges on the Ramganga, enabling a number of people struggling in the water to be hoisted to safety.

The railway line between Kathgarh and Got has been washed out for about seven hundred feet, and cannot be repaired for some time. The railway connection with Delhi also has been cut. The Lucknow road is still impassable in many places, and no communication is possible with outlying villages.

Large supplies of food, sent by the citizens of Cawnpore, have helped to relieve the distress.

DEATH OVERTAKES ALL WHO ROB THIS STORE

Burglars and Thugs Give Rosenburg's Store a Wide Berth.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 9.—Burglars and thugs are giving the store of Joseph Rosenberg a wide berth. Three times in the past seven years the store has been held up and robbed. In each instance the guilty parties were overtaken within a few days.

The most recent robbery occurred a few weks ago. Two negroes broke in and stole merchandise. Rosenberg expressed the wish that the robbers should meet a speedy end. A few days thereafter the mangled bodies of two negroes were found on the Louisville & Nashville railroad track 25 miles from the city. Each negro had part of the loot from the Rosenberg store.

Just before that robbery, Rosenberg's store was entered for the second time. The same night a negro was found dead—with his neck broken, in his possession were goods stolen from Rosenberg.

Seven years ago a negro entered the Rosenberg store and held up the proprietor at the point of a revolver. Rosenberg fought him and got the gun. The negro backed into the street and in the chase that followed in which the Lexington police and detectives took part, the negro was killed.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Frequently the Chinese suitor does not see the woman whom he has proposed marriage until she is borne to his home, on the wedding day, in a locked sedan, followed by her relatives and friends.

Her nearest male relative gives the key to the sedan to the groom. If upon her release she does not make a favorable impression upon her prospective husband, he may return her to her family and cancel the wedding arrangements.

DISTURBING RUMORS IN ENGLAND ARISE FROM NEAR EAST SITUATION

Daily News Reports Angora Covernment Has Asked Whether Russian Bolsheviki Would Support Turkey in Case of War.

BRITISH CABINET MEETING TODAY

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—No one in England seems to know whether the situation in Constantinople in better or worse, and the air is full of disquieting rumors. The Daily News reports that the Angora government has asked the Soviet Russian government at Moscow whether Russian Bolsheviki "will adhere to the Russo-Turkish military agreement in event of war". This report said Moscow had replied in the affirmatively, but the correspondent understood such adherence would not take the form of the lending troops to Turks. No reports convey any impression or reliability. The British source of information declare matters are getting worse while French sources report an improvement.

The Daily Mail says the Cabinet will meet to-day to consider the Near East situation. It is understood that military plans were discussed in the war office yesterday.

Everyone here seems to be waiting to see what reply Angora will make to the demand of the Allies that Turkish Nationalists comply with the Mudros and Mudania conventions. Upon their reply hinges the question of whether the Allied commissioners will declare martial law in the Constantinople area.

Paris has a report that Ismet Pasha, Nationalist Foreign Minister, has offered to co-operate with the Allies in certain administrative matters in the Constantinople region, but according to diplomatic news in the Daily Telegraph, Allied commanders are unable to take such offers seriously, as they might be repudiated at Angora.

FIGHTING TO GET HIS FAMILY BACK

Wife and Five Children Committed to Asylum —Investigators' Report

BONNER FERRY, Ida., Nov. 10.—Albert C. Sundsmo, 50-year-old carpenter, of this town, is fighting to have state authorities return his wife and five children to him.

"They were taken from me because I had too many children," he says sadly. "Why else, I do not know."

By an order from Judge E. B. Henderson of Boundary County, they were taken to the home of the feeble-minded at Nampa, Ida.

"And", says Sundsmo, "the only way I can have me family back is by submitting to an operation which would forstall the birth of any more children!"

Sundsmo is perplexed. He cannot understand and the justice of this enforced separation. So he has appealed to Senator Borah of Idaho for help, and has instituted suit in the district court for the return of his family.

Wed Eight Years

"Some eight years ago," explains Sundsmo, "I married Anna. From the time of our marriage we have been happy and contented. She is a kind and loving woman and though she may not be called an intelligent reader; nor talented in any way, I have always thought her a very practical woman, full of common sense."

In those eight years, Mrs. Sundsmo gave birth to seven children. Two died.

"Up to now we had no trouble," continues Sundsmo. "Suddenly she is taken, with the five children, and committed to an asylum.

"The trouble was this: five children, two of them only babies, were to much for my wife to keep scrupulously clean at all times. Maybe sometimes the house was not as clean as it might have been. My wife had more work than she could do."

"Someone reported the case. Then the sheriffs came one Sunday morning and took away my wife and children.

Investigators Report

"When the judge read the court order to me, it stated two doctors had come before him and said that our home had been found in an unsanitary condition, that our oldest boy was not as bright as he should be and, therefore, we might have more children mentally below normal."

But Sundsmo cannot understand why his wife and all his youngsters were taken from him. The other children, he argues, have not been declared subnormal.

"It all seems so horribly unjust," cries Sundsmo. "I feel that my wife and I have been greatly wronged. But I have not the means to get a hearing in the courts."

Sundsmo is convinced that neither he nor his wife are mentally deficient.

Sundsmo contends that while he would be willing to do anything to have his family returned to him, he cannot see the justice of having to submit to an operation before he could have them.

"I can't understand the justice of this," he cries.

LOCAL ENGINEERS' ANNUAL REUNION

Coming Event Eagerly Looked Forward to by Many Here.

The annual re-union and dinner of the Peterborough branch, Engineering Institute of Canada, will be held on the evening of Tuesday, November 14, at 7.15 in the Empress Hotel.

This is an annual event looked forward to by all engineers in this vicinity. This year will be no exception to the rule if one is to judge by the programme mapped out for the occasion.

A number of distinguished visitors will be present, among them being General C. H. Mitchell, D.S.O., C. M.G., C.B., M.E.I.C., Dean of the Faculty of Engineering, University of Toronto; J. H. E. Fairbairn, D.Sc., M.E.I.C., Chief Engineer C.P. R.; R. A. Ross, D.Sc., M.E.I.C., Member of the Royal Hydro-Electric Enquiry Commission; W. J. Francis, C.E., M.E.I.C., Consulting Engineer; Prof. Peter Gillespie, University of Toronto; Prof. Rutledge, Queen's University. Mr. P. P. Westbye, M.E.I.C., General Manager and Chief Engineer Wm. Hamilton Co., Ltd., will be in the chair, and under his tactful guidance those intending to be present can rest assured that nothing will be left undone to make the occasion a huge success.

The evening will have the assistance of the Famous Engineering Sextette. This sextette has ambitions in the way of vocal accomplishments. Only the famous Dumbells exceed the agility of the sextette. Topical songs will be sprinkled along the programme. The sextette introduces songs without words, or words without songs, just as the gathering prefers—it is so seldom that these deft accomplishments are combined in one aggregation. The Sextete, it may be remarked, is indigenous to the profession, and is one of the latest evidences of engineering efficiency.

All enquiries with reference to indemnities should be addressed to Ralph Flitton, A.M.E.I.C., Wm. Hamilton Co.

MUST FORM A LEAGUE TO ENFORCE PEACE OF WORLD

Admiral Sims Declares Only Thing That Will End Wars is Pressure of World's Disgust Against Savagery

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—"Holy smoke," gasped Admiral Sims, who arrived here to-day to receive the degree at McGill University, when asked for his opinion on the United States' refusal to play any role in the settlement of the European tangles. "Do you want me to spill the beans again? I hope you know what spilling beans means? I do."

In a more serious vein he declared that the only thing that would bring about an end of the terrible world wars "will be a pressure of the disgust of the world against savagery and carnage. It must be that pressure of disgust."

He said the Washington Conference on disarmament was a great step toward assuring the nations of the world that another great war will not be possible again. A step to now take, however, was to form a league which will exert its full influence to enforce peace throughout the world.

BITTER FACTIONS IN TOWN OVER TRAGEDY

The Tragic Shooting May Develop Into a Deadly Parallel of the Hall-Mills Murder Mystery.

FEELING IS INTENSE.

HAVRE, Mont., Nov. 10.—The tragic shooting that took the lives of Rev. L. J. Christler, "bishop of all outdoors" and Mrs. Margaret Carleton is far from a closed case, despite the coroner's verdict of murder and suicide. It may yet develop into a deadly parallel of the Hall-Mills murder mystery.

Everyone— literally everyone —in the little town of Havre is talking of the possibility. The town is divided on the case—bitterly, angrily divided. So intense is the feeling, in fact, that it is not impossible that the case may lead to further violence, no matter what is the outcome of the mystery itself.

The controversy has raged ever since the night of Oct. 27, when the bodies of the Rev. Christler and the pretty wife of a former superior judge were found by Mrs. Christler in the rectory of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, each killed by a pistol shot through the heart.

Staunch defenders of the Rev. Christler maintain the coroner's jury was right; that Mrs. Carleton spurned by the clergyman, shot him down and then killed herself.

May Be Double Murder.

There are others—many others—who point to the post-mortem examination held over the bodies after the coroner's inquest. This examination showed the bullet which ended Mrs. Carleton's life entered her body on the left side, above her heart, and lodged in the right side and below her heart. Experts say it would be possible, but highly improbable for such a wound to be self-inflicted—that in virtually all suicides where the heart is penetrated, the bullet ranges upward and to the left.

These people contend that it was a double murder—that someone found the two, killed them both and fled puting the death pistol in the woman's lifeless hand, to stimulate a murder and suicide.

These are two theories. Everybody in town holds one or the other. As a result acrimonious argument is heard on every corner about this, the most sensational murder case in the annals of Montana.

In the 16 years he had served in Havre as rector and as archdeacon of Milk River Valley, the Rev. Christler had made hundreds of friends. He was responsible for much good work, and not only built up his mission field to an amazing extent but also was a vital figure in this section's political circles, serving in the legislature.

These friends of the "bishop of all outdoors" are ready to defend his memory—even to the point of fighting for it.

Officials Drop Case.

But there are others just as strong in defense of Mrs. Carleton. Wife of a former district judge, young and charming, she was one of the leading figures in Havre's social life. Men and women who have been entertained in her home are unwilling to believe that she could have ever taken human life.

No hint of suspicion has been publicly raised against Mrs. Christler, who testified that she heard the shots and came into the room to find her husband and Mrs. Carleton dead.

Those who declare that a third person committed the crime aver that Mrs. Christler would hide any evidence she might have had of this in order to avoid further scandal.

County Attorney Max Kuhr, Police Chief James Moran and Coroner James Holland, however, have dropped investigation. Kuhr has announced that so far as he is concerned, the case is closed, unless something untoward develops.

Bishop Frederick Faber, head of the Montana Episcopalian diocese, has issued a statement, holding the Rev. Christler blameless.

Special Investigators.

Joseph Pyle, prominet mining engineer and his wife, parents of Mrs. Carleton, are not letting these attacks go unheeded. They have engaged special investigators to delve thoroughly into the case. Pyle is gaining support in a move to call a grand jury session to probe the sudden dropping of the case.

Mrs. Pyle openly declares her belief that it was a double murder.

The talk of Margaret leading Christler astray, then shooting him because he would not leave his wife for her is whitewash" she says. "They try to protect him because he was a minister. Margaret was 10 years younger than Christler. If anybody 'led,' it would have been him."

It is intimated too that the mystery has a political angle. Many believe the investigation will be pushed vigorously after election day than prior to it.

Another thing tending to impede thorough investigation is the fact that Havre has been aroused by certain newspaper reports about the town printed since the tragedy. Some of these characterize it as a "wide open frontier town" full of gambling and loose morals.

Some citizens are so indignant over this that they want the case closed immediately at any cost—because Havre prides itself on being one of the most modern little cities in America.

Highlights in Case

OCT. 27.—Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, and Mrs. Marguerite Carleton, wife of former Judge Frank Carleton found dead in hall of rectory. Both had been shot through the heart and the pistol used was in Mrs. Carleton's right hand.

OCT. 29.—Coroner's jury, after inquest, decides Mrs. Carleton, while insane, killed the Rev. Christler, and then slew herself.

OCT. 30.—Post-mortem examination by Havre physicain resulted in report that course of bullet penetrating Mrs. Carleton's heart was different from usual course in suicides. Also brought out fact that woman was left-handed.

NOV. 1.—Mrs. Joseph Pyle, mother of dead woman, begins presenting questions to prosecuting attorney to show daughter did not do the killing.

NOV. 2.—Prosecuting attorney declares case is closed with coroner's verdict, unless untoward developments come to light.

NOV. 4.—Mrs. Pyle resumes fight for investigation, husband joins her and town is divided into factions upholding Christler and suicide theory and those upholding double murder theory.

STAGE RUNNING BATTLE WITH 2 CRIMINAL GANGS

One Thug Killed When 100 Police Headed by Woman Fought Manhattan Bandits.

CLASHED ON STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(Special)—One man was killed and two desperate criminal gangs were declared broken up when 100 policemen in commandeered taxi cabs led by a woman in a limousine, staged a running battle with bandits shortly before last midnight in lower Manhattan. The thugs were charged with three kidnappings and liquor thefts.

Just For Fun

Scores of shots were exchanged. The chase ended when the woman who joined the chase 'for the fun of it" and refused to identify herself to the police, they said, chased one fugitive into a Chinese laundry and captured him as he was attempting to buy a disguise.

The police to-day sought a man known as "Mike the Bum", who is alleged to have led the bandit gangs that staged the thefts and kidnappings, which set down town of New York in a uproar last night.

The robbers, according to information to the police, made arrangements to purchase eighty gallons of alcohol from bootleggers near an east side garage. After they had loaded the alcohol, they yanked the bootleggers into their car and started racing away. One kidnapped man jumped and gave the alarm.

Mercer Reserves

Reserves from the Mercer and the Fifth street police stations commandeered taxi cabs and started after the bandits in mass formation. Pursuers and pursued raced through the streets with the roar of motor exhausts mingling with pistol volleys. Andrew Michaels, laborer, alleged to have been in the bandit car, toppled to the street, a bullet through his head. He died immediately after reaching a hospital.

Policeman Eugene O'Connor and other officers who took part in the fight were at a loss to understand why the "mystery woman" took the lead in the chase after the outlaws. She was fashionably dressed and wore expensive furs, the police said. Before they knew what was going on she had raced in ahead of the police cars, taking dangerous chances, time and again. A dozen times her car swerved around corners on two wheels, as she dashed back and forth on side streets, heading off the escape of the fleeing men and apparently unmindful of the revolver volleys.

Two men alleged to have been captured as they jumped on the bandit car, were held in jail to-day.

NEED OF THE DAY IS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE IN NORTH ONTARIO

To Give Up Their Lives in Christian Work Throughout the Fire Devastated Districts at Haileybury and Thornloe.

SECOND DAY BAPTIST WOMEN'S CONVENTION

Elections for the Board of Directors of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Societies for Ontario West at the convention being held in the Murray street Baptist church resulted as follows: Mrs. Jessie Gibson, Mrs. W. L. Kingdon, Mrs. Jno. MacNeill, Mrs. Nelson Smith, all of Toronto, Mrs. H. M. Rogers, St. Catharines, Miss Olive Copp, Hamilton. For the term of 1923: Mrs. H. Brechin, Toronto. Term of 1925: Mrs. D. N. Cameron, York Mills. Term of 1926: Mrs. D. W. MacLeod, Toronto. Mrs. R. Cummer, of Toronto, takes Mrs. D. C. Jones' place as corresponding secretary.

It was decided to send letters from the convention to two absent members: Mrs. J. N. Shenstone and Mrs. Harper, of Toronto.

A report on the work amongst the Ohsweken Reserve was read by Mrs. H. B. Burt, of Owen Sound, in the absence of Mrs. B. Kent. The report showed a balance on hand of $381.14.

Mrs. E. J. Zavitz, of Toronto, spoke briefly on the advantages accruing from attendance at Moulton College, pointing to the enviable record on examinations achieved by its graduates, the wholesome and enjoyable life of the institution, and the atmosphere of spiritual and religious life encountered here that was absent from the high school life of the country, because spiritual work did not come within the realm of the high schools.

Home Mission Work.

Miss Olive Copp of Hamilton, read extracts from a very interesting survey of Home Missionary work. There are 29 students in the summer fields in Ontario and Quebec. In Fort Frances, considerable work is being done amongst the foreign element, and the liberal use of tracts and religious literature was recommended, instancing its good use here. New Liskeard was the banner centre for Sunday school attendance, the Sunday school here haying been found an excellent foil for the counter attractions of the beach. In Bracebridge, the pastor, Mr. Ford, was directing his efforts towards inducing owners of motor boats and cars to use these for conveying worshippers to service on Sundays. In Burk's Falls, the minister was very enthusiastic about the weekly prayer meetings held privately by a group of devoted women, and Mr. Dodds, in the Sault, had inaugurated a series of open air services that were productive of good results. Mr. Dodds reported 300 copies of the Gospel given away in the Italian section of the town alone, and asked for a used car that might be converted into a truck for use in open-air services.

Under the heading of Evangelism, the speaker reported many quiet works of grace during the year. A band of McMaster young men held meetings during the summer in New Liskeard and made 5 converts; in Fort Frances the missionary giving had increased, in Huntsville there were now 94 members, with 6 men and wives of 3 of them baptized recently. In speaking of the total reported during the year of 186 conversions and 87 baptisms in the New Ontario fields, the speaker referred to the serious leakage in baptisms noticed here ,and to the necessity of stressing at evangelistic meetings the immediate profession of Christ.

The fire in Northern Ontario had caused the loss of the church buildings in Haileybury and Thornloe.

"The great need of to-day," said the speaker, "especially in the Sudbury and Timmins district, is for young men and women willing to go into this north country and give up their lives for Christ, to settle where the Catholic element is so alarmingly on the increase."

Regarding the Slavic work in Fort William, the speaker reported favorable indications in the Russian work, with eight baptisms and five more awaiting baptism there. In the French work, at Feller Institute and the Grand Ligne Mission, following the visit of Rev. Chas. D. Smith there, 21 had applied for baptism. In Feller, there was an enrollment of 165, from the ages of 12 to 22, with 30 from Roman Catholic families. In Quebec city, "the stronghold of Rome, where only 4,000 of the 78,000 of population were non-Catholic, and only 73 Baptists," progress was necessarily slow, but the speaker re-

TO-DAY'S BLUNDER CORRECTED

If children were taught never to put pencils or pen-holders in their mouths, there would be less spreading of disease.

MONKEY FURS STAY POPULAR

You can well be glad there is to be no shortage of monkeys when you realize the decorative qualties of their fur, as produced in the chic Parisian costume.

To a bizarre costume of black and gold brocade is added not only cuffs and collar of monkey fur but a hat profusely and effectively laden with it.

Many designers have tried to bring about the downfall of the straightline costume, but nothing supplants it in the esteem of the well-dressed woman.

RABBIT FUR IS VERY POPULAR.

Think of all the bunnies that had to give up their small, in conspicuous coats to make this very gorgeous wrap Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes Jr. of Washington, D.C., brought home with her from Paris.

The wrap has the popular low waistline, the side drapery and the long skirt which are the style points of the season.

Rabbit fur is very stylish now and is vieing in popularity with the rare pelts.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You know it is just as easy to serve food correctly as incorrectly.

The woman at the right of the host is usually served first.

No plates for any course are removed until everyone has finished.

The maid serves dishes from the left and removes them from the right. Water glasses should be kept filled. The hostess always gives the signal for leaving the table.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is aching; if what you eat sours and forms acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before eating more food.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate, which is inexpensive and almost tasteless.

Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Many modern girls are opposed to wearing a wedding veil and much of its old significance has been forgotten.

But Welsh girls have much sentiment about this. They still adhere to the old custom of erecting a "care cloth" above the bride and groom, which is really a square of very beautiful fabric, which may afterward be worn as a scarf on ceremonial occasions.

GREEN VELVET

An evening frock of pale green printed velvet with side panels of green metal lace breaks its long slender line by a peplum of ruffled net about the waist.

U.S. DEMOCRATS INCREASE LEAD LATE RETURNS

A Recount Demanded of Votes For U. S. Senator From Massachusetts — Lodge Elected By Very Small Majority.

OTHER REPORTS.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press).—With a little more than two thirds of the 1,525 precincts in Montana heard from, Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, for United States Senator, has increased his lead to 17, 723 over Carl W. Riddick Republican. Returns from 1031 precincts give him 71,638 to 53, 915 for Riddick.

CHEYENNE, Wyoming, Nov. 10—(Canadion Press.)—W. B. Ross, Democrat, was elected Governor of Wyoming Tuesday, it was shown by returns compiled ere yesterday afternoon

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The almost certain elections of Lynn J. Frazier, recalled Non-Partisan League Governor of North Dakota to the United States Senate from North Dakota, was conceded yesterday by T. G. Nelson State Secretary of the Independent Voters' Association, which supported J. F. T. O'Connor, Frazier's opponent.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov 10.—(Canadian Press).—Washington voters in Tuesday's general election chose a Democrat, C. G. Dill, to fill the seat of Miles Poindexter, Republican, in the U. S. Senate returned the five Republican incumbent representatives of Congress, repealed by an overwhelming majority, a poll tax measure and voted down by large majorities, five other initiative and referendum measures.

These results were apparent when returns from all but a few precincts were tabulated late yesterday.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press)— A State-wide recount of the vote cast last Tuesday for United States Senator was measured yesterday. Colonel William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate who was apparently defeated by 8,425 votes by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican, carried out his intention announced Wednesday of directing recount petitions in every city and town in the hope of upsetting the result. The Republican State Committee took similar action to assure representation in the recount proceedings and last night had filed petitions in more places than the Democrats.

NERVOUS AND RUN DOWN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cobourg, Ontario.—"For many years I have had troubles with my nerves and have been in a general run down condition for some time. I could not do my work half the time because of trouble every month. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial." —Mrs. Ellen Flatters, Box 761, Cobourg, Ontario.

Any woman in this condition should take the Vegetable Compound, for it has helped other women and so it should help you.

For nearly fifty years this good old-fashioned root and herb medicine, which contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs, has been the standard medicine for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Will Greenfield Lead the Dominion Progressives?

On His Way to Ottawa He Will Be in Winnipeg When Progressives Meet to Choose a Successor to Hon. T. A. Crerar.

CALGARY, November 10 (Canadian Press). — The Calgary Herald said yesterday:

"Does Premier Greenfield propose relinquishing the leadership of the United Farmers of Alberta in the Provincial Legislature to make a bid for the leadership of the Dominion Progressives in the Federal House? This is a question which was being asked in well-informed circles here this morning. Premier Greenfield is at present on his way to Ottawa to attend the conference on natural resources question, but it was pointed out that he would stop over for a conference in Winnipeg which will coincide with the conference of Progressives, and at which it is thought a new leader will be chosen to succeed the Hon. T. A. Crerar.

"It is known that Premier Greenfield has been approached, not only by a number of prominent Progressives of the Western Provinces, but also by the Ontario Progressives with a view to having him forsake the leadership of the Alberta Government, and assume the job of pilot-inging the Progressives in the House of Commons.

"It is felt that Premier Greenfield can unite the Progressive forces better than any other leader should Mr. Crerar resign," a Government official close to Premier Greenfield declared to-day. "I have no reason to state that Premier Greenfield will accept the position, but I do know that he has been approached and has given consideration to the proposal. However, the next few days will doubtless decide the issue."

Lloyd George Absent For the First Time in Many Years From the Lord Mayor's Banquet.

BONAR LAW SPEAKS.

LONDON, Nov. 10. —(Canadian Press.)—The Prime Minister and his Cabinet attended the annual Lord Mayor's banquet in the Guild Hall last night, where were gathered also the members of the diplomatic corps and the leaders of the church and the business life of London.

Bonar Law was suffering from a cold; he made little reference to the election or politics, but incidentally remarked that none of his party, which is fighting the Labor Party was fighting Labor itself; if they did that none of them would be elected.

On the general question of world peace, he expressed regret at the absence of the United States from the League of Nations and said that, although his government desired to afford the League greater opportunity for usefulness the League at the present moment could not secure peace.

Turning to the Near East situation the Premier remarked that there was nothing new to say about Constantinople. The Allies were working in complete harmony and unanimity, and if that harmony, as he hoped, was continued, he was sure the difficulties would be overcome. Bonar Law emphasized the deep sense of comradeship with Italy and friendship with France, characterizing it as a mistake to suppose because British credit stood high that England was not suffering from the effects of the war. It was to the interest of the whole world to bring about the recovery of Central Europe, and, so far as material interest was concerned, the recovery of Germany was as much to the advantage of France as to England.

His speech was largely devoted to emphasizing the desire of the new government to work harmoniously with the Allies; he looked forward to the future with hope and confidence.

Alluding to the dominions, he said he thought it was no disadvantage at a time when these dominions had reached manhood that a man born in one of them should for the first time be Prime Minister of his country.

Former Premier Lloyd George, who for many years past had been the principal speaker at the Lord Mayor's banquet, was absent last night, while for the first time in the history of the banquet the presence of "the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland," was announced as Sir James Craig and his wife appeared. Lord Salisbury proposed a toast to the Foreign Ministers and referred to the reply which would come from the dean of the diplomatic corps, the Spanish Ambassador. He described Spain as "a land of sunshine and courtesy."

Senor Merry Del Val expressed the satisfaction of all the foreign diplomtaic representatives at the assurances that the new government was as firmly resolved as its predecessors to work for the peace of the world.

Special Session For U. S. Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Congress was called by President Harding last night to meet in extra session November 20, exactly two weeks in advance of the regular session.

The call of the special session has been approved generally by Republican leaders in Congress, who have felt that by getting an earlier start, all important bills, including the appropriation measures, would be disposed of by next March fourth, when the Sixty-seventh Congress must adjourn sine die.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press.) — Receipts 3,160 cattle and calves; 780 hogs, and 1,300 sheep and lambs.

There was no improvement in the cattle market this morning, butchers' stock and stockers and feeders changing hands at a full decline of 25 cents from the opening of the week, while a larger decline was noticeable on the more plain offerings which were extremely slow and draggy.

Good to choice handyweight killing steers held steady.

The hog market opened with a firmer tone. Thick smooth classes looked 25 cents higher and 9.75.

Good lambs sold at 9.50 to 10.00 and mutton sheep from 4.00 to 6.00.

COMMUNICATION WITH NEAR EAST IS STILL CUT OFF

Cables Have Been Cut and But Little Is Coming Through By Wireless.

AWAIT RESULTS.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—London late to-night was still without news from Constantinople, but the cable company whose lines have been cut in the Turkish area held out hopes that communication area held out hopes that communico.

The Government also appeared to have had very little wireless communication with Constantinople, and Premier Bonar Law at the Lord Mayor's banquet in the Guildhall last night was unable to throw any further light on the situation in Turkey. The Government knows nothing concerning the whereabouts of the deposed Sultan, except that he has not taken refuge, as has been reported, on a British warship.

Official circles point out that the situation is an almost exact counter part of that which arose from the Chanak crisis, with the important difference, as emphasized by Mr. Bonar Law last night, that there is now no question of isolated action by the Powers who are all working in agreement.

Ismet Pasha, the Foreign Minister of the Turkish Nationalist Government is known to be in Constantinople waiting to go to the Near East conference at Lausanne as soon as the date for the conference is settled Although the British Government maintains the opinion that the change of complexion of affairs necessitates a postponement of the date, it is willing that the delay in convening the conference shall be as brief as possible, and hopes it will be able to met by November 20.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1922.

THE KING'S REQUEST.

His Majesty the King has requested that at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning all citizens of the British Empire shall spend two minutes in silent prayer in memory of the soldiers and sailors of the Empire who gave their lives during the great war.

Four years ago, at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month the terrible conflict ended.

It is one of the most significant anniversaries in the world's history, and it is most seemly and fitting that in the British Empire it should be held as a day of remembrance for those who sacrificed everything, even life itself, that victory should call our cause.

The attention of the people of Peterborough is directed to the King's request in the hope that it will be religiously carried out here to-morrow.

To our shame it must be said that last year our citizens failed to pay this simple, yet impressive, tribute to the men who did not come back.

Not much of a sacrifice to make to honor the memory of men who paid the supreme price.

Merely to spend two silent minutes in thinking of them.

But nevertheless the people of Peterborough, large numbers of them at least, disregarded the ceremony completely.

To-morrow, wherever you may be, at home, on the street, in the office or shop, when eleven o'clock strikes, simply stand for two minutes and let your thoughts dwell upon those who sleep beneath the wooden crosses over there.

That's all there is to it, but if the community enters into the spirit of the occasion it has a mighty significance.

SAVE OR BE FIRED.

There is not so much read or heard these days about the necessity of thrift as in the war years, when even the Government took a hand in the campaign to educate the people to the desirability of saving.

Nevertheless, thrift is as imperative now as it was when the Empire was at war, and Examiner readers will doubtless be interested in a plan inaugurated this year by a group of associated telephone, light and power companies in Kansas for the encouragement of saving among their employees.

The slogan, "Save or Be Fired," explains the scheme.

It is simply compulsory saving.

Each employee is required to save at least 10 per cent. of his income and invest it in approved securites or else forfeit his place on the pay-roll.

The Savings Committee sends welfare workers through the territory, who explain the plan and teach the use of the budget books furnished free by the management.

On the fifth of each month a card accompanies all pay cheques, and that card must be returned by the twentieth with a full statement as to the amount invested and the nature of the investment.

Failure to comply with this regulation means an investigation and dismissal.

Sounds tyrannical and drastic, doesn't it?

But it seems to be getting the results.

Over 95 per cent. of the employees agreed to try the plan and have complied with the 10 per cent. requirement.

Many indeed have run their savings up to 30 per cent.

The plan is open to objection as savouring of interference with personal liberty.

Many people will oppose it on that account.

But it leads to systematic saving — and there is every need of that in this country as well as in the United States.

If a plan of this kind were generally adopted there would be little worry over periods of unemployment—nor would there be many soup kitchens or relief stations.

"LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE."

Having failed to reach a definite decision on its own account as to the question of additional high school and technical training accommodation, the Board of Education has come to the conclusion that the best way out is to submit several propositions to the people —or rather to that section of the people which owns property. And the City Council is to be asked to see that an opportunity is given to vote on these matters at the municipal elections.

Granted that it may be considered democratic to "let the people decide." Nevertheless, it must be admitted that there is some feeling that the Board, being in charge of educational matters and to that extent at lease being regarded as experts, should have brought forward a concrete proposition endorsed and recommended by the Board for consideration, rather than the line of least resistance policy of submitting three alternative plans.

The trouble of course is that the Board is practically deadlocked.

One section favors an addition to the present Collegiate Institute that will serve as a combined collegiate and technical school.

Another section advocates an addition to the Collegiate Institute for high school purposes only, with a separate technical school to come later "if found necessary."

Now an expression of opinion to serve as a guide for future action is to be sought.

Such an expression could have been obtained by a plebiscite of the electors rather than by an appeal to the property owners only.

Many of those who themselves, or whose families are most in need of technical education, and who are therefore vitally interested in the matter are not property owners.

When the opinion of the people is being sought as to Peterborough's school needs every elector should have a voice.

Later on the property owners alone can have their innings when the necessary money by-law is submitted.

This is an aspect of the question that the City Council would do well to consider when the Board's resolution comes before the Aldermanic Board. If public feeling is to be sounded on the matter let it be done in a manner that will let the whole electorate express its views.

This matter of more school accommodation is a serious problem.

There is no question that additional accommodation for collegiate purposes is badly needed.

There is at the same time no doubt of the need of more attention to technical education.

It is surely as essential that Peterborough should provide facilities for the boys and girls who require training in trades they propose to follow as it is to furnish opportunities for the others who want a high school education.

That fact would be true even if there were not an Adolescent School Act.

The passing of that measure only intensifies the need.

It has been said that every member of the Board of Education favors technical education.

Apparently, however, some of them are like the small boy who, when the Sunday school class were asked to hold up their hands if they wanted to go to H..n, failed to respond, and on being asked if he did not want to go to Heaven, replied, fervently, "Not just yet."

If the opinion of the people is to be sought it would be well for all the cards to be laid on the table, all the information regarding the various propositions to be made available and then let the whole electorate give expression to their views by means of a plebiscite.

The Board will then be in a position to know whether the people want a combined technical and high school or simply a larger Collegiate Institute, or possibly no further addition to the Collegiate for either purpose.

JOLLY MARKET BASKETS

There are a few market baskets that the small boy or the sturdy girl does not object to carrying home on Saturday morning, but setting on one side the kind of things that are pleasant to carry home, and on the other side, the sort of thing that one carries home because one must, the second lot usually alas outnumber the first. No one, for instance, ever heard any remonstrances against the purchase of a large basket of red-cheeked apples or peaches or golden pears, or two dozen of oranges rather than one, but on the other hand, no one ever heard any encouragement being given to buying two gallons of particularly choice potatoes, or three cabbages rather than one, or four turnips, or a large number of carrots. All these may be very good foods—any magazine article that deals with the importance of having sufficient vitamines in one's food would say they are all important—but what small person can thoughtfully balance vitamines against the lure of apples or musk melons. Tomatoes, too, the happy home of enough vitamines to keep a nation well and abounding in health, while they possess the perfection of coloring that even some apples might envy, are not over popular with the small boy. No one ever heard of anyone taking two or three tomatoes in a coat pocket, to eat when fancy called or the pangs of hunger became unbearable, but on almost any day of the year and at nearly every hour of the day, any small boy—to say nothing of the girls —can and does make a raid on the apple barrel or the apple box.

And what odd, out-of-the-way things one can find on the market if time is not an object. Baskets filled with strange looking dried stalks, fragrant and spicy and reminding one faintly of old-fashioned cooking, appear at intervals. Usually a jolly-looking old lady or a red-cheeked old man is in charge of the herbs, and at the slightest suggestion of interest he or she will tell of the difficulties of growing sweet marjoram, fennel, summer savory, thyme; how if you plant the seeds too early they are destroyed by a tiny insect that seems to lie in wait exclusively and solely for tiny plants of that pungent variety of leaf, yet if you decide to wait until that bug has had its fill of less expensive plants, they are frequently too late to blossom before frost. The bugs or the early frost seem to get you coming or going. However, there always is an abundance of the fragrant stalks to supply every market basket in Ottawa.

Flowers too and plants in pots, ferns in large or small pots, and dried everlastings that will give that note of brilliant color so desired by interior decorators all through the long winter months for the trifling expenditure of a quarter of a dollar. There may be cheaper and more effective blossoms, but we have never run across them. Chrysanthemums with their lovely feathery blooms and their pungent odor which one can hardly call a fragrance, appear on many of the wagons, and perhaps because they are what the children term "classy"—that is something unusual and usually expensive—besides being light in weight, they are probably about as popular a purchase as any in the autumn months. But be the basket heavy or light, meat or vegetables, there is something peculiarly fascinating in buying it direct from the producer. Somehow the bloom seems to cling to it better than to fruit or vegetables from the far south or the far west, lovely though those things be.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier Drury is blamed for the defeat of public ownership in California. So far at least, however, he is not being held responsible for the Turkish trouble.

Wisconsin's huge vote for La Follette shows just where the "boobs" really are.

Folks outside of Toronto unite in wishing that those clean-up negotiations were carried on in secret.

Northern Indians claim that the coming winter will be unusually mild. Here's hoping they have more success in the weather prediction line than Dan. Whetung, Sr., had several years ago.

Toronto's new slogan, "Toronto the logical location," is not clear enough. Somebody is liable to add "for an insane asylum," or something of that kind to it.

Whether Britain gets a tranquil government or not she at all events is experiencing a tranquil election. So far it has been a most sedate and orderly affair with no signs of excitement anywhere.

Citizens who remember the wild joy of four years ago should have no trouble in reminding themselves to-morrow that at 11 o'clock they are expected to pay a tribute of two minutes' silence to the memory of the Empire's dead.

HELD COURT IN DRUNK'S HOME

Colborne Man Tried To Dodge Court, Ran Up Against Surprise Party.

COLBORNE, Nov. 9.—Before Police Magistrate Floyd here, Clem Stone, a resident of the village, was fined $10 and costs for being intoxicated and in a place contrary to sections of the O. T. A. When the court opened Stone had not put in an appearance, and a note addressed to the magistrate stated that he was unable to attend on account of illness. A second trip to Colborne would mean additional expense and Magistrate Floyd decided to hold the court at Stone's residence. A surprise was in store for the officials on their arrival. A bandage on the little finger of his left hand appeared to be the only reason for Stone's non-appearance in court. The charge was read and brought forth a plea of guilty. Stone was then put under oath and asked where he got the liquor. He declined to say and when given the option of a term in jail or the truth, stated a friend of his could tell. The 'friend" was called and told the old story—they had met a bootlegger in front of the Methodist Church, purchased a bottle of G. and W. for $7 and drank the liquor in the church driving shed.

The "friend" is now charged with a breach of the O. T. A. in having liquor in a place other than his private residence and will appear before Police Magistrate Floyd next week.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Nov. 9, 1922.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will you be kind enough to permit us to explain briefly to your readers the nature of the recently formed Peterborough Radio Club.

This organization, which is now fully formed, is in no way connected with or interested in the sale of equipment nor is its main object the development of an interest in radio. Its sole object, as set forth in the constitution of the club, is to provide for the amateur radio operator and experimenter a source of practical and technical information, and a medium for the interchange of ideas and experiences.

The membership of the club is not restricted in any way, and any resident of Peterborough or the vicinity who is interested in radio may become a member, whether he owns a radio outfit or not. It is the belief of the club as it develops, its meetings will be equally interesting to the experimenter, to the man who owns an outfit and is interested in results only, and finally to the man who is merely interested in following the development of this new "craze," which is at once a science and a game.

Starting on Friday of this week, a definitely planned schedule of weekly meetings will be held. First of all, competent technical and practical men will give a series of talks, taking up the theory and operation of radio equipment from the very first fundamentals, and without prejudice or interest in any particular type of apparatus. Following these talks there will be general discussions of the topic of the evening and also of any problems which may be brought before the club. Finally, a list of out-of-town speakers has been prepared which will give the club the opportunity of hearing some of the most competent radio engineers and operators in Canada.

Anyone interested in radio will find the Peterborough Radio Club a source of information and assistance. The Club meets at eight on Friday evenings and hopes to enroll a large number of Peterborough radio enthusiasts for the winter season.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy.

The Peterborough Radio Club.
R. A. Brown, President.

GILLETT'S LYE

Comparatively few people realize to what extent Gillett's Lye can be used to advantage in every home. For instance, with one can of Gillett's Lye and five and a half pounds of lard or grease, ten pounds of good hard soap can be made. Use one tablespoon Gillett's Lye in gallon of water for cleaning and disinfecting refrigerators, sinks, garbage cans, tiled floors, baths and toilets.

Useful for over 500 purposes.

HONOR FOR OLDEST RESIDENT, HASTINGS.

Eighty-Nine Years of Age, Birthday Party is Given James Stevenson.

HASTINGS, Nov. 10.—A very enjoyable time was spent recently at the home of Mr and Mrs. A. V. German. The occasion being the eighty-ninth birthday of James Stevenson, Sr.

About forty guests were present, including all the grandchildren and great grandchildren living in Ontario. The tables looked beautiful, decorated with flowers, ferns and green, and in the centre was a birthday cake prettily decorated, the top layer shedding light from eighty-nine tiny wax candles.

After doing justice to a sumptuous repast, short speeches were made by Rev. M. L. Hinton, A. B. German and others. Mr. Stevenson was then called on for a few words and he replied in his usual amiable manner, giving his life history up to the present date. After thanking the host and hostess and family for the honor given him, he wished them all a long and happy life.

Before leaving the tables all joined hands singing, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot," and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The rest of the evening was spent in music, games, contests, etc., and the wee small hours of the morning saw the happy gathering brought to a close.

3,000 RUSSIANS ARE ON WAY TO CANADA.

Compelled to Trek Across Europe to Baltic Sea Ports

OTTAWA, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press). — Prevented by the critical situation in the Near East from sailing to Canada from Russian Black Sea ports, 3,000 Russian Mennonites, now on their way to settle in Western Canada, were compelled to trek across Europe to Baltic Sea ports, it was learned here to-day. Saskatoon reports that these people were on their way to Canada in preference to Mexico was confirmed at the Department of Immigration and Colonization, where it was stated that under present regulations, the Mennonites could not be prevented entering the country.

Saskatoon reports were to the effect that a contract for transporting these Mennonites had already been signed between their association and the C.P.R.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

Splendid laxative properties of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin proven by test

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 22 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Miss Gertrude Steeves of St. Stephen, N. B., says her mother will use no other laxative for her little sister, who is two years old, and Miss Jennie McDonald, of Parkhill, Ont., declares it is just what her mother needed. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MILLBROOK.

Interesting and Instructive Meeting Held in the Town Hall.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 10.—The annual meeting of the Millbrook branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, the president Dr. A. Jemison, occupying the chair. After the singing of 'Onward, Christian Soldiers', Rev. Canon W. C. Allen read the Scripture lesson from Romans 4th chapter, and Rev. Joseph Wilks offered prayer. The minutes of the last annual meeting, October 12th, 1921, and of the directors' meeting, Nov. 7th, 1922, were read by the secrtaary, Mr. W. S. Given, and, on motion of G. E. Burnham, seconded by Rev. G. S. Gervan, confirmed. The financial report showed that a total of $132.96 had been sent to Toronto from this Branch last year, and on motion of Rev. Mr. Tucker, seconded by R. Stone, this report was also adopted The president made a brief address, and then called upon Rev. S. J. Harrington, ogent-secretary of the U C. Society, who spoke in a most interesting and instructive manner of the work of the Bible Society showing that it has a record of nearly a century of endeavour, and that its aim is to translate, publish and circulate the Scriptures as rapidly as the churches send their missionaries amongst foreigners at home, or to more distant lands. A missionary without the Bible would be at as great a disadvantage as a soldier without weapons, or a sower without seed. The churches lean absolutely upon Bible Society for their supply of the Scriptures—missionary endeavor would collapse if the Bible Society should cease to exist. But the church never asks the Society regarding the sending out of its missionaries—never says, "Will you in time send to this field the Scriptures?" Yet never has a deaf ear been turned to the mute request for the sacred Book in the native tongue of those to whom workers go with the message of Life. The increased missionary activity of the church is the real reason for the need of more funds if the Society is to carry on; out of every $100 given to missions $10 is required to provide the Scriptures for the various fields, hence in some of the large city churches the yearly budget now includes one-tenth of their missionary subscriptions set aside for the Bible Society. The latter has a history of absorbing romance, extreme sacrifice, brave endeavor and fearless enterprise. From a personal knowledge of China, and because he believed it to be the most promising, and withal the strangest, of the countries where the Bible Society sends it colporteurs, the speaker dwelt more particularly upon this great Empire, and the opportunities which it offers for the propagation of the Gospel.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Speaker of the evening was moved by Rev. G. S. Gervan, seconded by Rev. J. Wilks, and carried unanimously. Rev. Canon Allen also moved a vote of thanks to the officers and collectors for their faithful services during the past year, to which Mr. Given replied briefly at the request of the president, Rev. S. T. Tucker seconded the motion. The following officers were appointed for this year:—President, Dr. A. Jemison, 1st vice president, A. J. Henderson; 2nd vice president, W. T. Wood; secretary-treasurer W. S. Given; Directors:—R. J. Doak, A. J. Fallis, J. Steele, G. E. Burnham, A. A. Smith, J. L. Byam, R. Stone, L. C. Russell, J. W. Hamilton, J. W. Gardiner, N. Belch, H. Hubbeard, H. A. Elson, L. W. You Remind Me of My Mother—FoxTrot.
Whiteman and His Orchestra. 18949

An advanced type of fox-trot in slow, sumptuous time, but full of pep. Banjo and piano furnish a perfect background for the jazzy saxophone melody. "You Remind Me of My Mother" is a good dance for a large room, as the pleasant, lively melody is carried on a full-voiced saxophone.

Stuttering—Fox trot
The Benson Orchestra of Chicago
Those Longing for You Blues—Fox trot
The Benson Orchestra of Chicago 18948

This is a perfect gem of dancy melodiousness rendered in splendid time, a whole lot steadier that you'd expect. A rich-toned piano sets off the melody. "Those Longing for You Blues" is slow in time, but a sporty little saxophone titters and trills and bleats humorously and a contrabass drops so low you look around for something to hold on to.

When the Leaves Come Tumbling Down—Fox Trot.
Clyde Doerr and His Orchestra
Zenda—Fox Trot Zez Confrey and His Orchestra 18945

The brasses carry most of this melody, with an acrobatic obbligato on the saxophone. Bits of Mendelsohn's "SPRING SONG" are beautifully interwoven while the leaves are tumbling. "Zenda" is being featured in "The Prisoner of Zenda". It is a smooth fox-trot with a striking piano background.

A Tasty Meat Confection

AS an item of food for the human race meat has long been considered one of the staples. And in this item of food the humble pig plays a leading part.

Of the many different shapes which the meat of the pig takes as an item for human consumption, the sausage—as made by the House of McGregor—is without doubt the most delicious, being made of the best parts of prime pig and a choice selection of Oriental spices from our tried and selected recipe; being made fresh every day so that it is always clean, sweet and tasty.

In this form it perhaps is the most delicious meat confection offered to the public.

PRESENTATION TO REV. C. R. SPENCER.

Expressions of Appreciation From Members of the Congregation at Cavan Trinity Church.

MILLBROOK, November 10. — A very pleasant social evening was spent on Tuesday, 7th November, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wood, 5th Line, Cavan, when the senior and junior Missionary Auxiliaries of Trinity Church (the Marsh) met to complete an autograph quilt which has been under way for some time.

Tea was served, and afterwards the men also gathered until every family belonging to the church was represented, and seventy-five guests were present.

A handsome pair of otter driving gauntlets were presented to Rev. C. R. Spencer, who preached his fare well sermons last Sunday, and who has done splendid work in building up Trinity Church, the following address being read by Mr. R. A. Wood, and the presentation made by Mr. Charles Porter:

Trinity Church, Cavan.

Rev. C. R. Spencer, Millbrook.

Dear Mr. Spencer,

We, the members of Trinity Church, Cavan (the Marsh), being desirous of expressing our appreciation of your ministry with us, take advantage of this opportunity while we are here together in this social and spiritual way. During the twelve years you have worked with untiring zeal, often possibly under difficulties of which we are not aware, you have been to us preacher, teacher, and friend, and at all times you have been cheerful, sharing our joys and sympathising in our sorrows.

We ask you to accept this slight token of our kindly regards, and of our appreciation of what you have been, and done, amongst us. Our best wishes and our prayers go with you, your wife, and family, to your new field of labour. May God bless your work, and care for you and yours in your home life. May the bonds of Christian fellowship, which have united us, continue to do so until we meet around the Master's Throne.

Signed, on behalf of Trinity Church,

Charles Porter,
Richard A. Wood,
Wardens.

7th November, 1922.

Mrs. Spencer, who has been an excellent vice-president of the Womans Auxiliary for some years, was not forgotten, the W. A. presenting her with a beautiful salad bowl, with servers and tray. The address was read by Miss Blanche Fallis, and the gift presented by Miss Marjorie Fallis.

Trinity Church, Cavan.

Mrs. C. R. Spencer, Millbrook.

Dear Mrs. Spencer,

We, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary, have met here this evening to express our regret that you are leaving our community, but we know our loss is someone else's gain We have enjoyed our asociation with you, and we wish you to know that you have, by your unselnsh spirit, impressed more fully upon our minds the knowledge that the Kingdom of Heaven lies within ourselves, and that the Bluebird of Happiness is singing outside our door if we will but hear him. We know that your home will be happy wherever your lot may be cast, because you have learned this secret; and we pray that outside of your home, and in all your church associations, its bright radiance may be shed upon all with whom you come in contact.

We ask you to accept this gift as a slight token of our regard for you. We hope that you may find it useful, and that it may remind you of your sister-workers of Trinity Church, Cavan. Our prayer is that God's choicest blessing may rest richly upon you, and upon your husband and family, wherever your home may be established.

Signed, on behalf of the Woman's Auxiliary,

Mrs. William Crocker, Secretary.
Miss Iva Pound, Treasurer.

7th November, 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer were taken completely by surprise, and were deeply touched by these expressions of love and appreciation from their people, and both made suitable replies.

The church wardens, Messrs. R. A. Wood and C. Porter, the Sunday School Superintendent, Mr. C. Leal, and Mr. W. H. Wood, the chairman of the evening, also made addresses, and Mr. John Porter, of Trenton, a visitor in the home, spoke briefly.

All present joined heartily in singing, "For they are jolly good fellows," after which refreshments were served, and a pleasant social time spent before the gathering dispersed.

A CONVENTION CAMPBELLFORD

The District Institute of Religious Education Held Morning and Afternoon Sessions.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 10.—A large number of delegates attended the District Institute of Religious Education held in the Methodist church yesterday, the afternoon session being devoted to Sunday School Work when very helpful addresses were given by Mr. A. Winters, (Sunday Session), Mrs. A. McLauchlin (mid-week work for school); Rev. D. M. Stinson, (the training of workers); and Rev. M. L. Hinton, (preparing catechumens). The evening session was devoted to Epworth League work with Mr. H. E. Hulin, president of District E. L. presiding. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. S. A. Kemp, Mr. Walter Lowe rendered a cornet sola most acceptably. Rev. Mr. McLauchlin gave the report of the nominating committee which was as follows:

President—H. E. Hulin, Stirling, (re-elected).

1st Vice President—C. A. Wilson, Campbellford.

2nd Vice President —Miss Lucy Williams, (Stirling).

3rd Vice President — Miss Josephine McConnell, (Hastings).

4th Vice President — C. Denike, (Havelock).

Sec. of Religious Education—Rev. A. McLauchlin, B.A. B.D.

A very pleasing duet "The Homeland" was sweetly rendered by Mrs. C. W. Turner and Mr. George Lucy The Sunday School choir rendered the anthem "In the morning of Life" most acceptably.

An excellent address on "A Study in Dynamics" was given by Rev. Mr. McLauchlin in which he emphasized "Worship", as the characteristic note in every league service, ten minutes being devoted to coming in touch with God, making ourselves in unity with God, in obedience, reverence. This opening 10 minute period was called the dynamic period The first department Christian Endeavour being the soul of the league.

Miss Lucy Williams gave a most helpful missionary address on "Fulfilling a Commission" her watch watchword being "Others". This thought leads to sacrifice, unselfishness and thoughtfulness. We must learn to love and study the Bible ourselves, before we can send it to others. The speaker referred to Christ's great commission to his disciples and to us, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature". The two main thoughts to be kept before the Leaguers 1) Evangelization of the heath en world; (2) making your own world thoroughly Christian.

Mr. S. A. Kemp gave a most inspiring and helpful address on the Literary and Social Department of the League. Mr. Kemp asserted that while the development of the heart and soul was of the greatest importance, the intellectual side should not be forgotten. Christianity is educational or it is nothing. The quiet meditation of the disciples with Jesus, when he addressed them in parables, meant much to them. The biographries of great men and women should be studied. Seek early to find the peculiar work God has for each and nothing is impossible. An intellectual hunger should be cultivated, the motto being "Lift up and Look up for Christ and the church". To the social side we owe health, strength, happiness, in short we need others to reach our best, where we forget ourselves in serving others.

Mr. W. R. Archer's address "Operating a Transformer" was most helpful to leaguerers particularly those in charge of the citizenship department. Tee League, the speaker referred to as the Power House, from which the young life goes out transformed by its influence, and helped to respond to God according to their ability. The aim being to make Christian citizens with growth from within.

Moved by Rev. H. B. Kenny and seconded by Mr. G. A. Kingston that a hearty vote of thanks be extended to all the speakers for their excellent addresses.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTES MET AT WESTWOOD

Delegates Present From Norwood, Stirling, Bethel, Dummer, and Keene.

KEENE, November 10. — The Campbell district of the Methodist church held the first of a series of Sunday school Institutes and Y.P.S. Conventions in Westwood.

Delegates were present from Norwood, Stirling, Dummer, Bethel and Keene. The afternoon programme was one in the interests of Sunday school work.

The following addresses were given:

"They Sunday Session." Mr. A. Mathers of Campbellford.

"Mid-week Activities for the School," W. P. Rogers, B.A., who traced the growth of the C.G.I.T. and C.F.E.T. programs and showed how even in small schools the work could be successfully carried on in mid-week activities.

Rev. Mr. Rogers was elected a life member of the O.R.E.C. at the recent convention in Massey Hall, Toronto.

Other subjects dealt with were — "The Training of Workers," Rev. D. M. Stinson, M.A., B.D.; "Preparing of Catechisms," Rev. M. L. Hutton.

The district secretary of R. E. addressed the convention on "Some of the Neglected Spots" and the work of the Board of Management between sessions. The ladies of Westwood served a banquet in the town hall, after which toasts were proposed as follows: The King, the Methodist church and the Ladies, with suitable responses. Mr. Winter's account of the work of the General Conference was highly instructive.

The evening session in the absence of the President, H. E. Hulin, was presided over by Rev. D. M. Stinson.

The departmental work of the League was dealt with as follows:—"A Study in Dynamics," Training the Devotional Life, Rev. A. McLaughlin B.A., B.D. "Bulfilling a Commission" (Our Missionary Task) Rev. H. B. Herrington; "Being Thoroughly Furnished." (A Study of Third Department Work), Rev. S. A. Kempt; "Operating a Transformer," (A Wider Task), Rev. J. E. Glover.

Rev. A. McLaughlin, who was in charge of the convention, had on exhibit a Worker's Library, which was a centre of interest; he also reported for the conference, Epworth League work, and presented the programme of the Second Winter Course to be held in Cobourg on January 8-15 next.

A TALK TO WOMEN

When you spend your money, don't you like to get the best possible value? If so, when next you need a household ointment, buy Zam-Buk. Why? Here are a few reasons.

How long will a jar of dripping keep good? When it turns rancid would you like to apply it to a sore place? Now most ordinary ointments have animal fats and oils as a base. These are disguised by perfumes and coloring matter, but that does not make matters better. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, is free from all fats and oils and animal products that may go rancid. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences and juices—Natural Healers; Nature's own remedies.

Many ointments contain mineral compounds such as lead, zinc, etc., and coloring matters. Zam-Buk does not. Its coloring is the green of the herbs of the field.

WHAT SCIENCE SAYS

Mr. W. Lascelles Scott, the great English chemist, says: "After exhaustive analysis I have no hesitation in certifying absolutely purity and herbal nature of Zam-Buk. It contains none of the impure animal fats and irritating minerals found in ordinary ointments. The antiseptic and bactericidal (germ-destroying) powers of Zam-Buk exceed those of carbolic acid, without inflaming, the most tender skin. 1

"IT SAVED MY HAND."

"A sore on my finger turned to blood-poisoning. After frightful agony the doctors amputated the finger. The hand and arm became terribly swollen and inflamed. Doctors again operated, scraped the bone—is vain. Said hand must be amputated. I refused and tried Zam-Buk. I persevered and complete healing resulted. I believe if I had used Zam-Buk first I would have saved my finger."—(Sgd.) John Evans, 67 Lawrence St., Halifax, N.S. 2

A MINISTER'S TRIBUTE

Rev. A. D. McLeod, of Harcourt, N.B., writes: I know of nothing like Zam-Buk. Visiting throughout an extensive mission, I see many sick and afflicted people, and have been amazed at the good Zam-Buk is doing daily. For old wounds, bad ulcers, eczema, and all skin diseases, it is unexcelled." 3

Zam-Buk being made from nature's own healing balms, is more powerful than ordinary ointments—better value. It can heal where other remedies fail. Read the extraordinary case of Mrs. Jeffrey in panel No. 4.

Zam-Buk, as soon as applied to an injury or skin trouble, kills all disease germs and prevents blood poison, inflammation, etc. Professor Scott, the great English Chemist, experimented with Zam-Buk in this connection. Read his findings in panel No. 1.

Zam-Buk draws from a wound or sore all the poison before healing. Read how it thus saved Mr. Evans' hand, (panel No. 2.)

Zam-Buk, if applied to skin diseases, injuries, etc., will save you money, pain, and perhaps save a limb, as in the case reported in panel No. 5.

Zam-Buk is best for children. Scores of mothers have proved this. In a nut-shell, here are Zam-Buk's points of superiority—It is herbal—not fatty. It is pure—not adulterated by minerals hidden by cheap perfume. It is antiseptic—kills all germs. It is the most powerful known healer. It does more and goes further. It keeps indefinitely—never goes bad. It is suitable alike for the skin of adults and of children—even babies. It cures old and stubborn skin diseases as well as injuries and diseases of recent date. Its price brings it within the reach of everybody. Only 50c box, 3 for $1.25. Zam-Buk, like diamonds, is imitated. Protect yourself, insist on the genuine Zam-Buk.

USE ZAM-BUK FOR

Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poison, Piles, Cold Sores, Chapped Hands, Festering Cuts, Bruises Scalds and Burns. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

ULCER FOR 30 YEARS

Mrs. Jeffrey of 31 French St., Methuen, writes: "For thirty years I suffered intensely with an ulcer which commenced on my ankle and spread to my knee. I used every known remedy, and had medical treatment, but only got temporary relief. Some days I could not walk. I had despaired of ever finding a cure when I heard of Zam-Buk. I persevered with this remedy and the ulcer is healed." 4

$4 SPENT ON IT SAVED 2 FINGERS

"I cannot express my gratitude for what Zam-Buk has done for me," writes Mr. J. V. Besnard, of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal. "In an accident at work my hand was so badly crushed the doctor said he would have to amputate two fingers. Naturally I didn't want this, so decided to try Zam-Buk first. I applied Zam-Buk daily, and by the time I had used $4 worth, the injury was completely healed. My fingers were saved!"

Just another illustration of the healing power of Zam-Buk. Accidents will happen. It may be your turn next. Better get a box and keep it handy. Send coupon below and receive a free trial box. 5

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—A fairly good business was done in cash grain in the local market yesterday, but trade in spot grain was quiet. There was no change in the condition of the market for spring wheat flour, the feeling being very firm. Strength still prevails in the millfeed market and demand for rolled oats continues fairly good. Prices for baled hay remain steady. The local egg market was without special feature with the market for strictly new-laid very firm. A fair trade was reported in potatoes. Demand for butter was reported quieter, but the feeling is firm. The tone of the cheese is very firm.

TO TRANSMIT POWER BY MEANS OF RADIO

This is the Dream That Radio Engineers Are Now Struggling With.

SAN FRANCISCO—Radio will move the world!

Power in the future will come by means of the wireless waves through the air, predict radio engineers here.

In fact, such power has already been produced and the prediction of greater power by this means is based on recent successful experiments.

These experiments were conducted by Wallace F. Vail, president of the United States Radio Corporation of this city, with the aid of other radio engineers. Their results have interested government officials in a further effort to find a means of sending power over long distances.

An accident caused the discovery that radio might be useful in the transmission of power. This happened when engineers noticed an electric lamp light up for no apparent reason while they were broadcasting messages. They immediately started a series of tests with the electric lamp in connection with the radio transmission apparatus until they learned what actually caused it to light up.

"Later," explains Vail, an "electric bell was rung in the city of Berkeley, eight miles away, by means of the same idea. The engineers were able to light an electric lamp at a distance of 1000 feet entirely by the transmitted power."

War Value

The value of this secret of sending power by radio cannot be estimated, says Vail. It would be especially valuable to nations at war, with the lives for soldiers saved as its redeeming feature.

"The value that this invention may have in wartime," says Vail, "may be gained from the fact that engineers have been unable to insulate against this power, thus indicating that powder mills, forts and other defenses could be blown up."

The power waves are strong enough and of sufficiently high frequecyy as to go through all obstacles. Yet the transmitting instrument is small enough to be carried about.

BABIES HAVE FRIEND IN MRS. BOWEN IRWIN

Has Been President of the Infants' League Since Its Organization.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 10.—Babies, born into the world with little prospect for future happiness, find a friend in Mrs. Rowen Irwin, wealthy charity worker of this city.

Mrs. Irwin has been president of the Infants' Friend League ever since she organized it in 1914. Before then she had been helping unfortunate men and women to get back on their feet.

Now her main effort is devoted to helping the babies of poor parents. Her league now has 75 members and she has started a campaign for 1,000 members, with an annual fee of $1.

The money thus collected will go into buying material with which the 75 older members will make layettes for the children. Since the founding of Mrs. Irwin's organization the members have made more than 200 layettes of 23 pieces each.

THE CONNELLSVILLE MINERS STILL OUT

Digging in For a Finish Fight With the Operators.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 10.—The nation-wide coal strike is history in most mining fields, but here in Connellsville striking miners are "digging in" for the winter, prepared to fight to a finish for the miners' union.

Barracks of wood are being built against the coming of winter, and already provisions have been made for housing must be provided for 1800 other families before the winter sets in, so work is being pushed with all possible speed.

Seven months ago, when the union miners were called out on strike, tents were put in this district as in others to shelter the families of miners who had been evicted from the company homes.

During the summer and early fall, the tents were cozy homes for the 120,000 inhabitants of this colony. Even the cellar homes of some of the less fortunate strikers afforded the shelter which was all they sought. Some even lived in abandoned chicken coops and barns.

But with the wind shrieking around the tents and cellar homes, the miners realize the frailty of these shelters against the frosts of the coming months, and they have started putting up more substantial places for their wives and children.

Appear Frail.

Union officials and the working union members throughout the rest of the country are supporting the strikers. Nearly $200,000 already has been spent and thousands more in assessments is being collected to help the strikers through their winter siege.

Frail wooden huts these barracks appear from the outside. But within they provide a modest degree of comfort and shelter.

Those of the strikers who have not found other work to occupy their time during their enforced idleness, are being kept at the construction of thees barracks. Some 26,000 are at the disposal of the builders for aid in this work, although not all are needed. Five thousand others have jobs at nearby mills or on the highways. About 8,000 have left this district for union fields where the miners have returned to work.

Family to a Room.

For thos who remain, with their families, the barracks are put up to help them fight more advantageously against the operators. Little convenience is promised them, even in these finer homes. But essentially, the barracks will be suitable shelter against the weather.

A family to a room is the way the new homes are being alloted. And with miners' families ranging from 4 to 12 or even more children there is little space for any more comfort than what is necessary.

From four to twenty rooms make up a barracks, all of which are being built in a camp beside the tents. A stove, a table, a few chairs, cots and extra mattresses in cases of larger families, compose the furniture. The inhabitants are satisfied. Warmth and comfort is all they want—aside from a settlement of the strike that gives their views consideration.

WHEN MORRIS GEST STAKED A FORTUNE.

"Chu Chin Chow" Proves a Money-Getter For Producers.

Comstock and Gest, producers of "Chu Chin Chow" would have been placed on the wrong side of $250,000 if "Chu Chin Chow" had not turned out to be such a huge success. "Chu Chin Chow" was brought to America after practically every American manager had passed it up as too expensive to ever make money through the perserverance and energy of Morris Gest, who interested his partner Mr. Comstock, in the enterprise.

Gene Buck, the well-known song writer, figured in the transaction, as did the late Sir Herbert Tree, at whose theatre in London—"His Majesty's—"Chu Chin Chow" has only recently completed its phenomenal run of five years.

Gene Buck came back from London enthusiastic over the play, which he had seen while staging a revue in the British Capitol. He told Morris Gest of its wonderful success. Mr. Gest secured the manuscript from the American agent or Oscar Asche, who had produced the piece in association with Sir Herbert Tree. Many other American managers had heard of "Chu Chin Chow" and smiled as they rejected it. Then Mr. Gest read it, and promptly took it for production. It was a master plunge—but the enormous success of of the play justified his judgment, as witness the fact that "Chu Chin Chow" is now in its sixth season in America. It will be at the Grand tonight and tomorrow and will be the event of many seasons.

MISS SHAPLEIGH'S HINTS ON BAKING BREAD AND ROLLS

Use More Sour Milk—Bread is the Staff of Life.

By Bertha E. Shapleigh, of Columbia University.

To use a common, often-heard expression, "bread is the staff of life." To make a loaf of bread which is wet ,well-risen, well-baked and of good flavor is a great accomplishment and gives one a most satisfied feeling.

We hear much about the desirability of every housewife's making her own bread. If she can supply her family with bread which is well-baked, and cannot buy good bread, let her by all means make it.

But the large bakeries can bake bread much more satisfactorily than the individual. The ingredients are weighed, the mixing is done by machinery, and the large ovens bake the loaves uniformly well.

The housewife can relieve the monotony of plain raised bread by making biscuits, muffins, corn meal bread, pop-overs and the like. In these the raising is done quickly by the use of eggs, baking powder or soda combined with sour milk or buttermilk.

Using Sour Milk.

Housewives who have a good deal of milk which becomes sour or who have buttermilk would like to use more in cooking but do not always have good results.

The best way is to use soda enough to sweeten the milk, say one-half teaspoon of soda to one cup of milk, and then use baking powder in the same amount as if sweet milk were being used.

Variety can be secured by adding to the plain yeast dough sugar, spice, butter, eggs, fruits or nuts and shaping into rolls or loaves.

Some of the dough may be kept in the ice box, and used from day to day for several days, having hot, plain or sweet rolls often with little trouble.

Or when shaping the loaves knead into the dough for one loaf some chopped nuts or raisins or both. This bread will be much appreciated, especially by the children.

Use More Yeast.

It has been found by experienced bread-makers that it is better to shorten the length of time for fermentation by using more yeast, this causing a better result in the quality of the bread.

But when a housewife is careful and gives bread a good deal of thought and attention, the result is good with a smaller quantity of yeast.

The old method of setting bread by night is sometimes not advisable as the temperature of the room is likely to change during the night.

THOSE WHO LISTEN IN FORM AN ORGANIZATION

Will Encourage Co-operation Between Operators of Broadcasting Stations.

Novices, who merely "listen in" on radio concerts, are banding together into a national organization. The organization is called the National Radio Listeners-in Association of America. The first step in its formation has been made in Washington and auxiliary associations are being organized in cities throughout the country.

According to L. C. Hedges, president of the "listeners-in" the chief object of his association is "to encourage co-operation between operators or broadcasting stations and the greatly increasing numbers of listeners-in."

Action of the Washington branch of this organization has already resulted in obtaining for the listeners-in greater range, improved modulation and a more balanced concert program from the broadcasting station. Similar action in other communities is sought by the novices.

TAR USED ON HANDS TO AID IN PASSING.

Quarterback Covington of Centre College, who succeeded Bo McMillin to that position, resorted to a new stunt in the Harvard game to assist him in making his passes more accurate.

Covington's hand, so the story goes, was smeared with tar. The reason, of course, was to eliminate the chance of fumbling when Covington poised the arm high in the air preparatory to starting his pass on the way.

Some years back baseball pitchers started to apply foreign substance to the ball in order to give them a firmer grip on the sphere, which naturally enabled them to get a better break on the ball.

The superiority which the pitchers soon attained over the batters because of the many freak deliveries, in which the doctored ball played a leading role, caused legislation against the use of it.

What about the tar with which Covington smeared his hands in order to help him in his passing?

No doubt this bit of by-play will receive some attention from the rule makers this fall.

RADIO NEWS

CHICAGO.— Farmers with flivver automobiles are holding out for the flivver radio set.

Mail order houses here have learned this salient fact after offering present radio models to their rural customers. They have included all sorts of modern radio apparatus in their long list of commodities for farmers. But, their managers say, sale of this apparatus is like the sale of automobiles before the "flivver" became popular.

What is wanted, they say, is a cheap and simple, yet highly practicable, radio receiving set. Less controls, less bother, lower maintenance cost are some of the features they point out as necessary before the radio receiving set will become popular as the cheap automobile.

Depends on Farmer.

The farmer, these men declare, will be the one on whom the future of radio will depend. In comparison to the time when the "flivver radio" will be common, he is almost isolated from the more popular sections of the country. Few, comparatively, have the telephone and even the electric light in their homes, yet the automobile and the tractor play a more important part in their lives.

Th radio will be just as necessary, say the mail order men. Latest market and weather reports, coming by radio, will make this science an essential part of the agricultural industry. But, it is pointed out, farmers cannot afford to maintain a set that may become obsolete within a few years.

For this reason they are waiting for a standard, cheap, simple and practicable set, comparable to the automobile that may be seen on almost every farm.

Progress

Steps towards the perfection of such radio receiving set have already been made. The apparatus with the single control is already in the process of perfection. The aerial is being eliminated and there soon will be no need for ground connection.

One other important improvement to be made before radio can be said to have been perfected is that centering about the use of the storage need recharging at intervals, which means taking them to a battery charging station for the purpose. Since the farmer is far from such stations, it is an argument against his adoption of any apparatus needing such service.

If the farmer happens to have an electric lighting system in his home he may be able to recharge the batteries by means of one of the many forms of home charging outfits now on the market. But many farm homes remain without electricity and therefore could not make use of such an outfit. There is therefore little chance to sell a radio set with batteries to many of the farmers of the country.

KEEP CHILDREN OFF STREETS WITH RADIO

Plan Has Been Tried in New York City With Success.

Keep your children off the streets by interesting them in radio.

Or, if you can't afford a radio set, try to get the community interested in the safety of the children by this means.

The plan has already been tried with success in New York. Teachers of Athletic Center 62 got together and installed a radio receiving instrument with a loud-speaker in the courtyard.

After their school hours the children gathered for athletic practice and were surprised to hear the returns of the world series. They told their chums who had decided to stay out and play in the streets around their homes.

The next day the athletic center was crowded with eager children.

And the streets were cleared for vehicle traffic.

The Fascination of Books

By F. M. De La Fosse

At a casual glance one might be led to imagine that there can be nothing easier in the world for a librarian than to write about books. Why, from every angle the matter seems so simple. Seated amongst hundreds upon hundreds of them, surrounded by all the great minds of the past, with fascinating titles facing one, what could be easier, what could be more alluring?

Unfortunately, it is this profusion of riches that makes the matter so difficult. Readers, as well as writers, experience the same trouble. I have seen visitors to the library spend hours upon hours drifting along the shelves, picking up volume after volume only to lay it down in search of something better and writers seeking for some subject that may interest the public often find themselves in the position of Buridan's ass, who placed at an equal distance from two bales of hay, starved to death from sheer inability to choose which bale to feed from.

Of course, we all have our special predilections in literature. Personally, I confess to very little liking for certain lines of Natural Science or Philosophy or Mathematics, but give me a book of biography or travel or essays in the style of Augustine Birrell and I feel that life offers nothing better for the passing of a leisure hour.

Biographies call up so many recollections for most of us, both of places and of people. I never see a volume of Morley's "Life of Gladstone" for instance, without being carried back in memory to my schooldays in England. Mr. Gladstone, being the father-in-law of our head master, Dr. Wickham, used to make periodic visits to the school and I retain very vivid memories of seeing him and Mrs. Gladstone in our college chapel. I can see them both now, he, with his eagle face surmounting an immense collar and she, dowdily dressed, and with her dear old face beaming out from under a wonderful creation of a bonnet, looking across at us as we sang in the choir. And another face looms forth from the mists of years, a strange, weird-looking face with pink eyes and white eyebrows and eye-lashes, the face of a man who seemed to be the fidus Achates of Mr. Gladstone in those days, the Hon. Robert Lowe, afterwards Lord Sherbrooke.

All of us treasure memories of seeing such great ones of the earth as have loomed up in our horizon as well as of those with whom, by some chain of circumstances, we have been brought into contact. My eyes light upon the names of more than one as I glance along the shelves. The first I come upon is that of A. M. Broadley. He was not a great man in the sense that Gladstone was great, but in his day he was a prominent individual. He wrote a life of Hardy, (Nelson's Hardy), in collaboration with Bartelot and was also a highly respected authority on Napoleonic lore. He possessed the finest collection in England of Napoleonic relics and pictures. At the close of the Egyptian war he sprang into prominence as chief counsel for Arabi Pasha and received something like 30,000 pounds sterling for his services on that occasion. His "Life of Hardy" is a very interesting work and is beautifully illustrated.

But if one wants to get interesting information in a succinct form there is nothing more valuable than the Dictionary of National Biography. Dip anywhere into the pages of that voluminous work and something will be found to absorb one's attention.

There are few of us who are not curious to learn something of the personality of an author whose work has interested us, but for the lives of those who have written recently we have to trust to such items of information as may be gleaned from present day periodicals. It has to be borne in mind that the Dictionary of National Biography only deals with the lives of the dead and not of the living.

A short time ago I was anxious to find out something of the personality of Alexander Cruden. His "Bible Concordance" was a work with which I had made acquaintance in my youthful days and I had often wondered what sort of a man he might have been. I had always pictured him as a man of the calibre of Dr. Johnson, or Porson, the Greek scholar, erudite, bulky of form and none too cleanly in his habits.

My investigations proved me very wide of the mark. Cruden seems to have somewhat resembled Cowper. He was a deeply religious man and like the poet was mentally afflicted. He had to be put under restraint three times during his life and on the second occasion escaped from a private asylum where he had been chained to his bedstead. I think that if he had lived in these days, he would have delighted the hearts of the officials of a well-known organization, for he was most active in good works and made it his special business to carry a wet sponge with him to obliterate obscene inscriptions on blank walls and to admonish people whom he met in public places to go home and keep the Sabbath Day holy. So zealous was he that he urged that the king in Council have him formally constituted CORRECTOR OF MORALS. It needed courage in those days, (I am speaking of the latter part of the eighteenth century), to consistently perform such a role but Cruden despite the Government's refusal to countenance his strange suggestion, went on in spite of obloquy and ridicule. He rendered himself notorious on more than one occasion, and in his courtship of a Miss Abney went so far as to distribute handbills asking the public to pray that her heart might be softened towards him.

For many people information such as given above may not prove interesting but in the great majority of us, curiosity looms large, the curiosity to know something of our fellow-men. Most of us are believers in Pope's dictum that the proper study of mankind is man and unless we gain something of that knowledge we lose much, amongst other things, breadth of vision, tolerance, veneration and ambition.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

On the day before her marriage the Egyptian girl goes to the bath in state, under a canopy drawn by four men. Following this, the bride and groom have dinner a for their friends.

When the feast is over a quantity of henna paste is spread over the bride's hands and the guests make her contributions by sticking coins into the paste. When her hands are covered with money the paste is removed.

Just when it looked like a quiet winter Armenia asks to send 5000 girls to Philadelphia.

IN BROWN VELVET

A very unusual brown velvet dress is draped with brown tulle and caught up ot the side with two very large velvet flowers, the flowers shading from pale yellow to deep orange.

GLAZED RIBBON

Very highly glazed ribbon is extensively used both in millinery and on costumes. Dancing frocks show rows and rows of it decorating the new long skirts

PICTURE HAT

A large black velvet picture hat is trimmed with a large swirl of royal blue paradise feathers. The feathers fall far over the brim, reaching the shoulders.

GOWNS OF SHAWLS

Many of the most unique evening gowns seem to be made fom Spanish or Persian shawls, knowingly draped and arranged to show to best advantage the exquisite handiwork they contain.

WEDDING GOWNS

White velvet will be popular for wedding frocks this winter. It drapes into the softest possible folds and combines beautifully with silver cloth, pearls and orange blossoms.

BROWN AND YELLOW

At a smart restaurant a very striking brunet appeared in a three-piece costume of cocoa brown, with which she wore an animal scarf of canary yellow.

THIS MOVIE ACTRESS ENDORSES LONG SKIRT

Bobbed Hair is Not Becoming With the Trailing Gown—Problems of the Flapper.

The Parisian decree of "skirts down and hair up" won immediate approval from Edith Hallor, leading lad in "Human Hearts" the Universal-Jewel attraction. The ruling of the French modistes reached Universal City and Miss Hallor while the final scenes of the Hal Reid masterpiece were being 'shot" at Universal City. Commenting on the news dispatch Miss Hallor said :

"The long skirts were bound to come in. Things always work in cycles and when skirts grew short, I knew they would go to the other extreme. The woman may say they won't wear them, but they said the same thing about short skirt. They will make their styles in the smaller details of fashion, but when it comes to the extremes every one still looks to Paris to set the pace.

"Of course men will like it. They never really liked the short skirts. They like to see women dressed in long and graceful gowns. The type man that was the great calamity howler over short skirts, who insisted the country was going to the dogs with the advent of the flapper, will now turn around and insist women should show some sense and stick to something comfortable and clean. You can't please this type man, and I, personally don't even try to.

"Switches are certain to come back thus will the problem of the flapper be solved. Bobbed hair certainly is not becoming with the long trailing gown. On the screen it is an advantage to have long locks as then one can play any type parts without difficulty. If a bobbed effect is required it can be obtained easily by a little care in hairdressing.'

House Peters, star of "Human Hearts" nodded his sage approval and he and fair Edith went back to work.

If you had a fine dairy cow— just outside your kitchen door

Your milk supply couldn't be any sweeter, purer, or more rich and healthful than St. Charles Milk "with the cream left in".

In fact it wouldn't be as rich, because most of the natural moisture is removed from St. Charles Milk, which reduces it to the consistency of cream.

And the supply wouldn't be as convenient, for St. Charles is put up in "a size for every need". Never too much or too little.

A few tins on your pantry shelf ensure an always available supply of fresh milk from choicest dairy cows. Your grocer always has St. Charles Milk—give him your order today.

OYSTER FRITTERS:—Drain twenty-five oysters and chop fine. Beat two eggs; when light add one-fourth cup St. Charles Milk and three-fourths cup water; then stir in a scant pint of sifted flour; beat smooth. Salt and pepper to taste. Stir in oysters lightly, adding one-half teaspoonful baking powder. Combine well, and fry by dropping tablespoonfuls into smoking lard.

At its best in cooking recipes.

NARROW ESCAPE HASTINGS MAN

Employee Named Whitred Drawn Into Machinery—Saved By Fellow-Worker.

HASTINGS, Nov. 10. — What might have proved a serious accident happened at the Hastings Tannery Co's plant on Wednesday afternoon, when a workman was caught in the machinery. It appears that while at his usual duties of taking leather out of one of the big drums the belt slipped and coming in contact with the driving pulley started the drum revolving and Whitred was drawn in and carried around for a couple of times before W. Sh pe, who was working with him, threw off the belt and saved Whitred's life.

MEIGHEN SCORES THE KING GOVT.

Declares Canada Placed in Position of a Sponger Within the Empire.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—That the administration of Hon. Mackenzie King had made the directorate of Canadian National Railway system a matter of political exploitation by appointing men to the Board in recognition of services rendered the Liberal party was the charge of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in a vigorous speech delivered in the Foresters' Hall here last night on the occasion of the opening of the Conservative womens' bazaar.

He said he wished the new manager, Sir Henry Thornton, every success, but he thought that it would be years before Sir Henry could possibly sufficiently acquaint himself with Canada and her railways. Mr. Meighen also scored the government for indecision in a crisis arising from Turkey flouting the stipulations of the Allies to which Canada was a party, and for what he he described as abandonment of the defence of Canada and increasing the burden of the British taxpayer.

Referring to the position of the Conservative party to-day, Mr. Meighen said that in the last nine months its record had been analyzed and scrutinized, but the record of six years of troublesome times and turmoil remained unscathed and would remain so for all time. The task of leading an administration through years of war was one almost impossible, but the Conservative party stood with its whole administration clean and pure, which was something to be proud of.

"Then," he continued, "let us inquire what the government has done in its ten months of power." He thought the first duty of the government was to see to the defence of state, but to his mind the government had placed the country in the position of a sponsor within the Empire, leaving to others the burden of the defence. The country itself had sole right to decide what should be the form of its defence and what its obligations should be.

SAYS IT WAS BEST INVESTMENT HE EVER MADE

"The best investment I ever made was when I bought Tanlac. I'm able to eat meat and other things I didn't dare touch before and I'm feeling like a new man," said Joseph Deschenes, tailor, who works for his father at 2335 Notre Dame St., West, Montreal.

"It certainly was a big surprise to me how quickly this medicine took hold, gave me an appetite and toned up my stomach so everything agreed with me. When I began taking it I had been suffering for two years from stomach trouble in a bad form and almost lost hope of ever finding relief as none of the medicines I tried reached my case.

"Tanlac is certainly different from all the rest. I used to be so nervous I would get up out of my bed way in the night and walk the floor for hours. Now I drop off to sleep almost as soon as my head touches the pillow and sleep all night long. Tanlac is a grand medicine and I know what it did for me it will do for others, so I feel it my duty to advise people who suffer like I did to take it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

NEED OF THE DAY IS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

ported four Roman Catholics who had come to discuss religious matters and ask about auricular confession.

The Grand Ligne Mission needed workers. The speaker harked back to the glorious foundress of this mission, who, on landing at her destination, had gone behind a lumber pile to fall on her knees and pray for the people whom she had come to save. Thinking of her, the speaker said, "we must not fail in our work amongst the French Canadians."

In the Northwest, work was progressing among the Hungarians, the Slavs, Norwegians, Germans and Swedes. Many conversions and baptisms were reported there this year. The Board also looked after a number of students in Brandon college.

Intercession Hour.

Intercession hour, "With Instances of Answered Prayer in our French-Canadian Work," was led by Miss Gladys Clarke, of Ottawa, one of the Bible women working amongst the French Catholics of Ottawa district. Miss Clarke, whose address was listened to with keen attention, stressed mainly the work of the Baptists in evangelizing French Catholics. At Otter Lake, there were a number of Roman Catholic families listening to the Gospel. An instance of the difficulties encountered was related in the case of one recent convert whose wife was shortly afterwards cut in two by a saw, his neighbors persisting in regarding this as a punishment for his defection from his own faith. Miss Clarke said the women should ask God to keep the members of the church faithful to its teachings. She recounted her experience with a man who became a convert to Baptist teachings. His relatives were entirely Catholic, and when he became violently ill, they persisted in pinning medals on him. On several different occasions, when the Baptist minister and Miss Clarke visited him in the home of his Catholic children, she removed these medals, having recourse to strategy on different occasions, "for you have to be very cute with them and not let them see that they are deceiving you." The man's heart was very weak and his condition precarious, and Miss Clarke did not wish to raise enough "rumpus" to injure him fatally, but she drew his attention on another occasion to a scapular which had been pinned beneath his pneumonia jacket, and which he professed to have no knowledge of, also to beads hanging on the bedpost, placed there by his Catholic relatives. The man, "using very strong language," told her to remove these things, which she did, and was able also to outwit the designs of a priest who came to visit him while in the hospital. "But success has not yet fully crowned our efforts. It is hard to be faithful when those around you are trying to turn you from the truth, and it is doubly hard to be faithful when one lives in a Roman Catholic home."

The case of a young lady was referred to who was taken from a Roman Catholic home and placed in a Protestant home, where the influences were not of the best. She eventually returned to her Catholic affiliations and was perhaps lost forever to the truth, mainly, thought the speaker, on account of the bad influences of that Protestant home. "She was only a three-year old Christian, and if we had only an insight into the Gospel for three years, would be strong and faithful Christians?" Miss Clarke regarded this as a lesson to those Protestants who were not living a truly Christian life. If they themselves were not faithful to the truth, how could they expect Roman Catholic converts to remain true to it? She also considered that, instead of regretting the influx of French Catholic families into Ontario, to settle on the farms, "we should triumph in it, as an opportunity to carry the true Gospel of Christ to these benighted people who are brought by God to our very doors."

Foreign Children.

For the Conference which followed, on "How to Conduct Work Among Foreign Children," the president called to the platform five of the home missionary workers through Canada: Mrs. E. Lipinski, of Hamilton, Mrs. C. J. Cameron of Toronto, and the Misses Abbie Garbutt, of Saskatoon, Miss A. Phelps and Miss Florence Maybee, of Toronto. The value of Music Classes in the conduct of this work was explained by Miss Maybee, who does a great deal of work at Memorial Hall, Toronto. "Music has a great influence on the Slavic peoples," said Miss Maybee, comparing it in efficacy to the hospital work undertaken by the church in India. The speaker held up a rosary as an exhibit of the results attained by the use of music in the work, this having been presented to her by a little boy who is taking violin lessons at the Institute, who had broken it up as a proof of his recantation of his own religion. One of the pupils expelled from a Roman Catholic school had been taken in here and given music lessons, another young Polish girl, who formerly lived with undesirable companions, was being reclaimed with music, and, in many homes, where pianos had been installed by the workers, Roman Catholic images and pictures had been removed from the walls. "Music is one of the greatest assets in bringing in many families." One young girl came from the Bolshevists, who had employed her vocal talent to draw recruits to their ranks, and another young man connected with the work in Toronto, who had also been connected with the Catholics and the Bolshevists some years ago, was an enthusiastic teacher of music in the schools. This young man had unfortunately recently suffered from a stroke of paralysis.

With regard to Language Classes, Miss Maybee considered them of inestimable value in reaching the foreigner of Roman Catholic persuasion. It had been discovered that Polish Testaments were not considered by the priests as harmful for their Polish people. They were al-

An Assured Income for Life

HE was a thoughtful man, and an affectionate husband and father. His income ran about $6,000 per year. His insurance policies totalled $5,000.

"Suppose anything happened to you, how long do you suppose $5,000 would last us?"

His wife put the question gently. It was a difficult one to put.

"Five thousand dollars at the present rate of going would last this family just one year!" replied her husband.

"And then what?"

There was no answer, save thoughtful silence. But in that silence one thoughtful and affectionate man was converted to the idea of adequate insurance — insurance that would yield an income for life.

Monthly Income Insurance issued by the Mutual Life of Canada is the modern way of providing for those dependent on you. Monthly Income Insurance perpetuates your income after you have gone. Income Insurance assures your family a monthly allowance after your death. Income Insurance is based on the proved fact that it is safer to leave a fixed income than a "lump sum."

Our nearest agent will be glad to explain the Mutual Life Income plan of Insurance. Or write direct to this office for our folder, "A Policy Providing A Guaranteed Monthly Income."

STINNES SUPPORTS THE PEOPLE'S PARTY

Stinnes belongs to the German Peoples' party. In fact, he is its chief financial backer. He fills its campaign chest when an election is fought. And the right wing of the party is largely royalist. Germans who belong to the democratic parties which believe in republican institutions tell you Stinnes himself at heart is a monarchist. However that may be, he is too shrewd a business man to come out in the open for the king business so long as the republican wave lasts in Germany and so long as open espousal of royalty would throw him into conflict with his workmen.

The fact is the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung certainly watches its step. It confines itself largely to giving the news. If the news is colored to suit the interests of Stinnes, it is very cleverly done.

In a time when German papers are almost as small as those of France, because of the high cost of things, this great Stinnes sheet gives abundant proof of the full money coffers in back of it. It is the largest paper in Berlin and it spends much money on special telegraphic service in a period when the rate of foreign exchange against Germany makes cables from outside really worth their actual weight in gold.

I have been told that Stinnes owns at least one important paper in almost every considerable city of Germany and that only recently he closed a deal for two in Leipsic. Whenever such assertions appear in the German press, they are immediately denied by the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. This paper persists in saying that Stinnes owns only the three I have mentioned. Stinnes' secretary earnestly told me the same thing. To which other Germans reply that the ownership of the many other papers may not be in Stinnes name. But they say he controls them just the same. Sometimes they say a bank or a coal mining company or a big mill controls the paper. And Stinnes controls the bank or the mill or the mine.

In Austrian Journalism

He has also become an important factor in Austrian journalism, where only recently it was reported he had purchased the Elbe paper mills. This concern not only had three paper mills but four Vienna newspapers—the Extrablatt the Mittags Zeitung, the Winer Allgemeine Zeitung and the Sonn and Montags Zeitung. The Extrablatt is an illustrated paper with a large circulation and the Allgemeine Zeitung is a leading Bourse organ. So in Austria as in Germany, Stinnes now controls a leading business newspaper.

When a man owns a string of newspapers, it is natural that he should think about the sources of their news. In other words, he becomes interested in the press associations that supply news by telegraph. The first in which Stinnes invested money was the well-known Dammert bureau, which had three separate services: One for papers which support the German People's party; one for the papers which support the Democratic party; and lastly a service for papers free from political leanings. This bureau has now been merged with the Telegraph Union, in which Stinnes is also said to have invested money.

King of Ink and Paper

Having the wood and the coal and the paper and the newspapers, Stinnes has gone almost as far as it is possible in the newspaper business. But there are other outlets for print paper. There is, for instance, the book and pamphlet trade and also the general printing of leaflets, circulars, catalogues, bill heads, etc. So Stinnes formed a new concern under his own name and also bought two famous and old established companies—the North German Book and Printing Co., and the powerful Buxenstein Press, which itself controls a number of subordinate concerns.

The eminence attained by Stinnes is obvious. No man in Germany is in such a strategic position to influence public opinion upon corporation laws, taxation, tariff and other matters that interest big business. If he wants to he can concentrate a weight of printed matter —newspapers, pamphlets, books, magazines—such as never before has been at the disposal of one man in Germany.

It's no wonder that in newspaper circles they now call him the King of Ink and Paper.

A THOUGHT

That thou mayest walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous.—Proverbs 2:20.

We walk the path he has set for us, though we know not, day by day,
Whether the sun or shade will lie about us on our way;
But this we know, if we walk in shade, it is he who leads us there,
And he's all the nearer to us, we know, for our need of his special care. M. D. Brine.—

PRINCE FLASHES SCOUT CALL.

Boy Scouts of England got their annual message from the Prince of Wales by radio. It was the first time the scout call was made by this means. The Prince is shown, in scout uniform, broadcasting his call to the troops throughout the country.

Had Constipation For Six Months Was Relieved By MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

A free motion of the bowels daily, should be the rule of everyone, then there will be no constipation, sick or bilious spells, heartburn, foul breath, sour stomach, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, removing the constipation and all its allied troubles.

Mrs. R. C. Hunt, Port George, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled by being constipated for the last six months.

My tongue has been terribly coated, so much that it made my breath bad. I was talking to a friend about it, and she advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and now I am perfectly well. My tongue is as smooth as it was before I got that way, and I owe it all to your Pills, of which I only used two vials."

Radio News

HARTFORD, Conn.— Adoption of a single standard of time for the entire world is suggested by F. H. Schnell, traffic manager of the American Radio Relay League.

The purpose of this would be to simplify the recording of radio messages between distant parts of the earth and avoid confusion and error made possible by the present meridian time system.

Greenwich Mean Time is the standard which Schmell would have adopted universally. It divides the 360 degrees of the rotation of the earth into 24 periods or hours.

"Starting at Greenwich, Eng.," explains Schnell, "which is reckoned as 0 degrees and moving westward fr every 15 degrees longtitude the time is reckoned as one hour west of Greenwich. Thirty degrees is two hours west, 45 degrees three hours west, and so on."

Easy Figuring

With thillis as the only standard, it would be easy to calculate the time for universal purposes from the local time. The various standard and daylight saving times in the United States would be unnecessary and, in fact, cumbersome for universal calculation.

"More important is the adoption of a standard time of international recognition as we approach international amateur radio communication with European amateurs," says Schnell. "Greenwich Mean Time is known the world over and is the one standard of time recognized by every civilized country.

"In keeping a record of messages, G. M. T. would be invaluable for at least one reason. Suppose an amateur heard a signal from a great distance and suppose the transmitting station wished an absolute verification of the record. Just see what a simple matter it would be to compare the records of two or three dozen stations, all keeping the same standard of time.

"It would make no difference if the recording stations were located all over the face of the earth. The time would be the same. No effort would be wasted in converting the time of a given meridian to that of another. The only factor that would have to be kept straight would be the date, which we all do now."

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

At the smallest home wedding, the throwing of her bouquet, to be scrambled for by the members of her bridal party, is one of the features the American bride does not forget.

The German bride does dot throw her flowers, but one of her white satin bridal slippers. The significance, however is the same. Whoever is successful in catching the souvenir will be married soon.

The STORY of the BIBLE

By E. C. Brailsford

VII.—The First Printed Bible.

The attempt to produce a printed English Bible is a story of exile, persecution and smuggling.

As the manuscript English Bible reached its climax in the work of its last representative, John Wycliffe, so the printed Bible attained a sort of climax in the person of its first representative, William Tyndale, since he, more than any other man, left his impress upon all subsequent versions. Even in our modern versions large sections still remain substantially as in Tyndale's New Testament. The Authorized Version retains about nine-tenths of Tyndale's translation of 1 John and about five-sixths of his Epistle to the Ephesians, while similar proportions prevail in other parts.

By the beginning of the sixteenth century the Vulgate, the Hebrew Bible, and the Greek New Testament had all appeared in printed form, but there was still no Bible printed in English language.

As in previous epochal periods, however, a man was being prepared for this important task. This was William Tyndale, who was born in Gloucestershire in 1484, just one hundred years after Wycliffe died. He was thoroughly prepared at Oxford and Cambridge. In a controversy with a churchman he is said to have declared: "If God spare my life, ere many years I will cause a boy that driveth a plough shall know more of the Scriptures than thou dost."

After several attempts Tyndale saw that he could not accomplish his task in England, and fled to the continent. Even there he was pursued from place to place. At Cologne he seemed about to have his ambition gratified. As a result of a conspiracy, however, the work of printing which had begun was stopped. He then proceeded to Worms, where he finally succeeded in having his New Testament published in 1525.

From Worms the book was smuggled into England and was in great demand by the common people. The ecclesiastical authorities, however, bought and burned the books as fast as they could lay hands on them. But they did not realize that they were contending against the modern invention of printing. The money was used to print new and better editions.

Before Tyndale was put to death as a heretic in 1536, he had also translated a large part of the Old Testament. His dying prayer is said to have been, "Lord, open the King of England's eyes." He was the first Englishman to translate from the original Hebrew and Greek, the first to use marginal notes and the first to have the use of the printing press. Only a few copies of his Bible now remain, and these are mostly fragments.

KIDNEY TROUBLE?
The Kidneys are the Blood Filters—When they Weaken and Stop Up, the System Becomes Overloaded with Uric Acid

Niagara Falls, Ont.—"I have used nearly all of Dr. Pierce's medicines and take great pleasure in giving them a boost. The Anuric Tablets are the greatest benefit to mankind. I was suffering with kidney trouble and was rejected by different insurance companies. Today I am holding three good policies. All I ask the readers of this is to give the Anuric Tablets a trial, and become a life user in the future."—William Dempsey, 32 Bridge St.

HEALTH IS YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET

Montreal, Que.—"I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's Anuric enough for what it has done for me. For three months I was under the doctor's care and got no better. I was always complaining of my kidneys. Finally I made up my mind to try Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. I took two packages and don't complain any more. I have gained in weight and am still gaining. My appetite is great and sleep has come to me. That is what the Anuric Tablets have done for me. I truly recommend them to those who are suffering from kidney ailments the way I did. They are mighty good, though not expensive; easy to buy, but hard to beat."—T. A. Brown, 416 Dorchester St., W.

NEED OF THE DAY

lowed to read the Polish Testament, whereas a Testament in English would be immediately forbidden to them. At four schools in Toronto now, classes in the Polish language were being conducted. There were six Bolshevist schools and quite a few Catholic schools in the city of Toronto ,and it was an absolute necessity for Christians to strive to give these children Christianity and Christian teaching, whenever possible. Italian classes, also, were being conducted. One recent adherent was so enthusiastic over the advantages of these that he had come from his work at the barber shop directly to the classes several times without eating his meals.

Mrs. C. J. Cameron of Toronto, spoke in favor of the Daily Vacation Bible school and the Industrial Classes, saying that there was no difficulty whatever in getting children to come to these classes.

A question box on matters relating to the treasury followed. Queries were read as follows: (a) Shall we specialize and designate our funds? The opinion of the president was that funds should be left to the disposal of the Board. (b) Shall we send money direct to the missionaries? Speaking from the viewpoint of the missionary, Miss Maybee thought it better to send money directly to the treasury. Mrs. N. Mills, of London, for the Mission Bands, agreed with this view, as also did Mrs. E. J. Zavitz, of Toronto, speaking for the Board. (c) What is the Board's greatest need, financially? was answered again, "A need for undesignated funds."

Constitution Changes.

Several proposed changes in the wording of the Constitution came up for consideration at the afternoon session, the following changes being carried unanimously:

In Section 7 the word "six members" (of the Board) "shall constitute a quorum" shall be changed to read "nine members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business."

In Section 7 the words "At the next annual meeting" shall be omitted and the following words substituted, "in case of any vacancy occurring on the Board during the year, whether by death, resignation, or otherwise, such vacancy may be filled by the Board until the next annual meeting."

In Section 8 the words "Three members of the Executive shall constitute a quorum," shall be changed to read "Five members, etc."

The following by-law, which was recommended for adoption by the Board, was also carried:

"No one shall be nominated in open convention for officer or member of the Board who is not present at the time of nomination, unless it has been previously ascertained that such person is able and willing to assume office if elected."

Considerable discussion arose over a change in the wording of Article 10. The original motion of the Board was as follows:

"In the accordance with the motion made by Mrs. Albert Matthews at last convention, and carried "that the Board be asked to frame an article (in place of Article 10 in the Constitution) wording it so as to allow us consistently to do work in all parts of Canada without severing our relations with the General Board,' 'the Board at its May meeting adopted the following as its suggested change to be recommended to convention; that Article 10, which now reads: "This Society shall be auxiliary to the Baptist Home Missionary Board of Ontario and Quebec, with power to designate its own funds subject to the General Board's approval" (which article is inconsistent with Article 2 of the Constitution, which clearly states that the Society is to work "throughout the Dominion of Canada") be changed to read:

"This Society shall work as far as practicable in co-operation with the Baptist Home Mission Board of Ontario, the Grand Ligne Mission Board and the Regular Baptist Boards or organizations of the Eastern and Western Provinces of Canada, with power to designate its own funds when so doing."

Mrs. Albert Matthews of Toronto, thought it inadvisable to eliminate the phrases "this society shall be auxiliary to the Baptist Home Mission Board of Ontario and Quebec," and the words "subject to the General Board's approval," and made an amendment which worded the change as follows:

"This Society shall be auxiliary to the General Baptist Home Mission Boardof Ontario and Quebec, with power to designate its own funds, subject to the approval of the General Board, and may work in co-operation with and with the approval of, the Grand Ligne Mission Board and the Regular Baptist Boards or organizations of the Eastern and Western provinces of Canada."

This resolution, which was seconded by Mrs. George Pearce, of Waterford, met with considerable opposition, but was finally carried. A further amendment by Mrs. C. J. Cameron, of Toronto, that the whole matter be left over for consideration for the time being was lost, on a vote being taken.

Miss Violet Elliott, of Toronto, seconded by Mrs. F. H. Bigwood of Toronto, then offered a resolution, which carried, to the effect that the Board make immediate provision for a complete revision of the Constitution, the matter to be reported on at the next convention.

Feature Addresses.

Last evening's session of the convention was featured by addresses from two of the home missionary workers. Mrs. E. Lipinski of Hamilton, and Miss Abbit Garbutt, of Saskatoon. Mrs. Lipinski, who is a small Bohemian woman, the first Baptist baby born in Bohemia, where her father was the first Baptist minister, was dressed in a Polish national costume, with bright red skirt, white apron and blouse and tight black, laced jacket. Her address was made interesting by her extreme earnestness and her foreign accent. Mrs. Lipinski related the story of a young Polish girl who came to America and became a convert to the Baptist persuasion. Returning to her own home and people in Poland for a visit, with a desire to make them converts also, she was met by a cold and harsh reception. Finally, however, after many trials, her mother also became a convert, and the girl returned to her American home and friends. Mrs. Lipinski referred to the darkness in which the Polish people dwell, and spoke in feeling terms of the Catholic Bishop who was discovered to be teaching the Bible to his people. The Pope immediately put his curse upon the Bishop, she said, and ordered him out of the church.

Mrs. Lipinski referred to the work of herself and husband in Hamilton, where they came last year to evangelize the Polish Catholic people. It was slow work, and very difficult at times ,but little by little, they were making headway. She compared the getting of the children to catching mice in a trap, and said that the sewing and industrial classes were excellent means of getting these children into the trap. She asked for prayers for the Polish paper now being edited by Baptist authorities, which would do much good work among the Polish people, and concluded with an appeal for money and presents for distribution among the converts at Christmas time.

Enthusiastic applause greeted the vocal efforts of Mrs. Lipinski and Miss F. Maybee, who sang together in Polish, responding with the Polish rendition of the hymn, "Jesus Loves Me."

Miss Abbie Garbutt, a missionary in Saskatchewan, related some of her experiences in the western work, among the Russians and Ukrainians. Going first to a rural district near Canora, Miss Garbutt removed later to Saskatoon. She referred to the efforts of the Roman Catholic clergy in the west to bring these people into their communion, and regarded it as the duty of every Christian to bring Christ to these foreigners and save them from sin to salvation. "Christianization, rather than Canadianization," should be the aim and object of every devout follower of the truth.

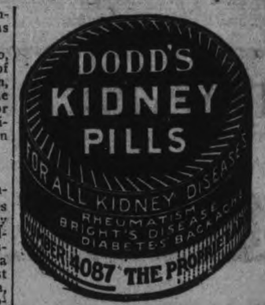
Miss Garbutt conducts Saturday industrial classes, and holds classes for Ukrainian school girls on Thursday evenings. She also does a great deal of home visiting and distributes quantities of tracts among the foreigners. She described her attendance at two Baptist Russion-Ukrainian conferences, where the whole meeting leads up to the final dramatic appeal to the unsaved is made, and "tides of emotion sweep over the congregation." The Russian custom of the holy kiss was mentioned. On one occasion, a session until 2 o'clock in the morning was held at one of these conferences, on account of inclement weather which prevented home-going, and the time was spent in singing hymns and testifying. Miss Garbutt also described an occasion when 11 candidates received baptism in one of the small lakes near Saskatoon, afterwards partaking of communion surrounded by curious onlookers.

Teachers Required.

Christian school teachers for the rural districts in the west were an immediate requirement, the speaker said ,and funds for the further education in the work of evangelizing of several converts already made among the people, who were ready and willing, if funds were available, to prepare themselves for the work of helping amongst their own kind.

The choir was in attendance last evening, singing several hymns. Miss Sanderson played as a voluntary a beautiful setting of Mr. Huycke's "Bluebird's Song" from "The Message of the Bluebird."

The convention concluded to-day with morning and afternoon meetings of the Foreign and Home Mission Bands. Joint luncheon to the two boards was served in the church by the Ladies of Murray street Baptist church.



WELCOME RUFFLES!

Ruffles are back again—exactly where they should be—on youthful fashions. Stiff quaint organdie ruffles, perky taffeta ruffles, soft sheer georgette ruffles — choose whichever you like and then use rows of them.

The sleeve, if there is any, should be ruffled, the skirt, if it is paneled, should be ruffled—then the whole effect is delightfully frivolous. These styles are very becoming to a slim figure, transforming the straightline style into curves.

FANCY BAGS

Fancy bags for evening are made in round puffy styles and fashioned of colored seashells mounted on silk puffings.

KNITTED CAPES

Knitted capes for tiny children from 2 to 5 are very swagger and are extensively shown in all shades and weaves.

TAILORED FROCKS

The strictly tailored frock has almost been left out of consideration by the French designers. Practically every frock Paris sends over has little feminine touches that relieve all suggestion of plainness.

LOVELY FAN

A very lovely fan is made of white net bound with black beads and embellished with black embroidered dots in graduated sizes.

BLUE AND WHITE

A sweater coat of ivory-white silk has a border embroidered in delft blue and very short sleeves which just escape the shoulders.

It is about time for them to put on their woolen beads.

RADIO NEWS

The world is getting wiser, due to radio.

Never before in the history of the world has knowledge been disseminated so widely and bits of information picked up so fast.

Universities have adopted the radio phone as a means of spreading their educational facilties. Lectures are being sent out daily from all parts of the country to all who care to listen in. Music, both jazzy and classic, is being broadcast. Bedtime talks for children, health hints, book reviews, plays and, in fact, any subjects that lend themselves easily to broadcasting are being delivered to the people with radio sets without cost.

It is the greatest era of free learning the world has ever experienced.

Geography

Even beyond the education spread directly through the radio microphone there are means of helping the radio fan and his friends increase their worldly knowledge. There is, for instance, geography.

Geography cannot be broadcast by radiophone because maps are needed. But radio fans have learned more of the geography of their country through the radiophone than they have ever accumulated heretofore. They know locations, they know distances and they can tell directions of points from their own stations. By constant reference to the map of the United States they could draw an outline of the country from memory.

This knowledge is gained through curiosity and the instinct of contest among the fans. Thus a radio fan in Minneapolis finds himself tuned in on broadcasting station WJZ. Looking up his list he finds WJZ is at Newark, N.J. Out of curiosity he takes his map and measures the distance from Minneapolis to Newark and makes a note of it.

The record becomes a factor in his endeavor to show the highest distance covered in radio reception. This contest is going on at present in all parts of the United States. In fact radio amateurs are trying to gain the honor of receiving messages from Europe and other continents.

A Thought

All the saints salute you.—Philippians 4:22.

For all the saints, who from their labors rest,
Who Thee by faith before the world confess,
They name, O Father, be forever blest. Allelujah.

There IS a Difference in Gasoline

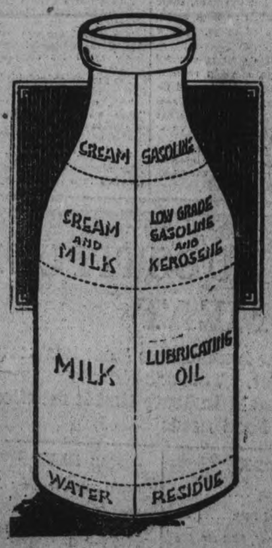
Are yor using gasoline containing coal oil?

Are you constantly having carbon taken out of your motor?

Are your Spark plugs coated with carbon?

Do you have carbon knocks in your motor?

If your motor has any of these symptoms then you will be interested in overcoming them by using the Best Gasoline—



White Rose Gasoline

Refining Gasoline from crude oil is a separation process, and can be likened to that of skimming cream from milk.

Skim the top layer from milk and you have pure cream.

Dip a little farther and you get cream and milk. Below this, milk only. If the bottle of milk stands long enough you will have some water in the bottom of the bottle.

If, in our process of separation, we dipped a little further, as one would dip farther into a milk bottle for cream, getting both cream and milk, in gasoline refining we would get coal oil and gasoline.

"WHITE ROSE" can be likened to the "cream" of crude oil. It starts easily at all times. It is high-grade, "Scientifically Refined" Gasoline that contains no impurities to retard the action of the carburetor in vaporizing—that responds immediately to the spark. The fire is instantaneous; the discharge is elastic; the force is compelling—and this means a smooth running motor; it means full, even power and economy. WHITE ROSE GASOLINE ensures a smoother running motor. You will have no unnecessary motor repair bills. You will operate your car more economically.

38c GALLON

When you change to "WHITE ROSE GASOLINE," you can cut down your carburetor to give a little leaner mixture, "WHITE ROSE," because of its uniform high quality, absence of impurities, and full power, will give you greater mileage at lower cost.

THE PRINCIPALS ARRIVE HERE FOR THE SHOW TO-NIGHT

Mr. Lionel Braham Was In Peterboro' Twelve Years Ago — Miss Virginia Howell Likes Canada.

The stage at the Grand Opera House this afternoon was thronged with busy workers, getting ready for the presentation of the mammoth spectacle, "Chu Chin Chow," this evening.

Downstairs the litle dressng-rooms and corridors were filled with members of the company, both masculine and feminine, arranging their belongings.

In the star's dressing-room, Miss Virginia Howell, a bright, dark-skinned lady, tall and athletic-looking, was superintending the disposal of several large steamer trunks. Miss Howell has the only dramatic feminine role in the production, that of Zahrat. This is her second season with "Chu Chin Chow," both years having been spent on this continent. An English girl, she has played with many of the noted actors, with Mrs. Fiske, John Drew, and Otis Skinner, and had one of the principal roles in "Ben-Hur."

Speaking of the run of the play at His Majesty's Theatre in London, she remarked on having flown from Paris to London to see the last presentation of it at that theatre.

She spent this summer in a tour of the Orient, visiting Greece, passing through Constantinople and Smyrna just prior to the outbreak of hostilities there, spending two weeks on the Isle of Corfu and much time in France, and making a stay in the Syrian desert. Her wardrobe trunk contained souvenirs of this visit in the form of a native desert costume, complete with spangled headdress.

Miss Howell likes Canada. She has often played through the Dominion, and has many friends here.

Lionel Braham.

Over at the Empress Hotel, the principal male actors were taking things more easily, as is the masculine fashion. Mr. Lionel Braham, a large man with fine eyes and a mass of hair, talked pleasantly in his soft English voice. Mr. Braham plays the title role in this show, to which he came back, "to the first love," after a two years' playing in "Mecca" in New York and other American cities. Mr. Braham was in Peterborough twelve years ago, in repertoire with Lawrence Irving, that son of the great Sir Henry, who lost his life on the Empress of Ireland.

"This show was the great war show, you know," he said, "most of the boys saw it during its five years' run in London and they loved it, because it was so unlike their life at that time. It took them away from memories of the trenches."

A sort of glorified pantomime, was Mr. Braham's description of "Chu Chin Chow." He and Mr. D. W. Ferrando, a young man of pleasant manners, dark hair, and dark eyes, in a suit of grey English tweed, who plays the part of Ali Baba in the production, had an experience yesterday in Belleville during their walk out "to see the town," when Mr. Ferrando, who was described by Mr. Braham as a clever musician, singer, dancer, and linguist, disclosed another talent. A collision between a farm waggon and a buggy on a narrow bridge resulted in some slight injuries to the driver of the buggy, a farmer's wife, and to the owner of the waggon, who proved to be a deaf mute. It was impossible for the bystanders to obtain any information from him as to the extent of his injuries until Mr. Ferrando came along, and commenced to talk to him in the deaf and dumb sign language, which was further complicated by the fact that the man was French.

"And the funny part of it was," said Mr. Ferrando, "there wasn't a policeman in sight until the thing was all over—when one came along and wanted to know what all the trouble was."

Baby Swallowed an Open Safety Pin — And Then, While the Astonishing Infant Was Wide Awake and Cackling, Doctors Lowered An Electric Light and Grappling Tools Down Baby's Throat, Anchored and Closed the Safety Pin and----Up It Came

The Remarkable X-Ray Photograph of Baby Mac Asbill, Clearly Showing the Open Safety Pin Wedged as Seen, Deep in the Internal Organs of the Little One.

Sectional Diagram Showing How Dr. Buff Caught and Actually Closed the Safety Pin Before Removing It from the Baby's Throat. The Arrow Indicates Where the Sharp Point of the Pin Had Lodged Against the Wall of the Throat

BABY MAC ASBILL, six months old, swallowed a safety pin at six o'clock in the morning at the Asbill home in Atlanta, Ga.

At nine o'clock X-ray photographs showed the pin in the baby's stomach, OPEN, so that the sharp point stuck up toward the throat.

Twelve hours later Dr. J. H. Buff closed the pin WHILE IT WAS STILL IN THE BABY'S STOMACH and drew it out through the throat and mouth.

Not a drop of blood was shed. The baby's skin wasn't pricked. The child is perfectly well to-day. Yet, until Dr. Buff appeared, other physicians had despaired of saving Baby Mac's life.

How did Dr. Buff perform the magic operation? How did he close the pin inside the baby without cutting open the baby? Did he use instruments so technical they defy ordinary description?

Not at all. Dr. Buff used a tiny pair of pincers, two wire loops on the end of two long wires, and an electroscope, which is nothing but a small electric bulb on the end of a wire.

That was all. But his feat is considered remarkable by the medical world. Exactly how he accomplished it is told on this page.

Babies have swallowed safety pins before. They have swallowed many things. Cases are known of swallowed needles, pins, cuff buttons, thumb tacks, pennies and even iron jackstones. Sometimes these objects are removed successfully and painlessly. Sometimes the baby dies.

But, except for the case of Baby Mac Asbill, there is said to be no other case of a child swallowing an open safety pin —or a safety pin that came open in the stomach—and the pin being then removed.

Mrs. Asbill, the mother of Baby Mac, doesn't know how he came to swallow the pin. It is considered almost as remarkable for the child to get the open pin into his stomach as for the doctor to get it out.

Mrs. Asbill had given the baby milk from a bottle at six o'clock and put him back to bed in his cradle. With a safety pin she fastened the bed covering about him. Then she left the room.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Asbill heard the baby scream. She ran to him and picked him up. The baby stopped crying. But when Mrs. Asbill stooped to rearrange the bedding she found the safety pin was gone. She searched the cradle. She searched the floor. She searched all over the room. The safety pin had absolutely disappeared.

Mrs. Asbill, her heart beating fast, looked at Baby Mac. Could he have swallowed the pin? Was it in him now? It didn't seem possible. For he no longer cried. He crowed. He appeared chubby, happy and healthy. Yet—the baby had screamed; and—the pin was gone.

Mrs. Asbill telephoned her family physician. When he called, he advised an X-ray examination. That, he said, is the first and best thing to do when babies cry without apparent cause, because babies swallow so many things. They are almost like young ostriches.

The X-ray pictures were made. And, sure enough, the photograph showed the missing safety pin in Baby Mac's stomach. But, to the alarm of the doctor, the pin was open!

The picture showed it had lodged just beyond the point where the throat starts upward from the stomach. The butt-end of the safety pin pointed down, the safety catch and the sharp point, released from the catch, pointed up.

Specialists held a consultation. If they tried to pull out the open pin through the throat, they would tear the lining of the stomach before they had moved it the sixteenth of an inch. If they performed a surgical operation, they would have to cut through the ribs and possibly the lungs. This probably would be fatal to a six months old child.

The specialists were baffled. They decided the best thing to do would be to do nothing. At least, for a while. They hoped the pin might pass through the stomach naturally without any injury.

Baby Mac was sent home. He appeared the least worried of anybody. All the morning he laughed and curled his toes when he wasn't asleep. Mrs. Asbill stayed at his side. She watched him anxiously. She couldn't forget the picture of that deadly pin lying in little Mac's stomach.

At three o'clock in the afternoon Baby Mac began to cry. It wasn't his feeding time. There was no reason for this fretfulness. Mrs. Asbill telephoned her husband. Mr. Asbill decided more X-rays should be taken to show if the position of the pin was changed. Off went Baby Mac to the hospital again.

The position of the pin was changed. The butt-end still pointed down, the safety catch and the point still pointed up. But the pin had, so to speak, turned on its side and advanced a short distance into the throat. The fact that the pin went up instead of down was attributed to a fit of coughing by the baby.

The second position of the pin looked more dangerous than the first. Doctors held another consultation. The best specialists in the city were there. They decided there was no chance now of the pin passing through the stomach. Nor did it seem possible for it to come up through the throat. The point was almost embedded in the lining already. And they were still sure that a surgical operation would be fatal.

Dr. Buff, a young throat specialist, was telephoned. Another conference was arranged for eight o'clock that night. Baby Mac went to sleep at five o'clock and slept till nine o'clock.

At eight o'clock Dr. Buff walked into the hospital, looked at the X-ray pictures, and said he could get the safety pin out. He went up to the operating room and was busy there until nine-thirty o'clock making the instruments he needed. This was what he did:

1. He took a pair of pincers tiny enough to slip down the baby's throat. To one handle of the pincers he attached a rope of slender wire. With this he would lower the pincers into the stomach. The jaws of the pincers would be open, ready to clamp on the pin. The wire rope, the upper end in the doctor's fingers, would keep the pincers from slipping past the pin and also draw out the pin after the pincers gripped it.

2. How would he clamp the pincers on the pin? He took another wire rope and made a loop in the lower end of it. He would have the loop of this rope loosely around the handle of the pincers when he lowered them. The upper end of this rope he would also have in his fingers. When the pincers were in position to clamp the pin he would pull on the second rope. This would tighten the loop on the handle of the pincers, and the tightening of the handle would close the jaws of the pincers on the pin.

3. How would he close the point of the pin? He took a third wire rope exactly like the second, with a loop on the lower end. When he had gripped the pin with the pincers, he planned to lower this second rope into the stomach, slip its loop over the butt-end of the pin, and draw it up, the loop tightening the open point until it closed under the safety catch.

4. Last, the doctor took an electroscope to see by. He would lower this down the baby's throat by still another wire rope.

When Dr. Buff was ready, the baby was taken to the operating room. Attendants had ether ready to give the baby, but Dr. Buff refused to use it.

"This baby is going to get well," he said, "and he has a better chance if we don't give him ether, so we will go ahead as we are."

The baby's head and arms were held. The doctor fixed one end of the wire holding the electric light around his head, then lowered the light down the baby's throat. He could see the pin gleaming just beyond the entrance of the throat in the stomach.

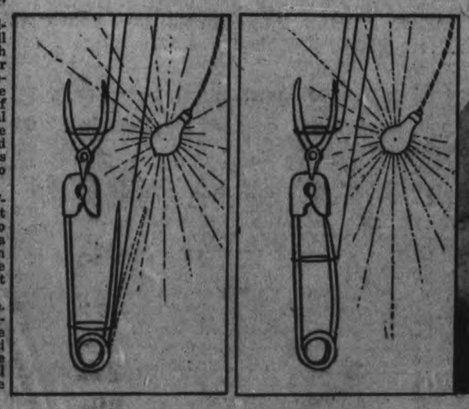
In his right hand the doctor took the rope holding the pincers. In his left hand he took the rope holding the noose around the handle of the pincers. He let both ropes down the baby's throat. When the open jaws of the pincers were on either side of the upper end of the pin —the safety catch—he slowly pulled the noose tight about the handle of the pincers until the jaws of the pincers were fastened tight on the pin. Then he shifted both these ropes to one hand. He had the pin ready to draw out when he had closed the point.

With his free hand he lowered his third wire rope with its loop on the end. He lowered it past the pin. He slipped the loop skillfully over the butt-end of the pin. He drew it up, tightening the deadly point. The point began to close—slowly, slowly. Suddenly the point clicked under the safety catch.

The doctor drew a sudden breath and pulled on the pincers. And out they came, holding the closed pin between the clamped jaws!

Baby Mac was saved.

This Diagram Shows How Dr. Buff Anchored the Elusive Safety Pin With a Tiny Pair of Pincers and Then Proceeded to Close the Pin With a Looped Wire.



By Carefully Raising the Loop, the Sharp-Pointed Arm of the Pin Was Slipped Into Place in the Safety Catch After Which the Pin Was Withdrawn Without Danger.

Dunkerly and His Backers Too Much For Lawn Bowler Cohorts.

The Firemen and Lawn Bowlers clashed in a weird game of ball last night at the Armouries, the score being 26 to 10. The game developed into a comedy of errors on the part of the Lawn Bowlers and a fattening of batting averages for the Firemen.

Chief Gimblett and his hardy men decided to take no chances on this game so Dunkerly their crack curve ball artists was sent in to do the slab work. Dunkerly had nine strikeouts and allowed nine hits.

Horseshoe Pitching Gains in Favor

Horseshoe pitching is developing into an all-year major sport.

In the north it goes big during the the summer months. In the south it holds sway from November until May.

St. Petersburg, Fla., which stages a national tournament each year, will soon have the finest horseshoe pitching courts in the world.

Forty-eight "barnyard golf" lanes are being laid out in Waterfront Park, situated on the shores of Tampa Bay. Giant palms have been planted alongside the courts, which will serve as a protection against the sub-tropical mid-winter sun.

St. Petersburg is spending $10,000 in laying out the new playgrounds for its winter visitors. A club-house of oriental design is being erected for the use of the horseshoe devotees.

The lanes are 40 feet in length and the pegs are Ford axles buried in concrete blocks and sunk in to the ground. Eight inches of the peg protrude above the sand.

Jame T. Flower, vice president of the National Association of Horseshoe pitchers, is due here from Akron, O., early in November to take charge of the preliminary arrangements for the fifth annual national tournament scheduled for the week of Feb. 22.

Prizes to be awarded winners in the meet will be well over the $5,000 mark.

TIGERS SHOW WESTERNERS ARE NOT ONLY GRID FIGHTERS

Princeton's Great Fight to Victory Against Heavy Odds in Game With Chicago Restored Prestige of the East in Football.

(By Billy Evans)

The spirt of Princeton has restored some of the east's waning prestige in football.

The fight, fight, fight of the Princeton Varsity against seeming hopeless odds in the game with Chicago had its reward.

Outweighed, outplayed, and outlucked for three periods, apparently beaten 18 to 7, the Tigers came from behind in the final session of play to a 21 to 18 triumph.

In the 20 years I have been following college football I never saw a more sensational game than that waged between Princeton and Chicago.

I have seen better football, there was some bad stuff in the Princeton-Chicago affair, but for thrill after thrill no game has ever surpassed it.

Princeton Never Quits.

Princeton may be beaten by both Yale and Harvard, but if such a thing happens it will not be due to the lack of courage or spirit.

I seriously doubt if any team ever battled on to victory under more adverse conditions than did Princeton in the Chicago game. Briefly, here is how the breaks went against the Tigers until almost the close of the game.

After Chicago had quickly scored a touchdown in the first few minutes of play it became evident to the Tigers that the Chicago line was too strong, and that it would be necessary to open up in an effort to score.

Near the close of the first period a 45-yard pass, Cleaves to Gray, put the ball on the seven-yard line. The period ended with the ball on the four-yard line. Two plays sent it over at the start of the second period. Princeton had come from behind and was leading 7 to 6.

Tough Break for Tigers.

A few minutes later Princeton, with the ball in its possession on its own 30 yard line was forced to kick. Coach Bill Roper rushed Van Gerbig, the Tigers crack punter, into the game to kick out of danger.

Instead of kicking out of danger, Van Gerbig had his punt blocked, and the ball went out of bounds almost at the point from which he was kicking. In five plays Chicago went over for a second touchdown.

With the score 12 to 7 against Princeton, the Tigers were again up against it.

Twice before the close of the second period the Tigers worked the ball to within scoring distance. First to the 11-yard line, where Chicago held and a try for goal was blocked. Second to the 16-yard line, where Beattie fumbled and Chicago recovered.

Two tough breaks like that would have robbed many an eleven of its fight, but not Princeton.

Lost Ball by Inches.

At the opening of the third period Princeton carried the ball to the Chicago 12-yard line, where it was lost by inches after the Tigers had completed a thrilling forward pass.

A few minutes later an exchange of kicks had the ball resting on the Princeton 28-yard line. A penalty brought to the 8-yard line. Forced to punt, Cleaves kicked poorly, and it was Chicago's ball on Princeton's 29-yard line. On five plays Chicago scored a third touchdown.

With Chicago leading, 18 to 7, and only 12 minutes to play, the cause of Princeton seemed hopelessly lost. Three times the Tigers had gotten within the Chicago 15-yard line, but lacked the punch.

Then came the first break of the game for Princeton, a bad pass and a fumble by Zorn. End Gray of Princeton recovered the ball on Chicago's 40-yard line, and raced for a touchdown.

That break inspired Princeton. Within a few minutes two completed forward passes, a penalty for holding, also one for offside, and Princeton had scored another touchdown and was leading 21 to 18. A miracle had been performed.

Now for the climax to the Princeton spirit. Chicago, playing desperately, carried the ball from its own 15-yard line to the Tiger 1-yard line, where it was lost on downs, and the game was over.

Chicago certainly looked like the stronger team, yet the resourcefulness and fight of Princeton triumphed. It was a typical Princeton comeback.

OSHAWA WILL MEET P.C.I. ON SATURDAY.

The rugby game Saturday morning between the Peterborough Collegiate and Oshawa High School, winners of their respective groups, is causing great excitement in local rugby circles. The locals have been practicising steadily and are in great condition. The good work of the back line so manifest in the games with Lindsay will be better, because Legon last year's star will be in the game. The P.C.I. boys are determined to win and every one should be out there cheering for them.

Here and There in Sportdom

A central Ontario section of four teams comprising Queen's University, Belleville Y.M.C.A., Cobourg Y.M.C.A. and Peterborough Y.M.C.A. is suggested for the Intermediate series of the Ontario Basketball Association. The annual meeting will be held in Toronto on Saturday. The only drawback to this proposal is the long expensive road trips which constitute a big problem for the teams. Two years ago, when Peterborough won Intermediate honors, the Central Ontario group furnished a splendid bill of basketball.

Softball is making a tremendous headway in this city, and a large number of young men who are cooped up in offices and factories six days in the week, are finding healthful recreation by participating in the indoor game. The members of the fire department, too, are having a big time. With Chief Gimblett showing them the way, the firefighters are making a fine showing in their division. Alex Kay and Ed. LeBarr are doing a lot of umpiring.

Peterborough will have only one Junior team in the O.H.A. this coming winter, and that team will be under the wing of the athletic association. The way appears to be clear for a winning squad.

Football

The C.G.E. juniors will play the Woolen juniors at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. Kick-off at 1:30. Referee, S. Calladine.

The C.P.C. juniors will play the Comrades at the Oval on Saturday afternoon. Kick off at 1:30. Referee McKitchen. A great deal depends upon the result of this game. If the C.P.C. wins they will play off on November 18 with the DeLaval to decided which team shall hold the Yeotes cup for the year.

The C.P.C. will be at full strength and the following players are asked to be on hand at 1:15: Davidson, Curtis, Downer, F. Ball, Anderson, T. Ball, Mitchel, Killenbeck, Haw, Chambers, Edwards, Bradley, Wilgar and Lynch.

LIVELY BALL HAS MADE NEW STYLE

President Heydler of the National League Says Lively Ball Supplies the Punch.

What about the lively ball that has caused all home-run records to be knocked to smithereens in the last three years?

President John Heydler of the National League recently came to the defense of the lively ball, saying that it supplied the much needed punch of the game, hitting.

For a time the moguls of baseball ridiculed the idea that the new ball was livelier that those used five years back. That has all been settled. At the recent world series one of the officials of the factory that manufactures all the cork-center balls used in the majors, said "The ball now in use is a lively ball because it is the best ball that we have ever made. I am positive it is the popular ball. It must be admitted that it created a new era in sport, long-distance hitting. Also remember that during the last four years all attendance records have been broken, which makes it seem that the public is in favor of hard hitting."

ARMISTICE DAY.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.— (Canadian Press.) — Government departments in the capital will close shortly after ten o'clock on Saturday (Armistice Day) and remain closed until the conclusion of the special service which will be held on Parliament Hill. A special request that the two minute silence be observed has been made.

JAPS MILITARY AND NAVAL PLANS WANE

TOYKO, Nov. 10.— (Canadian Press)—Naval and military preparations in Japan appear to be definitely on the wane, the new decline being influenced by economic conditions as much as by anything else.

The great Yokosuka naval dockyard dismissed 3,000 workers in October, and 3,000 more will be dropped from the payroll in March, although the government is making an allowance for them in the form of employment insurance. It is announced that 5,000 men will be dismissed from work in the army arsenal next spring.

Unemployment in Japan is now about 10 percent of the normally working population, and it is expected that at least half of those thrown out of work by the closing down of the naval and military programmes will be absorbed by the farms.

RIGHT END GRAY THE TIGER HERO

His Brilliant Work Was Responsible For Princeton's Victory Over Chicago.

Just at present the most talked about young man at Princton is Right End Gray, of the varsity football team.

Gray, by his brilliant work in the game with Chicago, has won the right to have his name inscribed on the Princeton roll of honor.

Never in all its history did a Princeton football team want to win a game more than the clash with Chicago. I do not expect any of the annual clashes with Yale and Harvard.

Last fall Princeton had been more or less disgraced in the eyes of the football experts by a 9 to 0 defeat at the hands of Chicago.

Princeton wanted to wipe that affair off the slate. A victory was necessary. In addition, a new agreement between Yale, Harvard and Princeton eliminated all future western trips. Princeton wanted to sever Chicago relations with a victory over Stagg's team.

No player on the Princeton eleven played a more prominent part in fulfilling the wishes of Coach Bill Roper than Right End Gray.

Near the close of the first period, Cleaves of Princeton hurled a beautiful 45-yard pass toward the Chicago goal. Gray made as beautiful a catch. He was downed on Chicago's seven-yard line. Four plays put the ball over. Cleaves to Gray made possible the first Tiger score and put Princeton out in front, 7 to 6.

In the third period Gray blocked a Chicago kick on the Chicago 34-yard line and recovered the kick on the 22-yard line. This great play gave Princeton another great chance to score, which was lost when a forward pass failed by inches of making its first down for Princeton on Chicago's 12-yard line.

With the score standing 18 to 7 against Princeton and the Tigers seemingly out of it, Gray recovered a fumble on the Chicago's 45-yard line.

Two Chicago players were only a few feet away when Gray recovered the ball. Instead of falling on the ball and playing it safe, he scooped the pigskin up in true Sam White style, handling it like a baseball and running the rest of the distance for a touchdown.

Gray of Princeton was surely the outstanding figure in the Chicago game. His name will furnish football gossip on the Princeton campus for weeks, yes years to come.

BLACK CANNOT FIGHT A WHITE

British Authorities Stop Contemplated Beckett-Siki Contest.

LONDON, Nov. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Authorities state that the Siki-Beckett bout will not be allowed in either that auditorium or "any other place in the United Kingdom," holding the view that "in contests between men of color and white men, the temperaments of the contestants are not comparable, and moreover, all sorts of passions are aroused."

The Home Office takes the further view that there is such a large number of colored men in the British Empire that "such contests are considered against national interests, and they tend to arouse passion which it is inadvisable to stimulate."

As a precedent, officials point to the action of the Crown's law officers in 1911, when they intervened in a contemplated match between Jack Johnson and Bombardier Wells.

TORONTO TEAM HERE TOMORROW

Intermediate O. R. F. U. Game at Riverside Park

Much interest is being shown in the intermediate O.R.F.U. game at Riverside Park to-morrow when the fast Stratheonas of Toronto will clash with Dick Sheehy's Peterboro team. The visitors come with a great reputation but the Petes are not worrying any on that account, for they have been working hard and are in good shape for the clash. The kick off will be at 2.30 o'clock, and the game will be in charge of Referee Davis of Toronto.

Although the Peterboro team has not been definitely decided upon, the line up will be something like this.

Flying wing, E. Sheehy.
Halves, McLeod, Jobbitt, M. Sheehy.
Quarter, Brooks.
Snap, Batten.
Inside wings, G. Rutherford, Turnbull; middle wings, Hickey, Stuart; outside wings, J. Rutherford, Hamilton.

The subs. will include Pogue, Sloss, Huff, Young, Richardson and Anderson.

Rugby fans should turn out in large numbers to encourage the local crew in their O.R.F.U. debut. It should be a good exhibition of Rugby all the way.

REGENT—Marie Prevost in a "Her Night of Nights", Geo. Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa."

Capitol Entertainment

A dramatization of one of Cynthia Stockley's novels has resulted in a glittering photo-play entitled "Pink Gods", playing at the Capitol Theatre now. It is an unusual and spectacular picture, with a logical ending to a drama of wealth and passion. With the atmosphere of the African veldt in its scenes, with the elements of a luxury-craving beautiful woman and a diamond king, it lacks nothing of interest and romance, but an unlooked-for ending gives it the proper touch of realism. Bebe Daniels has the part of the young wife who is partially hypnotized by the lure of precious stones, and there is a striking interval where she views a mound of glittering gems and where her abilities as a dramatic actress manifest themselves. The peculiar theme weaves about this infatuation of hers and the ability of John Quelch, the diamond king, to gratify it. But John Quelch loves another woman, the beautiful Margot, and complications ensue.

The scenes from the diamond mine where the theft of a large stone leads to swift retribution from the cruel owner, the operations performed upon the Kafir workmen when they fall victims to the lure of the blazing stones, the beauty and charm of the African scenery, are all contained in a picture that holds the interests with its novel theme and treatment.

There is a good comedy, depicting the trials of an amateur waiter, and the usual collection of entertaining short reels.

AT THE REGENT.

"HER NIGHT OF NIGHTS" FEATURE NEW FASHIONS

Fashions withheld from New York and Paris for three months are shown in a style display in "Her Night of Nights", a Universal attraction in which Marie Prevost will star at the Regent Theatre, on Nov. 9, 10, and 11th.

Peggy Hamilton, "the Lady Duff Gordon of America", who dictates the styles not only of the exclusive society set of Southern California but of many cities of the English speaking world, staged an elaborate revue in the filming of "Her Night of Nights", which was directed by Hobart Henley.

Peggy Hamilton's styles are always exotic, never bound by any fashion restraints. One of the features of the style show in the picture is a gown of batik in bizarre effects, which it is predicted will awaken unprecedented interest in Parisian circles when it is allowed to be shown here.

Lawyer to witness: "Did you say that an incompetent man could keep an hotel as well as anybody?"

Witness: "No; I said an inn-experienced man could."

Jimmy: "My medicine isn't so nasty as it used to be, mother. I think it must be that I'm getting used to it."

Mother: "Do you take a whole dessertspoonful after each meal?"

Jimmy: "No, mother. I couldn't find a spoon, so I've been using a fork."

When touring in strange cities notice drivers and "follow the leader."

RUSHING BATTLESHIPS.

ROME, Nov. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Italy is rushing three battleships to the Levant to reinforce the Battleship Archimede, now at Constantinople, and protect Italian interests.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at home Its cheap—but you Can't Beat it

If you wan to take care of that bad hang on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Parmint (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so surely and quickly on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It halts the inflammation, the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membrane, free from irritation and mucus follows.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus droppings, clogged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint —ask for Parmint (double strength). Speak plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want.

THE STOCK MARKET

By Stuart P. West.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — Uncertainty was the chief characteristic in all the markets to-day. It showed itself alike in stocks, in bonds, in cotton, in the foreign exchanges. Trading on the Stock Exchange fell off rather sharply in volume. Price changes were extremely irregular. In bonds there was less activity and prices were as near stationary as they can ever be. This was true of Liberties and most corporate issues. It was significant though that French and Belgian government issues showed no inclination to rally.

The continued heaviness in European government loans fitted in with the fresh downward trend in the exchanges which was especially marked in the case of French and Belgian francs. Both bond and exchange markets were quite evidently giving expression to their disappointment and uneasiness at the outcome of the Berlin conference between the Reparation Commission and the German treasury officials. The admission even from the highest allied sources that affairs have reached a deadlock with little promise of its being broken, brings French and Belgian finances to a crisis, for whether it is a question of direct indemnity payments or of using such payments as a basis for external loans, both countries are absolutely unprepared for German default.

Operations on Stock Exchange consisted chiefly of professional experiments on the short side. The market in general had plainly shown on Thursday that it had lost its snap—in other words the retreat of the short interest which had been plainly instrumental in putting prices up at the start of the week, was over. There was no enthusiastic outside public to take the market up when short coverings ceased. Consequently conditions favored for the time being attempts to put prices down these efforts were directed at individual stocks, first one and then another, and a number of weak spots were brought out.

PROGRESSIVES ARE PREPARED TO CO-OPERATE

With All Who Believe in Their Principles Was Statement Issued at Winnipeg Convention

CRERAR'S ADVICE

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press).—"I would like to see a Progressive organization in every constituency and in every hamlet which would send delegates to a national convention, where policies would be formulated," declared Hon. T. A. Crerar, in addressing last night a conference of Progressive members here on the subject of party organization.

It is stated in the official report of the proceedings issued this morning that the members generally were of the opinion that the Progressives "would be willing to co-operate with all who believed in the principles for which they stood." Finally a committee was appointed to report on plans for organization, and the discussion will be continued to-day. There has been no discussion of the leadership, so far.

The caucus sat until midnight, and the Press Committee then prepared and issued the following statement, in which it said:

"The need for national organization to co-ordinate the efforts of all persons in Canada who support the new national policy of the Progressive party in Canada was emphasized at yesterday afternoon's and evening session of Federal Progressive members in conference here.

A tentative plan for such an organization was outlined by Hon. T. A. Crerar and discussed at length. The meeting was generally of the opinion that the central body was necessary, particularly as the Canadian Council of Agriculture which formulated the platform of 1916 was not in politics, and it was necessary that the platform should be revised. Furthermore, missionary work in other parts of Canada was necessary and other reasons were also advanced by various speakers why a national organization was desirable.

The question of the breadth of the Progressive policy was also discussed, the general opinion being that the Progressives would be willing to co-operate with all who believed in the principles for which they stood.

Hon. T. A. Crerar spoke with reference to the necessity for a broad outlook in public affairs.

"No citizen," he said, "can take the view that he is concerned with interests of any one section or class, but must consider public questions from a broad viewpoint of the interests of Canada as a whole," believing the Progressive policies to be in the interests of all Canada, it was their duty to consider how Progressive organizations could be extended throughout Canada.

CRERAR NOT SURPRISED AT MEIGHEN'S COMMENT.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press)—"I have seen Mr. Meighen's statement and am not surprised at it," said Hon. T. A. Crerar to-day, commenting on the Conservative leader's expression of opinion on the resignation of the Progressive leader.

"Indeed," continued Mr. Crerar, "I would have been surprised if the tenor of it had been any different. Mr. Meighen has never been able to show any fine appreciation of the amenities of public life in this respect. In two of the most important matters before Parliament last ses-

Homage to Those Who Gave the Most That Man Can Give

LONDON, November 11 (Canadian Press). — With a solemnity that is heightened rather than diminished by the passage of years, Great Britain to-day rendered homage to those who gave the most that man can give—life itself—in the Great Conflict which ended four years ago.

The fourth anniversary of Armistice Day was observed this morning by a great silence throughout the land and in the distant Dominions.

Representing the nation, King George laid a wreath on the Cenotaph at Whitehall, and Earl Haig placed a wreath for the Great War Veterans of Canada.

NARROW ESCAPE MAYOR McGUIRE

Toronto's Chief Magistrate Cut and Shaken Up in Auto Accident.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press.) — Mayor Maguire at midnight last night narrowly escaped serious injuries when an automobile in which he was riding was overturned and smashed in a collision at the corner of Christopher street and University avenue. His Worship suffered from bruises, a cut behind the ear and a severe shaking up, and was sent to his home from the General Hospital, where surgeons said his injuries were not serious.

Dr. Frank Wright, a well known physician, was driving the automobile which collided with that in which His Worship was riding.

ONLY 4 BOYS IN PLOWING CONTEST

Harold Collins of Otonabee Won First Prize.

The results of the boy's contest for ploughing recently held under the auspices of the Peterboro County Ploughmens' Association were as follows:—Harold Collins, R. R. 2, Keene, was the outstanding winner with a total of 91 points; m. Taylor, R. R. 8, Peterboro, second, with 85 points; Jos. McManus, R. R. 4, Lakefield, third, 84 points; Mark Freeburn, R. R. 2, Warsaw fourth, 82 points.

In each case the ploughing of five acres was done on the home farm of the boys. It is regretted that there were no more than four entries from the whole of Peterboro county. The boys are to be congratulated on the class of work accomplished. As will be noted by the scores only three points separated the second, third and fourth men. This meant keen competition.

Substantial prizes have been offered, and the committee hopes that next year greater interest among the boys of the county will be taken in this competition.

The judges were, Joshua Smithson, Otonabee, and M. D. Sullivan, Douro.

ARMISTICE DAY WAS GENERALLY OBSERVED

Two Minutes Silence In Honor of Dead Principal Feature.

TORONTO, Nov. 11—(Canadian Press). — Commemoration of the Fourth Anniversary of Armistice Day was probably more general to-day throughout Canada than on any previous occasion since the memorable November 11, 1918. Two minutes silence in honor of the heroic Canadian dead was the principal feature of the celebration in all parts of the country.

Railroads, telegraph systems, factories and stores stayed their operations in respectful memory of the fallen.

This afternoon there were various military and civil ceremonies accompanied in many centered by the offering of floral tributes on cenotaph or monuments. There were also many church services, chimes being used very effectively where available. Armistice Day dinners were given in some places. To-morrow there will be further services of thanksgiving and memoriam in churches.

But Produce Not as Plentiful as Usual—Roots and Apples Were the Main Items.

SPYS 60c. PECK

Pork this morning ranged from 17 and 19 to 18 and 20 cents a pound, and crystallized honey was selling at one corner for 10 cents a pound. Another dealer had five and ten pound pails in the dark and light at 60 cents and $1.10, at 70 and $1.75. There were plenty of live fowl in crates, and numerous small porkers. Seed onions were 20 cents a quart this morning and butter beans 10 cents for the same measure. Citrons were selling at from 5 to 15 cents apiece.

THE YOUNG MEN'S SECTION TO MEET

Aims and Objects of the Newly Constituted Section of the Chamber of Commerce.

The temporary executive of the Young Men's Section of the Chamber of Commerce has decided to get off with a good start on Friday next, November 17th, at 7.30 p.m., at the general meeting.

Believing in the policy that all action should be taken after being thoroughly informed on all points, they have decided to make this first meeting of an educational nature. This has been arranged through the kindness of our busy City Clerk, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, in consenting to be speaker of the evening on the subject of "Civic Affairs and Its Relationship to the Young Men."

The constitution and by-laws drawn up by the Executive will be submitted to the meeting for approval by Acting President F. J. Overend, and a nominating committee will be elected to bring in a slate for the election of permanent officers.

An opportunity will also be given to the meeting for individual suggestions as to any civic problem which should engage the attention of the section in its activities.

The proposed constitution states that the aims and objects shall be, primarily,

(a) For the encouragement of a broader knowledge on all matters pertaining to citizenship.

(b) For the advancement of the commercial, industrial, agricultural and civic interests in the City of Peterborough and district.

The Executive cordially invites any and all young men (as young as you feel) to be present on Friday next, November 17th, at which you can be assured of an educational evening.

As long ago as when the Romans landed in Britain they found London already a considerable town.

A Fine of $20 For Selling Coal in Excess Fixed Price

TORONTO, November 11 (Canadian Press). — An Order-in-Council was passed yesterday, which imposes a fine of $20.00, and costs, upon coal dealers for each sale of anthracite coal at prices in excess of those set by Fuel Controller Ellis.

The law will be extended to every municipality upon the local Council passing a resolution asking for it.

ANOTHER YEAR FOR W.H. YOUNG

Pastor of George Street Methodist Church Commended for His Work

At the meeting of the Quarterly Board of George street Methodist church, following the close of business before the Board, an expression of confidence and satisfaction with the ministry of the church during the last two and part of a third year in the pastorate of Rev. W. Harold Young. Mr. E. E. Ingall spoke of the delightful associations established by the pastor with his congregation and said he voiced the unanimous wish of the congregation that Rev. Mr. Young should consent to remain for a fourth year. The intimate work of the pastorate had been most efficiently performed, while the interest in the Sabbath services was shown by the gratifyingly large attendance. In all respects the pastor had been most acceptable and he trusted, in fact he might say, that a continuance of these cordial relations might be anticipated. He would put the wish of the congregation in the shape of a formal resolution, which the Board might accept, for consideration.

Dr. E. E. Harvey seconded the resolution, that the entry on the minutes should have proper place. He had pleasure, he said, in endorsing what had been mentioned by the mover, and added something of earnest appreciation, which all would agree as fully deserved. Rev. Mr. Young thanked the meeting, (the resolution being carried), and said that while suggestions had come to him to go to other centres, he had found life and work and association in Peterborough so pleasant and heartening that he would, as the congregation wished, remain a fourth year. He had on occasion referred to his life here, a pastorate that opened for him the very pleasantest of surroundings and congenial friends, and he felt bound to Peterborough and George street church by ties that would in the future grow stronger as memories of the years of his pastorate were recalled. He thanked the Board for its kindness and would look forward to another year of ministerial work with large anticipation of a really good time.

HUNTERS RETURN WITH THE SPOILS

Bear and Several Fine Deer Are Showing At Mervin's

Last week end a carload of supplies, rations and equipments, was seen on its way to the country district north of Apsley, said load having been collected for the past six months.

On inquiry it was learned that the cargo belonged to Mr. Charles Stapleton and party.

And on closer inspection of the load there was noticed a huge box with the Red Cross insignia painted on each side, with first-aid outfit, to be prepared for the worst.

And that was the last their friends expected to hear of their doings until they returned at the end of the "vacation."

But no; Murder will out, and at the [illegible] of a city butcher shop—in fact, John Mervin's—there hangs the [illegible] of a huge bear and several deer, which would indicate that there will be a steady supply of wild meat arriving in town from that source.

No doubt a royal welcome will await the party on its return.

THE CITY MAY BANQUET BALL TITLE WINNERS

Council Asked to Suitably Recognize Sport Prowess of C. G. E's and Maple Leafs.

TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS

Local sports, the City Baseball League, and the P.A.A.A. are looking to this city, through its Council, to show some mark of appreciation that two Provincial championships have been brought to Peterborough this year—the Intermediate and Midget ball titles. And in this connection it has been projected that the City Council vote a grant to defray the cost of banqueting the C.G.E. ball team and Peterborough's Maple Leafs, who won the championships of the Province in their respective classes the season recently closed.

Not only a banquet, but also a souvenir for each individual player, in recognition of these boys' baseball powers by their home city is the hope of a delegation which waited on the City Council in Committee of the Whole last night.

That delegation was composed of Louis LeBarr, Alex. Kay, Ed. Wright, Frank Convery, Arthur Cranfield, and Donald Loucks, representing the P.A.A.A., the City League, and Peterborough sports in general.

The conference resulted in a Council committee, composed of Ald. Mel. Turner and Nagel Phelan, being appointed to confer further with the delegates present, and report to the Council some concrete recommendation.

Ald. Stocker presided in the absence of the Mayor.

In laying the proposition before Council, Mr. Cranfield thought that it is up to the City Council to follow the example of other municipalities in such cases, and suitably acknowledge the honour brought here by these two teams. For instance, Galt gave each player $25.00 and banqueted their team, and St. Thomas sent their boys to the World Ball Series.

It had been proposed, he said, that were the boys banqueted, the function should be staged next week.

Alex. Kay emphasised the fact that it is ten years since Peterborough won the Provincial championship, and the present champions were all Peterborough boys, especially so the Maple Leafs, every one of whom were educated in the local schools. The plan in view is, he added, that the O.B.A. officials should attend the projected banquet, when the trophies and presentations would be made, including, he hoped, some tangible recognition from the city for each player.

Discussion brought out that from 24 to 30 players and guests would have to be provided for, and that the P.A.A.A. has spent considerable money on the teams this past year.

As a whole, Council seemed in favour of granting the request of the delegation.

THE WEST IS NOW ON THE UP GRADE

Business Revival is Quite Noticeable—Stocks Low.

HAMILTON, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press)—C. H. E. Bamford, of Winnipeg, who is east on a business trip, brings an optimistic note concerning the business prospects of the west. "The West", he said, "is passing through some very trying times but it has touched bottom and is now on the up grade."

He said that, while there would be no boom like in 1912, a gradual, steady, solid, substantial progress had already started. Business was improving with the turn of the year, and revival in trade will be quite noticeable. Stocks in retailers hands were low, and there must be large purchases in 1923. Hard times had not been an unmixed evil, for they had forced the western farmer to adopt more diversified type of farming. More wheat had been shipped out of Canada so far this year than had been shipped out all last year. Money was coming into farmers' hands and they were beginning to pay off their debts.

ADOPTS RADIO

TORONTO, Nov. 11—(Canadian Press).—Ontario Hydro Commission adopts radio for communication between stations.

"11-11-11"

On this Armistice Day, Nov. 11, the war has been over for four years. It is almost startling, that so much time has elapsed since the German surrender, 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

Time, which heals all wounds and obliterates all human activities, is rushing the great conflict into the mists of memory.

The world still foments with troubles, but the outlook as a whole is far better than it was a year ago. There are fewer uncertainties in the situation, and it is becoming obvious that the world is definitely on the way back to the normal conditions of peace. The road, however, will be a long one.

Crises, which threaten to become calamities, still rear their ugly heads periodically. But people are noticing that these crises never turn out as badly as expected; the clouds are more terrifying than the storms that follow.

Canada is leading all other countries in reconstruction and a return to sane thinking—common sense. We have taken and withstood the shock of industrial depression, natural reaction of the war. Our outlook is bright, where a year ago it was uncertain.

Europe will be slower to recover, for its damage was greater. But conditions over there, while bad, are far better than even the most optimistic hoped for when the last shot was fired in France.

Convalescence from a critical illness requires time, cannot take place quickly by magic. That is the keynote of the European situation, this Armistice Day.

FORTUNE TELLER CASE SETTLED AFTER EVIDENCE ALL TAKEN

Mr. Justice Latchford's Suggestion Resulted in Withdrawal From the Jury at Cobourg—Urged Old Neighbors to Renew their Former Friendship

Evil-Doers Unrevealed.

(By Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, November 11.—The poisoned pen that disrupted life-long friendships between Alnwick township farmers in the vicinity of Roseneath, until families that had grown old together were turned against each other finally resulting in Mrs. Richard Thompson's slander suit for $2000 against Ed. Weir, may eventually be frustrated it the settlement by mutual agreement in the Assizes here yesterday develops into a complete reconciliation.

One little silent unrelenting nod by the plaintiff was interpreted as an indication that the breach which malicious rumour had opened and scurrilous unsigned letters had widened might not be closed and healed as quickly as Mr. Justice Latchford hoped in his mediative appeal to the opposing parties before the case was given to the jury.

An agreement was arranged within a comparatively short itme by the respective solicitors, Mr. G. A. Payne of Campbellford and Mr. W. F. Kerr of Cobourg for the plaintiff and Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C. for the defendant.

In withdrawing the case His Lordship said:— "It is plain that Mrs. Thompson is absolutely without blame. There is not the slightest suggestion on the part of Mr. Weir or any one else, except the individual who wrote those anonymous letters, that she had anything to do with the loss of that money. All the parties in this case are substantial farmers, and were good neighbours to one an other until this trouble started. Each party has agreed to pay his and her own costs. I hope that they will be on as friendly relations as before. Mrs. Thompson naturally feels hurt, as a woman of high character, but I think she was a little severe in asking Mr. Weir to acknowledge that he had started the rumours"

His Lordship said it was regrettable that the action had ever started but he appreciated Mrs. Thompson's strong desire to clear her name and reputation from the malicious stories that had been circulated after the disappearance of Mrs. Weir's $600 before her death. He expressed the wish that some effort be made to trace the authorship of the two baleful letters.

When Mrs. Thompson shook her head slightly at Mr. Justice Latchford's proposal that the old friendship should be restored, he remarked "the greater the height the greater the fall" evidently a reference to Mrs. Thompson's excellent character and by metaphor that the rapprochment would be that much sincerer

Was Warden Once

Like the Thompson family and the various witnesses in this case, Edward Weir is a farmer of high repute in Alnwick township. He was identified for years in municipal work, was a member of the Council of Northumberland and Durham and has the destinction of having been Warden.

Saw a Fortune-Teller

Mr. Weir was called in his own defense by Mr. Gordon at the resumption of the trial Friday morning He testified that after his wife's death in June 1921 his maidservant Katie had asked him to see a fortune teller about the missing money.

"I said I wouldn't go because I didn't believe in fortune-tellers" defendant continued 'Katie began to cry. She said she had full control of house and people would blame her for the theft. So I said "all right Kate Ill go."

"The first man who asked me after I had come back from the fortune-teller was Mr. Thompson He asked me what she had said, and I told him there wasn't much to say On October 3rd, he came over and asked me to go down, his wife wanted to see me. I told him I wouldn't that she sent for me once before and gave me an insult. He said 'I dida't know till last Saturday night that my wife was blamed for that money'."

"I asked Mr. Thompson if he ever heard anyone say that I had said Mrs. Thompson took it and he said he had not. I said I had always told him I never believed in fortune-tellers".

On October 3, Mr. Weir told Mr. Thompson what the fortune-teller had said, and described the route the mythical woman had followed from the Weir house. Defendant declared that he had said the road was west from his house and not east as related by several of the plaintiff's witnesses as indicating the Thompson house.

"Mr. Thompson asked me if Ella (his wife) resembled the woman described by the fortune-teller, and I said she resembled her some."

Tried to Hire Detective

Defendant testified that it was Mr. Thompson who first suggested the engaging of a detective. "I told him it would cost considerable money,

Allies Determined Hold Their Ground In Constantinople

LONDON, November 11 (Canadian Press. — The situation at Constantinople, where the Turks want the Allies to get out—and the Allies are determined to sit tight—is still very critical, all the morning papers agree. None of them furnish any definite news to justify their view.

Even the Government itself is declared in some quarters to be largely in the dark owing to the difficulty of communicating with the Near East, and absolutely nothing can be learned of the attitude of th Angora Government.

SULTAN DESERTED BY HIS GUARDS AT MERCY OF ENEMIES

Says He Will Stay on the Throne Unless Removed By Force—May Appeal For Protection.

ONLY TWO GUARDS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 11. — The Turkish Sultan is virtually at the mercy of the Nationalists should they desire to make a descent in force on his palace and attempt to carry him off as is feared. His own guard has gone over to the Kemalists and only nominal protection on the part of the Allied troops seems so far to have been accorded him.

The correspondent, on a visit to the palace Thursday afternoon found only two guards on duty. Within the palace the monarch is surrounded by seven trusted eunuchs, who remain at his side, day and night.

The Sultan, it is said, may formally appeal to the Allies for protection, but it is believed that they could prevent a possible Nationalist coup only if martial law were declared.

Sir Horace George M. Rumbold, the British Commissioner, and General Pelle, High Commissioner of France, have been the only visitors at the palace since the decision of the Angora government last week not to recognize the Sultan's temporal authority.

The Sultan has refused to comment publicly on the present crisis or to reveal his plans. To friends, however he has expressed his determination to remain on the throne unless removed by force. He insists that the National Assembly is not representative of the sentiment of the Moslem world and therefore is without authority to modify the status of the successors to Mohammed, who have enjoyed full temporal and spiritual power for more than a thousand years.

The greatest consternation prevails among the members of the Sultan's household. The Caliph's numerous wives and attendants are engaged in constant prayer that their sovereign be spared. The most devoted of them all is the wife he married two months ago, a youthful Circassian beauty, daughter of the Palace Gardener.

Owing to the Sultan's depleted fortune he is faced with a difficult problem to provide sufficient food and clothing for the members of his household.

ROBERT SANDERSON

In the death of the late Robert Sanderson, which occurred on Wednesday November 1st. the municipality of North Monaghan lost one of its most highly respected citizens. The late Mr. Sanderson was born in the County Cavan, Ireland, in the year 1850, coming to Canada over fifty years ago, and for the most of that period he has been a resident of North Monaghan. He engaged in the occupation of farming, in which he has been most successful, and being a man of sterling qualities gained for himself and family high esteem.

Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves to mourn his loss two sons, Bert at home, and W. G. of Toronto; also three daughters, Mrs. J. W. LeBar of King street, this city; Annie of Toronto and Ella at home.

Ordered to Release British Rum Boat

BOSTON, Nov. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—The British schooner Acadia, seized as a rum-runner off Gloucester last August, while outside the three mile limit, was ordered released by the Treasury Department yesterday. The orders also covered the return of 557 cases of liquor found on the schooner. The Acadia, owned in Sydney, N. S., has sailed under bonds, but the liquor has been held here and five members of the crew have given bonds on charges of smuggling.

HON. T. A. CRERAR RESIGNED FROM THE LEADERSHIP

No Longer Heads National Progressive Party, But Will Still Fight in the Ranks.

PREMIER REGRETS

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. T. A. Crerar announced to his followers in the Canadian Parliament to-day his resignation from the leadership of the National Progressive Party. "I shall continue to fight as a soldier in the ranks," declared Mr. Crerar at the close of a long letter to T. W. Caldwell, M.P., chairman of the caucus, in which he discussed his own position, political questions of the day and the future of the Progressive movement. Mr. Crerar stated that business obligations and his personal position made it impossible for him to continue the leadership, and that had these questions not intervened his retention of the post would have depended upon a clear understanding and statement of the Progressive programme. Rigid restriction of the Progressive party to farmers would, Mr. Crerar declared in the letter, render not only dis-service to the country as a whole, but to the very people the movement was created to assist. All people of good will who believed in certain definite principles as applying to public policies should be included.

No Recommendation.

Mr. Crerar makes no recommendation as to his successor. The retiring leader said neither he nor any other Progressive had considered any fusion with any party in the House. What was discussed was whether or not a basis for an honorable co-operation could not be reached. It was interesting to note, he added, that proposals for close co-operation had been opposed strongly by a small but powerful reactionary element in the Liberal party that today appears to be a special custodian for the time being of the welfare of privileged interests; and also by many Progressives who from honest but, I believe, mistaken motives, were looking more at the interests of their group or class than of the nation. He advised that for the present, at any rate, the course of Progressive members in the House should continue along the lines of the last session of Parliament.

ARTHUR MEIGHEN'S VIEW.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press). — Acquainted with Mr. Crerar's statement at Winnipeg, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, who is in Toronto to-day, said that it was to be expected that the Progressive leader would express himself as not being in favor of fusion with the Liberals. "He favors what he calls honorable co-operation," said Mr. Meighen. "The first step of this co-operation that Mr. Crerar attempted was to go into the King Cabinet. He and his followers co-operated last session with the Liberals in order to maintain the tariff which he had broken with the Union Government in order to destroy. It was a session of co-operation between the two, and the next session will be the same. Mr. Crerar and his associates know that they cannot carry their followers into the Liberal camp, and they know as well that they can serve their first love, the Liberal party, just as well by co-operation as by fusion."

How to Replace

Premier Mackenzie King, who is here to attend the private function in his honor at the York Club, told the Canadian Press, he regretted very much the resignation of Mr. Crerar from the leadership of the Progressive Party. He believed that a strong leadership of parties opposed to the government helped to make for good government and Mr. Crerar would be hard to replace in that capacity. "Politics and business will never mix", said the Premier in commenting on Mr. Crerars given reasons for quitting the Progressive leadership 'That is what we have been saying right along. Co-operative or any other kind of business is one thing and the economics of good government another. You cannot successfully merge them.'

The Premier said he expected no political upheaval or any very startling change in the line up of parties as the result of a change in the leadership of Progressives. The government expects to be strengthened and go onward in any event, he asserted.

Mr. King spent the morning on private business and lunched with Senator Hardy of Brockville, presi-

ATTACK MADE ON LORD CECIL BY LABORITES

Labor Party is Making a Strong Bid For Success in the Coming Election in England.

MAKE GERMANY PAY.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—The Hitchin division of Hertfordshire which includes the seat of the Cecil family is naturally regarded as something of a preserve for the one bearing that name.

Lord Robert Cecil is standing in this election as an independent conservative, having four years ago crossed the floor of the house and become one of Lloyd George's bitterest opponents. He is fighting now essentially as an advocate of the league of nations.

Hitchin is a great agricultural district and the labor candidate, Skeffington Mackey is conducting a strong campaign among the farm laborers. He urges that with public ownership and control of land, labor would be able to eliminate the middleman "who takes 25 per cent of the industry's profits."

Mackay claims he is gaining an extraordinary response in the villages previously wedded to toryism or at any rate to Cecilism. He makes a point that Lord Robert Cecil voted against labor's proposal for a minimum agricultural wage.

Arthur Henderson, the well known labor leader who is suffering from throat trouble, writes condemning the new government's 'feeble leadership and lack of policy" and urging the electors to remember that both unionists and liberals have to bear the blame for the disasters into which the coalition had led the country. The Bonar Law ministry, declares Henderson, contains a large proportion of ministers who served under Lloyd George. He adds:

"The Laborites represent a new force in public life and stand for a new relation between the nations and the classes. They advocate a more humane economic and industrial system and a more just distribution of wealth and social opportunities and the removal of the hideous irregularities between the classes "which are rendering the social structure so unstable at the present time."

The rank and file of the labor candidates in the country are urging the electors to remember the failure of the late government to mak Germany pay for the war, leaving the British people instead to pay the shot in low wages, high taxation and widespread unemployment. The proposed capital levy, it is pointed out would mean only a levy upon individual fortunes and not upon the capital of industrial companies. There fore, declare the Labor candidates, the capitalist classes are trotting out a bogey in describing the levy as destructive to industrial enterprises.

Admiral Sims Says Britain Will Always Command Sea

Ex-Canadian and "Stormy Petrel" of the U.S. Navy Is Invested With Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws at McGill University.

MONTREAL, November 11.—Addressing the Canadian Club at the Armistice luncheon here yesterday, Admiral William Sims said he believed the submarine was the greatest engine for preservation of peace yet devised, since it would make long distance naval attacks almost impossible.

Despite the Washington conference he maintained that Great Britain would always command the surface of the sea.

The Admiral was received with prolonged applause and said that he would not think the tribute entirely personal to him, but what the United States Navy he commanded during the war "was able to do to help us out during the war."

He added that he had not been particularly lucky in speech-making—"at least on two occasions I have been informed so officially."

In a student-drawn carriage, Admiral Sims was taken to McGill University here yesterday afternoon and the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon him.

In his speech accepting the honor he urged the young men before him to show initiative, loyalty and team work in their lives. Referring to his own early experience at school and later at the Naval Academy, he remarked on the lack of initiative in those days.

NO TRACE OF BOX AND $600 CONTENTS

Pleasant and Sometimes Foolish Developments Culminated in Slander Action for $2000 at Cobourg.

COBOURG, Nov. 11. — On her death bed in June, 1921, Mrs. Edward Weir, of Alnwick township, in Northumberland county, requested her husband to bring her a small box from a bureau drawer.

"Oh you never could find anything," she chided him with the mild impatience of married women's knowledge of a common domestic failing of their men, when he went back to her room empty-handed.

At her request he brought the drawer to her bedside. Too weak to sit up, she reached her hand into the accustomed corner and then exclaimed, "its gone."

Shortly afterwards she died, and to this day no trace has been found of the box and its $600, which she informed her husband it had contained.

That incident was the beginning of the unpleasant and sometimes foolish developments that culminated in the slander action for $2,000 which Mrs. Richard Thompson instituted against Mrs. Weir, and which was tried by a jury in the local assizes before Mr. Justice Latchford.

Thursday evening at 7 o'clock the court adjourned with the completion of the plaintiff's case. The defence was heard Friday.

Mrs. Thompson was the last witness, and her concluding statement was a declaration that she did not take the money mentioned by Mrs. Weir.

Clear Reputation.

"No one has suggested that you took it," Mr. Justice Latchford said depreciatingly, and to Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, the defendant's solicitor, Mrs. Weir admitted that her chief motive in the suit was to make a public denial of any knowledge of the theft.

"I want to clear up my reputation," she said, and further acknowledged that Mr. Weir had never accused her of taking the money.

Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Whitred, Mrs. Droupe and Mrs. Brickman, all neighbors of the Weirs, had taken turns sitting up with Mrs. Weir towards the end. After her death her husband sought the guidance of a fortune teller, at the tearful request of the maid who had worked at his home, and who pleaded that it should clear her of suspicion. She urged that this fortune teller, a Mrs. Booth, who has so far been an obscure character in an exceedingly peculiar case, had once helped her recover $25 she had lost.

Mr. Weir disavowed any trust in fortune-tellers and their dark, devious ways, but he acceded to the maid's appeal.

The Fortune Teller.

The equivocal expression uttered by the "fortune teller" was repeated by Mr. Weir, several witnesses testified; and Richard Thompson, plaintiff's husband, said the defendant had repeated the fortune-teller's description that the woman she pretended to see in her crystal gazing looked just like her own daughter-in-law. "And the fortune teller's daughter-in-law looks just like your wife" was the specific remark, Mr. Thompson quoted from his conversation with the defendant.

Malicious rumours were rife in all the countryside around Roseneath involving the names of five women including Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Whitred, Mrs. Droupe and Mrs. Brickman. Several scurrilous, anonymous letters were sent to Mrs. Thompson, and worried by them she launched the law suit.

"After the first letter I asked Mr. Weir to come to my house," said the plaintiff. "I didn't think he wrote them, and he said he didn't."

"Do you accuse me of having taken the money?" Mrs. Thompson said she asked him. "He said he accused no one."

Mr. W. F. Kerr of Cobourg, assisting Mr. G. A. Payne, of Campbellford, represented the plaintiff.

Fortune-Teller's Stunt

Thomas Droupe, the first witness, said he had lived all his life in Alnwick township.

"After Mr. Weir had been to the fortune-teller's" witness said, "he was at my place. He told me he had been to see the fortune-teller. She took out a glass or diamond and looked into it after he told her that he had lost something. She said—"Oh, yes it is a box. A woman took it. She went through the back kitchen door down through a gate, down an old roadway over a fence, and into a small frame house. Your money is there in that house The woman looks very much like my daughter-in-law."

Witness recalled that the defendant said, after relating the fortune-teller's progostication, "Remember I'm not saying Mrs. Thompson took the box."

Mr. Kerr—Who would that description fit?

Mr. Drope — The fortune-teller described the locality right to Thompson's house.

Looked Through Diamond

Witness said he asked Mr. Weir whether he thought the fortune-teller got her gift from God or the devil and his reply was that he didn't know. she just looked through the diamond.

On another occasion Mr. Weir called at the Droupe home and said he had made a second visit to the fortue-teller.

"He told me the money had gone out of that (the first mentioned) house and had gone to a brick house"

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon witness said there was nothing unusual or peculior about the Thompson house and its appearance. Everybody in the neighborhood had been talking about the missing money and the mystery surrounding the defendant's visit to the fortune-teller.

Husband's Testimony

"In the first conversation I had with him at which this came up I asked him if he had got his money yet," Mr. Thompson proceeded. "He said there was something I didn't know anything about. I asked him what it was. He said, he couldn't tell me. I asked him if was a secret, and he said sometime he would get confidential and tell me."

The second conversation was at Weir's place on October 3rd 1921.

"I told him I had heard something dreadful about my wife. He said, "Well, well. I thought that was

THE SITUATION IN NEAR EAST IS VERY GRAVE

Telegraphic Communication With Constantinople Still Interrupted — Few Reports By Wireless.

DERBY AT WAR OFFICE

LONDON, Nov. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Telegraphic communication between London and Constantinople continues interrupted. The only news that is coming in is reaching London slowly and through devious routes.

Despatches dated Wednesday, received by the Foreign and War Offices yesterday by naval wireless, indicated that the Allied Commissioners were then still awaiting a definite reply from the Angora Government to their demand that the Turks recede from their attitude, which the Allies regard as out of accord with the Mudros and Mudania conventions. The despatches showed that the Allied representatives also had lodged a strong protest with Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist Governor, against the execution of Ali Kemal Bey, editor of Sabah, an anti-Nationalist organ.

That the situation continues strained is shown by the fact that the Earl of Derby, Secretary for War, was compelled to cancel a political engagement he had in the North last night. He explained that things were in such shape as to make his presence at the War Office absolutely imperative.

Pourpalers are continuing between the Allies regarding the date for the Lausanne Conference on Near Eastern Affairs. Although no date has yet been set for meeting, which was originally set for next week, it is believed here that a postponement will be taken until November 20.

CROWD CLAMORED TO SEE A HANGING

William Stultz Paid the Full Penalty For the Murder of Policeman John H. Adams.

FREDERICK, Md., November 11— Canadian Press. — While a vast throng clamored outside the walls and beat upon the doors for admission to the jail yard, William A. Stultz was hanged here yesterday morning for the murder of Policeman John H. Adams. His neck was broken.

Stultz maintained his iron nerve to the last. As the shroud was placed around him in his cell, he said "Let's go!" He carried a basin of water to the gallows in which he washed his face and hands, declaring this would purify him of his sins.

Last August 9 Stultz shot and wounded two deputy sheriffs who attempted to seize his automobile for a debt. When Policeman Adams went to arrest him for the shooting Stultz shot him.

There is always a fool at one end of a flatterer's tongue — and sometimes at both ends.

Outlook Bright in The Coal Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Surveys and reports which the United States Chamber of Commerce has been collecting to co-operate with the Federal Fuel Distribution Agency can now be discontinued, Julius H. Barnes, President of that body, announced yesterday. Downward movement of prices, and increase of stocks, Mr. Barnes said, have removed any necessity for apprehension about the country's fuel supply for the present winter.

THE HALL-MILLS MURDER INQUIRY STILL BAFFLING

Prosecutor Mott Thwarted in Every Effort to Make Indicting Case for Grand Jury.

STORIES CONFLICT

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., November 10 (Special to The Examiner) —Prosecutor Mott to-day apparently faced the same baffling conditions that thwarted Prosecutors Beekman and Stricker in their efforts to solve the Hall-Mills mystery.

Attaches of Motts office declared point-blank this week that the case would go to the Grand Jury to-day. But following a conference between Mott and Somerset, the Grand Jury foreman, it was announced that "no further action will be taken this week.

Not Bare Testimony.

Alfred Gibbs, the foreman, demanded that the Grand Jury, when it convenes, receive all evidence possible in corroboration of the alleged eye-witness story of Mrs. Jane Gibson. Mott is opposed to baring all his testimony, he previously said.

Baffling Influence.

Ever since the investigation began several weeks ago, the Prosecutors intimated that they had been working against a baffling "influence."

It was generally believed that they were unable to "dovetail" other evidence with Mrs. Gibson's story, declaring Mrs. Frances Hall, widow of the clergyman, witnessed his murder along with that of Mrs. James Mills, his choir leader.

When the Grand Jury does meet, Mrs. Hall is expected to demand a chance to testify, according to previous statments, given out through her associates.

HUNTER WILL LOSE LEG AS RESULT OF ACCIDENTAL SHOT

Chas. Holland, Rochester, Had His Thigh Badly Shattered When Companion Tripped and Rifle Discharged.

PARTY OF FOUR.

NORTH BAY, November 11. Canadian Press. — While hunting in the woods near Stone Cliffe, 27 miles from Chalk River, on Thursday morning Charles Holland of Rochester, N.Y., was shot and his thigh badly shattered by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of Roger Thompson, a companion huntsman. The two were members of a party of four Rochester men who started out early on Thursday morning with dogs and the accident occurred when Holland who was in front stopped to tie a string around one of the dogs. According to the advice which reached here last night Thompson wears two cork legs and the rifle exploded as he tripped over a log.

The injured man was taken to the Pembroke Hospital on the C.P.R. local Thursday.

It is reported that he will lose his right leg. The bullet is said to have entered at the thigh and left the leg at the knee.

ERSKINE CHILDERS NOW IN THE CLINK

Free Staters Are After De Valera and His Followers

BELFAST, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press).—A Wicklow message to-day states that Erskine Childers, leading De Valera supporter, and another prominent Republican were captured there early to-day. De Valera managed to escape from the house where the capture were effected.

The other man captured bore the name of Robinson, says a message, and it is believed to be Seamue Robinson, prominent Tipperary Republican leader. The house where Childers and Robinson were taken was the residence of Robert Barton, Glendalough House, Barton, a signatory of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, lately rejoined forces with De Valera.

WINSTON CHURCHILL HAS ISSUED A SHARP REPLY.

Reveals Source of Appeal to the Dominions for Troops to Go Overseas.

LONDON, November 11 (Canadian Press). — Winston Churchill has issued a sharp reply to Lord Curzon's remarks regarding the issue of the appeal to the Dominions on 16th September to send contingents in the event of trouble with Turkey.

He asserted that Curzon was present, and agreed to the decisions at the Cabinet meeting where it was actually decided to appeal to the Dominions.

We feel sorry for the man who is married to an imaginative woman with nerves.

And Just as Effective in Relieving Coughs, Colds, Croup and Bronchitis

Family Size 75c

It is still growing in favor, for the simple reason that it can be depended on as a positive relief for Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough and Asthma.

Bronchitis

Mr. J. Pearose, 207 Oak St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with bronchitis and had a very bad cough. I had the cough so long I was becoming afraid of other developments. I tried all kinds of cough remedies without relief. I saw Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine advertised and tried a bottle. I was greatly surprised at the relief I got from the Linseed and Turpentine. I bought five more bottles and was completely relieved."

Severe Cold

Mr. Lloyd Ballen, Sunnybrook Farm, Pownal, Lot 49, P.E.I., writes:—"After I got over the 'flu' last winter, I took a very severe cold. I tried several kinds of cough medicines, but none of them gave me relief and I began to fear it would turn to something more serious. ONE EVERY MINUTE.

James Simpson, Socialist, is evidently one gentleman who believes that Barnum was right.

This glib-tongued admirer of the Soviet system was one of the principal speakers at a Socialist gathering in Hamilton the other night, called for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions for a fund of a million dollars to take over in co-operation with the Russian Government the textile mills of Moscow and Petrograd.

The shares in this "wonderful and beautiful experiment," to borrow the phrase used by the chairman in describing the Soviet system, were offered at $10 each.

Mr. Simpson informed his audience that it was a "gilt-edged" proposition.

"You can't lose one penny," he is reported to have said. "The Soviet Government is your security."

Surely Canadian workmen are intelligent enough to require better security for their investment than a Government which has repudiated all its contracts.

Socialists of course are privileged to invest in any kind of an undertaking they may select, but the workers should be given a fair chance to understand that this Russian flyer is a dubious venture which the record of the Soviet Government indicates has a slight chance to succeed.

FOUR YEARS AGO—AND TO-DAY.

Four years ago to-day the world war ended.

At the eleven hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month the guns ceased firing for the first time in four and one-third years.

Peterborough people will have no difficulty in recalling the wild enthusiasm with which the news was received and the unprecedented scenes of rejoicing as the whole city gave itself over to celebrating the history-making event.

Peterborough never had such a day.

But that was four years ago. The public memory is short, and sometimes public gratitude is a fleeting thing.

To-day people who in 1918 marched and cheered and shouted all day long could not spare two minutes to honor the memory of the men who died that the celebration of four years ago might be possible.

It might have been expected that flags would be flying in the breeze from every flag pole in the city to-day.

Alas most of the poles displayed no standards.

"Business as usual" is again the slogan of the day, and the events of four years ago have evidently lost their significance.

Perhaps such a condition is inevitable, but it must make many of the men who fought wonder sometimes if it was worth while fighting for people who can forget so quickly and so completely.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

It is satisfactory to read in the statement of the Provincial Highways Department covering the operations for the year the announcement that "owing to the heavy traffic which uses the Provincial highways, following their improvement, it has been found necessary to, wherever possible, do away with level railway crossings."

Several of the most dangerous of such crossings have been eliminated this year, and the report adds that from year to year, as conditions warrant it, other level crossings will be done away with.

Ontario has far too many grade crossings, and the thousands of people who travel the highways will be glad to learn that some progress at least is being made in the direction of their elimination.

It might easily be hoped that the Department and the railways would unite in a speedier policy of building subways to clean up the death traps.

In the meantime, however, motorists will have to protect themselves at dangerous crossings and exercise every precaution when approaching railway tracks.

The almost daily reports of level crossing accidents seem to indicate an unbelievable amount of carelessness and recklessness on the part of motor drivers.

The practice of endeavoring to race a railway train over a grade crossing continues to be fairly general, despite the fact that there can only be one result if the race happens to end in a draw.

The Department of Highways should speed up its subway policy.

ELIMINATE THE PARASITES.

While there is every reason to hope that there will not be an abnormal amount of unemployment in Peterborough this winter, yet the past few days have shown an increasing number of registrations at the local employment office, and it seems certain that the city may, to some extent at least, have to deal with cases of distress arising out of unemployment.

It is a matter that deserves serious consideration.

There are indications not only here but elsewhere that relief funds will have to be protected against the raids of able-bodied men, capable of work, who prefer trying their luck in the bread line to earning their livelihood.

No community is ever free of such individuals, and the doles system of the past few years has produced a much larger crop than usual of parasites of this calibre.

The Toronto employment bureau reports the greatest difficulty in inducing strong, healthy, unmarried young men to take work in the woods, or even with the Harbor Commission.

They prefer idleness to work, and doubtless will be found later on calling upon the civic authorities to provide them with food and lodging.

If there are many of this kind in Peterborough it would be well for the Council to let them know now that no help will be extended to men quite capable of work who have refused offers of employment.

A definite announcement of this nature would result in these gentry going to work or leaving Peterborough for some other centre where the pickings are easier.

In either case the city would benefit.

PREMIER TASCHEREAU DOES A SERVICE.

Journalists in Canada shed no tears for their "colleague" condemned to jail by the Quebec Legislature for violation of the honor and dignity of that House. On the contrary, their gratitude is extended to Premier Taschereau for bringing about the public condemnation and punishment of one who employed the privileges and power of his adopted calling to the vilest of base purposes. An unclean thing is being sent to the pest house and there is a sigh of relief. Decent newspapermen had no wish to give it shelter.

Roberts has been carrying on his slimy business in Montreal for some time. It is no new business. It is easy and simple, and if cunningly enough conducted is moderately safe. The law has its limitations, of which those who publish papers like the "Axe" know how to take advantage. Generally the most effective medium for dealing with men who engage in the business is the horsewhip. The reason there are not more "Axes" is just that even the depraved shun the bottom of the pit of depravity. The Robertses are very rare.

But Roberts stumbled to his own undoing. He might ply his ignoble trade against the ordinary citizen in comparative safety, but the Legislature is law unto itself. He accused unnamed members of the Legislature with complicity in murder. It was, as Premier Taschereau said, an accusation against the whole Legislature. There was nothing for the Legislature to do, if it was to respect its duty to the public, but to bring him to trial. It is a grave offence too often lightly regarded to make vague and unsubstantiated charges against men in positions of public trust. But Mr. Taschereau seems to have been concerned no more for the honor and dignity of the Legislature than for the less fortunate victims of the "Axe" in Montreal who had no recourse to protection. He rightly conceives that he is doing a service to the public apart from consideration of the integrity of the Legislature in visiting on Roberts the punishment he has so well earned and putting an end, for the time being, at any rate, to the venomous career of the "Axe."

But although the ultimate degree of business is the essential qualification for the publication of a slanderous, filthy paper like the "Axe," Roberts is not alone to blame. The exercise of his peculiar qualification would offer no reward were it not for that in human nature which causes so many people to find pleasure in revelling in the viciousness and immorality of others and to delight in their misfortunes, just or unjust. This trait in human nature is much in evidence just now. In the United States and England election campaigns have been in progress. Important political and international affairs have been going forward. But news of these has rivals for the attention of the public in reports of the trials of so called love-crime and divorce cases. A considerable section of the people everywhere are more interested in the failings of others than in anything else. And there is a peculiar cruelty in their appetite. They go more than half way to meet an allegation of some one's guilt and toy with it and relish it and are displeased at any attempt to take the juicy morsel away from them. They seem to prefer to believe in the guilt of others. Honesty and virtue are without thrills, uninteresting.

However, while this element of morbidity in human character encourages such publications as the "Axe," it does not justify them and there is satisfaction in the fact that some times they are caught and strangled. There are other sheets of similar complexion in this country. Perhaps there may be some warning for them in the punishment of Roberts. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Remember November 11th four years ago?

More enthusiasm was shown on that occasion than there was in carrying out the King's request this morning.

In many cities in Canada the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice is being celebrated to-day — the proper date of course. It is to be hoped that the Government will see to it that November 11th be set apart permanently as Armistice Day.

The Varsity Rugby team showed good judgment in selecting Belleville as a quiet little town in which to secure a good night's sleep before to-day's game.

A Belgian girl has been awarded $4,000 damages in a breach of promise action brought against a Canadian. It is a good thing that all the Belgian lassies are not of this same temperament.

Complaints that the T. and N. O. Railway is suffering from a scarcity of sleepers might be rectified by borrowing a few from the Senate.

The province has spent $10,000,000 on road-building this year. There are no figures as to the amount of damage done to said roads by speeding motorists.

LITERARY GEMS

"SOUL—SOUL!"

It will do no good to lie.
Hold your eyelids wide. Look straight.
Stare—Stare—Nor deny
The hard dim thing you hate.

This is you, alone and old.
Yes,—she has no loveliness.
Yes,—she stumbles and is cold
In that thick black dress.

Say, not, "She is none of mine—
Husk of a life, unloved, unknown."
Stare—Stare—Learn each line
Of fading for your own.

You, who sit behind the eyes,
Juggling life and judging death,
Too immortal and too wise
To fail with failing breath,—

Soul!—Soul!—Voyager
Of wild unclaimed Eternity!—
Face her! Never pity her!
You alone can set her free!

CREAR'S RESIGNATION A TEMPORARY LOSS.

A Great Future Ahead of the Late Leader of the Progressives.

ORILLIA, November 11. Canadian Press. — Speaking to the Canadian Club here last night J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., declared that the cause of the farmers would lose temporarily by the resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar from the leadership of the Progressives. But neither Mr. Crerar nor any one else made the cause; therefore it was only an incident in the movement. No mortal could say at this stage whether the result would be good or bad. One thing sure was that the movement would proceed on its course.

He said Mr. Crerar was a likeable man, possessed of a clear vision and what the country needed as a leader. A great future was before him, but it was a hard and tenacious work.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar as leader of the National Progressive Party does not come unexpectedly for some time past the impression has prevailed here that Mr. Crerar's retirement from leadership was only a matter of time. His resignation brings in its train additional problems. What, it is commonly asked here, will the attitude of Progressives under their new leader be towards the government in the coming session of Parliament, scheduled to open in January. At last session Progressives followed the course of what has been termed "benevolent neutrality". Will the same course be followed in the coming session or will Progressives adopt a more militant attitude of active opposition.

FARMER DROVE IN FRONT OF TRAIN HE NOTICED TOO LATE

Thomas Williamson Approached Crossing Near Bethany With Attention Apparently Fixed on the Buildings in Direction Opposite to Railway—Inquest Held.

Trainmen Exonerated.

(By Staff Reporter.)

BETHANY, Nov. 11. — Thomas Williamson, the elderly farmer of Cavan Township who died in the baggage coach of the C.P.R. Port McNicholl train a few minutes after it hurled him from his waggon at a crossing about a mile and a half south of Bethany on November 3, drove his team on to the railway without seeing the train until it was right on top of him. The horses escaped unhurt, but the waggon was shattered and Mr. Williamson was hurled beyond the cattle guards at the crossing. He died on the way to Bethany from a gaping wound in his skull.

These were the principal facts brought out at the coroner's inquest here today before a jury, with Dr. H. A. Turner of Millbrook presiding, and upon the evidence the jury returned a formal verdict citing how and where the fatality occurred, and adding: "No blame can be attached to any of the train hands."

They also attached the following comment: "And we would suggest that the attention of the proper authorities be called to the many dangerous railway crossings in this locality, and we would request the Crown Attorney to call the attention of the municipal authorities and officials of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. to this very important matter in order that the public may have the protection to which they are entitled.

The personnel of the jury was: George McCartney (foreman), J. J. Preston, Isaac Fallis, F. W. Reynolds, E. D. Laing, F. C. Daw, W. A. Brown, Richard Johnston, Arthur Flack, Sam Jamieson, Wm. Davis, Herb Patterson.

The accident happened about 10.30 a.m. while the train was on the way to Port McNicholl, and about a mile north of Dranoel, the junction with the main line of the C. P. R. between Peterborough and Toronto. At the second crossing on the way to Bethany the railway intersects the highway at an angle of about fifteen degrees. The train was going north and Mr. Williamson was driving in the same direction. The road to the west of the railway approaching the intersection from the south. No embankment obscures the view at the crossing, but more than one hundred feet to the south a row of cedars borders the highway, with the lower limbs of a section of the tall hedge trimmed off.

The fireman was coaling up as the train approached the crossing and consequently was prevented from looking out from the west side of the engine, and the engineer at the window on the east side was unaware of the impending accident until he saw the horses loom into view on his side of the pilot. The impact followed in the next second as the engineer threw on the emergency brakes.

Mr. A. Cochrane of Cobourg, acting for Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, conducted the investigation, and the C.P.R. was represented by Mr. A. Osborne of Toronto and Mr. George Thornton of Smith's Falls.

The Evidence.

Dr. J. F. Hamilton of Bethany testified that death had been caused by a three-inch wound on the right side of the head, injuring the brain. None of the bones of the body were broken.

A. E. Stewart, Peterborough, who was the engineer in charge of the Port McNicholl train, said that he had left Dranoel at 10.10 a.m., starting the automatic bell before leaving.

"When I got about half way up the siding I whistled for the first crossing, and just east of the first crossing I whistled for the second, where the accident happened. When I was on the second crossing I saw horses' heads going across. The engine was between the cattle guards and the road planks. On the crossing we struck the waggon. Mr. Williamson was struck with it and thrown to one side. The horses came from the south side of the engine. I was in the cab on the opposite side."

Mr. Cochrane asked whether the fireman had given any warning.

Witness: "No. He was busy with his fire."

"What speed were you going?"

"Between 20 and 25 miles an hour."

"Was your bell still ringing at the crossing?"

"Yes."

"Is it a bad crossing?"

"It's a skew crossing. The road crosses at an angle."

Mr. Stewart said that the fireman could have seen the road approaching the crossing if he hadn't been busy.

After putting on the emergency brakes, Mr. Stewart stopped the train in four car lengths. "I went to the front of the engine and took off the boards that were broken from the waggon. Mr. Williamson was put in the baggage car, and we hurried to Bethany. When I first saw Mr. Williamson he was lying on the ground near the last coach. I looked all around the engine, but I couldn't see any marks where Mr. Williamson might have been struck."

R. G. Campbell.

Mr. Roy G. Campbell, West Toronto, was the fireman on the Port McNicholl train.

"About the middle of the siding at Dranoel," he said, "I heard the first crossing signal. I got down to attend to the fire. I can't say exactly where we were when the whistle was blown. The automatic bell wasn't stopped until we reached Bethany. It rang continuously from Dranoel to Bethany, even after the accident."

Witness said he didn't see the accident because he was firing. "I was firing one scoop at a time and closing the door each time as the engine is a difficult one to fire."

Was An Eyewitness.

Miss Lilly Hannah of Manvers Township, who was on her way from Bethany, saw the tragedy develop, but shut her eyes when the engine struck the waggon.

"When I saw Mr. Williamson he was near Morton's gate (188 feet from the crossing). He was looking toward Morton's on the west side of the road. The track is east of the road.

"I paid attention to him because the train was coming and I saw he wasn't going to stop. I waved my hand at him and pointed toward the train. He was still looking in the direction of Morton's and didn't see me. He didn't look toward the train until it was just about to hit him. His waggon was then on the crossing. He pulled on the reins as if to urge the horses on, and then I shut my eyes."

Witness said she heard the engine whistle, but couldn't remember how many times, as her attention was fixed on Mr. Williamson.

Replying to a juror, Miss Hannah said the horses were trotting when she saw them first. They slackened up, but started to trot again at Morton's. They were not running away or out of control as rumoured, according to the juror's report. Miss Hannah said they weren't going very fast, and that there was no truth in the rumour.

Edward Griffin.

Edward Griffin of Bethany testified that he believed Mr. Williamson's hearing and sight were both good. "He wasn't anyway stupid, either," said the witness, who didn't know there had been an accident until he saw the team freed from the shattered waggon running up the road.

Harry Smith, a Manvers Township farmer, was plowing about one hundred yards from the crossing. When he arrived there Mr. Williamson was being lifted into the baggage car. Afterwards he took charge of the team.

James Morton.

James Morton of Manvers Township said he didn't know Mr. Williamson.

"I was attracted by the noise of a waggon. I was two or three hundred yards from the road. I saw a team of horses trotting down the road. They slowed up as they came to my gate. The driver looked in. I thought the horses were walking when they left my sight. I couldn't see anything after the waggon passed my gate."

Mr. Morton regarded the crossing near his home as rather dangerous.

T. Andrew Kelly.

Mr. T. A. Kelly of Cavan Township said he had known Mr. Williamson for years. "I was talking to him the day before, and didn't notice anything wrong with his hearing. I thought that day that he was particularly bright.

NO TRACE OF BOX

all settled long ago." I said that from what I heard it was just started He went into the drive shed and called me in. He said the fortune-teller had told him that a woman had taken the box of money and gone east across a field into a yellow or funny colored house."

"I asked him if that was the secret and he said it was. I told him he had started this and it was up to him to straighten it out. He said he didn' know how to straighen it out. I suggested that we get a detective, and he said he would go to Cobourg and see what he could do."

Witness reverted to his conversation with Weir in the driveshed. "I asked him what the woman looked like. He told me the fortune-teller said the woman looked like her daughter-in-law, "and the fortune-teller's daughter-in-law looks like Mrs. Tompson", and he brought his hand down on the bench.

Mr. Thompson produced a small strip of painted wood which he said he had torn off his house. It was a dull faded yellow. "You won't have to argue about that," he remarked.

Under cross examination by Mr. Gordon witness corrected a previous statement. He heard first from his wife and not from Weir the rumor associating her name with the theft of the money. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Thompson received a malicious anonymous letter and a more insulting one followed. Witness said that neither he nor his wife blamed Weir for that. A rumor was circulated implicating in the loss of the money the five women who were in the house at the time.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that the direction of east alleged to have been particularized by the fortune teller had not been mentioned to Mr. Payne of Campbellford, witness' lawyer, until about a month ago, and did not appear at the pleadings.

Mr. Thompson answered that the specific direction would not make any difference.

"It was the whole talk of the country that a woman went east and that Mrs. Thompson took the money."

Mr. Gordon read a letter which he intimated had been prepared by Geo. Lawe in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for Weir to sign, with the intention of having it published in which the defendant stated that he didn't believe Mrs. Thompson was connected with the loss of the money. Mr. Thompson on the stand said the letter as he heard it read several times "was of no use to anybody."

Mrs. Thompson in her turn said the Dawe letter was unsatisfactory because the names of three other women who had been referred to in the malicious rumours were included.

"I wanted to protect myself, the plaintiff asserted. "I wanted mine to be the only name mentioned; I wanted a separate letter. The others could get letters if they liked.

She admitted that Mr. Weir had told her he did not blame her. "but others told me he did," she added.

Hugh Masterson.

Hugh Masterson, Mrs. Droupe, Mrs. Whitred and the plaintiff furnished the concluding evidence in the first half of the case.

Mr. Masterson testified that Mr. Weir told him of the fortune teller's description of the woman "as like the fortune teller's daughter in law."

Mrs. Thompson said that the route described by the fortune teller to Mr Weir tallied with the short cut from her place to Thompson's.

She affirmed that her family had always been on the most friendly terms with the Weir's, as indicated by her attentions to Mrs. Weir, until the rumors were heard.

The Jury.

The Jury empannelled in the case was: James Carruthers, Hamilton Township; L. Henderson, Cavan; G. A. Honey, Clark; T. H. Clements, Darlington; Fred Fligg, Newcastle; P. J. Bentley, Millbrook; R. Grandy, Manvers; W. H. Williams, Murray Township; R. H. Hubbard, Cavan; Bert Nichols, Brighton township; N. Pingle, Bowmanville; W. G. R. Bond Cobourg.

ACED NINETY-ONE FRANCIS HAMILTON DIED IN PETERBORO

Was Well Known Figure in East City, Where He Lived For Over 50 Years

The death occurred last evening, at his late residence, 38 Hunter street East, of Francis Hamilton, in his ninety-first year. The funeral will take place on Monday to the Little Lake Cemetery, with services at the house at 2 o'clock.

The late Mr. Hamilton was a well known figure in East City, where he had lived for over fifty years. He was a bright old gentleman, who worked his little patch of garden, took daily walks, went out regularly for his shave, and was very, very fond of an occasional game of checkers, when he took a keen interest in the beating of his opponent. A native of County Cavan, Ireland, he came to this country at the age of fifteen, and settled in New Jersey.

Over fifty years ago, he came to Canada, and settled in Peterborough when it was a place of very few houses of dirt roads and tallow candles. For twenty-three years he worked for Mr. Ames in the boot and shoe business on George stree, and for twenty-three years thereafter had his own business in the same line in East City.

Mrs. Hamilton died some weeks ago, in her 87th year. She was a hale and hearty old lady to the last, and a faithful companion for her aged husband. Of their eight children, six are living, five daughters and one son: Mrs. M. Tighe of Toronto, Mrs. C. L. Huffman, Mrs. John Speers, Mrs. Helen Russell and Miss Hamilton of East City and F. J. Hamilton of Montreal. There are fifteen grandchildren, six grandsons having served in the Great War and seven great-grand children living. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton resided for the last thirteen years of their lives with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Spears, 38 Hunter street east, in "the first brick house ever built in Ashburnham."

THE AVERAGE WOMAN NEEDS MORE BLOOD

Poor Blood the Cause of Headaches and Run Down Feeling.

To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined to the house either through household duties or the care of children, or both—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. The average woman has too little blood. Her nerves are easily irritated and she worries over little things; has severe headaches and backaches and generally feels worn out. With the woman who uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the condition is different. She is always well and the care of her children or household duties is a real pleasure. This is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich and purify the blood supply which brings vigorous health and strength. Mrs. H. BETHANY FAMILY GET PRESENTATION

Congregation of Church Give Mr. and Mrs. W. Westlake and Daughter Purse of Money.

BETHANY, Nov. 11. — Over a hundred people gathered on Wednesday evening in the basement of the Methodist church to bid adieu and God-speed to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Westlake and their daughter, Lillian. They were presented by Miss Sarah McMullen with a purse of money from the congregation, and the following address was read by Mr. Beckel:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Westlake and Lillian,—We, your co-laborers in the Bethany Methodist church are gathered together this evening to say farewell and wish you true success as you leave our community and take up your residence in Toronto. As life-long citizens of this village, it must pull very hard on your heart strings to make your home in a new and strange community. Yet we are certain that your decision was reached after very careful consideration. True, it is with sorrow we see you go, but we hope that you will be happy in your new home and that you will immediately find a new sphere of usefulness. Words are inadequate to convey our appreciation of your noble service rendered so cheerfully and successfully all these years. Every organization in our church has felt the influence of your leadership and your lives have been spent in the Master's service.

"We shall never forget your kind, loving, motherly goodness, Mrs. Westlake, and the Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Society will ever miss your apt, tactful leadership. Lillian, the Sunday school, the Epworth League and the choir will be that much less successful because your services have been withdrawn, and Mr. Westlake, we will miss your wisdom and direction in all the official boards of our church. We shall not forget and if we ever do, He who records the acts of men will remember.

"And now, before you leave, we wish to convey our thanks and express our appreciation, and we ask you to accept this purse as a token of love and good will, with the hope that you will purchase something needed in your new home and keep it in remembrance of your Bethany friends. And may the God who guides and blesses all, guide and bless you as you go forth to your new home and fireside.

"Signed on behalf of this congregation —James E. Beckel, Pastor, W. H. Lee, Recording Stewart, Alex H. Monk, S.S. Supt., Mrs. P. C. Brown, Pres. Ladies' Aid, Walter Axtell, Pres. Epworth League, Mrs. T. G. Ryley, Pres. W.M.S., Clarence Rowan, Choir Leader, Priscilla Howden, Sec. of Y.L.M.C.

Mr. Westlake, in replying on behalf of himself, wife and daughter, said it was over fifty years since he first came to the village of Bethany. In that time he had seen many changes in the village church. He thanked the assembled friends for their thoughtfulness, and in closing invited any and all to call on them should they ever have occasion to visit Toronto.

Impromptu speeches were also made by Messrs. Lee, Jakeman, Beer, Monk, Axtell, Brown and by Mrs. Ryley, Miss McMullen and Miss Howden, who represented the different societies to which the Westlake family belonged. Several selections of music were given by the young people and a verse of the hymn, "God Be With You," and the Mizpah Benediction brought this interesting event to an end.

Premier Poincare of France Rejects Suggestion in Speech to the Senate.

PARIS, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press)—"There is not a single Frenchman who doubts the solidity of France, and no foreigner has the right to doubt it."

Premier Poincare made this declaration to the Senate in a speech, in the course of which he rejected the idea of establishing a customs barrier along the Rhine for the benefit of the Allies, on the ground that it would simply result in turning traffic in other directions.

The question of resorting to compulsion against Germany to force her to execute her obligations, said the Premier, will be taken up at the Brussels conference.

Hello, Dearie

by Jack Lait

HAVE you ever given any concentrated thought to the metamorphosis in romance—leaving out all mention of its revolutionary effect on commerce, politics, feed-box tips, and fire alarms—of the telephone?

Why, it has upset the old maxims and reversed the old axioms of love, courtship, liaison and lolly-gagging. Only country clergymen and silly high school hoydens now write love letters that may arise to engulf the writer and the writee at the most embarrassing turn of the future. Your up-to-date correspondence between the co-respondents to-day—and to-night—goes over the telephone, where it knows just whither it goes and knows that wires tell no tales.

Party-line eavesdroppers, telephone-tappers, yes; but there is always still an element of doubt. It is hard to prove a voice when you can't produce it. And what one can't prove—well, what you suspect or think or conjecture is nothing, and what you can lay down, black on white and scarlet on black and white, that again is something else, brother.

By these same tokens, the telephone is the most insidious and mischievous little contraption that ever came out of the liars' heaven and the cheaters' paradise to give first aid to the thin alibi, the holdout, the tip and toss, the up and over and the trip and trim. For a nickel one can be as raw a liar as one has imagination and the gift of iniquity. And it all comes neatly wrapped in a mahogany booth, soundproof so that none may hear your tall ones save the sweetie, yourself and your own conscience.

And now they're yet spreading the use of the automatic, so that even the faithful operator may not listen in and get a sweet earful.

Of course, all this silver lining has a little cloud. A man can give his wife the rush act over the line, pleading nightwork in the office; but the wife can, also, call up at night and find out whether or not he is in the office. Many a wife works that racket ragged. She calls up a dozen times a day to ask his nibs how he is. It isn't that she really wants to know how he is—what she wants to know is where he is. And she finds out.

But—

Does he know where she is?

Calling and being called work in reverse manifestations. A gent can sit with one lady on his lap, telling another how much he misses her—while he may be missing further than he dreams. It's always safer to snap back a check-up call. If the party is where the party claimed to be, you can always start by coughing and saying, "Oh, I forgot to say——" If the party is not there, you may draw your own conclusions.

The entire, intricate machinery of loving, being loved, making love, receiving love, flirting, accounting, denying, squaring, explaining, spooning, squabbling, temporizing, deceiving, trysting, mistrusting, accusing, side-stepping, prevaricating, assuring—even proposing—has been shoved over on the slender, trembling wires. No wonder they tremble!

The doggone things know no distance, and now there are rates for after sundown and after midnight, so that high noon is no more hideous with the preposterous promises of traveling men out on their territories than is mystic midnight with the spurious sentiments of show girls on the road.

Great utility that the 'phone incontrovertibly is, it has reduced intriguing to an art so commonplace that the veriest chump may now deal double, where a century back it required a born bearcat to even attempt.

When Romeo had to climb balconies and other cavaliers had to walk past shuttered windows for hours with chances even of getting a glimpse of the enamorata or a pig-sticker between the vertebrae, it was so different. Now the shoe clerk walks into a public pay station, drops a plugged five pfennig slug into a cold slot, whispers a number and in half a wink (if the operator isn't manicuring her finger nails) he's dating Dotty for half-past eight at the foot of Grant's monument or the steps of the library.

It is so distressingly simple—so economical—so safe. Where is the suspense? Where is the surprise? Who wants to shoot fish?

Stand before any string of nickel-in-the-hopper boxes in a hotel or a depot or a cut-rate drug store. See the men and the women streaming in, spilling their fondest fancies and exploding their most confidential intimacies into hard rubber intakes, receiving back the sighs and the lies—even the kisses—through the black barrel of a blunderbuss that shoots high-caliber noises through a cowardly silencer.

Watch their faces, see their indignation if held up for a second by the incredible operations of the witchcraft that has taken two dimensions out of the earth—and left it only thick.

See them pantomiming and "acting"—smiling, screwing up their eyes, corrugating their foreheads, shaking their sides, gesturing with their disengaged hands.

So much for seeing them. Oh, boy—if you could hear them, too!

All the crimes from petty larceny to bigamy; all the comedies from Boccaccio to Bugs Baer; all the tragedies from Camille to Cammora; all the farces from Hopwood to women's rights; all the security of the Australian ballot without even having to mark an X to indicate where the body was found—and that isn't allowing for wrong numbers that the operator isn't responsible for and double-crossed wires at all.

I called up, myself, not so long ago—but that's another yarn, and we'll pass it.

However, all the aforegone rave calls, per se, for an anecdote in which a telephony is the piece de resistance, so to say it, and I feel coming upon me the narrative of a wrong-angled triangle in which a wire was the hypothenuse.

It Was On the Occasion of Harry's Stopping at a Drug Store On the Corner Below Flora's Seductive Two-Room Studio Apartment to 'Phone Home that He Would Be Detained that Evening—

It has to do with one of those boxes where one slips in the jit before the upstage bimbo at the exchange board will deign to hold converse. This type is tricky and treacherous, for the coin rings a loud bell. Furthermore, it chugs down the nickel with a mechanical gulp that can be heard on the other end, and which is fatal if one is just then saying or has just then said that said one is calling from office, home or somewhere else known to have service that is charged or flat.

How blatantly nonchalant is the man who, having only conventional business in one of these exposed bootheries, shoves in his token while leaving the door wide open, calls a number without shame or shrinking, and orders a ton of brick—yes, demands a ton of brick. But how the others tiptoe up and sneak in and try to shut the double-action doors without a squeak and drop in the nickel gently so it won't bang the gong so loudly, and how they put out their lips and fit them into the funnel and breathe their numbers from the chest lest some betraying sound filter through the burglar-proof seams of the doors.

And how those hunting numbers in the wrinkled, warped directories, turn suddenly to see if someone is spying from behind, as though one could fix on any specific item in the maze of even one passionless page in the Who's Whose of the nation's ears.

Of all the guilty-pleading sheep-stealers, I recommend the better part of any throng at any hour at any set of telephone boxes.

And among just such a conglomerate flotsam, with every conceivable sort of bone to pick and ax to grind and stall to get over and frame to put over, was Harry Dollmeyer, the well-thought-of dealer in laundry machinery.

Married, of course! When you find a portly party past forty, with a prosperous business, I can find you a married man. For the roly poly gents are essentially romantic, and romantic men are married. Somewhere, before he has reached maturity, he will have found one woman to whom he will have puffed and panted a proposal; and that woman will have snapped him up, for the ones with the impressive displacement are regarded as generous providers, safe propositions and good natured slobs, which combination spells ideal husbands.

How little the ladies know. In his heart, the fat man is always burning to be a lady killer. And he keeps trying himself out all the time. And by the same logarithms that make him a desirable husband, he lands. And when he does, he can enter into a quiet little affair with more enthusiasm than a kid shilling into a world's series game, and follow it further than the Black Hand will a traitor.

It is the thin man with the blue lips who can stay cold-bloodedly single and sneer at love and laugh as he breaks the hearts of working girls. But the fat man—even his chin goes double, and his heart can be subdivided like a worm and each portion will wriggle in another direction, and all keep on functioning at once.

Harry Dollmeyer, being short, stout and brunette, had a powerful weakness for them tall, thin and blonde. To one of those specifications, who would baby him a little and laugh at his wheezes and make herself difficult and expensive, he was duck-soup. And in the large city in which he lived there was no rarity of gold-haired, gold-toothed gold-diggers, just itching to take just such ducks.

At the time of this fable Harry was wrapped up in Flora Florede, a big-league infielder who accepted all chances, be they hot liners, high fliers or soft pickups. She wasn't above double plays, and she was a shark at nailing the hit and run. The squeeze she always played in close for, and no base lines had any terrors for her.

Within a week she had poor Dollmeyer cutting second and digging up the diamond.

Flora kept him guessing and chasing, beat him to every play and caught him asleep with his eyes open a dozen times a day. The more she kicked him around, the more wonderful he thought her.

Mrs. Dollmeyer was a quiet, simple, sane little woman, who never fought for troubles. She took her pudgy husband as a matter of course, and never spied or suspected or snooped. She had her domestic routine, her woman's club for the emancipation of the coming generation of quiet, simple, sane little women, and when Harry took her to a show once a month on cut-rate tickets, she purred all over and thought it was wonderful.

She never called him at his office unless she wanted to ask him something or tell him something. And he never kept her jumping to the instrument in their house to tell him over again that she loved him. Dollmeyer knew that he had a great little wife, and she had a great little husband as far as she knew.

It was on the occasion of Harry's stopping at a drug store on the corner below Flora's seductive two-room apartment to 'phone home that he would be detained that evening with visiting members of the Laundry Machinery Manufacturers' International Protective and Co-operative Association, that he would probably be quite late, when something unique happened: Mrs. Dollmeyer was out.

Out? Where in the name of nonsense would she be at six o'clock? The servant didn't know—hadn't any idea. Mrs. Dollmeyer had dressed and gone out at four, leaving instructions for dinner for Mr. Dollmeyer, with word that she was out. When would she be back? She hadn't said. Where had she gone? She hadn't said. Why was she gone? She hadn't said . . . Would Mr. Dollmeyer be home? He hesitated . . . he vacillated . . . Yes, he would be home—bet your life he would be home.

Here was a fine situation. Flora was waiting for him a few yards away, with a bottle of iced champagne in the cooler, dressed in a violet house gown—he knew the gown, he had happened to be with her when she bought it; he always happened to be with her when she bought things. The wine he had sent up himself—"just off the boat."

And here was Mrs. Dollmeyer out, somewhere; who knew where or for how long?

He felt a strange fluttering of his heart. He was in love with Flora, most certainly—indeed he was. He was wildly in love with Flora. But it didn't seem to gnaw at him so hungrily just then. He was wondering, wondering—

Yes, he must go home.

Hadn't he better run up to Flora's and tell her? H'm—no. She would wind her long arms around him and coax him to stay, and then he wouldn't want to go. She would order him to stay, and then he couldn't go. And just now he didn't want to see Flora at all—he had no immediate interest in Flora—he was bursting to get home—to fly home—

Ah, maybe his wife had gotten in, after all. She might have been detained somewhere. No. She had left a dinner order for him, alone.

He longed to get her on the end of a wire and lie to her. If he could only have had her ear for a second, long enough to deliver his counterfeit excuse, he would have run to Flora and spent an evening in the clouds.

Why hadn't his wife called him up, so that he could have given her the song and dance? And as long as she hadn't, and was evidently not worrying, why should he be so worried about getting in touch with her to assure her of something that wasn't so? Why? But he was. He would have given the profits on a dozen mangiers right then to be able to buzz to his home number that he would be late on business. Couldn't he leave word with the servant? Surely Mrs. Dollmeyer would be home some time, and then the message would reach her. No. Lying to the servant was no satisfaction. He wanted to lie to his own wife. And he was harassed, peeved, sore because she wasn't where he could do it.

He must go home . . . But what about Flora? If he just stood her up she'd give him a hurdle race for his life . . . so he must go and tell her . . . No! An inspiration. He would 'phone her.

Harry squeezed into the end booth and pulled the door hermetically shut and shoved his jitney into the appointed chute and named his number, in numerals, clear and by the syllable, as is the official language of the telephone.

As he waited a little woman came in and entered the adjoining booth behind Harry's back. She dropped a nickel in, and she, too, called a number.

Somehow the wires got tangled. Harry Dollmeyer, having already recited Flora's number, was amazed to hear over his line his wife's voice, asking for his—the office.

He stood, breathless.

How eagerly he would have cut in and answered his wife. But now he dared not, for fear Flora, whom he had already asked for, would switch in and make it a threesome. Mrs. Dollmeyer was patient, then she jiggled her hook, which clicked in Harry's ear. He felt the little fires running up and down his veins. Something possessed him. He said "Hello."

"Oh, hello, dearie," said Mrs. Dollmeyer. "Why is it so hard to get you?"

"I—I—is it hard? I didn't know it. How are you?"

Oh, this was beautiful—if only that plaguey operator wouldn't get efficient now and plug in Flora!

"I won't see you at dinner, dearie," said Mrs. Dollmeyer.

"No? What's up?"

"Club meeting—we're having dinner at Mrs. Taylor's. You see, dearie, there's a sort of international association conclave in town. I may be quite late."

"Oh—want me to call for you?"

"No, thanks. I'll take a taxi. Will you wait up?"

"I—I may not be in. If you're staying out, I guess I'll dine at the club."

"Oh, all right. If I'm through earlier than I expect I'll phone you there. Good-bye, dearie."

And Harry Dollmeyer stood there, dumb and numb.

How had it happened that when he was in a far-away drug store, calling an uptown apartment, his wife, on the other side of the city, had crossed wires with him while calling his office downtown? If this was coincidence, it was too absurd.

A little figure flashed past him, toward the door, looking neither right nor left. Harry Dollmeyer almost jumped out of his boots—it was his wife!

She was miles from Mrs. Taylor's and miles from home.

What the devil was she—

He started to follow, then he checked himself. Humph—hadn't he told her he was in the office? How would he explain being where he was? And what was it all about? His head was spinning, when against his tympanum came a clear voice:

"Hello."

It was Flora.

Dollmeyer turned to the receiver, his eyes seeing spots.

"Hello," he barked. "Harry—Can't see you tonight—No—Well, I can't, and that settles it—What?—Never mind where I get this stuff, YOU get THIS—I'm going home—What do I care?—Nothing's happened—Nothing you're interested in—Oh, quit arguing with me—Good night—"

And Flora never knew why her nice, fat fish gave her the air. And Mrs. Dollmeyer never will know why her nice, fat husband asked her as a special favor not to go to any more club meetings.

Dollmeyer went home and kicked the rocking chair and took four drinks and no food. And he fell asleep and heard buzzers and bells and busy signals and clickings until he came too with a bang—and there was his wife.

"Hello, dearie," she said.

"Hello, honey," said he.

"Any calls for me?" she asked.

"No," he answered.

"Good," she sighed.

But on the bedroom table he saw a message written for the missus by the maid:

"Mrs. Taylor 'phoned at ten."

And nice, fat Harry is still pondering. And your guess is as good as his—or mine.

But now he 'phones home every day and that's all the 'phoning he does.

CRAZE FOR JAZZING LOVELY MUSIC GROWS

Many Pretty Songs and Even Beautiful Hymns are Victims

The craze for jazzing standard music which has often included in the past many pretty and well-known songs that the general public might perhaps have been just as well satisfied with in their original tempo, has evidently spread of late to take in more and more of the old favorites. Just the other evening a hasty syncopated version of Mascagoi's famous Intermezzo from the Cavalleria Rusticana was heard, aeranged with the very latest ideas in chopped-off intervals. The lovely music that formed a setting for one of the most beautiful hymns to the Mother of God, that has been sung in many different churches in different languages, blared out in all the dissonance of its jerky tempo, with enough of the original music preserved to identify it, cut into with jagged. loud mazes of ear-splitting sound.

And just the other evening, also, "Martha" came in for some of this melodic torturing. The familiar strains of its many dainty, smooth-flowing numbers alternated in bits of old-time rhythm with the variations of modern ideas in the proper disposition of the dots which follow the little black notes on the keyboard.

It is natural for a cannibal to love his fellow man.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected For the Coming Year—The Treasurer's Report.

The annual meeting of the King's Daughters was held on Tuesday of this week, at which interesting reports of the year's work were presented. The Secretary's report showed that over fifty families had been visited and looked after by the society, and that 36 baskets of Christmas cheer had been sent out. The Home and Hospital had been visited regularly. Tea had been served by the members at the monthly open meetings of the Well Babies' Clinic and assistance given to the Peterborough Health Association at the annual Motor Show.

The Treasurer's report showed the total receipts for the year to have been $1,051.12, with disbursements of $810.23, leaving a balance on hand of $240.89.

Arrangements were made for the annual Bal Poudre, which will be held this year on New Year's night.

Officers for the coming year are: President, Mrs. A. W. Turner; Secretary, Mrs. B. B. Gillespie; Treasurer, Mrs. C. R. Widdifield.

THE MOTHERS' SOCIETY THANKSGIVING MEETING

Practical and Interesting Talk by .. Mrs. M. A. Morrison. ..

The Cradle Roll and Mothers' Society of George Street Methodist Church held a Thanksgiving meeting on Wednesday afternoon of this week, the President, Mrs. George Robertson, in the chair. The meeting opened with Thanksgiving hymn and prayer, followed by the minutes of the previous meeting, read by the Secretary, Mrs. Wallace Harris.

A practical and interesting talk to the mothers was given by Mrs. M. A. Morrison, followed by an enjoyable musical programme. A duet was rendered by Mrs. R. Routly and Mrs. A. E. Micks, Master Scott Medd gave a vocal solo and Miss Irene Breckenridge a reading. An exercise, entitled, "The Season's Thanksgiving," was a pretty contribution from fifteen of the small children.

The Thanksgiving offering was brought to the front by a small beginner in a little cradle. While the children sang the Cradle Roll song, a little baby, Billy Hamilton, was placed in the bassinet which had been decorated with harvest symbols. The Cradle Roll prayer was then offered, and a very entertaining meeting was brought to a close with the service of refreshments by Mrs. H. G. Walker and Mrs. P. E. Rutherford.

Gems of Thought

Never choose a friend who would urge you to pull out a single thread from the warp of character. Never choose for a friend one that you feel you have lowered your standard of purity and right one single inch to gain. If you cannot step up in your friendships you need not step down. Raise your standard and stand by it.

The best society for the oppression of pernicious literature is the family. The best legislation that can be passed for the prevention of the sale of vile literature can be passed by the father and mother. Daily teaching to love and study good and useful things will bring the boys and girls to detest the opposite.

A person doesn't wonder, when witnessing some movie scenarios. that so many young things feel it within themselves to write a thriller. The feat, to the adult mind, scarcely seems beyond them in complexity or originality.

When the yellow and purple flowers begin to blazen the roadside with glory, our thoughts begin to turn toward fall and winter. We think of the dreary blasts that before long will turn the bright colors of the past summer and early autumn into dull browns and drab, and then of snow and ice which will hold all nature bound for several months. But we know from past experience that the flowers will reappear and the world will again bask in sunshine and warmth. And thus it is in our lives—though trouble comes, joy will return again, and with it will come forgetfulness of the wintry sorrows through which we have passed.

Be as courteous at home as you are abroad; respect your family as you wish to be respected. Don't save all your smiles for strangers and all your frowns for home. You will never regret the kindness you have shown, while your thoughtlessness and indifference to your own may reap a bitter harvest. Life would be smoother in many a home if everybody would endeavor to understand his or her neighbor in the home, and if everybody were taken at the best and not at the worst.

LEST WE FORGET

While gallantly fighting in Belgium and France
A glorious band of heroes—checked the Huns advance.
Remembered the message — with backs to the wall.
They fought for us—Victorious to fall,

To them we give honor—where honor is due.
Remember the heroes—who gave their lives for you.
We who are living—to them owe a debt.
To-day pray in silence — lest we forget.

—G. Abraham, Peterborough.

WOMEN KNIT SACKS IN PUBLIC PLACES

Habit Engendered in War Time Seems to Have Survived.

A habit engendered in war time seems to have survived among those energetic ladies who were "sewing socks for soldiers" in the bad days. Now they continue to knit socks and do fancy work in many public places. At a concert the other evening, an energetic lady counted stitches and knitted busily between solos, pausing occasionally to clap for the performers. At a convention this week, one of the first-row holders knitted through the entire proceedings, absorbing knowledge about the conduct of missions at home and abroad while she made a fleecy wool affair. At a lecture given by Dr. Hughes of Toronto in the G.W.V.A. Hall last winter, a feminine member of the audience knitted with so much flashing of her bright needles that the speaker became irritated and spoke about it, not strongly enough, however, to make the lady desist from her occupation.

WHAT THE WELL BRED GIRL WILL AVOID AT HOME OR IN PUBLIC

She Does Not Shove and Push to Get the Best Seat the Way Some of Them Do in Peterboro.

She doesn't talk loud in public places.

She does not accept a valuable present from any man unless she expects to marry him.

She doesn't say she hates women and she has some good true friends among them.

She does not speak of her mother in a sarcastic way, and she shows her the loving deference that is due her.

She doesn't want to be a man, and she doesn't try to imitate him by wearing stiff hats, smoking cigarets and using slang.

She doesn't scorn the use of the needle and expects some day to make clothes for very little people who will be very dear to her.

She doesn't shove and push to get the best seat, and she doesn't wonder why in the world people carry children in the cars and why they permit them to cry.

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helpfulness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription, and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

A Thought

And that which fell among thorns are they which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares, and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no furit to perfection.—Luke 8:14.

The glory of life is to love, not to be loved; to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served.—Hugh

ON YOUR HIP

It is said that prohibition brought the hip into prominence. But international fashions have done more. They have made it the smart starting point for drapery, over-paneling and pleats. And in order to draw still further attention to this hip style there is the cabochon. It may be of beads. Or embroidery. It may be a buckle—but it serves to emphasize the folds, pleats and tucks that are used in the new sidewise styles which give a smart flat effect front and back.

You might not think that this long-waisted style would influence a hem. But it does. Invariably it slips away from the regular straight hemline and does all sorts of delightful Bohemian things. Sometimes it extends to the ground, or when a panel is used it ends in points, other time it flares. Whatever course it takes it remains true to smartness.

Fashion Hints

LARGE FIGURED PRINTS.

Brilliantly colored prints, in silk and cotton, are to be very popular this winter and spring. They were used extensively at Deauville last summer and are a pleasant contrast from staid, one-toned gowns.

SEPARATE SKIRTS.

Many attractive separate skirts are shown in large checks and plaids in heavy blanket materials. Brown and tan or grey is the most popular color combination.

FOR SERGES OR TWILLS.

Narrow fluted ribbon, usually of the black corded variety, is applied on the new serge dresses like braid, and is an effective trimming. Openwork braiding is also popular, and so are large eyelets.

LEATHER FOR TRIMMING.

The most advance showings for Palm Beach indicate that leather is one of the most popular trimmings. It is used for pipings, braided belts and appliqued motifs. Bright green and red leather are frequently used on white crepe frocks.

AFTERNOON FROCK.

An unusual afternoon frock is made of black crepe with sleeves of white georgette crepe, heavily embroidered in gold, and with front drapery caught up with a black ornament, outlined in white monkey fur.

FOR THEATRE OR OPERA.

Matelasse capes lined with gorgeous silks and satins and trimmed with monkey fur are quite as popular for evening wear as the more conventional velvet wraps.

Lobsters evidently use their claws for working purposes, as well as for weapons, having been observed carrying small stones with them while engaged in burrowing.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

The marriage tie is binding indeed among the Shawnee Indians. When a woman loses her husband she is supposed to marry his brother or nearest kin after a conventional period of widowhood.

If she dies first he is expected to marry her sister, or some member of her family. The children take the name of the mother.

The Mahdi is to Mohammedans, a [illegible] messenger of Allah to complete Mohammed's work by converting the world to his religion or exterminating unbelievers, and equitably to divide all mundane goods.

Fashions Turn to Gold

That ancient gentleman, King Midas, who turned everything he touched to gold, has had an incarnation this season as Dame Fashion, and from all accounts is enjoying himself tremendously.

He's left his fingerprints on almost every suit, wrap or gown one sees. Evening dresses are of gold brocade, or are trimmed with gold lace or made over gold slips or embroidered in gold patterns.

Suits and elaborate wraps are touched with gold embroidery or have gold brocade linings. The three-piece suits show blouses embroidered in gold. Evening wraps have an auriferous glitter. Daytime dresses are trimmed with gold thread stitching or gold lace.

Trimming Touch is Something New

Word descriptions have worn to a smooth familiarity all the different kinds of touches from that on the paternal pocketbook to the "touch of color" so familiar in fashion articles, but the trimming touch is something new.

A blind expert has it to perfection. For forty-two hours of every week she keeps a machine humming, putting bias folds of contrasting color on print aprons. The crossed points are in perfect line and the bibs and shoulder straps just where they ought to be.

She is one of twenty-five workers in the Industrial Department for Women of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, at 64 Baldwin street, Toronto. In that sunny third floor factory two lines of power machines run the full sixty-foot length of the room.

Lost Sight, Kept Gestures.

Beyond this buzzing double row two girls can be seen, one on either side of a table, busily folding nightgowns and using a measuring board as gauge.

One stands rigidly aloof, with head erect, no other movement being necessary, only her hands glide mechanically back and forth.

The other's pretty head bends above her work as though watching it. Every fold is followed by some caressing turn of neck or shoulders.

Suddenly you realize the import of the different attitudes. One girl had never seen. In her you miss familiar gestures. The worker who has lost her sight still keeps the little tricks of movement and the postures used when she could see.

DYED FADED WRAP SKIRT, DRESS IN DIAMOND DYES

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her old worn, faded things new. Even if she has never dyed before, she can put a rich, fadeless color into shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything. Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run.

TO FLOAT BELGIAN LOAN.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press.)— The Belgian Government has decided soon to issue bonds to the amount of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to raise funds for the improvement of the public installations in the Congo, including the construction of railroads. The yield of the gold mines, which is rapidly increasing, will be applied to the payment of interest and to make provision for a sinking fund.

The Government, it is stated, has received propositions for the floating of such a loan from several different American banks.

RECIPES

BAKED STUFFED MARROW
By Bertha Shapleigh
Of Columbia University

Instead of always having squash or the vegetable which is very much like, vegetable marrow, boiled, try stuffing and baking as follows:

1 small marrow or turban squash
2 cups bread crumbs
½ cup cooked, chopped meat
3 tablespoons fat (butter or bacon)
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons salt
A little pepper
1-8 teaspoon thyme
2 cups tomato sauce

Cut the top from the squash, or cut the marrow in halves lengthwise. Parboil for 15 minutes. Remove from water, scoop out the inside, and discard seeds, and place in a dripping pan. Sprinkle the inside with salt, and stuff. For the stuffing, fry the onion in the fat, add crumbs meat, the solid pieces of the part removed after parboiling. Season with the salt, pepper and thyme.

After the marrow is stuffed, bake it until it is set about 30 or 40 minutes. The top may be sprinkled with grated cheese before baking.

For the sauce, any of the concentrated tomto soups may be used, diluted to take the right consistency, and seasoned to aste.

BIZARRE COAT

A bizarre evening coat is made of shimmering gold tissue between bands of money fur and lined with scarlet.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP A LOSING PROPOSITION.

Utilities in Italy Will Be Transferred to Private Ownership.

ROME, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press)—The Chamber of Deputies will sit for only a fortnight. Premier Mussolini is expected to put through a heavy program, including the transfer of public utilities, telephones, telegraph and railways to private ownership, all having been operated at a loss. The premier will inform the Chamber of the Government's action in reducing the police, carabineers, royal guards, customs officers and detectives from 150,000 to 75,000.

The provisional budget for the first six months of 1923 to permit the carrying on of public business will be voted, it is thought, with little or no discussion.

TWO SMUGGLERS CAUGHT.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press)—Wool has been added to the commodities of contraband traffic along the border. The capture of two Bangor men and the seizure of two truck loads of wool alleged to have been smuggled into Aroostock County from New Brunswick to avoid the new tariff duty, was announced at the customs house yesterday. The wool weighed 6,200 pounds.

PARIS, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Premier Poincare told the Chamber of Deputies yesterday that the success of Allies in obtaining an armistice for the Greeks was far from being decisive. Brocaded chiffon velvet is to be very popular this winter because it adapts itself so admirably to the present styles. Frequently the patterns are outlined with beads for extra elaboration.

FOR NEGLIGEES

Tie-dyed fabrics are much in demand for negligees and house frocks. They may be had in different materials, including crepes, radiums and satins.

MIDDY BLOUSE

A flannel blouse middy has a collar and cuffs of checked gingham, which gives it a distinctive air. The accessories are detachable and correspond with the color of the blouse.

LACE FANS

Fans in black lace over metal cloth which brings out the design are shown for fall. They have a certain Spanish feeling which makes them harmonize with the high combs and lace and embroidered shawls.

LABOR PROJECT ILL-TIMED.

LONDON, Nov. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Speaking at Swansea, yesterday, Lloyd George termed the Labor proposal of a capital levy as crude, unconsidered and ill-timed. If Russia, which was the granary of Europe, could not feed its people unler Communism, how could the "little, densely populated corner, which even now has to fetch two-thirds of its food across the ocean, hope to do it." If disaster fell upon Britain in dealing with the machinery which ground corn for the people, it would never recover.

SPECTACULAR IS CHU CHIN CHOW A WONDER SHOW

Remarkable Extravaganza Played by Fine Cast Proves a Revelation to Peterboro.

REPEATED TONIGHT

Nothing half so spectacular or beautiful, no stage setting half so rich and warming-coloured, no costumes half so magnificent, and no entertainment half so diversified have been seen in Peterborough as are offered by the wonderful musical extravaganza, "Chu Chin Chow," which was presented at the Grand last night, and will be seen again twice to-day. This remarkable production, with a record of five years in London and two years in New York—Peterborough by the way is being shown the New York version in its entirety—stands on a plane by itself. Based on the Arabian Nights tale of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, it is a melange of practically every form of stage art. There is musical comedy and burlesque, drama and tragedy, music and dancing, a wealth of unusual characters, a score adorned with musical gems, scene after scene of striking beauty, the whole thing a feast for eye and ear alike. As a spectacle it of course surpasses anything ever before offered here and the natural wonder is that such a tremendous production could be sent "on the road" with any hope of financial success.

Messrs. Comstock and Gest have evidently spared no expense in offering "Chu Chin Chow" to the playgoers of this continent. The stage settings and the costumes alone have entailed enormous expenditure, and a magnificent cast of principals has been provided; headed by the gigantic Lionel Braham, who created the title role on this side of the water and by Virginia Howell, a most accomplished actress, with a long list of stage successes to her credit. Mr. Braham's work as "Chu Chin Chow" is one of the finest pieces of acting that Peterborough has ever seen. His realistic make-up, his dominating figure, the art with which he portrays the villiany of the Robber Chief combine to make a remarkable performance. Miss Howell's part calls for emotional work of great intensity, and she successfully and effectively meets the great demands that are made upon her ability. Her picture of the desert woman will live long in the memory of those who saw her last night. Don W. Ferrandou is another member of the cast who scores heavily. His role is that of the bibulous Ali Baba and he is responsible for much of the comedy of the production.

The greater part of the vocal work falls to Hannah Toback as the singing slave, Marjanah, and to Blakely Thompson as Nur Ada Huda, and both artists triumph. Miss Toback's beautiful soprano, pleasing alike in high and low registers, is heard to great advantage in half-a-dozen numbers and Mr. Thompson wins much favour in his serenade song and other numbers. The musical score is all tuneful, two of the best known gems being "The Cobbler's Song" and the duet, "Any Time's Kissing Time," the former sung by Charles Jones and the latter by Adelaide Mesmer and Don Ferrandou.

The spectacular features of "Chu Chin Chou" defy description. The wonderful slave market scene in the first act, a riot of color and animation, was one of the most striking stage pictures of the evening, and equally impressive was the fashion display of mannequins at a Bagdad bazaar, in which the costumes displayed were the last word in costliness and beauty.

Peterborough has been favoured by being given this opportunity of seeing one of the greatest successes in the history of the stage—especially favored, as "Chu Chin Chow" is here for three performances, thus making it possible to show the complete settings. Nothing like this production.

To-night's performance should be greeted by a capacity audience. It may be a long time before there is a similar chance again.

FORTUNE TELLER CASE SETTLED

but as I was going to Cobourg in a day or two, I promised to see Crown Attorney Kerr about it. I did so, and I understood a man was to come down from Toronto."

Mr. Kerr interposed an explanation that the request for a detective had been forwarded to Toronto, but no one was sent.

"I told Mr. Thompson I never started the rumour about his wife, but I said that if there was anything I could do I was willing to do it," defendant continued.

He referred to his interview with plaintiff relative to the first anonymous letters. "I went to Thompson's after I heard Mrs. Thompson wished and to see me. She said — "Did you put a letter in our box to-day?" I said, "No. What do you mean. She repeated her question, and she asked if I had written a letter to her. I told her that we didn't live far apart and if I had anything to say I'd be man enough to go over and say it personally. Mrs. Thompson asked me if I blamed her for taking the money and I said I didn't blame her or onyone else, he said it was a pity it was stolen if it ever was there. I took it that she meant my wife lied about the money. I wasn't pleased that afterwards she said she meant that my wife might have been delirious and mistaken".

Defendant said he was still on the best of terms with Mr. Drope and Mr. Masterson witnesses for the plaintiff, but he averred that they were unintentionally wrong when they had testified that the defendant had told them 'the woman went east"

'How could I have said it. The fortune-teller never said east and I never mentioned it."

Mr. Weir recalled a conversation with Mr. Droupe last summer. 'He told me I said it was east, and I said it was west. He said he would have to swear at the trial that I said east. I told him to go ahead that I wasn't trying to dictate anything to him."

Droupe and Masterson are two of Weir's oldest friends.

Had Letter Prepared

Defendant explained to Mr. Gordon that after receiving a notice from Mr. G. A. Payne of Campbellford, asking for an apology, he showed it to George Dawe of Roseneath.

"I wished to do all I could to stop the rumours and I asked Mr. Dawe to write a letter which I would sign and have published if it suited Mrs. Thompson. I wanted it to mention Mrs. Thompson and to include the other women. I wanted to stop the rumours and I would have carried it out, but the letter was never brought to me to sign. It was left with Mr. Dawe to be shown to Mrs. Thompson.'

Mr. Gordon—Was there anything else you could have done to have made things right?

Mr. Weir —Nothing I know of. When I offered to publish that in the paper I thought that was all I could do.

Was Only Curious

To Mr. Kerr defendant maintained that he had gone to the fortune-teller, an old woman named Booth, simply to satisfy his maidservant. He had gone a second time with his nephew George Dawe because Dawe said he didn't believe in fortune-tellers but would like to see one; and a third time with Tom Bradley for the same reason.

His Lordship suggested to Mr. Kerr that nothing was to be gained by pursuing that subject.

"They were curious", observed His Lordship. "There are hundreds of thousands of people in Canada who go to mediums. There are mediums in Toronto, who are making a fortune out of the credulity of people, and there are millions in the United States who resort to fortune-tellers. It is all out of curiosity."

George Dawe

George Dawe, general merchant at Roseneath, said he was a nephew of the defendant. He had prepared a letter at the request of Mr. Weir for publication to the effect that he did not blame Mrs. Thompson for the loss of the money. Witness said he showed it to Mrs. Thompson and she told him it was a very nice letter, and asked him to keep it.

"It didn't say anything about any other women Mrs. Thompson seemed quite satisfied with it. Mr. Thompson said it was all right as far as it went but it didn't go far enough.

"Weir doesn't suffer in that letter and he'll have to suffer", Mr. Dawe testified. "And I think he said, 'he made my wife suffer'. I think he wanted Mr. Weir to acknowledge that he started the story". .. ..

W. R. Taylor

The last witness W. R. Taylor recalled that he had suggested to Mr. Thompson on one occasion that he would find the neighbours were doing the talking and not Weir.

"Mr. Thompson said yes, and I asked him why he didn't go after J. Brickman instead of Mr. Weir, and he said, 'Brickman had no money.' "

CHINESE HAVE FONDNESS FOR BIRDS

In addition to using birds and their nests as food, the Chinese keep birds as pets. Their fondness for birds is one of the most pleasing features of their national character. Birds furnish them with much amusement.

Several kinds of bird pets are taught to catch seeds thrown into the air after jumping from perches held in the hand. Except in winter, one can always see people going into the open country early in the morning with their pets, to catch grasshoppers to feed them, and to teach their pets new songs.

FATHERS' AND SONS' DINNER

Second Banquet Under Auspices Trail Rangers and Tuxis Square a Success.

Last evening the second and most successful fathers and sons banquet was held in George Street Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Trail Rangers and the Tuxis Square.

Most suitable music was rendered by the Cunningham Orchestra during the various intervals of the miscellaneous programme, so acceptably carried out.

The banquet hall and tables were beautifully decorated with streamers and pennants in blue and white.

Rev. W. Harold Young occupied the chair, and with him were some of the distinguished speakers of the evening. Grace was said by Rev. S. Crookshanks, and Harold G. Walker was sworn in by the chairman as sergeant-at-arms for the evening.

During the different courses, served by the Ladies' Aid — many snatches of songs were heartily joined in by the happy guests, led by Rev. W. Harold Young.

The following programme proved exceptionally entertaining:

Toast to the Ladies' Aid—Harold Cuffe.

Speech in reply, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid—Mrs. Foote, secretary of the Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. S. R. Armstrong—Address on the great fascination there was in preparing a banquet for men.

George Robertson—Address on the programme carried out by the C.S.E.T. He explained the meaning of the word TUXIS.

Congratulations to the three prize-winners of the Thanksgiving Day Road Races, who belonged to the church.

They were — Dick Bates, R. J. Miller, and Jack Thornton.

Arnold Spencer—Violin solo.

Toast to the Sons—Mr. C. B. Adair.

Leo Cuffe—Speech in appreciation of Mr. Adair's toast, and he also stated the son's obligations to their dads.

Ashton Fife—Recitation: "When Pa Shaved Off His Whiskers."

Toast to the Fathers—Ted Outram.

Dr. Harvey—Address to the Boys, stating his motto, "There is no darkness but ignorance." He also explained full the "Ten Commandments" essential for every boy.

Kenneth McCannan—Solo, "When the Tide Comes In."

Rev. Archibald Wallace's Address.

The Main Feature.

The main feature of the programme was the address given by Rev. A. Wallace, who was introduced to the gathering by Dr. J. E. Middleton. This was a talk to the fathers as well as to the sons. "No man can be made to do wrong," stated the speaker. Though we have a hereditary weakness from our parents, we are not excused from our sins. We cannot go wrong and get away away with it. Sin is like a tree when it falls to the ground, carrying smaller trees and brush with it.

The speaker also emphasised the fact that there are children who are not born into the world, but are damned into it, and he gave a very suitable illustration of this fact. He outlined the type of boys that we all want, and gave words of good advice to both fathers and sons.

Some people are handicapped in life, admitted the speaker, but God will not only stand at the winning post to see who comes in, but He wants to know how they started. The speaker here gave several illustrations of all of his points.

In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Wallace stated that co-operation of the father and son is required to make a success in this life. Pull all the same way, and not apart.

The chairman expressed appreciation of the foregoing talk on behalf of the fathers and sons present, and accepted Mr. Wallace's proposal to come and conduct the anniversary of the Sunday School on a day to be set in the near future.

A STRAIGHT TALK TO EVERYONE USING DRUGS AND PILLS

Internal Bathing is the only quick relief and natural remedy for constipation, piles headaches, billiousness, stomach trouble, kidney and liver complaints, and kindred ailments.

Nothing that comes out of medicine bottle or pill boxes is going to put the bloom of health into your cheeks, the merry tingle into your laughter, or that glorious old zip back into your system which makes you spring from bed in the morning, eager for work and with a good appetite. Physicians are agreed since the dawn of history that the first step in bringing the body back to sound health is to make it clean inside as well as out.

Because ninety-five per cent. of all human ailments are attributed to the accumulated waste in the lower intestine which poisons the system. This is due to the sedentary life we live. Witness the increasing deaths from Cancer.

Don't temporize with pills and medicines. The natural way to rid the system and keep it free from impurities is by Bathing Internally with J. B. Cascade, which keeps the intestines sweet and clean naturally. You cannot have Constipation, Piles, Billiousness, Headaches, Stomach trouble, Kidney, Liver and other kindred complaints when the cause is removed.

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at th eWarne Drug Co., Limited.

CRERAR A POLITICAL AUTOCRAT, SAYS WOOD.

CALGARY, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press).—"I want to say to organized farmers everywhere in Canada that if they believe in the organization and want to save it, they will make a fatal error if they revert to the political party system," declared H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, discussing Mr. Crerar's letter of yesterday. In sermonizing the Farmer member, he said Mr. Crerar declared the member was representative not of Farmer, Labor or business man, but of all, but how, he asked, could a member represent all interests and not represent any particular interest. The crux of the whole controversy was that Mr. Crerar believed in organization, but not in the organization of the people. His proposed organization was all on the top, none at the bottom, which was entirely consistent with his whole political attitude. It was political autocracy as opposed to political democracy.

Mrs. Walter Thorpe First Woman Convicted as Bootlegger.

Mrs. Walter Thorpe, St. James Street, south of the Exhibition Park, pleaded guilty to bootlegging, before Magistrate Langley in the County Police Court yesterday afternoon, and was fined 200.00, and costs.

The charge was for "having and selling" an intoxicating liquor contrary to the O.T.A.

The information was laid by Mr. Joseph Stewart, who, with Provincial Constable George Cookman, made the midnight raid on Mrs. Thorpe's house last Saturday night, and uncovered about 100 gallons of homebrew, and also an active mash.

Mrs. Thorpe is th first woman convicted of bootlegging in Peterborough.

The Government analysis of the liquor revealed an alcoholic content of 23 per cent.

Frank Hourigan, who pleaded guilty to purchasing some of Mrs. Thorpe's concoction, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200.00. and costs, or three months in jail.

Mrs. Thorpe paid her way to liberty, and Mr. Hourigan took the winter term.

PORT McNICHOLL LINE IS HUMMING

With Movement of Grain Trains To Montreal

C.P.R. grain trains are figuratively treading on each other's toes in their hurry to move the immense stocks from Port McNicholl to Montreal. Only the the traffic department knows the extent of the present transportation and whether it is making new records.

The elevators of Peterborough's cereal mills are getting their share of the grain, including wheat ,oats, and barley, and one whole train that came down from the West last night was consigned to the Quaker Oats Company, which is an indication of their participation in the grain rush.

Sidings along the Port McNicholl line of the C.P.R. have been at times clogged with trains waiting for orders giving the richt-of-way to push on through another stage of the long haul.

And train crews are taking all the "runs" they can get. "A hundred dollars a pay" was a young brakesman's gleeful measure of his work in this current peak period, and the railway youth of Havelock are taking their toll of the harvest.

EVERY CANADIAN TO GIVE HELPING HAND

Contribute to Relief of Fire Sufferers Says New York Club...

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(Canadian Press)—That every Canadian in New York should lend a helping hand to the victims of the recent disastrous forest fires in Ontario has been the view of the New York branch of the Canadian Club during the past several weeks. With this in mind they have been actively cooperating in arrangements for the benefit concert in aid of the sufferers which will take place tomorrow, Sunday evening, in the ball room of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, under the auspices of the New York Globe.

From the time the project was mooted the Globe received a stream of congragulatory messages over the telephone, showing from the first that the concert was going to be a big success. One enthusiastic Canadian New Yorker said that while he believed in helping the starving Russian and those anywhere in the wide world who were in distress, still if there were need among the people of one's own kin they should get first aid.

The feature of the entertainment is to be the filmed drama "Hearts Aflame" particularly well adapted to the purpose as it is a tale of dwellers in timber country, a tale depicting life something like that which the fire victims were leading before the disaster overtook them. Ten acres of forest land were burnt over while the camera man turned his little wheel. This is the picture in which Anna Q. Nilsson, Frank Keen, Craig Ward and Percy Hilburn were painfully burned while the forest fire was being staged.

Among the first musical artists to offer her services was Miss Evelyn McNavin, contralto, daughter of Dr. Malcom MacNavin, and a native of Chatham, Ontario.

Professor Hall, Canadian Trade Commissioner, will be on hand to assist in the opening ceremonies, and of course the Canadian Club will be largely represented.

The Globe management made arrangements to defray all expenses so that every penny paid for tickets will go to the fire sufferers.

Patrons of the concert are: ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, James Forbes, Reginald Barker, Louis B. Mayer, J. Robert Rubin, Marcus Loew, E. F. Albee, B. S. Moss, S. J. Kaufman and Will B. Hays.

The patronesses are: Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, Mrs. Chas. H. Sabin, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Arthur Livermore, Mrs. E. L. Doheny, Mrs. Henry Anderson Goman, Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Miss Emily Smith, Miss Ethel Stubbins and Mrs. Walter J. Salmon.

MOTORLESS PLANES TO REVOLUTIONIZE TRAVEL

How the Glider Operates—Lack of Motor Helps—A Big Field.

Enthusiastic over the recent sailplane or glider tests held in Germany, prophets are already asserting that large fleets of motorless planes will soon be travelling through the heavens, transporting passengers and freight from city to city. Some see the air become as the ocean—a navigable body, with sailplanes cruising from port to port.

Such predictions are optimistic. I doubt if you or I will ever live to see that day.

However, although the commercial field of the sailplane is limited, it will soon—and very soon—come into common use, I know, for sport and for methods of aeronautical research.

Already the sailplane has proven of inestimable value in aero-dynamics. Experiments involving radical departures from conventional practice have been tried out at very low cost, and with little risk.

Lack of Motor Helps.

Absence of the motor contributes to the accuracy of such tests.

With the sailplane we have also solved important problems of airplane construction. We have learned from it, for instance, that thick wings of very large span, and not nearly so wide as the customary design, can be constructed at a reasonable weight and cost.

But it is as a sport that most people will be interested in gliding. A new glider should not cost more than a second-hand Ford, and the upkeep will be almost nothing.

New thrills will come. Only think of sailing at will, thousands of feet aloft, dependent upon nothing but yourself and the wind! You will find, if you try it, that sailplaning is one of the most thrilling sports yet devised.

How Glider Operates.

Up on the hilltop we wait for a favorable wind. The plane, pulled by eager hands, glides rapidly to the take-off. The plane leaves the ground. At the pilot's cry, all hands release it. He is off!

The sailplane glides forward in what seems an uncanny silence to people accustomed to the airplane motor's roar. It meets the uprising gusts of air as it descends into the valley, and then it begins to ascend, it soars gracefully to and fro along the slope of the hill, passing and repassing the starting point.

Time elapses and thus our sailplane dips and glides off into the valley, landing maybe 10 miles away.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Armor is Back--For Women

By MARGARET ROHE.

NEW YORK.—In metal suit the ancient knight was on his mettle, too. He'd clank and swank around a bit and rescue one or two fair damsels who were in distress, as good knights ought to do. He didn't have to press his suit, but often he would woo.

Today the tables are all turned. The maid now wears the metal and she is on her mettle, too, and also in fine fettle, but 'twixt the metal suits of knights and metal gowns today there is much difference in pounds and also looks, I'll say.

You really never saw before such gorgeous gold brocade, such silver tissues shot with hues that make the rainbow fade. The sheik would shriek with envy, I am sure, if he could see this wonderful metallic stuff wrought so exquisitely.

And Besides—

And just to show how precious all these gorgeous fabrics be, they've got pet names to show their individuality. "The Paroquette" at Altman's shown is really quite a bird. It shows the parrots on a branch their rainbow feathers blurred with gleaming threads of shining gold.

The background shimmers too and you can get this same design in almost every hue. "Pre-Catalin" will win you quite, of this I feel most sure. Its pattern's Anti-Volstead and it has a wicked lure.

The motif, figured o'er and o'er, will really get your goat. It shows a girl in evening gowns, a man in dinner coat, a waiter in the offing and a table round.

I'm loath to tell you that a bottle of champagne, between the pair, stands radiating golden gleams here, there and everywhere. In several color schemes this comes all shot (half shot) with gold. In silver you can have it, too. It isn't quite so bold.

And That's Not All.

In silver, too, comes "Chauve-Souris" with violet, green and black cubistic motifs woven. All these fabrics on the back are more entirely metal, shot with color here and there, and some folks even turn them wrong side out for evening wear.

The Mallison and Cheney metal fabrics are superb. You really can't describe them. To do justice you must blurb. For evening gowns and evening wraps these tissues are so rare I'm sure in even Sheba's day naught with them could compare. The metal brocade straight-line frock with fur round sleeves and hem is quite bright allright Muscovite. It is a Russian gem.

And when my lady swaggers forth in metallized attire she scintillates and sparkles so you'd think she were afire. Her poor male escort sombre hued, she casts quite in the shade, yet though I am a feminist I sometimes am afraid it's just her clothes that scintillate and not, by chance, her brain. The dull garbed male is oftimes the more "brilliant" of the twain.

Chinese Take Up Radio

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—Get ready to tune in on grand opera.

Prolonged attempts to get the co-operation of large opera companies with radio broadcasting organizations have finally been successful. On the evening of Nov. 13 the Chicago Opera Company will give its first complete radio opera, the first ever to be broadcasted by wireless.

The opera selected will be "Aida" and Rosa Raisa, famous Russian soprano, will sing the title role.

Impresarios and music critics the country over have wondered over the possibility of sending out grand opera by means of the ether waves. Some of them doubted its practicability. But many expressed their curiosity to see how much such an experiment would be received by the radio public.

First efforts to broadcast grand opera were made through the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York. But nothing was done and the New York company finally decided it would not send out any of its operas by radio.

The experiment here is receiving the hearty co-operation of the Chicago Opera Company officials and the artists. "Aida" will be presented in the Auditorium Theatre on the evening of the 13th and it will be from there that the music will be sent to the broadcasting station of KYW, and out into the air for reception of radio fans who can tune in on this station.

Opera selections were broadcast last year, through station KYW and by artists of the Chicago Opera Company. But the music of last year was merely a sample of what the managers intend to broadcast this season.

ROSA RAISA

STOMACH TROUBLE "INDIGESTION"

Relieved By Burdock Blood Bitters

The sufferers from dyspepsia, indigestion or other stomach troubles who has to pick and choose his food is the most miserable of all mankind.

Even the little that is eaten causes much torture, and is digested so imperfectly it does but little good.

Mr. Wm. Kruschel, Morden, Man. writes:—"Some time ago I had quite a serious case of stomach trouble, indigestion. I could scarcely eat anything, outside of some light food, and even then I generally had pains after each meal. I tried many different medicines, but without any improvement, and had almost given up hope of ever being well. A neighbor recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it a short time I felt much better, so I continued to use it until I was completely relieved. I can honestly say that B.B.B. has done wonders for me after all other medicines failed."

AMATEUR LIST GROWS.

That interest in wireless has grown considerably is shown by the fact that, in the last 15 months, the number of amateur stations in the United States has increased by more than 50 per cent. There were 10,809 licensed amateurs on June 30, 1921, and 16,467 on Sept. 1, 1922.

BIG RADIO DEMAND.

The enormous demand for radio products in the United States may be surmised from the fact that production increased 11 times from 1914 to 1919, reports the United States Bureau of Standards. The estimated value of apparatus made during 1921 has been placed at $100,000,00.

GIVE THEM A SALT BOX.

Pigs and Other Live Stock Require Mineral Food.

The feeds that we give our young animals are the body-building materials, and are just as necessary to the young pig, calf, or colt as are bricks and boards to the carpenter engaged in building a house. House building and body-building are alike in that both depend upon the structural materials furnished. When we see a fine house we are at once impressed with the evidence that is before us, in good and abundant material supplied the workmen. When we see well-grown, fine and sleek calves and pigs we have the same thought—that abundant body-building material has been supplied. On the other hand, when we observe a shack built of scrap lumber, or see a calf with its back up, pot bellied, under size, or a pig crippled and off its feet, we are at once struck with the thought that someone has not supplied the very necessary materials for body building or house building.

Need of Lime and Phosphorous.

Two materials that are necessary in growth and body building are lime and phosphorous. Young animals running with their dams on pasture will as a rule show no evidence of a shortage of these minerals in their development, since the milk of their dams is adjusted to the mineral requirement of the young. But as soon as the young animals become dependent on the feeds given them by man their case is different, and they are frequently very much neglected, in that a proper selection of feeds is not made for them. A calf or pig that is shut up tight in a pen has no choice; it is entirely at the mercy of the owner or feeder. Should the feeds supply all the requirement of growth, then all is well and good. If the feeds do not supply the requirements, then development cannot take place. With animals confined in pens the mineral food shortage is usually pronounced, unless some special provision is made to supply such. The effect of its absence is shown in unthrifty, crippled or dwarf animals.

Results of Experiments.

In an experiment recently concluded, where two groups of pigs were being fed the same grain ration, a remarkable difference was noted in one group that received in addition to the grain ration free access to a mineral mixture or salt box containing the following essentials to growth: Lime, bone meal, rock salt and charcoal. The presence of the salt box in the one pen during the 124 days of the feeding experiment gave an average gain of 132.8 pounds per pig, while the pigs in the pen in which there was no salt box gave an average gain of 69.5 pounds per pig in the 124 days. The presence and use of the salt box was accountable for a gain of 63.5 pounds per pig. If young stock are out on good grass they can generally get what minerals are required for their body development. But the confined animal gets only what you give it, and the giving is indicated by the condition of the animal. If the animal does not thrive your giving has been misdirected or stingy.

Watch Your Stock.

Look at the pigs and calves on your farm. Are they "off their feet," "up in the back," "stunted," or "scrubby". If so, then just take a look in the mirror when nobody is around and see the fellow responsible for the condition. When you recognize yourself as the stingy or neglectful feeder, proceed at once to the workshop and make a mineral-salt box, fill it and see that the young animals never want for the essential bone and muscle-building elements. The pigs and calves will be more apt to thrive, and they will also have a better opinion of you.—L. Stevenson, Sec., Ontario Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

Playing HIGH and LOW With HEELS

When Low Heels Are Worn the Muscles Are Strained in Bending Forward.

"Women Have Been Wearing High-heeled Shoes So Long Now That Nature Has Lengthened Certain Leg Muscles and Shortened Certain Others to Accommodate the Foot to the High Heel. You Cannot Suddenly Change from a Two-Inch Heel to a Three-fourths-Inch Heel Without Straining the Muscles and Without Injuring Health. Heels Should Be Lowered, Lift by Lift, Covering a Period of a Year to Eighteen Months."

The Wearer of High Heels Has to Strain Her Muscles to Bend Backward.

THAT interesting game of playing high and low with the heels of women's shoes continues unabated. First one authority ascribes about all the ills under the sun to the wearing of high heels and next along comes another and in a manner equally convincing shows how the whole trouble is due to low heels. As a matter of fact, both may be right, for some require high heels and others low ones, but the majority may find a medium heel most satisfactory.

Dr. W. A. Hill, dean of the American School of Practipedics, says that there are "thousands of women who are being treated by physicians for troubles that could be avoided if the sufferers only knew the kind of shoes they required. The introduction of the shoe with the extremely low heel is increasing foot trouble, but the only thing to do is to bring the heel back to normal. Unfortunately our women have been wearing high-heeled shoes so long now that Nature, quick to adjust herself, has lengthened certain leg muscles and shortened certain others to accommodate the foot to the high heel.

"You can't take the woman who has been wearing a two-inch heel and plunge her into a three-fourths-inch heel without straining the muscles and without injury to her health. If the heel must be lowered, it should be done lift by lift, covering a period of a year to eighteen months, and not all at once."

By the way of illustration Dr. Hill cited the case of a hypothetical woman of society who read in a fashion article that low-heeled sport shoes were the thing. She introduced a pair at the golf club the next morning. They were much admired and she spent the day in them, although she was noted in that town for the high heels she wore. She wondered when she went home at night why she was "all in," just as many a stenographer wonders why she cannot do her work, when the trouble lay with her new high-heeled shoes.

The society woman went on wearing her low heels day after day until finally she succumbed to neuritis and was ordered away by her physician. As she was not going to indulge in sports on her "rest cure" but was going to spend her time on the piazza of some fashionable hotel, she took along her high-heeled shoes she had been used to wearing. The consequence was that she came home cured, her backache gone, because she had given her leg muscles a chance to get back to normal.

The society woman and the stenographer were sisters under the skin in suffering the same effects from extremes of the same cause. In the stenographer's case she had to strain her muscles to bend forward and the society woman had to strain her muscles to bend backward. Remember this the next time the salesman tries to sell you a pair of low-heeled shoes. You tell him they make you feel as though you were going to fall backward, and he replies:

"Oh, yes, madam; I know. They all feel that way at first, but they get used to it." Insist upon having your heels fitted.

Dr. Hill says he can pick out the woman whose heels are too low or the woman whose heels are too high by the way she walks when he is looking down from the top of a building, so perceptible is the effort to gain the correct body balance.

The way to ascertain the proper height of heel, according to Dr. Hill, is by letting your foot drop naturally on the ball, getting the shoe clerk to grasp it firmly around the ankle to hold the muscles taut and to measure with a rule placed under the foot at right angles with the heel.

Physicians of the Reconstruction Hospital of New York City advise housewives to don low-heeled shoes upon rising to prepare breakfast. Altogether too many women risk painful flat feet by putting on flat bedroom slippers to prepare the morning meal and then continuing to wear this footgear throughout the forenoon until the household chores are done.

Straphangers on crowded cars are advised to stand pigeon-toed, throwing the weight of the body on the outer bottoms of the foot if it is necessary to stand for any length of time. It may look funny, but it relaxes the muscles which support the foot arches and which, if stretched too much, will eventually fail to do their duty. These physicians say that girls who wear high-heeled pumps with beach suits have the right idea for avoiding weak or flat feet. Even children with a tendency to weak feet risk the probability of this painful disfigurement by going barefooted or in flat-soled shoes. Activity may save them, for it is improper standing for long periods without raised heels which breaks down the foot arches.

In addition to surgical correction, where such is required, certain exercises are prescribed which assist in effecting improvement.

The simple, easily remembered rule emphasized for avoiding or correcting flat feet is: Wear heels and walk, toes forward, on the outer edges of the shoes. The "toes out" standing postures and walk is now held responsible by orthopedic authorities for many cases of flat feet.

IS DIETING DANGEROUS?

IS dieting dangerous? Yes, declares one medical authority who has investigated the results of dieting and says that he has found them to be unfavorable because "those who go on a diet defy nature and if on a strict diet may look ill and anxious." In the opinion of this writer who is the medical correspondent of the London Times, the foods one wants or craves are the ones that do him good, and, conversely, the ones he does not like do him no good.

"Diet, in spite of the oracle," continues this writer, "is not a matter of proteids and carbohydrates. It is not even a matter of vitamins. It is a matter of nourishment," he says. "Our bodies are wonderfully intelligent in expressing their own wants. Their voices are the voices of appetite, and appetite is, generally speaking, a safe guide.

"We recognise this quite clearly in some directions. Thirst, for example, is usually accepted at its face value, and any one who proposed to eliminate all fluids from the daily intake would be disregarded. With this single exception there is almost no natural inclination which some doctor or other has not written down as a false counselor. Indeed, the first qualification for constructing a scientific diet seems to be a firm determination to set nature at defiance.

"Even the great anti-diabetic diet, which has had for nearly a century an unchallenged sway, is now tottering to a fall. We begin to doubt whether the best way of treating diabetes is to withhold all starchy food from its victims. For though the output of sugar is very high in diabetes, it does not follow that the output represents excess. It may represent failure to store adequately. If so, cutting sugars and starches out of the diet may be equivalent to starving the patient.

"Most diets, in the last issue, are forms or modifications of starvation. They are analogous to attempts to correct the defects of an engine by alterations in the fuel supplied to it. As a rule the engine runs worse than ever in consequence of this tinkering.

"The writer, indeed, is prepared to go further than that. He has been at pains to collect instances of the rapid deterioration of health produced by 'diets' of various kinds. Some of these are of a very striking character. Thus, a fit though rather stout man succeeded in reducing his weight, but found that after this he was never free from boils. When he was at length persuaded to return to his normal habit the boils rapidly disappeared.

"In another case a diet was drawn up for the purpose of lowering what was regarded as a high blood pressure. The result was a condition of depressed spirits of so marked a nature that the diet was eventually discarded. Thereupon happiness and buoyancy were restored.

"These diets were all constructed on the 'omission' principle. Some special food element had been carefully excluded because it was supposed to exercise a harmful effect. Yet in no case was there any evidence worthy of the name that the symptoms it was sought to remove bore a direct relationship to the banned food element. The diets, in fact, like most diets, were guesswork. They represented a mixture of prejudice and pseudo-science. In one case 'animal food' was excluded because human beings are possessed of grinding teeth like horses (and so, presumably, ought to live exclusively on oats); in another all starches were excluded because fat is created largely out of starchy and sugary food elements.

"In both cases the patients were unfit people whose unfitness bore no relation whatever to their food. Yet because they were unfit their digestive organs were weak. The 'diets' achieved nothing except fresh disturbances of these organs. This, however, is no argument against a general reduction of the quantity of food eaten. There are very few people who cannot, with advantage, eat less than they do. That is the true and valuable form of diet. For the quality remains the same.

"Quality, in this case, represents habit—probably the habit of a lifetime. In other words, it represents the accumulated experience of all the organs of the body. To tinker with that experience in middle age is exceedingly unwise. For in middle age the 'margin of safety' is growing narrow, and mistakes are likely to be paid for at a high price.

"This is more readily understood when it is borne in mind that our food is not only for nourishment. Part of it, at least, is spent just as part of the national revenue is spent, in measures of defence.

"We are assailed all our lives by the ever-present germs of disease, but a most intricate and delicate mechanism of resistance protects us. This is constantly being renewed and strengthened, and many food elements are employed in the process. To cut these out of the diet may well produce such a weakening of defence that the enemy may gain entry to tissues or even blood stream. In that event serious illness, or even fatal illness, may supervene."

The FLAPPER of 4000 YEARS AGO

ANYONE who thinks that the flapper is a product strictly of the 20th century is due another guess, for this variety of feminism flourished some 4000 years ago. A noted flapper of those ancient days was Aashait and she was a queen in fact. Her bobbed hair and her pet dog would have gained her speedy admittance to any "flapperdom" now existent. But Aashait was bored by the monotony of her existence and passed away at the early age of 22. However, her subjects gave her an elaborate funeral to make up for the excitement she had missed and then erected a handsome sarcophagus in her honor. The coffin containing the young queen's remains was recently located by an expedition headed by H. E. Winlock and is now in a Cairo museum.

The sarcophagus, as described by a writer in The Pathfinder, is a magnificent example of early Egyptian art. On one side is sculptured a representation of the palace doorway and the balcony above from which Aashait was supposed to gaze out upon the world through two graven eyes. She is represented as sitting with her dog under her chair and a maid behind her who is fanning her with a duck's wing. She is seen drinking milk given by a pair of cows ushered in her presence along with two calves. A maid is handing her jars of sweet-smelling perfumes and other attendants are heaping a table before her mountain-high with food.

Queen Aashait's remains are in a wooden coffin that is contained within the sarcophagus. The box is severely plain, the fine-grained wood being relieved by bands of gold along the edges and by carved prayers. On the lid is painted an astrological almanac, giving the rising of the stars and the position of the constellations through the 12 hours of the night. Long magical texts cover the inside of the coffin. Aashait's body had originally been laid out in a mummiform cartonnage and over her had been piled masses of bed sheets bearing the royal palace mark. However, about 1600 B. C. thieves ransacked her tomb of almost all its precious metals. Only a few beads from her necklaces, a shell bracelet and two silver bead anklets remain.

Why Judges Wear Wigs

THE Law, like every other profession, was largely in the hands of the Church during the Middle Ages, and when lay pleaders were first introduced they wore a special kind of head covering, to distinguish them from their clerical brethren.

This headgear became a recognized part of the lawyer's dress.

When (in the sixteen hundreds) the wig was introduced into England from France, all classes of "gentle folk" adopted the new fashion; courtiers and doctors, officers and lawyers were all bewigged. Indeed, the wig was an essential part of clerical dress, nor was it officially discontinued as such till well into the last century.

With the conservative legal profession, however, it was still preserved as part of the court uniform, and today a barrister cannot "be heard" without his wig—he would be in much the same position as a soldier appearing on parade "improperly dressed"!

One Light for Several Rooms

THE efficiency of the electric lamp may be doubled or trebled by means of a system recently patented by William M. Grosvenor of Grantwood, N. J., who proposes to dispose of the source of illumination in an opening in the wall so that the lamp's rays may be shed into two or three rooms or compartments at the same time. This is said to answer all purposes where a moderate illumination is desired, such as in bedrooms or hallways.

The openings into each room are protected by frosted or ribbed glass so that the privacy of any of the rooms served by the lamp may not be interfered with, and shutters are provided in order that the light may be excluded from any of the rooms when it is so desired.

To Send THOUGHTS by WIRELESS

WILL the time come when man may be able to communicate, not merely words, but thoughts to distant points by means of the radio? Words, after all, are a poor way of expressing thoughts. Man does not think in words, but in ideas, or sometimes in pictures. Often you have the idea quite clearly, but there seem to be no words into which it can be put.

The whole process of speech is either electrical or something very like it, scientists explain. An idea is conjured up in one part of the brain, which passes it on by means of waves or currents to another part that is in control of the speech organs. These describe as well as they can the thought that calls for expression.

It was discovered some time ago that strong emotions exercised an effect upon very delicate electrical apparatus. The waves that go from the thinking portion of the brain to the part which looks after speech are strong enough to be detected and recorded.

Further, scientists know that these influences can be felt by other persons, even if no word is spoken. Telepathy, that is the unspoken communication of ideas between two individuals who are in sympathy, is a proved fact which no reasonable person would question nowadays. It is caused by these currents or waves which pass from one part of the brain to another.

If the currents are electrical, as modern investigations seem to show that they are, there is no reason why we should not devise apparatus capable of responding to them. Already scientists have made instruments so sensitive that they will measure the heat of a lighted match a mile or more away.

An inventor who has been engaged for some years upon this line in wireless claims to have had considerable success. By means of a delicate receiving set of special design, he has been able to record a person's emotions, and to transmit them through the ether so that they could be felt and understood by others.

If this department of wireless is developed, as it doubtless will be, the conversations of future years will be conducted somewhat as follows:

After calling up a friend, you will place over your head the transmitting appliance, which will consist of a light metal band containing an extremely sensitive recording instrument.

Not a word will be uttered. Your thoughts will flow on, and each of them will produce its effect in the transmitter. A tiny wave will be set up, which, after being magnified thousands of times by a series of valves, will be sent out from the aerial.

Your friend's receiving set will capture the wave—or rather a minute fraction of it—and, after amplifying it, will communicate it to him. Thus the thought generated in one mind will be reproduced exactly in the other.

WHAT a GHOST REALLY IS

THE general attitude towards the question of ghosts, and other spectral visitants, is very confused. Thousands of people have believed in ghosts throughout the ages, thousands more have tried their best not to believe in their existence, but in the end some have succumbed to the belief in family hauntings.

Then there are hundreds of thousands who flatly deny the possibility of ghosts, yet at the back of their minds are occasionally puzzled with grave doubts owing to something weird happening to a friend, while thousands say they have proved the existence of ghosts. Some very famous names of men of science and letters figure among those who claim to have made this proof. A small minority, however, believe that ghosts are made, unconsciously, by the people who actually see them.

"Seeing ghosts" is described as very much like having a dream with one's eyes open, especially seeing those ghosts which are supposed to be "felt," those shadowy somethings which leave a queer sensation behind them and make one's flesh creep. Anyone can see this kind of ghost, for the simple reason that they make them themselves. It's easy! It also accounts for the existence of a great many family ghosts, which don't exeist at all.

Some scientists say it is possible to make oneself believe anything, especially the things one wants to believe. Most people want to believe in ghosts; in fact, many in this age of psychic investigation consider it fashionable when one is on familiar terms with a shadow! Big men are said to have "familiar spirits." It is a belief which appeals to the gambling spirit, for it brings luck.

Ghosts are materialized thoughts, in the same way as all things in the world are the outcome, directly or indirectly, of thought. The artist sees in his mind a picture, and materializes it on canvas, just as the author sees his characters moving about in his imagination and eventually makes them real in book form.

The believer in ghosts, in the same way, sends a thought of his friend into the air, and the more he thinks of this friend the stronger becomes the thought, until the time arrives when the friend can be actually seen.

Thought, being intelligent, is capable, when sufficiently strong, to materialize itself in this shadow substance so as to make itself visible, or partially so, to the seer. It can also be "felt." As one can feel sound or beauty, so it is possible to "feel" thought, for in reality thought is vibration.

When the ghost appears and brings the strong "feeling," it is merely thought clothed in a finer form of matter, drawn from the psychic atmosphere which surrounds us—this has been proved by Dr. Kilner, the scientist, with his magic spectacles—giving off the "feelings" we have already built into the thought ghost.

"The ghost before us," explains one writer, "is identical with the person as we knew him in real life, certainly, because we have unconsciously built him as we knew him, and invested them with the same feelings and emotions which used to be theirs in earth life. In short, we have performed a miracle, but unconsciously. We have made a ghost; it can be seen, and its presence can be felt."

Most of the ghosts in haunted houses and the seance room can be accounted for in this way, thoughts becoming more powerful as the mind visualizes them and sends out other thoughts of human affection which makes the apparition more intense.

A haunted house is generally one where some crime has been committed. Why is it haunted? Murder is terrifying and haunting, the thought atmosphere of the neighborhood is concentrated on the haunted house and the murderer, and the average person can "feel" something about the place, and at times "see" the ghost actually built by the concentrated thoughts of the district.

How LIVING TREES Are DYED

EXPERIMENTS carried out by government forestry experts have proved the possibility of changing at will the natural color of a growing tree by injecting into it a solution of aniline dye. The method by which this result is obtained is not a difficult one. It consists in boring a hole in a slanting direction right through the heart of the tree trunk near the ground. The lower end of the hole is then plugged tight, and the bore is filled with a dye solution of the desired color. This is renewed daily, as it is absorbed by the rising sap, which carries it uniformly to all parts of the trunk.

The quantity of dye absorbed has been found to vary greatly with different species of trees, some kinds taking up three or four quarts a day, while others are content with a pint or so.

In every case, however, the result is the same. The tree, when felled, is seen to have been stained uniformly throughout according to whatever colored dye solution has been used—green, orange, blue, red or purple.

Moreover, as the dye has penetrated into the very tissue of the wood, it is quite impossible ever to get it out. The timber is permanently colored, and can be varnished or polished without any further treatment.

Trees thus doctored do not apparently suffer any ill effects, nor is their outward appearance altered unless the treatment is continued too long. The time to stop feeding the tree with the solution is directly upon slight traces of the dye being observed in the veins of the leaves.

This is a sign that the woody tissues are saturated, and that no more coloring matter can be absorbed. The top end of the hole in the trunk is then plugged as the bottom was, and the doctored tree is left until it is cut down.

Newspaper critics and public alike have joined in terming "Human Hearts" a masterpiece. The wonder of the stage—now a photoplay outclassing even "Way Down East" and "East Lynne." It rules in the field of melodrama. Never has a more wholesome, sweeter, thrilling or entertaining story been told on the screen—of a wonderful, beautiful love, of a wife who was an outcast, of a son who suffered because of his love for the one woman.

THE CAPITOL GETS FAMED FILM STORY

Superb in strength of story and cast "Human Hearts," the Universal-Jewel which comes to the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday stands for prominently among the offerings of recent months as a drama teeming with incidents and action of a compelling variety. House Peters, popular veteran of stage and screen, heads the notable cast.

The picture version of Hal Reid's famous old play presents people from the humbler walks of life who live and love, hate and fight, just as do the people we meet every day. House Peters is cast as a blacksmith, a fine specimen of manhood, a simple son of the Ozark Mountains. His father is a stern and unbending man, but just and honest, who objects to his son's courtship with a pretty maiden who plotted to beat the family out of their rich coal lands. She really falls in love with him and marries.

When the romance of married life gives way to the stern fact of reality she longed for her old, free life, and the tempter comes in the person of a smooth-tongued ex-convict who induces her to flee with him. The aged father attempts to stop the elopement and is killed. The son, blamed for the murder, believes his wife was the slayer and refuses to offer any defense. He is sentenced to prison for life.

In the working out of the plot to a logical conclusion, the director, King Baggot, has shown a fine sense of the dramatic. The picture is artistically photographed and splendidly acted in roles which require dramatic ability of the first order.

Included in the cast are such noted artists as Edith Hallor, Mary Philbin, George Hackathorne, Russel Simpson, Gertrude Claire, Ramsey Wallace, Snitz Edwards, H. S. Karr, Gene Dawson, Lucretia Harris George W. West and Emmett King. By all means see this picture, take the entire family. It will give you a new and better angle on life, even while it affords you the best entertainment you have had in many a month.

AT THE GRAND.

"PRINCE CHARMING JR."

"Prince Charming Jr.," the latest and best F. Stuart-Whyte attraction, with Miss Zara Clinton and an all star cast and big beauty chorus, will be the offering at the Grand Opera House for two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, November 17.

"Prince Charming Jr." is said to be the last word in musical entertainment and the greatest achievement of the producer who has all ready given us such satisfying performances as "Alladdin and His Wonderful Lamp", "Robinson Crusoe", "Cinderella," "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Babes in the Wood" as well as many others.

The music for "Prince Charming Jr." was written by B. C. Hilliam, who wrote those delightful melodies in "Buddies" while the books is by Pierre Bayard, the author of many of Mr. Whyte's pantomimes.

WOMAN'S GREATEST SIN.

The sensational dramatic play, "Woman's Greatest Sin" which will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday next, matinee and night deals with a subject which appeals to all classes of theatre patrons, and especially will the ladies be interested, as it is a play which has a special appeal to the fair sex. Showing as it does the strength and depths of a true woman's love.

The subject matter of this play is such that it holds the audience spellbound, and many things are referred to that would have been barred years ago, and people have come to the conclusion that they can look to the stage for proper enlightment on things one ought to know. Mr. DeLima the author, has handled all these subjects in a masterful manner, and has certainly written a very interesting play, and has been able to inject lots of good comedy situations, and Miss Helen Courtney as Julia the colored maid does certainly spread good humor over the entire audience.

The company portraying this play have all been selected with a care to have people who can give a life-like performance of all parts, and we doubt if a better company will visit the Grand this season.

"HER NIGHT OF NIGHTS"

FEATURE NEW FASHIONS

Fashions withheld from New York and Paris for three months are shown in a style display in "Her Night of Nights," a Universal attraction in which Marie Prevost will star at the Regent Theatre, on Nov. 9, 10 and 11th.

Peggy Hamilton, "the Lady Duff Gordon of America," who dictates the styles not only of the exclusive society set of Southern California but of many cities of the English speaking world, staged an elaborate revue in the filming of "Her Night of Nights," which was directed by Hobart Henley.

Peggy Hamilton's styles are always exotic, never bound by any fashion restraints. One of the features of the style show in the picture is a gown of batik in bizarre effects, which it is predicted will awaken unprecedented interest in Parisian circles when it is allowed to be shown here.

NEW FACES MAY COME NEXT YEAR.

In all probability two new managers will be seen in the American League next season. It is said that changes are contemplatcd at Washington and Boston.

While Clyde Milan did about as well as anyone could with the material at Washington it would occasion no surprise if a change was made.

The showing of the Washington team was a distinct disappointment. The club finished fourth in 1921. Several changes were made that it seemed would certainly strengthen the club, yet it dropped to sixth last season.

When things are breaking badly in baseball new faces always arouse interest. For that reason a change in the Washington management is more than a mere possibility.

Boston finished last in the American League. Duffy, like Milan, did as well as anybody could, yet to finish last is no boost. That is why Jimmy Burke is being picked to supplant Duffy.

WONDERFUL SCHOOL

During a visit made this summer to Rochester by Mrs. R. Gliddon and Mrs. Laura Edwards, a member of the teaching staff of the local Conservatory of Music, they paid a visit to the Eastman School of Music, the wonderful school to whose site and building expenses Mr. George Eastman, of Kodak fame, contributed $1,500,000, with an endowment of $2,000,000 for its support, and further large sums of money to cover cost of equipment. Much of the money made by this man, who started his career as an errand boy, has been used in this manner, for the advancement of the musical art and to provide scholarships for the talented youth of his city.

The design of the school is the Italian Renaissance, with a corridor of 25 feet in width extending through the building, which is used as an Art Gallery, the pictures being procured through the Memorial Art Gallery, and changed at frequent intervals. There are fifty pianos, nine practice organs, with great organs in both Kilbourn Hall and the Eastman Theatre, attached to the building; a department of motion picture organ accompanying with a fully-equipped mechanical studio, and rest rooms and reading rooms to add to the comfort of the habitues.

Kilbourn Hall, a memorial to Mr. Eastman's mother, has a four-manual organ and is used as an assembly room, with arrangements made for motion pictures and for the holding of recitals. The Eastman Theatre is a building of 248 feet by 187 feet, with a seating capacity of 3,358, 19 dressing rooms and a concert organ.

The scope of the school itself is broad and comprehensive. It affords training for the degree of Bachelor of Music, as a community school it serves those who are candidates for its certificates, mature students of music who desire to pursue the study of one or more branches of musical art, and for children in preparatory work. It is equipped with a musical library of 8,000 volumes, and the Theatre is used for concerts given by visiting artists who are among the best of the profession.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, [illegible] pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach [illegible] is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of aJd Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia ,and has been used for generations to help cleanand stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent various kidney and bladder disorders.

HER HEART SKIPPED EVERY THIRD BEAT

Mrs. James Burleigh, 246 King St. E., Chatham Ont., writes:—"I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me."

LOCKSTEP SHIFT IS LATEST FOOTBALL

(By Billy Evans)

Even in defeat Centre College keeps the football fans talking, and affords copy for the scribes.

In going down to defeat before Harvard, Centre came through with something new in football, a lockstep formation, already known as the "Sing Sing" lift.

The "lockstep" shift as used by Centre in the Harvard game made the fans stare in amazement, and equally bewildered the Harvard eleven for a time at least.

After Centre had gained 50 consecutive yards by the use of the play and was in a position to score, Harvard finally was able to solve it, and perfect a defence that nullified the surprise feature of the play.

It is possible that the shift was overworked and that Centre would have profited had they varied the style of the play after getting within scoring distance.

In the Harvard game Centre used four variations for the freak stunt. The shift called for a lateral march of the entire team.

The players faced the side lines and, with a lockstep, marched calmly and deliberately to either the right or left, according to th signal. Unlike most shifts there was no hurry to it, no attempt to get the opposition off its balance with a quick manoeuvre and a quicker thrust.

Always the shift left one of the ends far to one side—and it was he who passed the ball diagonally to t back at the apex of a diamond formation. Captain Roberts was the man who usually received the ball.

Sometimes the shift called for just one movement to the right or left. Sometimes it called for a march to the right and a return to the left, or vice versa.

There seems to be no question about the legality of the shift. With other shifts there is always an argument about the players being in motion before the play is actually started. No such question can be raised about Centre's new stunt.

The "Sing Sing" shift calls for perfect timing. It is a lazy-looking play. Its value lies largely in the fact that it upsets the opposition since it offers possibilities for a plunge, run or pass from the formation.

Charley Moran, National League umpire and coach of Centre College, laughs at the thought of the "lockstep" shift being something new. Asked for an explanation of it he simply said:

"A similar play to the one that Centre used against Harvard was in use as far back as 1891, before any of the players who took part in the Centre-Harvard game were born. The play is so old it is new. That's all."

Here and There in Sportdom

It would appear that there is room for much improvement in handling soccer in Ontario. Peterborough soccerites have had a run-in with the O.F.A. and the Oshawa and District Football Association is not taking kindly to the offering of the Ontario body. Bowmanville and Claremont played off for the championship but according to a ruling of the O.F.A. these games should not have been played.

* * * * * * *

The local hockey committee is at work and not making much noise. The hockey situation is considered to be satisfactory and a heap of worry has been eliminated by the announcement that only one Junior O.H.A. team will operate. The hockey moguls can now prepare the way, for the appearance on the ice of a team of youngsters who will make the other fellows hustle overtime to win the laurels.

* * * * * * *

Interest in the City Hockey League is being revived and right now, it appears certain that the senior series will continue in busines. But new plans are being proposed for operating the league. The average fan opines that it is a mistake to permit Intermediate O.H.A. players to also perform in a city series. A number of arguments are advanced in an effort to show that the practice is harmful to the players and not conducive to getting the best results. Perhaps the hockey committee will make some suggestions in the interest of remedying the evil, if the thing is not good. They would, no doubt, receive the consideration of the City Hockey League executive.

* * * * * * *

Here is a good tip for the youngsters who want to play hockey this coming winter. Make it a closed season for cigarettes. The youths who came home first in the Thanksgiving Day races did not train on cigarettes. And as there will be hockey for all boys, and a large numbre of players to choose from, for the teams in several leagues, the youngster who is not addicted to the "fag" will have a better chance of landing a place than the chap who wastes his energy on the cigarette.

JOHNSON STILL THE SPEED KING OF OLD.

What American League pitcher has the most speed?

If that question was put to the American League umpires a majority of them would be certain to reply, Walter Johnson.

Such being the case, why is it Johnson no longer strikes out so many men and finds it difficult to win with any degree of consistency.

"The reason is easy" remarked one of Ban Johnson's umpires in discussing the speed king's status.

"While Johnson still is as fast as any pitcher in the American League he is far from being as fast as he once was. The players know this, and no longer need fear the terrific speed that once featured Johnson's pitching. Instead of having one foot free they get a toe hold, to use the slang of the ball field, and take a healthy swing. It's just that slight difference that gives the batsman the added confidence that means so much."

QUEEN'S-VARSITY MEETING TODAY

Kingstonians Are Playing on Their Own Grounds and Are Given Slight Odds.

The game at Kingston to-day between Varsity and Queens is the most talked of football fixture of the season. Queen's 15 to 13 victory over Varsity in Toronto on 28th October makes the Presbyterians the favourites for to-day's game. All other dope is thrown into the discard. The fact that Queens players are playing to-day on their own ground is another factor that, their supporters say, should increase Queens chances.

The situation of the league race is such that Queens can afford to lose to Varsity and still be tied for the leadership with a play-off necessary.

The reports from Kingston are that the Presbyterians do not anticipate any such contingency, but expect to win to-day before the home crowd.

The Varsity team and supporters are equally confident of victory. They have a wonderful spirit at Varsity, and that may carry them through. They have a splendid team, and if they play up to their form they will certainly extend Queens to the very limit, and their chance of winning is very bright.

A well-known Toronto player thinks the game will be won and lost on the backfield, and for that reason concedes the edge to Queens.

However, the Varsity backfield players may surprise the football world to-day with an exhibition of the running and passing game that might excel even the best efforts of the clever Queens team.

HOCKEY GOSSIP FROM LINDSAY

Hockey gossip is replacing other sports rapidly with the arrival of colder weather but so far there has been very little talk in this district. Peterboro has announced that they will have two teams in the game. Lindsay has yet to make a move but it is high time that the town was put on a proper working basis and junior leagues started that would in future years supply O.H.A. material.

The neighboring division will have a strenuous season if all rumors are true. Belleville and Port Hope are making dire preparations and Oshawa is organizing a thousand-member athletic society. Campbellford has stated its intention of entering the O.H.A. field with a junior team sponsored by the Bear Cat Hockey club and assisted from the penalty box by the ex-Calgary hockeyist, Tom Blure. St. Mary's of Toronto, who dropped the Lindsay Midgets last year in two games are back strong with intermediate and junnior outfits. In the West Ontario division Warton and Brantford are strong. Hamilton opens its N. H. L. season at home with Ottawa on Dec.16. Joe Malone, the player-manager will be with the Tigers again this season.—Lindsay Post.

Can Hoppe Come Back?

Willie Hoppe famous billiard player, is one of the most interesting figures in the sport world.

Hoppe, a champion for 16 years, was dethroned by young Jake Schaefer. It was one of the biggest upsets in the history of the game as Hoppe was a top-heavy favorite.

While Schaefer is confident he will retain the title Hoppe is mighty anxious to once again be hailed as the champ. He has been training faithfully for several months and should be at the top of his game when the championship tournament opens at New York Nov. 13.

Hoppe is still a young man. For years he was known as the "Boy Wonder" of billiards. Hoppe was born Oct. 11, 1887.

Here are a few of the remarkable records held by Hoppe:

14. in., 303—Match at New York aaginst George Slosson, April 1914.

18.2-in., 308—Handicap tourney, New York, November, 1916.

18.2-in., 307—Against Jake Schaefer Sr, Chicago, 1906.

SIKI TELLS STORY OF RISE AS FIGHTER

By MILTON BRONNER, NEA Staff Correspondent.

ROTTERDAM, Holland, Nov. 11.—Louis Phal—"Battling Siki"—conqueror of Georges Carpentier, may be many things, but he is not the "fighting chimpanzee" sporting writers describe him.

He is a typical Senegalese negro, nearly six feet tall, well built, with kinky hair and forehead an inch high. He would never shine as a beauty in America, but in Senegal, he would be rated handsome.

Siki fought all through the war, was wounded and won medals and honors. He speaks fairly good French, reads it and writes it, but can't be called a profound scholar. In his contact with British troops during the war, he learned many English words, can say some sentences in English and understands a great many more. He also picked up enough Dutch to make himself understood in Holland.

Battling Siki might become a braggart if he wins more big fights and considerable money. At present, though, he is just a scrapper—modest, friendly, talkative and poor in purse.

By BATTLING SIKI
As told to Milton Bronner, NEA Staff Correspondent

CHAPTER ONE . . . . .

His Life in Senegal

I was born in St. Louis, capital of the French colony of Senegal, 25 years ago. My true name is Baye Phal.

Baye is a Senegalese name corresponding to Louis, so I am Louis Phal.

Entering the ring, I called myself Battling Siki. Siki is a Senegalese word parents apply to their children as "love word" like "darling" in English, or "cherie" in French. I adopted it because I though white men could easily remember such a name.

I make this clear because recently a professor of languages, living in Paris, wrote one of the papers saying Siki was a title of nobility in Senegalese, and Phal was the name of the former kings of a province in Senegal. If I am descended from kings, I never knew it before.

Parents Poor

My parents were poor working people. They didn't have time to think about educating me and my four brothers. We just grew up. I wrote the following description of my early life for a Paris paper:

Senegal is a city of 23,00. We wear clothes like you. We are French citizens and elect a member to the French Parliament. We are either Christians or Mohammedans. Me, I am a Mohammedan.

I used to go to the docks and watch the ships. One day a big ship came in, en route to Marseilles and as it was to remain some day, the passengers came ashore. Among thes was a German woman who called herself Mme. Faquenberg, a dancer, who had lots of money.

She saw me a kid of eight, looking up at the ship. She took my hand, and had me show her about the city Then she asked if I wanted to go on the ship and sail to France and see other lands and have a good time.

Leaves With Dancer.

I didn't take time to tell my family goodby, for I feared the dancer would change her mind.

In France the dancer got me nice clothes and daily taught me to read and write. She danced in many European cities, and I would go on the stage as her little servant, dressed in red velvet.

The dancer went to Germany, but couldn't take me without a passport. She left me in Marseilles with money to care for me. I never heard from her again.

I tried repeatedly to get in touch with her, and have written since the war, but to no avail. She was kind to a black boy. Only for her, I would be slogging away in Senegal's hot climate.

TOMMY GIBBONS WANTS TO MEET JOE BECKETT.

CHICAGO, November 11. — Canadian Press.— Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul light heavyweight, has asked for a chance to take the place of Battling Siki against Joe Beckett, the English heavy weight. The Siki-Beckett match was set for December 7th in London but was barred when the French Boxing Commission suspended Siki for nine months because of his conduct at Prunier-Balzac fight when he struck Prunier's manager.

OPEN PLAY WON FOR PRINCETON

Chicago's Line Proved Unbreakable So the Tigers Resorted to an Aerial Attack.

By BILLY EVANS.

Open play in football may be risky but it is a great weapon for a team that is being outplayed in the line.

In the now memorable game between Princeton and Chicago the latter team had much the better line. Chicago, until the final period, gained almost at will through the Tiger line, while Princeton could make little or no headway against the Chicago forwards.

It didn't take Quarterback Gorman of Princeton very long to realize that he was up against it as far as making any worth-while gains through the line. It was apparent to him that Princeton must open up if it was to have a chance.

The first score made by Princeton was the result of a 45-yard pass. Cleaves to Gray. The second score was made by Gray who recovered a fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. The final touchdown was largely the result of a series of successful passes.

To my way of thinking one of the greatest plays I ever saw on the gridiron was pulled by Princeton in the Chicago game. It was a risky play but it worked, and it probably saved the day for the Tigers.

In football as in any other sport, the winning team is an aggregation that mixes 'em up. A successful eleven must have a variety of plays and formations. The system mustn't be stereotyped so that opposition can soon wise itself up to the style of play.

The play I have in mind as one of the greatest I ever saw pulled was staged in this manner: Chicago kicked off to Princeton. Gorman received the ball on the 7-yard line ran a few feet and then turned and hurled a long pass to Cleaves who ran the ball to midfield.

It was a pretty play and the Tigers seemed out of danger. Then it became apparent that something was wrong with the play. The officials ruled that Cleaves was not eligible to receive the pass. The ball was brought back and a penalty inflicted.

It seemed there was no other play to make except a punt by Princeton Cleaves dropped back about 10 yards behind the goal line and apparently set himself for a punt. The ball was passed to him. He held it momentarily while five or six Chicago players broke through to block the kick. It seemed as if they would.

Then, to the amazement of the 30,000 fans and the Chicago team, he hurled a beautiful forward pass to Gorman standing on the Princeton 10-yard line. The fleet little quarterback ran in to the 40-yard line before he was downed.

I have never seen anything quite like it for nerve. It was a play that required "guts" plus perfect execution. Cleaves and Gorman proved they possessed both.

JACK BRITTON ENDS A GREAT CAREER.

Finis is written to the career of Jack Britton. The welterweight champion will leave behind him an enduring record of clean living, and a reputation for skill and ringcraft that should stand for some years. Britton was bound to lose the longer he stayed in the game. He went down in honorable conflict at an age when most men seek repose and solace from such worries as warding off a pecking left or pickling an opponent with a varied attack for rights and lefts. Britton lost nothing by defeat. His name is handed down as one who elevated fistcuffs to the point where it is considered an art and a science sportatively speaking.

PRINCETON AND HARVARD CLASH

First of the "Big Three" Football Classics Will Be Played To-Day at Boston.

NEW YORK, November 11. Canadian Press. — The first of the "Big Three" football classics—the Harvard-Princeton clash at Boston — overshadows all other games on the eastern United States gridirons today. Both of the elevens appear to be evenly matched and the outcome probably will depend upon the breaks of the play and the individual efforts of one or more players.

Other important contests between apparently evenly matched elevens will be Army and Notre Dame; Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania, and Bucknell and Lehigh.

Other notable contests will include Cornell vs. Dartmouth; Maryland vs Yave; McGill vs. Syracuse; Navy vs. St. Kevier, and Lafayette against Rutgers.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT FORWARDS AN ANSWER.

Reiterates Government's Intention of Meeting Obligations Entered Into Last July.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.— (Canadian Press)—The reply of the German Government to the Reparations Commission concerning Germany's economic situation reiterated Germany's intention to fulfill the obligations entered into with the guarantee committee last July. It is said the German Government regarded stabilization as the most urgent task before it, but that guarantees for permanent success for the measures proposed could only be given on condition that a final solution of the entire reparations problem be immediately taken in hand.

The reply further expressed the opinion that it was still possible to take steps by means of co-operation between forcing banking syndicates and the Reichsbank for supporting the mark.

LLOYD GEORGE STARTS ON TRIUMPHAL TOUR IN WALES

LONDON, Nov. 11. — (Canadian Press)—Lloyd George started on his triumphal progress through Wales Thursday, people leaving their farms and benches to greet the train on which he traveled. At Cardiff station the platform was crowded with fervent admirers who shouted, cheered and sang. Elsewhere similar scenes occurred. He dramatically pointed out to his people three striking developments in European affairs during what he called "three weeks of tranquility" in Britain: France to a level never reached, Germany has completely collapsed, Turks have torn the Mudania treaty into shreds.

These things were the result of the confidence that was going to be restored in Europe by getting rid of a man of excessive energy and vitality.

He struck out vigorously against extremes in Conservatism and labor. "I stand between the rocks of reaction and the whirlpools of revolution" he declared.

BONAR LAW TALKS EMPIRE RELATIONS

British Foreign Policy Must Have Dominions' Support.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Speaking at the annual Lord Mayor's banquet at the Guild Hall, last night, Prime Minister Bonar Law dealt with the foreign policy of his government and laid special emphasis on the fact that the British policy must have the support of the Dominions throughout the Empire.

"The fact is", said the Prime Minister, 'that in the war the dominions sprang into manhood in their relations to the Mother Country, and there were changes in that hour. They will never be the same again, as Lord Curzon, said yesterday. In all our policy we have to think not only of public opinion at home but we have to use every means in our power to make certain that we have the support of public opinion throughout the empire.

"I think also it is no disadvantage—not to put it any higher—that just at the time when these dominions have reached manhood— a man born in one of them should be Britain's Premier.

Collegiate Swamp Their Oshawa Rivals

Win Interscholastic O. R. F. U. Game in Hollow Fashion This Morning by 37 Points to 3—Some Spectacular Plays.

Peterboro Collegiate Institute easily triumphed over their old rivals from Oshawa in the Inter-Scholastic O.R.F.U. game at the Riverside Park this morning, swamping the visitors by 37 points to 3 and outplaying them in every department of the game. Oshawa's easy victory over Belleville had led the local students to expect formidable opposition, but the garnet and gray team experienced no difficulty in running up a score—in fact if it had not been for over-anxiety at close range, causing Peterboro players to get offside when a score was imminent, the local crew would have won by a much larger margin.

Oshawa were unable to make any impression against the Collegiate line and secondary defence, nor did they have any more luck in their attempts around the end while in open field running the Peterboro gang were vastly superior. P.C.I. uncovered a smooth repertoire of plays that shot combinations runs around the end or plunges through the line with equal facilities and they had the game under command all the way through.

By periods the score was:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Peterboro	5	4	16	12	—37
Oshawa	1	0	1	1	— 3

All the Peterboro crew contributed their share in the victory. Mulholland kicked splendidly and ran well, and Fanning covered himself with glory by his great running through broken fields. Legon also shone in this department of the game. Young at quarter back handled the ball snappily and found time to contribute some fine dashes for good gains, one run culminating in a touch down. The line playing of Stacey, Brown and Brookhout featured, all three hitting the line hard for substantial games when handed the ball.

For Oshawa Clark did some good kicking and running. Bouckley and Irwin worked hard. The visitors seemed to lack speed and although they outweighed the homesters could not hold the latter in check.

The teams:

Oshawa—Flying wing, Grant; halves, N. Irwin, Clark, Hubbell; quarter, Bouckley; snap, McKay; inside wings, Farewell, Miller; middle, Beath, Brown; outside wings, Kohen, Wilson; subs, D. Irwin, Butchard, Nott, Jackson, C. Hubbell.

Peterboro — Flying wing, Legon; halves, Fanning, Nicholl and Brookhout; quarter, Young; snap, Cowan; inside wings, Fleming, Eastwood; middle wings, Stacey, Browne; outside wings, Hay, Johnston.

Subs, Parrington, McCall, E. Rye, W. Rye, Menzies.

Oshawa won the toss and had the wind and sun in their favor in the first period. This gave the visitors a chance in the first few minutes and after being held at centre on line plays Clark kicked over the Peterboro line to Fanning who was forced to rouge.

Then Peterboro started to come on. By end runs and line plays they carried the ball down the field from their own quarter line to Oshawa's fifteen yard line only to lose possession on a fumble. Clark kicked out of danger but P.C.I. came right back. A beautiful run for thirty yards by Fanning and a plunge for 10 yards by Brookhout gave the Petes possession at Oshawa's five yard line and on the first down Stacey plunged for a try which Mulholland failed to convert. The P.C.I. 5; Oshawa 1.

Collegiate continued to press in the second period. A fake kick gave Hay a chance to get away for thirty yards and Mulholland booted to the dead line for a single. P. C. I. 6; Oshawa 1.

The Collegiate running plays and end runs gained yard after yard until finally they lost the ball for interference on Oshawa's one yard line. Oshawa however could not force the play out of their territory and Mulholland tried a goal from the field, the attempt going wide, but Collegiate wings forced a rouge on the play. P.C.I. 7; Oshawa 1.

Peterboro nearly added four more points a minute later when Mulholland on an end run carried the ball to Oshawa's line only to lose possession when tackled. The Petes continued to press and Mulholland booted over a rouge from the 10 yard line. P.C.I. 8; Oshawa 1.

Before the half ended Mulholland kicked into touch-in-goal for another point, leaving the half time score P.C.I. 9; Oshawa 1.

Kicking with the wind in their favor in the third period Oshawa forced a rouge on a kick over the line to Fanning. P.C.I. 9; Oshawa 2.

It was only a flash in the pan however for Peterboro forced them back on the defensive. On a blocked kick at Oshawa thirty yard line Young broke through and grabbing the loose ball dodged through the Oshawa rear guards for a brillian touch. Mulholland failed to convert. P.C.I. 14; Oshawa 2.

A few minutes later a fumble behind Oshawa's line on a long kick from Mulholland gave Fanning a chance to drop on the ball for a try and Mulholland converted neatly. P.C.I., 20; Oshawa 2.

Before the period ended, Fanning by a beautiful 35 yard run through a broken field added another touchdown for P.C.I. Mulholland did not convert. P.C.I. 25; Oshawa 2.

Just before that the Collegiate wings had forced a rouge but the point was disallowed on account of an offside.

Oshawa started the last quarter by booting over for a rouge.

Then came the feature play of the day. Fanning took a punt at his own quarter line and squirmed through a mass of Oshawa wings for a thirty yard gain. When tackled he passed to Eastwood who carried the oval another ten yards and as he was downed transferred to Legon who completed a sensational play by running thirty yards through a broken field for a touch down. Mulholland converted. P.C.I. 31; Oshawa 3.

Collegiate's end runs carried the ball to Oshawa again and Mulholland bucked over the line to Cl...ke who returned to Mulholland, who carried the oval to Oshawa's five yard line and Boookhout promptly kicked over for a try which Mulholland converted. P.C.I. 37; Oshawa. 3.

There was no further scoring. Oshawa had their best chance for a try at this stage when a forward pass gave them possession twenty yards out. They kicked for yards on three downs and then plunged for five more on the first down. Collegiate however braced and held like a rock, Oshawa losing on downs three yards out and Mulholland kicked out of danger on the first down. Play was in mid-field for the rest of the game.

GEORGE GIBSON, MERRELL TAFT

Wisconsin and Minnesota are two of the "Big Ten" yet to taste defeat. Wisconsin is confident of keeping its slate clean for some time and is banking on two of its backfield stars, Merrill Taft and George Gibson, to play a prominent part in the victory. Minnesota is coached by Bill Spaulding, who is making his Western Conference debut. Northwestern recently held Minnesota to a tie game, 7 to 7, so Wisconsin is generally favored to win.

Continuous Play Slows Up Shortstop Scott

Is Everett Scott, star shortstop of the New York Yankees, overdoing the continuous record stunt for games played?

Unless the records err Scott has played 986 consecutive major league games without a miss. That is indeed a most remarkable performance.

Some idea of Scott's unusual record can be gained from the fact that a season's play in the majors consists of 154 games. Figures show us that Scott has played almost seven full seasons without missing a ball game.

Late in September of the season just closed Scott had a close call on having his string of consecutive games shattered. However, by the use of a taxicab, and the expenditure of about $40, he managed to keep his record clean.

The New York club jumped to Chicago from that city to open the final invasion of the west. Having an off day Scott spent it at his home in Indiana. His train was delayed because of engine trouble on the day of the opening game.

Discovering that he was just 25 miles from Chicago he managed to get a taxi in the small town in which the train was held up, and by a wild ride arrived in time to get in the closing innings of the game.

Scott is a rather slight fellow, and the impression is gaining that the strain of his performance is telling on him and that an occasional rest would greatly help his work. Last season he was just an ordinary shortstop and in the world series he played away below par.

ST. PAUL'S AUXILIARY HELD A MEETING.

Miss Janet McGregor Gave An Interesting Address—Work on Firing Line.

An exceptionally interesting meeting of St. Paul's Auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon, to hear an address by Miss Janet McGregor, field secretary for the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society. Miss McGregor, formerly of Glengarry, where she taught school, now field secretary for the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Societies, gave a good idea of her work in her address. She spoke particularly of the advancement of the cause in the Canadian North-West, where the work was started among the pagan Indians forty years ago. Now it has progressed so favorably that these people are asking for auxiliaries that they may spread the Gospel among others.

Of the work of the foreign fields, Miss McGregor referred to the action of the British Government in war time, in refusing the application for enlistment of some of the missionaries, on the ground that their work in India among the people, in keeping them reconciled and quiet, was far more valuable than their service on the firing-line would be. General Haig had said that the British army and navy could not bring peace to the world, but that it was necessary for Christians to work for this end.

Miss Charlotte Dickson, president of the Auxiliary, occupied the chair for the meeting, which had a splendid attendance.

THE NEW ADDITION IS NOW OCCUPIED

The bazaar and rummage sale by the League of Mercy of the Salvation Army, in the new Young People's Temple on Aylmer street, opened yesterday. Although the new building is still in process of construction, the two front rooms are sufficiently in order to permit of the holding of this sale, and give an excellent idea of the brightness of the interior of the new addition to Salvation Army work in Peterboro. The sale of work, in charge of Mrs. Thos. Lang and Mrs. H. Hedge, contains many useful and fancy articles, in linens, underwear, aprons dainty little things for the baby, and finely-embroidered articles. Mrs. H. Worrell sells home-made candy in colored paper holders; Mrs. C. Breadman supervises the bran-tub surprise corner; Mrs. (Adjt.) Smith the fish-pond, and Mrs. W. Naish the table for tea and light refreshments. The proceeds will be devoted to the building fund.

HOW DAMS 4 AND 5 MIGHT BE HARNESSED FOR POWER

Opinion on Local Water Power Question By F. H. Dobbin—Aspects of the Problem Pointed Out—Charges That Must Be Considered.

(By F. H. Dobbin)

Side by side with this question of securing for the municipalities in the Midland Districts the control of the electric power generated along the waters of the Otonabee and Trent rivers, and to which the City Council is paying attention through those members connected with the District organization we have a proposition made.

That if the city took over, secured the rights to exploit and make use of the power assumed to be available at dams No. 5 and No. 4, on the river and Trent Canal system, (immediately north of the city), that the city would be, if not self-contained, then in a position to make our own rates, get energy at absolute cost and that the city would be largely benefitted. Let us look at this proposed development, as it stands at present. If we accepted, and went on and developed we should have power and light at cost, undoubtedly. But at what cost? We may learn something of this by the known facts and expenses of other developments.

How would these two power sites be linked up, seeing that each site is the reservoir for purposes of the canal locks at each dam. The dams built to serve the locks. And that the gross head of water, (of the combined dams) be available. It is regretted that we have not at hand a carefully prepared survey, giving estimates and quantities that might not be successfully challenged. But failing such data, we may take the opinions of men, skilled in hydraulic construction work, and fully apprised of the increased costs of such work, as at present.

Proposition 1. To work along the west bank of the river from the crest of dam 4 to below dam 5. Excavate a canal, in and along the shore, build a concrete wall full length, broad and deep to stand the outward push of the water in the canal. Pay for the land expropriated for the right of way. Broaden the canal at the site of the proposed power house that the water may be brought to the wheels in ample quantity. Such means an ample forebay. Scrap the old power-house, now standing, build a new one, equip it with turbines, generators, transformers, switchboards and controlling devices, construct intake and tail-race. Supply living quarters for the operators and distribution lones into the city. A detail, as supplied by an experienced contractor in such works, is not here permissible, but the ultimate cost is $175.00 per H.P. as developed, assuming what is admitted as a fact, that the utmost energy that could be looked for in time of low water, or even in fair low, is 3000 H.P.

In the above estimate, no allowance is made for the reconstruction of dam No. 5, which, of wood, will presently need rebuilding. For purposes of navigation it is expected that the government would carry this expense, together with alterations at the crest of dam 4, to permit of tying in the canal with the dam.

We have a total of $525.000 to meet. Borrowing the money and arranging for repayment in the future. What is entailed. We should have to meet interest charges, sinking fund and depreciation, which, taken together will amount to at least, per annum, 12 per cent on the capital cost of $175.00 per H.P. The cost per H.P. of usable and used current is the basis on which such enterprises are now instituted and financed. These charges amount to $21.00 per H.P., first shot out of the box. Then a further charge looms in the offing, for what is termed "obsolescence." This is entirely apart from depreciation, but means a fund to replace a plant that is going out of date, and dropping in efficiency, because it does not contain the most efficient means of power production as such are brought forward. If you run a motor car you will find out all about obsolescence when you come to trade it in for the new one the family thinks it should have. The difference in what you expected to get and what you realize is obsolescence. It gives many a man a pain and a pang.

For instance, and this is quite serious. A big power house, on the Richlieu river, in Lower Canada, was the last word in electrical construction and hydraulic equipment, a little over twenty-three years ago and, at the time, the biggest in America. It developes about 13.000 H.P. with nine big generators. It is proposed to scrap the entire outfit, rebuild farther down the river, using higher head and up-to-date equipment and get 45.000 H.P. Charge the loss up to out-of-date plant. Now, if Peterborough was to go at what has been proposed, we should expect that it would serve us forever. And we have to make provision for re-equipping, from time to time, and those who now use the power and light will have to pay for what has been used and for the future scrapping. Just as sure as shootin'.

Cost of operation: As based on works eing carried on, including foreman, assistance, power house men, etc., we may safely assume that another $5.00 per H.P. will be added, bringing the cost per H.P. up to $26.00 at the station.

Rental: Charges to cover interest on that part of cost of canal for power purposes as involved in altering dams, etc. And rentals for use of waters. The money raised from water rentals goes to help out in building storage dams in the back country, and upkeep of those already built, a very material thing to the steady flow of the river. At present, and after considerable squabbling, Hydro has agreed to pay for water, used at the new Ranney's Falls development at the rate of $2.40 per year on 10.000 H.P. It is extremely doubtful if at dams 4 and 5, the rate would be less than above indicated.

So we have to add to the $26.00 per H.P. (at the station), an additional $2.40 per H.P., making the total, so far, $28.40 per H.P. This rate we have attained, assuming that the entire and complete power capacity of 3000 H.P. as installed, be all sold and earning. But if the city, in its operation of the proposed plant should follow, what is good practice by others supplying electrical energy, the city would hold as a reserve at least 20 per cent against fluctuation in the river flow, ice troubles, and to ensure a standard of service that is now demanded by and due to consumers of both power and light, day or night. This being too true, and decidedly so, this charge of $28.40 per H.P. has to be increased in its usable cost 20 per cent, (for power or current not sold), making the cost of the 2400 H.P. which is revenue producing, really $34.08 per H.P. In the neglect of taking in just such positive charges comes about how so many alluring propositions do not work out. That is what happened in building the Hunter Street bridge. You remember about the bridge, don't you?

While we may have figures available in the future, it would be interesting if the city were to, (being concerned in a possible proposition), have a competent hydraulic engineer give a workable estimate, and ducks to drakes, he would never quote less than $175.00 per H.P. for a low head development, such as at dams 4 and 5. Anything these days, under 3000 H.P., and even that amount is considered as low head.' The peak load at Peterborough, (used current, as served to customers), was in January, of this year, 4511 H.P. In April, 4601 H.P., in July, 4003 H.P., so it can be seen readily and appreciatively, that a reserve should be held. And if we get only 3000 H.P. from the development, where is the balance to come from? Are we to develop another low-head site or fall into the hands of some private company? But, to the gross cost of the power as stated, must be added the cost of distribution, in the city, with upkeep of lines, investment in meters, the working and clerical staff and all replacements.

An alternative proposition for development of power at these dams, is thought of. To cut a power canal reaching from the level of dam 4, starting at a point on the bay, east of the lock, and build retaining walls along the sides of the canal, to a point below the lock at dam 5. At the upper end, the walls would not be seriously high, but at the lower end of considerable height, to cover the difference in level at the upper and lower dam. This would entail removing the driving road to the east, a re-location, with right-of-way to purchase. Likely to the east of the railway line. With the complications of creating a capacious forebay, bridges to reach the canal lock, the power house and other structures and appliances. This work all charged, in its entirety to the city development, would cost as much as the Hunter Street bridge, and that is an object lesson that people will not forget in a hurry. Say, something over half a million. On this proposition, navigation would stand as it is at present.

A third plan would have us build a new dam, thirty feet high. A wall that would impound the water of the river, to the level, as at dam 4, flood all the land now covered by the service area to lock 5, build a new lock and re-locate the railroad. And build a wall from the new lock, to the east, to join up with the power house located to suit. All the ground, now west of the driving road, would be the forebay. It would take a cool million dollars to put this proposition through.

Sixteen years ago an estimate was prepared on combining these dams, 4 and 5, and developing the gross head. It would have cost $275.000.00. With material costs and labor costs of those years. To do the same work to-day, would cost two-thirds more, or in the neighborhood of $450.000.00. There is little question of such being the case. Doesn't it cost two-thirds more to build a dwelling now, than in 1906. If you have your doubts as to this, just build the house and then reflect.

In discussing the cost to us as a community of power and light we are apt to loose sight of one very material fact. And that is, what it would now cost us did we not have the service we are now getting.

When dam No. 5 was operated by a private company we paid from seven to ten cents per killowat hour. As against one and a half to three cents we now pay. Just consider that which we have escaped: and the charges made by that company were based on very moderate cost development, less than one half of what it would cost to-day. Could the combined heads give to us even 10.0000 H.P. the proposition would be widely different. And while all the water coming down the river might be run through the wheels, the moderate head would not force out of the turbines more than 3000 H.P.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Sterling—4.46⅛.
Marks—.01¼.

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—There was further sharp decline on the stock exchange to-day, for which there was no one definite or generally accepted cause. What happened could only be understood in the light of a combination of outside factors with unfavorable conditions within the market itself.

Undoubtedly fear of bad news from Turkey deterred people who otherwise would have been tempted by the heavy fall in prices to buy. This made the market more sensitive to the short selling and forced liquidation that were going on.

There was a lot of rather vague discussion over what the increase in radical representation in Congress might mean for the business future, and especially for the railroads. But in as much as the sixty-eighth congress will not come into being for another year unless the President does the improbable and calls a special session next spring, these conjectures are altogether premature. They counted in the market today, however, as they doubtless will on every occasion of weakness from now on, as distant possibilities contributing to the prevailing depression in speculative circles.

Of more consequence than any of these outside considerations was the fact that despite the heavy selling at the close of October, Wall street loans were still over extended. This meant that many houses were carrying more stocks than they cared to carry and were bringing pressure to bear up their clients to lighten up. This situation was perfectly well known to some of the large professional operators who were making use of it for a profitable turn on the short side. The selling and little reference to the question of earnings or business prospects since railway shares were as weak as anything although they are having one of the most prosperous quarters in their history.

That the tense of affairs in the Near East was anything more than a negative influence in the security dealings, was hard to believe in view of the action of the foreign exchanges. Sterling held around its recent high and the remarkable advance in Italian lire continued while French and Belgin francs were quoted higher than on Friday. Heavy selling of French and Belgian government bonds was once more a feature.

SPLENDID TRIBUTE BY JUDGE HUYCKE

Returned Men Should Get Appreciation and Fair Play Rather Than Sympathy.

It has just been brought to the attention of The Examiner that the address given by His Honour Judge E. C. S. Huycke on the occasion of the memorial service held last Sunday for Peterborough's soldiers was, through some manner, overlooked in the rush of work which a holiday week-end necessarily throws upon a newspaper.

Judge Huycke's address on that occasion was one that will not soon be forgotten by those who were privileged to hear him. He outlined the heroic work done by the men of Peterborough, told of their struggles and their sufferings, and the price they paid that Canada might be safe. He said that the returned man did not want pity or sympathy, but did want and should get appreciation and fair-play.

AN "AT HOME" IN THE G.W.V.A. HALL

This Will Be the Only Observance of Armistice Day by Local Veterans

An "At Home" for members of the Great War Veterans' Association, their wives, families, and friends, will be held this evening in the G.W.V.A. Hall. The affair will take the form of a general good time. Both square and round dancing will be enjoyed, as well as cards, music and games for those who do not care to dance.

This will be the only celebration by the veterans of Armistice Day, to-day. The official celebration of the occasion was held a week ago, and it was felt by the members of the organisation that 11th November, since no public ceremonies were being held, should be set aside for the veterans and their families. That the building should be thrown open to them for their enjoyment free of charge, and that one and all should unite in celebrating the real anniversary of the day on which the Great War actually, if not officially, ended.

ACQUIT ALLAN IN CELEBRATED BANK HEARING

Case Was Disposed of This Morning in Montreal Court—President Used Diligence, Says Judge.

CASE NOW CLOSED

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Montague Allan, president of the defunct Merchants' Bank, who was charged in the Court of Special Sessions with negligently signing a false statement in a return on the bank's condition to the Treasury Department at Ottawa for October, 1921, was this morning pronounced not guilty by Chief Justice Decarie.

Not only was Sir Montague duly exonerated on every count, but his actions prior to and immediately following the disclosure of the bank's disastrous plight are highly commended by Judge Decarie, who declared that the President could not be charged with negligence m not doing what was impossible for him to do.

"On this occasion the President used the greatest possible diligence," he says. "He was facing very heavy responsibilities towards the bank, directors, shareholders and depositors. His conduct in these grave days was that of an honest man, an honorable man."

The acquittal of Sir Montague Allan this morning, it is thought in legal circles, will bring to a close, as far as the courts are concerned, the action initialed by the Ministers of Finance and Justice, following the sensational collapse of the Merchants' Bank owing to unfortunate loans which compelled it to sell out to the Bank of Montreal. Both Sir Montague Allan and D. C. Macarow, general manager of the bank, have appeared before two judges and have been discharged each time. They first were summoned to police court before Judge Cusson, and later stood trial on fresh charges before Judge Decarie.

NEW C. O. D. SERVICE IS WORKING OUT FINE.

Post Office Will Collect Amounts Up to $100.00.

Commencing October 1, a C.O.D. service in connection with mail matter was established in Canada, whereby charges due the sender up to $100 may be collected from the addressee and remitted to the sender by post office money order. This service applies only in the case of mail matter posted at a money order post office for delivery at another money order post office within Canada. Rural routes starting from money order post offices are for this purpose considered as money order post offices and may be granted a C.O.D. service.

The scale of C.O.D. fees is as follows: 15 cents if the amount to be collected is not more than $50; 30 cents if the amount to be collected is more than $50; limit of collection, $100. The fee must be paid by means of postage stamps affixed to the article by the sender, and is additional to the ordinary postage.

The C.O.D. fee covers insurance, in the case of parcels prepaid at parcel post rates, to the extent of the value, against loss, abstraction or damage, while in the custody of the postal service, not to exceed $50 when a 15 cent fee is paid, and not to exceed $100 when a 30 cent fee is paid.

The C.O.D. fee covers registration in the case of articles prepaid at other than parcel post rates. This carries with it indemnity for loss only, which in no case shall exceed $25 or the actual value of the lost article when the same is less than $25.

A C.O.D. receipt will be given the sender in every case when an article is sent C.O.D. and a C.O.D. tag used.

The Weather

The remarkably fine fall weather still continues, and every week that this persists shortens the winter perceptibly. Real winter has not set in as yet in any part of the Dominion. Even in the far north Yukon there has not been a real freeze-up as yet; in fact we have had colder weather in the northern part of Peterboro county this fall than the citizens of Dawson City in the Yukon have had. There is good grounds for the belief that the climate is changing to some extent, but whether the change is only of a temporary nature or permanent, remains to be seen. Our winters during late years have not had the long protracted cold periods of previous years. Another old Indian weather prophet has been heard from. He prophesies four feet of snow on the level—"much snow but little very cold weather."—W. P.

A Bride of Two Weeks Seeks Her Husband and Key to Safety Vault

Suspects Something Wrong on Receipt of Telegram Calling Her "Sweetie" Instead of Babe; Had Given Him Safety Deposit Box Key and $200

CHICAGI, November 13. — Because a telegram called her "sweetie" instead of "Babe," Mrs. Jean Morris Lightman Decke, Nashville, Tenn., beauty and bride of Allen Deecke, of San Francisco, appealed to the police to-day to find her husband.

Mrs. Deecke said her husband went to Elkhart, Ind., on business yesterday, and hasn't come back.

"He has been kidnapped, or something," she told the police. "Allen always called me 'babe,' and his telegram of last night called me 'sweetie.' I know that someone else wrote that telegram."

In the message Deecke said he would be back on the next train.

"I met every train from Elkhart last night, but he ddnt' sho wup," she said.

Mrs. Deecke told the police she gave hubby her safety vault keys just before he left.

"I really don't know much about him," she said. "He owns several large ranches in California an dis connected with the Durant Automobile Company.

PETERBORO SPEAKERS AT COBOURG VETERAN'S ARMISTICE DAY DINNER

Judge Huycke and G. N. Gordon Only Guests at Happy Re-union and Celebration in Dunham House.

AN ANNUAL EVENT.

(Staff Correspondence.)

COBOURG, Nov. 13.—His Honour Judge Huycke and G. N. Gordon, M.P. of Peterborough, were the specially invited guests and speakers at the Armistice Day banquet which was held by local veterans of the war at the Dunham House on Saturday night. Arranged on only a few days' notice out of the spontaneous desire of many ex-service men to commemorate the occasion with a more personal emphasis than the public observance provided, the celebration, which henceforth will probably be an annual event, brought all the old ranks together, from colonel to batman, in the happy fellowship that is one of the cherished, intangible souvenirs of those years in Flanders and France.

Poppies were sold on the streets and the two minutes' silence, which is becoming almost a universal custom, stopped all industry and activity here as elsewhere. But beyond these popular expressions of sentiment to the fallen and to their victory, the veterans sought something more, a rekindling of old memories and a recapture in association and reminiscence of the comradeship of the trenches. This was the esoteric spirit that pervaded the assembly, and glowed with the recollections of the inimitable Ben. Whitehead and others.

Col. W. H. Floyd proved himself a felicitous chairman in the reflection of the changing moods from solemn to gay. The toast to the King was proposed by Col. Fred. Boggs, and that to "our fallen comrades" by Col. Arthur Hooper, in connection with which Rev. Canon Sawers read "In Flanders' Fields," and the gathering sang "O Canada."

Judge Huycke.

Judge Huycke in an address of impressive eloquence, exhorted the ex-service men to be leaders and doers in peace as they had been in war. He laid his theme along the line that the duty of Canada's soldiers to the Empire and to their own country did not cease in November 11, 1918, and he presented a vision of the influence for good they could wield if their valor and ideals were fired by the same high inspirations and directed by the same unity that won for themselves and for all Canadians the glory of eminent victory.

His Honour commended the Cobourg veterans for their intention to make permanent the idea for which Armistice Day stands.

"I understand that this year is the first occasion of your honouring Armistice Day in this way," Judge Huycke said. "When you went away Canada was proud of you; while you were away Canada was always proud of you, and when you returned Canada was proud of you; and I hope that you will see to it, every one of you, that Canada will continue to be proud of you, that every one of you shall be above reproach.

"If you are the men I think you are, you came back better, stronger and braver than when you went away. Think of it, with your courage, brains and initiative, young men like I see before me beat back to its lair the greatest war machine that was ever brought into this

THINKS GREEKS WOULD CONSENT TO ROYAL HEAD

But Monarchy Must Be Established on a Constitutional Basis Like That in England.

VENIZELOS' VIEWS

LONDON, Nov. 13.— Associated Press.)—Elipthelos Venizelos, ex-Premier of Greece, and head of the Greek delegation which will attend the Near East Peace Conference at Lausanne beginning November, 13, discussed to-day the internal affairs of Greece in the first lengthy interview he has given for several months, and also canvassed various phases of the Near East situation as it appears to Greek eyes.

"The rule of King Constantine," he said, "shook the Greek monarchy to the roots, but if a 40 per cent minority, we will say, wish to continue the royal institution, I imagine that a majority of the Greeks would consent to carry on the present system provided the King's power be nullified."

The aged statesman apparently has recovered from the severe moral shock he suffered recently because of the Greek defeat in Asia-Minor. He seems to be in better health, and speaks vigorously. At the present time he is totally absorbed in making arrangements for the peace conference, and also in caring for a million and a half Greek refugees.

Coming Elections

"I am absolutely divorced forever from Greek internal politics", he continued, "and if elected to Parliament, I will resign immediately. If the Greek people want a republic they probably will show it in the coming elections, for the majority will indicate its will. If the monarchy is of no further use to them, they will be able to signify that fact; and if there is a strong minority desiring to continue the present regime no doubt the majority will consent, with the proviso that I have mentioned. As a matter of fact, there is little difference between a democratic monarchy, where the king is rendered powerless by the constittion, and a republic. I fancy England is just as democratic politically, though possibly not socially, as the United States."

Asked if he had any comments to make on the passing of Lloyd Geosge, or the British Near East policy in its bearing on the fortunes of Greece. M. Venizelos declined to answer, nor would he comment on the action of Italy in retaking the ten Dodocanese islands, which she once promised to Greece.

Peace Conference

The former Premier announced that at the approaching peace conference he would undertake to support an exchange of the Turk population in Greece for that of the Greek Nationals in Turkey. This, he said, was a matter of humanity, in which he hoped the League of Nations and the Unted States would interest themselves.

"Without going into the political phases of the matter, I think Greece should not be judged too severely for her campaign in Asia-Minor, as it was for the purpose of rescuing Greek populations that we first went into eastern Thrace and Asia-Minor. It was for this reason that I, as Premier, went there with our armies, therefore, whatever may be said regarding these campaigns, the unhappy population are not at fault because of governmental action."

(To inquiries regarding the future of Greece, and also the prospects of her securing a loan abroad, Venizelos replied:

"In several years Greece, with her thrifty commercial population, will get on a stable basis if we are able to settle the question of refugees and of the minority. At present the refugees are pouring ino Greece a million and a half strong. They are without homes, hence they present a serious menace to internal order, and there may be a huge social catastrophe with a spectre of Bolshevism stalking through our lands.

That Greek Loan

"As to a loan, we would not need one if we could collect our debts from the United States and other allied countries. It isn't generally known, but the United States never paid the $34,000,000 which it agreed to pay in 1917 when with England and France, it guaranteed Greece a loan of 30,000,000 pounds to carry on the war by the side of the Allies. The arrangement was that this should be a credit upon which we could draw through the National Bank of Greece. On the strength of this credit, we issued paper currency to provide money for carrying on the great war, and have accounted fo every penny which was spent.

"Then, after paying $14,000,000, the United States stopped payment because of the return of King Consantine to the throne. When thelatter demanded the additional $34,000,000 due from the United States, the Washington government stated that it never was notified officially of the death of King Alexander, under whose reign the credit was extended Constantine answered this by saying that he had never ceased to reign,

SEEK WIDOW'S FINGER PRINTS

Hall Tragedy Investigators Would Compare Them With Mark on Cuff.

READY TO CLOSE NET

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Nov. 13—Finger prints of Mrs. Frances Noel Stevens Hall, widow of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, who with Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, was found slain beneath an apple tree in a lonely section on the outskirts of the town, will be demanded by Special Deputy Attorney General Motts. This was learned to-day on authority of Mr. Mott himself.

A woman's finger print was found on the cuff of the slain rector, and it is to compare her print with that that the special prosecutor wants Mrs. Hall to submit to the test.

The special prosecutor, it was learned to-day, is replying on finger prints as well as corroborative witnesses, to back up the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig raiser and so-called eye-witness, that the slayings were committed by a bushy-haired man, accompanied by a woman in a gray coat.

Has the Evidence.

Several of these prints have been obtained, and Mr. Mott is confident he can identify all but one. That is the print, believed to be a woman's finger, found on the dead rector's cuff.

"I have all the evidence necessary," said Mr. Mott to-day, dismissing reports of a new hitch in his investigation.

"It is now only a question of procedure with me," Mr. Mott declared, indicating he might not, as had been reported, await the swearing in of a new Somerset County grand jury Nov. 20, before taking further action.

"I shall know, probably by tomorrow, what action is best," he added, "and when I take it, I shall be glad to take the public into my confidence."

Three Courses Open.

Mr. Mott refused to be quoted further, but from a source close to him it was learned that he has three courses of action under consideration.

He may cause arrests on warrants, without waiting for grand jury action

He may wait the return of Supreme Justice Parker, from a today trip, and the swearing in by Justice Parker of a new grand jury.

He may ask Attorney-General McCran to convene a special grand jury.

Decision not to lay the case before the present grand jury was reported by Mr. Mott after a conference with Albert Gibb, grand jury foreman. Just what was discussed at the conference has not been made known.

ULSTER ASSOCIATION HAS ISSUED APPEAL.

Declares That Ulster Intends to Remain a Part of British Empire

BELFAST, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The Ulster Association for Peace with Honor, "composed for the most part of prominent Belfast tradesmen, has issued an appeal to the voters of Great Britain in which it is declared that Ulster intends to remain part and parcel of the British Empire."

"To fail to appreciate [illegible] position may now be franght grave danger, not only to Ulster to the Empire of which she is an intergral part."

FUR INDUSTRY OFFERS RICHES FOR CANADIANS

Should Be Fostered and Developed Rotarian Thos. Barrie Tells Rotary Club in Fine Paper

'ACRES OF DIAMONDS'

There are "acres of diamonds" lying about our doors if we have but the vision and the enterprise to grapple with the situation and take advantage of what nature has provided so richly and amply at our very hands," declared Rotarian Thomas Barrie, in the course of a most comprehensive and interesting paper on the fur situation at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club.

Mr. Barrie covered the subject in graphic style and his address was one of the most informative that the local Rotarians have heard.

After dealing with the early history of the fur business and sketching the development of the Hudson Bay Company and of London, the greatest raw fur market in the world the speaker passed on to discuss Canada's place in the fur industry, and the steps that will be necessary to maintain her present proud position. Only three domains in the world answer all the requirements: Northern Russia, Canada and Alaska, and Mr. Barrie declared that because of the advent of the Soviet government Russia could be written off the fur map for at least twenty years.

Alaska, however, re pointed out, was conserving the seal industry and the native fox industry, and the results were already splendid.

The conservation and protection in Canada of our fur bearing animals, our game and fish, as one of the greatest natural resources we have, should receive every man's support, as not only can we gain a rich harvest from the sale of our fur skins and fish, said Mr. Barrie, "but we are having daily evidence of a large influx of tourists, since the motor cars come, and one of the greatest inducements for this money spending sight-seeing and sporting tourist trade is to maintain and increase the attractions that are our naturally."

Speaking of the developing of fur-farming in Canada, which has become the greatest fur-farming country in the world, Mr. Barrie pointed out that a fur farm is being started north of Peterboro, on the shores of Pigeon Lake. This district is particularly suited for raising the best muskrats, beavers, otters, minks, coons, foxes and fishers.

The speaker gave some interesting quotations as to the increase in the prices of skins—muskrat skins for instance only brought 8 to 12c thirty years ago as compared with $2.25 each last spring. The Hiawatha and Curve Lake Indians in those days would have a catch at from 500 to 1000 each. To-day the catch is large which touches 100 skins.

"There is no reason," said Rotarian Barrie, "why Canada should not develop this native and natural industy, not only in producing more of that which she is best fitted to produce but in centralizing the dressing, dyeing and manufacturing of this practical monopoly which sre now has and offering it to the world as a finished produce rather than only raw material."

Rotarian Barrie was heartily thanked for his paper.

President John Crane was in the chair to-day and among the visitors were Mr. A. F. Knight of Galt, and Dr. J. J. Middleton of Peterboro.

Dr. A. Logan Geggie Died This Morning

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Dr. Andrew Logan Geggie, minister for 32 years of Dunn Avenue Presbyterian Church, a prominent Scotsman, died this morning at the local hospital, aged 60. He was taken ill at the evening service of November 5th.

Dr. Geggie was one of Toronto's most popular clergymen, and his pulpit addresses and lectures were much sought after in other cities of Canada and the United States. He lost one arm early in life, and was an unusual but very aggressive pulpit figure. He lost his only son in the great war, and he personally spent some months with Y.M.C.A. work overseas.

"Although Dr. Geggie's illness was known to be serious, immediate fatal results were not anticipated and patient was alone when end came. Mrs. Geggie survives, also one son and two daughters all residing in Toronto.

WEEK-END DRUNKS WERE PUGNACIOUS

James McGuire Cracked Conductor on the Eye and John Jordan Assaulted Sergt. Deannard.

His first taste of liquor, according to his testimony in police court this morning, tangled the footsteps and the memory of James McGuire, formerly of Toronto, on Saturday night and brought him a fine of $25 and $11.50 costs for being drunk in a public place.

In the vicinity of the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets on Saturday night he accosted a street railwayman and asked to be directed to the nearest garage in order that he might hire a taxi to take him to Nassau, where he is engaged on the new dam. After getting the information, he used abusive language toward the man who befriended him and followed this with a blow on the face, cutting the conductor beneath the eye. Shortly afterwards he was arrested, but no charge of assault was laid against him.

"As I was coming along George street from the C.P.R. station on Saturday night" he swore in police court to-day, "I met a man who had a bottle of something. I knew him in Toronto, but I forget his name. He said he was just going around having a good time. I had two drinks from the bottle. He said it was wine That was the first time I ever took a drink and this is my first time in court. I don't remember being arrested or hitting any person."

McGuire said his home was on Mutual street, Toronto.

Assaulted Sergeant.

John Jordan was committed to the county jail for two months by Magistrate Langley for assaulting Police Sergeant John Deannard on Sunday morning, and he was also fined $25 and costs, amounting altogether to $36.50 with an option of a month in jail for having been drunk in a public place.

About 2 o'clock Sunday morning Jordan was seen lurching out of a house on Hunter street by Sergt. Deannard. He was followed along the street to the post office and entering the lane was placed under arrest by the police sergeant. In strenuously resisting the officer Jordan struck him twice on the body, one of the blows breaking a pair of glasses in their case. Sergeant Deannard was also struck on the face Jordan was finally taken to the police station by the officer and one of the constables who came to his assistance.

According to Sergt. Deannard's evidence, Jordan had been "laying" for him for a year and had threatened to "get him." Although he was arrested on a charge of being intoxicated, it was stated that he recognized the police officer in the lane.

Broke Traffic Laws.

John Victor of East City, paid $10.45 into court for cutting the corner of Hunter and George streets too sharply, and for passing a car on its right hand side, going in the same direction, T. Sarginson was fined $5 and $6.05 costs.

Sentence Suspended.

A woman who was charged with attempted suicide on Sunday afternoon was let go on suspended sentence. She took a dose of permanganate of potash, but this morning showed no ill effects of it and was thoroughly repentant.

A local doctor was fined $200 on Saturday for supplying a girl with drugs.

Mr. Geo. Baldwin, F.R.H.S., will give an illustrated lecture to-night at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, over the Dominion Bank, to the Horticultural Society. The lecture will be on "Home Gardens," and all interested are invited to attend.

Mayor Taylor returned early this morning from the camp of the Peterboro Lake Hunt Club. His party had secured three deer when he left.

PAID TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF SOLDIER DEAD

Memorial Service in Lakefield Attended by Veterans, Independent Odfellows and Orangemen

POPPY DAY RESULTS

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 13.—On Sunday morning a memorial service for the men who gave their lives in the war was held in St. John's church. Representatives of the Veterans, I. O.O.F. and Beresford L.O.L. attended and also many men and women who are always ready to pay respect to those men who laid down their lives that we might live in peace and plenty in our own country under the British flag.

Rev. C. Grant King, who took the service, gave an appropriate sermon from the 12th chapter and 1st verse of the Epistle to the Hebrews, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Mr. King spoke feelingly, and emphasized the point that we must believe as it is given to us the old old story of the love of Jesus Christ for men if we are to attain salvation. Christ died for our immortality, and in that cloud of witnesses which we read of, are those who gave their lives on the fields of France and Flanders that we might live in freedom. They, like the host St. John writes of in the Book of Revelations, are washing their robes in the blood of the Lamb, and making them as white as snow.

Got Substantial Sum.

Saturday, November 11 was "poppy day" in Lakefield. Ten teams of young people sold poppies all day and realized a substantial sum. The girls worked very hard as they were anxious to do their bit. The poppies sold like wild fire, and they were sold out before the time set to turn in their boxes, which were attractively decorated with blue and white paper and the ever present scarlet poppy. The money was counted by Comrades MacFadden, Kennedy, Stenner and Marling of the G.W.V.A. and afterwards the Ladies' Auxiliary served dainty refreshments to the young girls and the committee.

The following are the names of those who tagged: Team 1, Yvonne Stuart and Ida Webster; Team II, Grace Watson and Winnie Payne; Team III, May Mahood and Hazel Crawford; Team IV, Margaret Bissonette and Roleen Darcy; Team V, Inza Johnson and Alice Nicholles; Team VI, Jean Ridpath and Helen Burgess; Team VII, Jean and Hannah Webster; Team VIII, Doreen Johnston and Margaret Charlton; Team IX, Isobel Sutton and Mary Tanner; Team X, Mildred Darling and Lottie Lemay.

The winning teams in amounts collected were: Teams IV, V and I.

world. You know with what spirit Canadians sustained the splendid traditions of the British army by being the very spearhead of the attack and equal to the Guards themselves.

"Why is this day so dear? Because it saw the dawn of a new liberty. If the enemy had won the war we would be a Prussian colony by now. This would have been a hopeless, helpless place had you not won."

Work Still To Be Done.

Evil was not yet vanquished, Judge Huycke continued. Affairs had not developed as was expected. "It is your duty now to make things better in your own homes, in your towns and in your country."

The reason for all the sacrifice and suffering was baffling to men. Only God knew it. "But one result should be, that out of the furnace of affliction Canada may be a better place and each of your lives be stronger for the sacrifice you made and the nobility you have shown."

His Honour said he should like to see the War Veterans' Association exercising an influence that was possible to no other organization. In the United States it was a high patent of nobility to belong to the Grand Army of the Republic, and in those days it was almost impossible for a man to be elected unless he was a member of the G.A.R.

"I don't mean that you should enter politics, but I do feel that men who fought in the war should be in responsible places, because by the fact that they were soldiers and on their record in the war and after they have showed that they are the best men in existence for responsible work."

Mr. Gordon's Address.

Mr. Gordon's address was an interesting review of the greatness of the British Empire. "While we have the mightiest and wealthiest Empire that was ever known," he said, "still vast areas and populations do not necessarily imply enduring power. It is a high ideal of character and appreciation of duty that makes for grandeur and greatness of Empire." This was the plain lesson of history that must be vigilantly heeded, and Mr. Gordon pointed out that each individual in the nation could play his part in maintaining the ideals and integrity of the Empire, and affection for the Mother Land. Canada had no peasant or serf classes and any man was entitled to every position he could attain through his efforts and the opportunities given to him. No country offered so many opportunities as Canada, but these advantages involved duties of fellowship, the maintenance of harmony and good-will and fidelity to our institutions.

In the general conversation that was afterwards introduced Mr. Gordon promised to give his personal attention to several problem cases respecting returned men, and also intimated the special committee of the House of Commons was considering pension regulations with a view to making them more elastic.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speakers in a resolution by Cecil Peterson, seconded by Fred. Boggs.

The Coughs and Colds of Children

Only the mother knows how hard it is to keep the children from taking cold, they will get overheated and cool off too suddenly, get their feet wet, kick off the clothes at night, and do a dozen and one things the mother can't prevent.

A great many mothers are now giving their children

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

It is pleasant and nice for them to take and relieves the cough or cold in a very short time.

Mrs. J. Wilson, Portage La Prarie, Man., writes:—"I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my five children. My little girl, two years old, had a very bad cold last Winter, which I thought was croup, I had some "Dr. Wood's" in the house so gave it to her and she was fine the next day; also my baby, three months old, had a bad cold and I gave it to him. It cuts and brings up the phlegm, and is the best cough medicine I ever used."

MAGUIRE'S RELEASE.

With the action of Mr. Justice Riddell in ordering the release of Trevor Maguire, returned soldier, who was convicted of using seditious longuage, there will be general agreement.

Maguire served with distinction in France, his valour being attested to by the fact that he won the D.C.M.

He got into trouble because he talked too much, and his wild remarks led to his arrest and trial.

The jury did its duty by convicting him.

The lesson was necessary for albeit freedom of speech should not be interfered with, there must be a limit to what people are allowed to say of a treasonable nature.

But no one wanted to see a man who had offered his life for Canada sent to jail for talking nonsense, especially as there is no indication that this unlucky veteran is of agitator type.

He is likely to be a much more useful citizen of Canada because of his release by Mr. Justice Riddell than he would have been if he had had to serve a long sentence for his folly.

A PENALTY CLAUSE.

The hands of Fuel Controller Ellis have been greatly strengthened by an Order-in-Council which has been passed imposing a fine of $20.00, and costs, for each sale of anthracite coal at prices in excess of those set by the Controller.

So far the Order-in-Council is only applicable to Niagara Falls, but any other municipality may have this provision extended to it by having the Municipal Council pass a resolution asking for this action to be taken.

The onus is placed on the municipality, which is the proper procedure.

Hitherto with no penalty clause attached, fuel control has been ineffective.

The situation is different now, and any municipality which feels that profiteering in coal is going on, has the remedy in its own hands.

All that is needed is to ask the Provincial Controller to fix a price, and then request a penalty proviso.

If a dealer charges more than the fixed price he can be fined $20.00 for each infraction of the regulations.

The municipality is expected to appoint a local fuel controller, to whom complaints of profiteering can be made.

The Peterborough Council has hitherto declined to take advantage of the regulations devised for the protection of the consumer. Whether the addition of the penalty clause to the Fuel Controller's powers will make any difference in the municipal attitude remains to ...een.

MR. CRERAR'S WARNING.

...s letter of resignation from the leadership of ...ssive Party, the Hon. T. A. Crerar sounds ... to some of the leaders of that movement ...peal to the majority of Canadians as timely ...able.

...former Progressive leader points out the dan... ...a purely class organisation.

"Those among our friends," he writes, " who hope to exert a political influence in the country for the country's good, and hang out the sign, 'None mut farmers need apply,' are doing unwittingly not only a disservice to their country as a whole, but an injury in the long run to the very people they desire to help."

That's plain talk, and it is needed.

Of course many newspapers, including The Examiner, have repeatedly made similar statements, but their criticism was turned off on the ground that they were "prejudiced."

When the man who has been the Parliamentary leader of the Party, however, admits that the newspapers have been right in their contentions, it is time for the rank and file to do a little quiet thinking.

Mr. Crerar also steps firmly upon a much-prized policy greatly favoured by many Farmer organisations that a Progressive member of the Federal House should be guided and directed in his work at Ottawa by the Farmer locals in his constituency.

The Examiner has on more than one occasion ...ed this idea, and declared that its adoption would ...he members nothing but rubber stam... ...be ... to him.

THE MODERN JUGGERNAUT.

Mr. Justice Mowatt, in sentencing a young Finlander chauffeur at Port Arthur to a year in jail for running over and killing a six-year-old girl, declared that the time had come when the killing of innocent victims by careless or inexperienced motorists must stop. He describes Koski, the prisoner, as "a fool with a new toy." With these views of Judge Mowatt, the mass of the people of Ontario will heartily agree, says the Ottawa Journal. In plain vigorous English, the limit has been reached. Radical steps must be taken, or automobiling will be given a very serious setback.

In Toronto a few weeks ago Mr. Justice Riddell gave a very interesting and practical interpretation of the Ontario Motor Act, and the rights of pedestrians under it. Judge Riddell pointed out that while the Act gives motorists the right to a speed of 20 miles on city streets, such a speed may only be indulged in when the conditions of the traffic and of the streets make it safe. When the streets are crowded, motor cars must reduce their speed to the absolute minimum in order to safeguard the lives of pedestrians and the general public. The Judge emphasised that the onus for accidents must always rest on the drivers of motor cars.

As things stand to-day the motor car is fast assuming in the public mind the aspect of a great modern Juggernaut car which is continually demanding its victims.

The automobile is too powerful an engine of destruction to be put, without consideration, into the hands of every careless fool. The time has come when permission to drive a car shall not be given to everyone who is able to raise the price wherewith to purchase one. There should in future be vigorous tests both for amateurs and professionals, and these tests should extend to more than mere knowledge of how to handle the ignition system, use a self-starter, and let in a clutch. These things are all elementary, and any fool or mere boy or girl can master them. What is required is rigid examination in driving. In Germany, before the war—we do not know how it is now—the authorities insisted on such tests, and drivers were not allowed on the main streets till they had, in the opinion of the Government experts, acquired sufficient experience to drive there.

PREYING ON INVESTORS

Magistrate Jelfs, commenting on a recent police court case, spoke of the necessity for legislation which would prevent canvassers from offering securities for sale which had not previously been approved by government inspectors. He wondered why local organizations had not recognized the need for such a law, and thought it was a matter which should be taken up by the newspapers. So far as the Spectator is concerned, we have been urging this very reform on the attention of the provincial government for a long time past. In April last, when Attorney-General Raney introduced a bill into the legislature providing for the appointment of a commissioner whose special duty it would be to examine into the bona fides of every scheme soliciting public subscriptions, the Spectator strongly endorsed the measure editorially. It was explained by the attorney-general, however, in the course of discussion, that the government could not be expected to grant a "certificate of character" to every agent canvassing for stock subscriptions, and that it was necessary to proceed cautiously in legislation of this kind. All that was proposed under his bill was to test the honesty of an issue: the purchaser would have to determine for himself whether or not he cared to venture his money. Stocks might be of a speculative character, and yet be perfectly sound from the investment point of view. The government must do nothing to interfere with the legitimate processes of trade, but recognized that the investor was entitled to greater protection than he had been getting.

After all, the best safeguard against fraud and injudicious speculation, is the common sense of the investor. As Magistrate Jelfs said, if these "sure things" were anything like so attractive and safe as the agents represent them to be, they would be snapped up in too bit a hurry for the inexperienced investor to have a look in. Speculation is far too risky a business for the small capatilist, innocent of the vagaries of the market and the wiles of the stock manipulators, to indulge in. He should never exchange his old lamp, which has been bringing him in reasonable profits, for the glittering new one, which most often has nothing more than its novelty to recommend it.

Apropos of this "get-rich-quick" craze, which to many unfortunate people proves rather a "get-poor-quick" device, the Financial Post contains a warning this week against a form of speculation which is popular at the present time with certain investors, who will probably have cause to rue the day they acquired their fancied "bargains." The kind of speculation referred to is dabbling in international exchange. A circular recently sent out points out that the present value of 50,000 marks is about $100, the normal value of which would be over $11,916; therefore, it is explained, the purchaser stands to reap a profit of $11,816 on every hundred dollars he puts up. "Wonderful profits in a few years hence," are promised—Germany will unquestionably come back; send in your orders for as many marks as you can purchase and make a sure fortune. "The supposition that the German mark will ever reach normal or anywhere near it is a monstrous fallacy that is no longer entertained by any reputable banker," says the Post. "The best that can be hoped for now is that at some point in the downward course some reorganization will take place of the finances of Germany; a new currency will be established and the old mark called in, exchangeable on some basis, it may be at one-thousandth of the normal, or if it keeps on much longer, at one-two-thousandth of the normal. It is anybody's guess." Let anyone holding sound securities, hang on to them: or, at least, before making a change, get expert advice from an independent source. Legislation, however drastic, would not suffice for the protection of some investors from their own reckless folly. Unscrupulous agents never lack for willing victims.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Civic recognition of Peterborough's championship baseball teams would be quite in line with what is being and has been done by other municipalities on similar occasions.

Winning teams in any line of sport give their home cities a lot of useful advertising that is not easily secured in any other way.

Is the resignation of the Hon. T. A Crerar the beginning of the end of the Farmers' political movement? Time alone will tell, but it is evident that his departure will not at all events strengthen the Progressive Party, although it may result in a further accentuation of the class aspect of the movement.

Municipal candidates will soon be looking up the planks in their platform, and like Andy Gump, assuring all and sundry that they are "100 per cent. for the people."

With a visit from Admiral Sims on the cards, the residents of Port Hope are agog with excitement. Even Sandy Lockington has donned a nautical air for the occasion.

Until radium was discovered men had been unable to find a coating for clock dials that would make them readable at night.

A small quantity of radium salts in a mixture of zinc sulfide makes a compound that glows for years.

Westclox are furnished with glow dials.

CONSTABLE SENT UP TO A HIGHER COURT.

P. C. Evans of Belleville Is Charged by Man Whom He Arrested.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 13.—As the defendant did not elect trial before the police court, the case of Foster vs. Evans goes before the county judge, Magistrate Masson, committing Constable Evans for trial on the charge of assault.

Dr. Boyce testified that he attended Philip Foster at his office on Sunday ,October 29th, Foster suffering from a dislocated right eye, the bridge of the nose showing abrasions and a bruise near the left ear about the size of a fifty cent piece.

"Well," commented Crown Attorney Carnew, "ears are not much larger than a dollar."

The doctor thought two blows caused the marks. Whether they were direct or indirect he could not say. The physician said he had had a great deal of experience in blows in his forty years of practice.

Foster was sober when he saw him on Sunday night.

Had Taken Invalid Port.

The complainant, Philip Foster, told of Police Constable Evans arresting him in the stairway on Bridge street east, Oct. 29th, he feeling fairly good from invalid port which he (Foster) had taken before and after his evening meal at home. Foster admitted that there had been some bad language used.

"I told him I would go with him but that I was as good a man as he."

Foster said he received no injuries in the stairway on Bridge street. He claimed that the officer struck him in the market gangway and that he fell. "All right, Evans, we'll let that go now," Foster said he said to Evans ,who he claimed took him by the collar to the police station.

"When he came to the door," Foster said in his evidence, "he said, 'Wait till I get you inside and I'll learn you to call me that.'" Evans, according to Foster, searched him in the outer room, where Constable Booth was. He claimed that Evans knocked him down four times and then locked him up.

He Respects Police. 6

Major Ponton asked Foster: "You have not had much respect for the police this past year?"

"They never bothered me."

"Have you any respect for them?"

"Certainly I have."

"How much did you drink?"

"A bottle of port wine."

Witness would not say under cross-examination that he was not in the inner room in the police station. He claimed that P. C. Booth was sitting at the desk in his uniform without helmet.

What Happened in Room.

Police Constable Booth, who was eating his midnight lunch in the inner room, sworn, said he was on duty at the time. The outer door opened and he heard Constable Evans' voice and another's. A scuffle started in the outer room but he could not see what was going on, as the door was partly closed. The first thing he heard was the shuffling of feet and bad language from the man who was with Evans. The door flew open and Foster came staggering into the room where the witness was and fell over on the couch. Evans appeared to have either slapped or hit him. Foster said not to let him hit him and Booth said to cut it out. Evans pulled him to his feet and hit him and Foster fell down. Evans then searched Foster. Foster made the remark, "I'll get you for this, Evans."

P. C. Booth, under cross-examination said that he was in a pale blue sweater without tunic, and could not say or deny that Evans pushed Foster in. Foster after the blow said he would give in and there was no more vile language. Foster did not complain of serious injuries. Evans' tunic was dusty as if there had been a struggle to get the man to the station.

There was no scuffle after the search, the officer told the court.

The defence put in no evidence, and the case was thereupon sent up to the higher court.

THE LITERARY ASPECTS OF OLD TESTAMENT.

Instructive Lectures by Dr. Meyer in Public Library.

Some forty years ago in Aberdeen a particularly able scholar, W. Robertson Smith, taught plainly to University classes what he was convinced were assured results of scientific historical and literary scholarship applied to the Old Testament writings. One result was that he was temporarily deprived of his Chair in the University. Another result was that he decided to lay before the enlightened public of Edinburgh and Glasgow, in as popular form as possible, the evidence for the conclusions of the historical school of Bible scholars and ask them to judge the case between the traditionalists and the scientific school, often wrongly called the modern school. These lectures were attended by an average of eighteen hundred interested and attentive listeners, proving that the subject was neither dull nor incomprehensible to the lay-mind. Moreover, their verdict was evidently favorable, since the ban was withdrawn from the professor, and he continued his work.

Until this autumn no such attempt has been made in Canada to lay the now fuller and more certain results of scientific Bible study before a popular assembly. This fall it is being made in Peterborough. The difference in the interest shown is mainly interesting, as indicating a difference in attitude and interest as to religion and the Bible. The traditionalists have not ceased to exist since then. They still form a large majority, both lay and clerical. They have not, however, of late years attempted to use force to silence the advocates of untrammeled and free investigation, though I regret to say they do use less direct and open methods of suppression. Their attitude is one of apparent indifference. ... to the public, howe... there is genuine inq... ...t is the interest sho...

HOPE FOR PEACE BUILT ON SAND

J. Valois Sends Message to Irish in Glasgow

DUBLIN, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press.)—In a message to the Irish in Glasgow Saturday last, J. Valois said that "Those who hope for peace and order now understand that these are impossible under the treaty basis, and their hopes of a staple government are built on sand."

He characterizes as a foolish dream the idea that it would be possible to build a prosperous Irish State on any other basis than recognition of the independence of the Irish nation, and declares that it is best to face the inevitable now.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Let us all gather together some fine day on the Hunter Street Bridge and have a good laugh — a rip-roarin' laugh, that can be heard at Port Hope and all over Ontario. What for? Why, the farmers of Ontario have formed a dairy combine—a combine!—think of it — with a capital of a million dollars to start with. It's the cement merger all over again. The manufacturers' combine all over again, and all other kinds and sorts of combine all over again. The Province of Ontario fought for liberty in '37 under Mackenzie King's grandfather, and now look at it. What's the matter with us anyway? We won't go to church, we won't say our prayers, we have a press-agent to make known our good deeds just as if they were soap or cabbage, and under the circumstances that is all they are. We have so many societies, however, that some members belong to six or eight. All our professions of being Christian and consistent are gone to the wall. You say that the ministers are to blame for the churches. So they are. They dropped the Gospel for newsy, funny stuff, but they couldn't compete with Charlie Chaplin and Jiggs at that, and they're nearly down and out. Some say it's because we have lost the power of thinking and have now no brains bigger than a hazel nut, and that's why we've got nutty. And now the farmers and the combine! Rah! Rah! Rah! Poor old Ontario! The spirit of a fine people has been broken.

Radio May Run Our Lives

If radio keeps on developing much farther, we may find our lives being regulated by this new science from early morning until bedtime.

A glance at the programs of broadcasting stations already being followed leads one to this conclusion. Radio lectures of all sorts are sent out at 10 o'clock in the morning, 2 in the afternoon and 8 in the evening.

There are talks during the day on fashions, on menus, and recipes, child care, household economy, business psychology, besides the regular news, weather and stock reports.

And in the evening comes the entertainment —all by way of the radio transmitting and receiving stations.

PROGRAM.

When radio becomes popularized sufficiently to justify its adoption, some such program as this may result:

7 a.m. —— Setting up exercises health talks.

7:30 a. m.—Breakfast menus and recipes.

8 a. m.—Automobile pointers.

9 a. m.—Lecture, "Business Psychology."

9:30 a. m.—Market and stock reports.

10 a.m. —Lectures for the housewife.

12 m.—Noon concert or other entertainment.

1 p.m.—Stock and market reports.

2 p.m.—More lectures for the housewife.

3 p.m.—Closing stock and market quotations.

5 p. m. — Reports on places of amusement for the evening.

8 p.m.—Regular evening concert.

This is merely a rough outline of a more detailed program of the future. For example, there is no mention of news reports during the day. That, however, could be most suitably broadcast during the breakfast hour.

NEWS REPORTS.

That is just the time when the business man wants his newspaper. Clapping the headphones to his ears, while muching his toast, he listens in on the happenings of the previous day. At the same time he may learn of the weather for the day.

If he has not heard all the news during breakfast, he listens to it on his ride downtown. Yes, there are already convenient receiving sets for automobiles—those that need no aerials, batteries or other cumbersome attachments.

FOR HOUSEWIVES.

For the benefit of the housewife, her 10 o'clock lecture may be a talk on baby care, or on household economy, or a menu list for luncheon,

And recipes for new dishes could be included.

At 2 o'clock also, the housewife may listen in on suggestions for dinner, with new recipes. Latest fashion designs could be broadcast at that time. And, so that talks for the housewife may not be confined to the home alone, she may receive a daily educational lecture and late news reports.

Thus it will be that radio will include all possible activities of humanity, from morning until night. People will be staying at home more than ever, for it will be there that they will know the world best.

ROBERT FORKE ELECTED TO THE LEADERSHIP OF PROGRESSIVES

Member For Brandon Has Been Active in Politics For Many Years — A Native of Scotland.

IS A "MODERATE."

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The policy of "broadening out" had its way in the caucus of Progressive parliamentarians which was concluded here last night with the election of Robert Forke as leader, to succeed Hon. T. A Crerar, and with the adoption of an expression of opinion that the Progressive movement "is big enough to include men and women of common ideals from all walks of life and that steps should be taken whereby practical expression can be given to these ideals."

Mr. Forke, member for Brandon and sitting in the House of Commons for his first term, is described as a "moderate." He was elected over J. T. Shaw of Calgary, in a secret ballot after R. A. Hoey of Springfield had positively declined the nomination. The vote was not announced, but it is said that the support for Mr. Shaw who was not in the caucus at the time, was limited to his Alberta colleagues.

Mr. Shaw had told his friends that he was not a candidate for the leadership, and had he been present at the time probably would have withdrawn his name.

Made Unanimous.

Official report of proceedings does not mention the leadership balloting except to say that Mr. Forke's election "was made unanimous." Mr. Hoey, it is reported unofficially, in declining the nomination for himself, made a strong appeal for the selection of A. R. McMaster, Liberal member for Brome, Que., declaring that Mr. McMaster's political views were closely in line with the Progressive platform and that he would give the party sound and able leadership. It is understood there was a vote on Mr. McMaster's name in which Mr. Hoey's recommendation received a considerable minority support, principally from Manitoba members.

Objection to Mr. McMaster is said to have taken the ground that he was not a member of the Progressive party and that the members would be without justification in going outside the party ranks for a chief.

Mr. Forke is especially described as the "leader of the party," but it seemed to be tacitly understood that in reality he is House leader, with the assistance of a committee of eight members, and that the whole question of leadership will be reviewed at the national convention which it is proposed to call next summer. Members were inclined to think that in such a convention Mr. McMaster might easily become a formidable contender for the position.

Accepts Position.

Mr. Forke, who said he accepted the responsibilities of leadership purely from a sense of duty, was assured of the support of the group, including those from Alberta who voted against him.

"Unalterable" opposition to fusion or formal co-operation with the Liberal party was expressed unanimously and this was taken as ending "once and for all the rumors circulated by interested politicians and uninformed newspapers."

The divergence in views on organization between the Alberta members and representatives of other Provinces seems to have been less pronounced than many people expected. There was objection from nine members, most of them from Alberta, to the proposal that immediately the steps be taken to hold a conference of the Provincial organizations with a view to creating "some Federal co-ordination agency" on the ground that organization was a matter for the constituencies, and eventually a compromise was reached which permits members to lay before their "constituency executive or any organization that is proper to the Province concerned," the matter of a national Progressive association. This is expected to alleviate any feeling that the elected members were acting arbitrarily in the formation of a national body. A committee on organization was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Forke, McConica, Halbert and Caldwell.

Hon. T. A. Crerar was absent from the Saturday sessions for the greater part of the time, because of a family bereavement, but he appeared for a few minutes in the afternoon and addressed the caucus on Canada's constitutional status, declaring it of the utmost importance that a "clear, definite understanding" must be reached without delay.

YET ANOTHER POLICY.

The latest policy presented to the public has been named the Capital Return policy, and appears to have many excellent features. It is apparently so named from the fact that all annual premiums with dividends are returned at the end of twenty years.

To such policies very liberal benefits can be attached. For instance, where a map becomes totally and permanently disabled through accident or illness and is unable to earn a living, he would be taken care of through a certain clause in the policy which cancels all future premiums and instead pays him a monthly income for life; the amount varying according to the size of the policy. This is a protection against something even worse than death, for living expenses continue whether a person is disabled or not.

Furthermore, the companies are now attaching what is called "The Double Indemnity" clause. This is the latest improvement which has been introduced by permission of the the Government through recent legislation.

When this benefit is attached the company assumes the risk of paying double the amount of the policy if the policyholders meets with accidental death.

The main difference between this and other plans of life insurance is that all annual premiums are returned with dividends after the policyholder has had protection for 20 years. This is a decided step forward in the matter of insurance protection and will no doubt prove very popular when it becomes better known to the public.

ELECTION RESULTS ARE STILL IN DOUBT FOR BRITISH HOUSE

Beaverbrook Claims a Majority of Forty For Bonar Law — Lloyd George the Only Leader With Big Personality.

ORATORS RESTING.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press)—While the orators have had their last day of rest before the voting, the seers and oracles are working overtime to cast the horoscope of the future. Political prophesy is under a cloud at present because a great majority of the newspaper experts went wrong in predicting that Lloyd George's friends would control the Carlton Club meeting, which cast off the Coalition and declared the Conservative Party's independence.

The only issue in doubt next Wednesday, when the general elections are held, according to the claims of the Conservatives, is whether Bonar Law's party will command a majority in the House of Commons over all other parties combined. That it will elect more members than any other party is not questioned at any of the political headquarters in London—a clear majority of thirty or forty in a House of 615 members.

Coalition and co-operation are two devices which were thrown overboard at the Carlton Club and which the Conservatives certainly are anxious to steer clear of because they want to return to straight party government. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which backs Bonar Law strongly, gives him forty majority, the Asquith Liberals and Labor each about 120 seats, and the Georgian Liberals not more than 35.

If the crowds' cheers could be depended upon to mean votes, Lloyd George and his cause might be expected to be swept back into power on a wave of popular enthusiasm. The former Prime Minister has been the one vital and magnetic personality of the campaign, although Mr. Asquith's meetings developed unexpected favor ior the retired leader.

Mrs. Dale Could Hardly Climb The Stairs

"I want to tell what Tanlac has done for me for the benefit of others," said Mrs. John Dale, 65 Catherine Street South, Ha ilton, Ont.

"About three years ago I began to suffer from rheumatism, which kept getting worse until something over a year ago, when I found myself in almost constant pain. At times my arms up to my elbows became so swollen and painful I could not raise my hands above my head, and my fingers were so stiff I could scarcely hold a coffee pot to pour out the coffee.

"I could scarcely go up a flight of stairs on account of the stiffness in my muscles. I became so nervous the noises made by the children playing about almost made me frantic. No medicine did me any good, and I just seemed to be constantly growing worse.

Seeing so many fine statements in the papers about Tanlac I decided to get a bottle and see if it would do me any good. My rheumatism got better with the first bottle, and now that I have finished my second bottle the last trace of it is gone. My nervousness has gone, too, and I am so happy over being free from pain I can't fully express it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

SMALLPOX OUTBREAK IN MIMICO SPREADING

Pupils Run Away From School to Avoid Vaccination.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press.)— The smallpox outbreak in Mimico, a suburb of Toronto, now numbers twelve cases, four new cases being reported Saturday. Most of the afflicted are children. It is alleged that the work of the Anti-Vaccination League in spreading propaganda through the town against vaccination has residents terrified regarding the results of vaccine. About 75 pupils at school have refused to be vaccinated and ran away from school last week.

How Four Old Men Paid Homage to the Fallen

SASKATOON, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press)—There were four old men in a certain office in Saskatoon, Saturday morning. Four gray old men, all fathers, all united by a special bond of sympathy. It was five minutes to eleven o'clock.

"My boy went out at Arleux, on the fifteenth of April, 1917," said one softly, working at his books.

"Mine is at Monquet Farm—what there is left of him", said another.

"He was drawing water at a well for his section. A shell hit him."

"My two lads were never found", said the third, and the fourth said nothing but fingered a bit of metal on his watch chain and thought of a vanished war hospital at Etaples.

Suddenly the four old men dropped pens and blotters and sat motionless and silent. The big whistle at the power house was blowing the King's signal for silence and remembrance.

For one hundred and twenty long seconds four old men paid homage to their own sons and sixty thousand sons of other men, and then they rose, clasped hands, and sang together. It was a pretty old song, gay with a note of tragedy in it;

"For they were jolly good fellows,
"For they were jolly good fellows,
"For they were jolly good fellows,
"Which nobody can deny."

New Leader of the Progressive Party

Robert Forke, member for Brandon constituency whose first term in the House of Commons has been marked by his election as Progressive leader, has long been prominent in municipal affairs For twenty years he was a reeve of Pipestone municipality, in which is situated the Forke farm, and a ten year term as Secretary-Treasurer of the Union of Manitoba municipalities, was recognized by his election as honorary president.

Mr. Forke was born in Scotland 62 years ago and he has spent all of his adult life in Canada, many of them in Manitoba. He is married and has three children.

WEDDING BELLS

BATTEN STONE.

On Wednesday, November 8, at 3 p.m., a quiet wedding took place in St. Aidans' Church, Young's Point, when Hannah Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone of Burleigh was married to Andrew Batten, of Dummer. Rev. J. L. Hughes, rector of St. Aidans' performed the ceremony.

The young couple were attended by Miss Chloe Bolton of Norwood, cousin of the bride, and Alex Batten of Warsaw, brother of the groom.

Their many friends join in wishing them good luck and prosperity in their future life.

DRAIN—SWITZER.

EAST EMILY, Nov. 13.—"Maple Lane" farm, East Emily, was the scene of a very pretty wedding at two o'clock on Wednesday, November 8, when Sarah Ella, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Switzer, became the bride of Alvin David, eldest son of Mrs. David Drain of Dummer.

At the hour of two o'clock, to the sweet strains of the Bridal Chorus, rendered by Miss Olive Drain, eldest sister of the groom, the bridal party entered the parlor preceded by little Miss Winnifred Jones of Midland and little Miss Mildred Purdy of Lakefield, neices of the bride and groom, strewing the pathway with rose petals, and took their places under an arch which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white radium lace over crepe de chine, trimmed with pearls, carrying a bouquet of pink Ophelia roses and wearing the bridal veil caught with orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister. Miss Ida Switzer, wearing brown radium lace over crepe de chine, carrying a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Geo. Mills of East Emily.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Stillman, Methodist minister, Omemee.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding dinner was served in the spacious dining-room, which was also prettily decorated.

Rev. R. F. Stillman acted as toastmaster, and the groom responding.

During the signing of the register Goldie Drain, brother of the groom, sang "Until."

Very numerous and costly were the presents received, showing the high esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends. Among them there was a three hundred dollar cheque from the bride's parents and a one hundred dollar cheque from the groom's mother. The groom's gift to the bride was a fifty dollar cheque; to the bridesmaid, a gold knife-edge bar pin, set with pearls; to the groomsman, gold cufflinks; to the flower girls, signet rings; to the pianist, an ivory jewel case, and to the soloist, gold cufflinks.

The bride and groom left on the evening train for Toronto and Niagara Falls amid showers of confetti. The bride travelled in a brown tricotine suit with Persian lamb ruff and large hat to match.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Drain will reside in Dummer.

HANGARS BURN.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press) — Hangars and barracks buildings at Selfridge Field, the Army aviation post near here, were threatened with destruction by fire last night. The fire originated in one of the hangars, which stretch for more than a mile around the field, and was soon beyond control of the Mount Clemens fire department. A call for aid was sent to Detroit and all apparatus that could be spared from that city was ordered to the field.

PROBABILITIES.

North and east winds, mostly fair and cool.

PUT HANDCUFFS ON AN INNOCENT MAN

Policeman Was Showing His Friend How They Worked But He Had Left His Keys at Home.

INGERSOLL, Ont., Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press)—Held fast in the vise-like grip of a pair of handcuffs, the companion of a Port Rowan county constable found himself in a sorry plight Saturday afternoon. It was learned that the constable and his friend were enroute in a hunting trip north. Somewhere on the railroad train between Port Burwell and Ingersoll the handcuffs were displayed by the officer and innocently slipped on his friend's wrists.

But great was their chagrin when an effort was made to remove them and the discovery made that a key was not available. This had evidently been left at home by the minion of the law. A telephone call was made here for Chief Holmes to meet the train, which he did, but his key proved useless as the handcuffs belonging to the local police force are of a different make. The county constable and his friend were advised to try the Woodstock police and a call for an officer to meet the train on its arrival in that city was sent through.

BIG OIL FIRE.

BIG TIDAL WAVE FOLLOWS QUAKE MANY DROWNED

Two Steamers Were Left High on the Shore at Coquimbo When Waters Receded — Much Property Damage.

PEOPLE FLEE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—With partial re-establishment of communications. Chile's earthquake catastrophe is revealed in even greater magnitude than first reports indicated. It is estimated that at least 1,000 are dead, and many thousands are in distress, needing food and shelter.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press). — An earthquake of great magnitude and far-spread effect rocked Chile from end to end yesterday. It was accompanied by a tidal wave, and the combined force of the earth tremors and the sweep of the water did vast damage, the extent of which it is impossible to estimate because telegraphic lines were carried down at various points, cutting off communication.

The Provinces of Antofagesta, Antonia and Atacama were hit first, the central point of the 'quake lying in the latter two Provinces, and, so far as advices show, Copiapo, in Atacama, has the largest casualty list, with about 100 killed and many seriously injured.

It was for a time feared that the city of Antofagasta had suffered great disaster, but much of the damage done there was due to a great tidal wave which drove the people out of their homes over a considerable area. No complete reports has come from there.

Chanaral, in Atacama, has virtually been abandoned by the inhabitants as many buildings were wrecked by the immense seas sweeping in when the earth shocks had ceased. The greater part of this town was destroyed.

Throughout the Province of Coquimbo hundreds of houses were levelled, while the residents fled to the hills. At the port of Coquimbo a tidal wave beat over the entire sea-front, flooding a large section and wrecking many buildings.

From the southern part of Chile come reports of severe shocks, but little damage.

Another earth shock was felt here

Constantinople is Likened To Vast Powder Maga..."

General Harington is Making Heroic Efforts to Maintain Peace But May Be Forced to Martial Law.

TURKS UNRULY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Constantinople may be likened to a vast powder magazine, which the British are trying in the face of growing difficulties, to keep from igniting. General Harington is urging the home Government to hasten the peace conference as the best means of avoiding an open rupture. He believes that if the Turks can be held in leash until the Lausanne meeting begins, the danger of hostilities will be averted.

The exhaustless patience of General Harington in view of what is held to be the unreasoning and unconciliatory attitude of the Angora Government has excited general admiration here. In their earnest desire for peace the British are conceding every possible demand to the Turks. The latest concession is abolition of Allied censorship of Turkish newspapers and withdrawal of supervision over the Constantinople-Angora telegraph lines and other internal and civil administrative machinery.

Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist Governor, now has an equal voice in all matters relating to security and order in the city. He has been invited to draw up police plans which would be acceptable to Angora, but the Allies will insist upon retention of the control of passports until after the peace conference.

Sultan on the Job.

In spite of repeated and persistent reports circulated in Europe and America that the Sultan has abdicated, the head of the Moslem world remains in the Yildiz Palace. He receives visitors and discharges his usual duties. He participated in the usual Friday Selamlik and acknowledged with his wonted courtesy the presence of foreign spectators. He still appears in his customary military uniform as commander-in-chief of the Turkish army, although the Angora Government insists that he has been shorn of all but spiritual authority over the Islamic people.

The Angora Government continues to press its demand for the evacuation of the Allied land and naval forces, but there is no indications that the Allies intend to yield on this vital point; the Allies are fully conscious that their withdrawal would imperil the lives of the whole Christian popu... and Asia Mino... n system

Conflicting Reports of a Fire in Naples.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press)—A fire which started at the Port of Naples at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, when blazing naptha spread over the harbor caused ten millions lire damage, according to the Naples correspondent of the Central News.

The correspondent reported that the fire was still burning when he forwarded his dispatch; that many warships in the harbor were enveloped and that two gunboats had been destroyed and four torpedo boats were on fire, two destroyers were in danger, and that one cruiser and one destroyer had been sunk.

The Steffani Semi-Official Bureau reported from Naples, however, that accounts of the harbor fire have been greatly exaggerated and that no material damage was done, and adds that the conflagration was without any military significance.

WARSAW'S RINK HOUSE BURNED

Used As a Resting and Dressing-Room in Winter.

WARSAW, November 13. — About 5 a.m., on Wednesday morning fire broke out in the rink house. The building was frame, and was quickly destroyed. There was an almost perfect calm. The flames and smoke went straight up. The building was quite near the northeast of Mr. A. F. Choate's house. He was back at the lake. Mrs. Choate was at home, but on the south side. Uriah Payne saw the fire first and soon had the building roused. The chemical fire extinguishers were brought, also the bucket brigade. There was no insurance. The building was owned by the Warsaw Athletic Club. They feel the loss keenly but are planning to h another and a better building and will have a meeting on Saturday evening in J. MacIlvena's blacksmith shop to consider ways and means of providing another.

At the Woman's Institute held on Thursday, Rev. Chorley addressed those present on "The Tasks of the Mothers of To-day." He spoke of the wonderful unfathomed intuition of women, especially of mothers. No one could understand the depths, except the Saviour. He had possessed a mother. He spoke of the four Tasks:

1st, Physical.—Not only soap and water cleanliness, but all sorts of cleanliness. How many mothers watch their children's breath? Children should be taught to breathe from the abdomen and not from the sides. If a child cannot breathe through the nose he should be taken to a doctor.

A woman's body should not be a weak thing but strong according to her make up. There should be work and play. Physical training should not be left to the "Y."; the Mother should attend to it. A healthy girl should be a healthy mother; a healthy boy a healthy father; physically fit means brain efficiency.

A second task is the mental and intellectual development. Education not only secular, but the education in the higher things of life. Educate to work; to take an interest in the home; educate to know the power within them. He instanced Queen Victoria teaching everyone of her daughters to clean and polish a stove—educate the children to take the parents' places, not to be above them—educate to have faith in and love humanity, and to honor parents. If so trained a boy or girl may fall but he will surely come home again.

The third is the social task. It is a big task to see that the child is pure in thought, word and action. It is said that there was never so great a tendency to go wrong as there is to-day. The mother is the one who should tell a girl the things she ought to know. The things of life should be taught within the sacred precincts of the home. Home should be a haven of security. Fathers and mothers should be companions with their children.

The fourth task deals with the spiritual life—the building of the character of the child. How many mothers mothers realize their ideals in their children? And whose is the fault if they do not. Every mother should be a Christian in every sense of the word. Do not depend on the Sunday school. The teacher has the child along with others for only one-half hour a week. Do mothers talk to their children about their souls, about Christ, about what they ought to do and to be. A mother must have a personal knowledge of Christ if she would wish her child to reach the highest in life.

ENLARGE CEMENT MILLS CAPACITY

New Plant at Lakefield to Be Increased From 2,000 to 3,000 Barrels.

LAKEFIELD, November 13.—The capacity of the Canada Cement Company's new plant at Lakefield is to be increased from 2000 barrels per day to 3000 barrels per day. This is very important as it means the extension of every department of the plant now under construction, and will in every way increase its importance. It may delay the opening of the plant as a producer of cement somewhat but it will in its construction provide work for many men. At present there are more than one hundred men employed at construction work. The pay roll is a substantial one. The increased capacity will also give a greater standing to the Lakefield plant, which will be one of the most important in Canada.

Roseborough--Matthews.

On November 1st, Miss Greta Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Matthews, was united in marriage to Mr. Bruce Roseborough of Smith in the George street Methodist Parsonage, Peterboro. The bride wore a becoming gown of henna canton crepe, and was unattended. After the ceremony the young couple returned to the village for the wedding supper which was given at the home of the bride and attended by about eighteen of the immediate connections. Mr. and Mrs. Roseborough will reside in Peterboro.

BIG TIDAL WAVE

at 4.45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was of ten seconds' duration.

VALPARAISO, Chile, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—A curious feature of the earthquake was the tidal wave which occurred two hours later, indicating a terrific disturbance under the surface. The waters were first sucked away from the coast and then hurled back. This phenomenon was repeated five times at Antofagasta before the equilibrium of the sea was returned.

A similar occurrence took place at other places. United States Rear Admiral Martin, Director of the Meteorological Service, discussing the earthquake, said it was significant that it had occurred just as the conjunctions of Mercury and Jupiter and Neptune and the Sun were approaching. The conjunction of Mercury and Jupiter occurred at 1.30 Saturday morning, and the other some hours afterwards.

COQUIMBO, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—One hundred persons were drowned here when a tidal wave, coming after the earthquake, swept in with a great roar. The inhabitants were panic-stricken and ran to the hills. The advance of the sea was accompanied by electrical discharges.

Two steamers were left high and dry when the waters receded. The mole and railway depots were destroyed. Great quantities of merchandise were scattered through the streets and along the water-front.

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Upwards of 100 persons were killed and many seriously wounded by the earthquake, which overturned many buildings early Saturday in Copiapo, capital of the Province of Atacama.

PARIS, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press).—The seismographic stations at Brussels and Florence registered violent oscillations Saturday at 4.46 and 5.56 a.m., respectively. Calculations made at the Brussels station indicated the earthquake was in the proximity of Mont Titacoma in the Andes. The seismic needles at Florence oscillated for more than four hours describing sharp angles and ellipses which recalled the oscillations registered at the time of the Valparaiso and Buenaventura earthquake in 1906.

After registering the seismic records Saturday, the seismographs at the Bologna University were rendered useless.

Why Teeth Show

In pictures—and everywhere today

Millions are removing film

Have you noted how most pictures now show pretty teeth? And how countless people, wherever you look, show beautiful teeth when they smile nowadays?

Those are results of this new way of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ. Now we urge you to try it at our cost, and to start today.

Try combating film

Until late years, nearly all teeth were kept clouded by a film. And 49 in 50 people suffered from film attacks.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. It forms the basis of dingy coats, including tartar, unless you constantly combat it. Stains are absorbed by that film.

It also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And all those troubles were constantly increasing, despite all care of the teeth.

Old ways ineffective

No ordinary tooth paste effectively fights film. In fact, tooth pastes based on soap and chalk even make the film more clinging.

So dental science has for years been seeking film combatants. Two effective methods have been found. Able authorities proved them by many careful tests. And now leading dentists almost the world over advise their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two film combatants—one to curdle the film, one to remove it.

Careful people of fifty nations are now using this new method, largely by dental advice. To millions of homes it is bringing a new dental era.

Two other new effects

Pepsodent brings two other effects which dental science has now proved essential.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

The ordinary tooth paste brings just opposite effects. It decreases these two great tooth-protecting agents which Nature has provided. Pepsodent, with every use, gives them manifold effect.

Thus to millions of people in every clime Pepsodent has brought new beauty, new protection. The benefits will be life-lasting. Tooth conditions among whole races are being altered by this method.

Brings Added Charms and Quickly

You will see the Pepsodent effects, amazing and delightful, after very little use.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

New beauty, new charm, comes with those whiter teeth. Also new safety, new cleanliness. Not by scouring teeth in any harmful way, but by fisting the film for easy removal.

This means too much to you and yours to be longer overlooked. Cut out this coupon now and present it at your store.

Missionary Sermons

Rev. H. Wilkinson, of Pontypool, preached missionary sermons in the Methodist church on Sunday November 12, the latter being the date set for the opening of the missionary campaign on the Peterboro district: Rev. Mr. Tucker took charge of the work on the Pontypool circuit for the day. This was the first time that Mr. Wilkinson has been heard here, having only come into this district last June. The responsive reading was from the 96th Psalm, "An exhortation to praise God", and the lesson from Mark's gospel, 4th chapter, 1-20, 'The Parable of the Sower', the text being taken from Matthew 4:23, "And Jesus went about all Galilee teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness, and all manner of disease among the people". The theme was Jesus teaching, preaching and healing, and the first six verses of the 11th chapter of Matthew were also read containing Christ's reply to the messengers of John the Baptist (then in prison,) the works which He did constituting the proof of His Messiahship. The minister then went on to show how the church, through its missionaries, is still carrying on this work to-day; for in reality the Christian church aims to take cares of men's bodies, of men's minds, and of men's souls, both at home and on the mission fields. Unfortunately, because of inadequate forces and means, the task is all too slowly done; take the work of healing for example; the Methodist church is responsible for the evangelization of ten million people in the province of Sze-Chuan, China, —We have at work as yet only eleven foreign doctors, three Chinese doctors, trained by the foreigners, three Canadian nurses and twelve Chinese nurses, and these to labor amongst a heathen people ignorant, in most cases, of the first laws of health; they have to supply all medical attendance in seven hospitals, with 375 beds last year they had 3000 patients, performed 5000 operations, major and minor, managed 8 dispensaries, waited upon 33,000 new patients made 1900 outside calls, and gave 111,000 treatments. And with all this they never lost sight of their main object of sowing the seeds of the gospel in the hearts of those unto whom they ministered.

This presents only one phase of the work; the teaching received by the children in the schools may be undone when they have to return to heathen homes; and there are other discouragements, but the church's responsibility is to send more workers and provide better facilities for the great service. Some here can go, the speaker concluded, all can invest study, prayer, and money in propogating the Kingdom in heathen lands.

The choir prepared special music, the anthem in the morning being: "Lead on, O King, Eternal," with duet by Misses Ella Elson and Phyllis Richards, and a duet, "The Heart that was broken for you," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, and Miss A. Stewart, following the sermon.

Next Sunday, November 19, Rev. G. E. Hartwell, of China, will preach at the morning service here, continuing the missionary campaign, and the special subscriptions for this cause will be taken up.

At a well-attended meeting held on Thursday evening at the Public Library it was decided to hold the first dance of the season at Cole's Opera House on Thursday, Nov. 23. It was also decided that the invitations sent out for the first dance would serve as an invitation for the series of dances during the season. The local orchestra will supply the music and will be on hand promptly at 8 o'clock, as it is the intention of the club to disperse at midnight. The admission fee was set at $1 a couple. The list of patrons, together with the spirit of harmony which prevailed during the meeting, speaks well for the success of the venture, and the officers and members of the Twelve O'clock Club are assured of a pleasant and profitable season.

NOW DO MY WORKWITHEASE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored My Health

Hornell, N.Y.—"I was in bad health but there didn't seem to be any one thing the matter with me. I was tired out all over and it was an effort for me to move. I was irritable and could not sleep nights and had trouble with my bowels and at my periods. It seemed that nearly every one around me knew of your medicine and wanted me to try it, so at last I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and improved every day. I do all my own work now except the washing and do it with ease. I can accomplish as much in a day now as it would have taken me a week to do last winter and I try to get every one I know to take your medicine to build them up. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you like."—Mrs. Chas. Baker, 21 Spencer Ave., Hornell, N.Y.

In almost every neighborhood there are women who know of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They know because they have taken it and have been helped. Why don't you give it a trial?

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

ART OF GORGING KNOWN IN DAYS OF OLD VANISHES; LETTUCE LEAF MEAL NOW

By MARGARET ROHE.

NEW YORK.—Alas, to eat is not the same as once it used to be. A lost art eating's now become as you will all agree if you look back to ages past and read your history. To nourish now seems but to count each fateful calorie.

Now in the ages past and gone one threw one's heart and soul into the gentle eating art. The flesh pot, flowing bowl and other symbols of the feast were everybody's goal.

For instance, take the cave man. He quite often ate raw dog or else, perchance, he'd break his fast with half a wartle-hog.

The Romans had the right idea. They took theirs lying down. On couches they'd recline at ease and gorge on morsels brown. When they were full of peacock roast, as much as they could munch, they'd go outside the banquet hall and just put up a lunch. To table they'd return again and stuff things as before. The often did this encore stunt a time or two, or more.

Middle Ages, Too.

Then take the medieval guys, the knights and barons bold. A boar's head they deemed but a snack. Much more than that they'd hold. Along with it they'd masticate, perchance, a cold lark pie, a trencher of roast beef, a loaf, a cheese, then feeling rather dry, tall tankards full of musty ale they'd drink, nor bat an eye.

From days of good Queen Bess right down to our George Washington they wielded lusty knives and forks as well as swords, each one.

Consider those old southern days—the south befo' the war. They gorged on rich hot breads, baked hams and syllabub galore.

And even in our parents' day each dinner was a rite. From soup to cheese, no course they missed. They ate this way each night.

The Germans, Swedes and Danish folk still eat more times a day than we have fingers on one hand, but we have gone astray and now all young America but eats to live, we say. Of course there are a few who still prefer the other way and live to eat, but they are rare, exceptions to the rule, and to one gourmand you will find ten who subsist on gruel.

Those breakfasts great of stacks of wheats, potatoes fried, a chop, some scrambled eggs, preserves and pie with coffee off to top, are merely myth tales of the past, traditions in our set.

Just coffee straight, a bit of toast and fruit is all we get or else, perhaps, some mangled wheat. For lunch a little snack of fish or fowl, a lettuce leaf. Dessert we give the sack unless an apple doesn't seem too much of an excess or else two chaste and simple prunes are ample, more or less.

With menus such as these it's plain that eating days are o'er. A tummy's now worn more for looks than use, as 'twas of yore. An epicure has now become as obsolete as one who knew the vintages of wine. The gourmet's day is done.

NEW ANGLE FOR HATS.

A milliner just returned from Paris says that French women are wearing their hats at a new angle. Instead of being pulled over the eyes they are placed farther back on the head so the eyes are not shadowed. He further states that the Parisienne is wearing neither very large nor very small hats, but is pinning her faith on the medium-sized model.

NEW TABLET ON HIGHLAND MARY'S GRAVE.

Erected by Greenock Burns Club.

The Greenock Burns Club (the Mother Club of the world) has erected a new tablet at the side of the tombstone on Highland Mary's Grave in the Greenock Cemetery.

The new stone ,which is headed by the crest of the Burns Club, bears the following inscription:

"The remains of Burns' Highland Mary were removed from the Old West Kirkyard and re-interred here on 13th November, 1920, after an impressive religious ceremony."

The transference took place owing to the Old West Kirkyard having been acquired by Messrs. Harland & Wolff for their shipyard extensions.

RADIO EXCELS IN RESCUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—The air is celebrating its greatest victory over the air.

Radio has just played its most elaborate role. Fire at sea, which consumed the -palatial -South Sea liner City of Honolulu gave to the radio its greatest chance. That 217 persons should have been rescued unscratched can be credited to the voice in the air.

To the list of names of those "last to leave" a burning ship, may be added that of Walter P. Bell, wireless aperator on the City of Honolulu Bell stayed at his instrument until every possible message had been sent and answered-and-his SOS was bringing rescue ships from half a dozen points. Bell had already written a record of valor in the war.

Achievements

There are stories of new achievements to tell in connection with this rescue

For the first time continuous communication was maintained with a ship in distress. This was made possible through use of the system of transmision known as the Federal arc, which played a part in the great war.

For the first time a land station picked up where the fired ship left off, directing ships hundreds of miles away at sea by means of maps and charts

For the first time the air turned

WALTER P. BELL, RADIO OPERATOR OF THE CITY OF HONOLULU, AND THE FEDERAL WIRELESS STATION AT SAN FRANCISCO FROM WHICH THE RESCUE WAS DIRECTED.

reporter within 600 miles. Interly covered a story without a human reprter within 600 miles. Interviews were obtained. Newspaper men questioned passengers and crew and secured signed stories—all by radio

The major portion of the land work fell to the federal wireless station here. But for the untiring activity of their operators the small boats of the doomed vessel might have floated about for days and deaths resulted.

The Rescue

First ,word of the raging fire reached H. E. Coyle, chief operator for the federal concern. It was about 5 o'clock in the morning. Coyle knew that operators on most ships would be asleep. The City of Honolulu was running in the Honolulu-Los Angeles sea lane. Any ship that might be reached, it was known would be running in the Honolulu-San Francisco lane.

Coyle had heard the air say that the U.S. transport Thomas and the steamer Enterprise were going to the aid of the burning ship, but they were at least 240 miles away. He knew that W. P. Bell, operator on the City of Honolulu, had kept up a continuous communication until the last possible moment.

Maps and charts of the sea lanes might hold an answer. Conferences with shipping men showed that, with any luck, the steamer West Faralone should be nearby. This boat carries but one operator. He was asleep.

All through the night the West Faralone did not answer. In the morning the "air" found her. The West Faralone was nearby, as distances go at sea. A matter of 200 miles in travel had been gained and the helpless survivors saved from hardship and death. Also all vessels had been constantly informed on points of latitude and distance.

It was the air's greatest victory—one to be written alongside the rescue by the Baltic of the 1650 passengers and crew of the Republic But the radio has put on many frills since then, which made its latest showing even more spectacular.

Officially Banished, Turbans Remain

Fashion has made most women lengthen their skirts, often very much against their wills, but is powerless when it comes to dislodging the small hat from favor.

"Long skirts demand large hats," the experts say, but women go right ahead ordering small ones, or making them themselves. And therein lies the secret of the popularity of the small hat—it may be contrived at home by any woman with the style sense, even if her knowledge of sewing is most limited.

It is a fact that many of the most smartly gowned women today who buy their gowns of the most expensive modistes take great pride in making their own hats.

Of all types, the easiest to make is the fur-trimmed turban. And this hat is to be the style leader for the next few months. The shops are showing the most fascinating ones that may be easily copied on inexpensive frames.

The new metal brocades are effectively used for crowns, so are the figured silks and the plain velvets or satins that match the fur or the costume with which the hat is to be worn.

Frequently there is no trimming but the fur, but in many of the smartest shops one sees many novel ideas. Frequently a bouquet of small French flowers in delicate or vivid colors is outlined with fur and placed directly in front. A beaded ornament with a strong oriental influnce, or a fancy feather arrangement or buckle is often used in the same manner.

Ermine, mole and some of the thinner pelts are often used for trimmings on a velvet turban. They are tied into loose bows or knots with ends that are allowed to dangle off the edge and show a bit of gorgeus lining.

Velvet flowers and fruits are retailed this season in very unusual and fascinating colors and shapes—taking their inspirations from art rather than from nature. These nestle very effectively in fur.

Hats made entirely of fur are very fashionable, but they are much more difficult for the amateur milliner. Unless they are handled very knowingly they are apt to look heavy.

If you haven't a little fur-trimmed turban in your home you should take steps to acquire one immediately.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

In China a bride never has young girls for attendants. She is always waited upon by older matrons or spinsters.

Likewise, she never wears white, as that is the color of mourning. Yellow, the national color, is the favorite color for brides.

At the wedding ceremony and the feast afterward the bride speaks only when addressed by her husband or by his parents. She takes no initiative in conversation.

Bobbed Hair For Granny Also Is Aim of Indianapolis Anti-Corset League

The anti-corset [illegible]ade is on. The crusade [illegible]n on and the corsets off for [illegible] time as far as flappers were concerned but yet the mothers and grandmothers are now to be saved from the menace of the constricted waistline.

That's the purpose of the Anna Lee Anti-Corset Society, which has just been incorporated in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Anna Hoeltke Lee, founder of the society, is almost 62 years old, but that's just the age when women most need to be emancipated from any sign of restraining stays, she says, and wears a straight one-piece dress herself.

For the younger members of the society she has prepared a costume consisting of regulation gymnasium bloomers that fall just below the knee, a large sized child's "body waist" to which the bloomers button at the hipline and middy blouse over all.

All Trimmings

Low-heeled shoes and bobbed hair are other essentials of the anti-corset array, and when the weather permits, Mrs. Lee says she rolls her silk hose, too.

"Why not?" she asked. "I've got just as pretty a knee as my granddaughter."

Two dances a day and a diet of raw vegetables and fruit juices are also means used by the anti-corset leader to keep young.

"Why should women of today fade at 30 grow fat and shapeless at 40 and shrivel up at 50?" demands Mrs. Lee. "Why have we so few beautiful women?

"Because custom and fashion are at war with nature. Fashion has made it impossible for women to be comfortable. To be thoroughly comfortable from head to foot means the elimination of corsets or any garment which binds the waist, high heels, high collars, long dress skirts and long hair.

Corset Habit Pernicious

"After 12 years of careful study on this subject I am convinced that the corset habit has done more to ruin the health, beauty and morals of the human race than the liquor or tobacco habit."

Along with the corsets, Mrs. Lee would have women discard long skirts and long hair.

Mrs. Lee is grandmother of seven but she wears her gray hair bobbed and curled, her skirts just below the knee, her hose rolled and her waist unrestrained by any form of stays.

MISS ROSE INGALLS WEARING THE HEALTH COSTUME IN DORSED BY THE ANNA LEE ANTI-CORSET LEAGUE.

"Long hair is unsanitary", she says. "It is most unattractive at middle age. With short hair the middle-aged woman can retain the appearance of youth for many years.

"I forsee the time when short hair for girls and women will be a universal custom. God speed the day!"

then the United States came back and declared the loan, was invalid. Nevertheless, it is a real debt, in fact and in honor.

Let States Pay

"If we get this money from the United States, and are able to collect our other and larger bills, we will be able to finance our refugee problem. What we plan is not the mere feeding of these people. We want to get them provided with homes, and with occupation, otherwise it will be one of the greatest tasks a small nation ever undertook. It is as if the United States had suddenly to care for a number of refugees equal to one forth of her total population."

Asked regarding the reported financial and political relations between Greece and Sir Basil Zaharoff, part owner of Vicker's arament firm and commonly called "Europe's Man of Mystery", Venizelos said:

An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and tol dme to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

ENFORCE CHILD LABOR PRINCIPLES IN ORIENT

HONG KONG, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—The British administration here has undertaken the enforcement of the child labor principles adopted at the international labor conference at Washington in 1919.

In the past children of all ages have been employed in manual labor, such as carrying coal and building materials. Owing to the poverty of many of the natives, the new regulations will have to be applied gradually; otherwise it is feared that long established social and economic conditions may be upset.

The new regulations provide that no children may be employed in the dangerous occupations of boiler chipping, fire works or glass manufacturing. Children under ten years of age are barred from factories of all kinds, and children under twelve are not permitted to carry coal, building material or debris.

Employers are required to keep record of all the child labor engaged in their establishments. One holiday every seven days is made compulsory under the new law and children may not be put to work between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Beauty Specialist Explains How Bobbed Hair, Now "Out" Can Be Dressed to Conform to Style

(By Marian Hale)

Behold the transformation wrought by the reformation of the flapper!

At the left you recognize the close-up rear view of what has been the most talked-of issue since the war the bobbed head—in its natural state.

Passing on, you see what seems to be a lovely head of hair, done in a sweet, womanly way.

It's the same girl and the same hair, with the addition of some more in the way of a switch, designed particularly for the growing-out period.

Picture three shows how elaborate a structure may be erected on a bobbed foundation if one is equipped with a chignon or so, and a bandeau

At the right you see the way the successor to the flapper will frame her face this season.

Madame Louise Berthelon of New York and Paris, who erected these coiffures, supplied the why-when where element of the story as she added hair and punctuated it with hairpins.

"With the long lines and Grecian draperies of this season, you can't have a large head and a short neck," she said. "Bobbed hair was always all right in front, but not in the back, because it hid that line of beauty from the side between the back of the ear and the nape of the neck.

"The beauty of bobbed hair lay in its youthfulness. A woman could lost ten years in a barber shop. So this season we will keep the soft line about the face, and arrange the front hair quite as if it were bobbed but it must be dressed in the back and the rouged lobe of the ear must show.

"The bobbed one buys one of the new switches, which is joined in the center and works both ways. She pins this to the back of her head securely, then pins her own bobbed locks over this. She brings the ends about and coils them over each ear, keeping the bobbed ends carefully concealed beneath the coils.

"This makes a flat coiffure, not too stiff for her hats, but harmonizing with this season's gowns.

"If the hair is thin about the face one may add bangs, or little fluffy side pieces which I call 'dimples.' There are detachable chignons of curls and puffs, which may be fastened on securely for evening.

"Bandeaux, and flowers will be worn in the hair, but the wide 'headache band' of last season is not correct. In using switches, be sure to show a little growing hair about the neckline to remove any suggestion of artificiality."

Madame Louise is delighted that bobbed hair is no longer stylish.

"It was never a beautiful style, but what was worse, it was very bad for the hair. It kept it from becoming long and even, and the continued cutting has been known to cause baldness," she concluded.

THE EXAMINER

Marriage Souffle ✂ by Jack Lait

WHEN Hillary Foxhall Biggs, alias (to the profession) Biggsey, alias the Deacon, alias Big Biggs, started into literary fields, a slender and sallow youth, he was soppy with theories.

As he grew older and stouter some of these academic views assumed the texture of personal convictions and others faded out entirely. As a man steps along he is bound to see some of the ideas he has cherished and flouted run against the actual operations of existence, and, unless he is the sort of ass who can blow on his scorched fingers and with the same breath still proclaim that heat isn't hot, he quietly and gradually edits into his theoretical philosophies some revisions and elisions.

Biggsey was not primarily a marrying man. But he was a poet at heart and a commentator by trade, and, therefore, he had not only found but had many times committed himself to some pronounced opinions on matrimony, that crucial institution which has been more consistently and exhaustively mooted, debated, Fletcherized and juggled than any other that permits of language, not excluding politics, larceny, love, liquor, money, war, literature, union labor, short skirts and all other vital issues.

The views of bachelors on matrimony have been the subject of much facetious writing, but they are, nevertheless, no inconsequential matter. For, if bachelors regard matrimony frivolously, or are hard-boiled about it, matrimony will suffer a bearish decline. It has been held, of course, that the bachelor has little to say about whom and when he is to marry, but that is not entirely true. The soundest argument against it is the bare fact that there are bachelors. If it were as thoroughly in the hands of the ladies as the jokesters would have us believe, there would be no single men past the age of fifteen. Females are essentially and congenitally marriers; men are constitutionally non-marriers and the practise of matrimony is abhorrent to them.

But they fall.

They fall not altogether through the well-placed tears and the insidious sighs and the orbs upturned at just the right angle and moment; they succumb because they really want wives. The process of mesmerizing, kneading and final hooking need not be here detailed. Those who have been through it understand it, and those who haven't will neither believe it nor profit by it. Anyway, this being a tale about matrimonial theories, let us propound one:

Man is born with an inherent disinclination against monogamy, as realized by matrimony—but he will change his spots if the wrong girl gets the right chance at him.

By "wrong girl" is meant this—if a man should choose his ideal mate, he would probably cleave her dome with an ax in a week. No marriage is entirely serene, and those which are humanly precarious are happy in directly opposite ratio to the idealness (if one may say it that way) of the mating.

Marriage must have its dramatic progress, its suspense, its doubts, its climaxes, its anti-climaxes, its surprises, its curtains, its spotlights, its dark scenes, its palace sets and garden backgrounds, its bright dialogue and its melodramatic bombast, its problem counterplots, its comedy relief and the million intricacies of stage "business".

Take that from a happy married man!

Ideal mating, as it has been apostrophised, presupposes a marriage based on pure, unruffled, unadulterated love. If poor old marriage had to live on that thin stuff, alone, it would be in a worse plight than it is now, and goodness knows it has a reputation to-day that walks hand in hand with bootlegging, musical comedies and safe-blowing.

Marriage must be founded on love, just as any other institution must be on good faith, good will and the spirit to give the golden rule at least a fifty-fifty break. The relations between man and wife demand that love exist and survive. But, even leaving aside all mundane matters of subsistence, support and certified milk for the baby, the very finest and most ethereal qualities of perfect marriage are far more dependent upon duty than upon love. People can live in love without marriage; but people cannot live in marriage without the mutual willingness to meet obligations. If a man has signed a ninety-day note promising to pay you so much, it won't quite mollify you when maturity arrives to have him dismiss it by saying he loves you. Marriage is a promissory note that is matured on signing and is never paid off while life endures.

"Obligations" sounds ugly. But there is nothing hostile about a debt that one makes of his own free will, sober and of the age of consent. And if two people of opposite sex, with a natural attraction for one another, realize that they have signed notes payable back and forth, and are honestly willing to take up their matrimonial paper as it comes due (every minute of every hour from then on) they can and should be reasonably happy, content and blessed with that blue dodo, a happy marriage.

This was not, by any means, Biggsey's theory.

He thought that marriages were made in heaven and that love—some sort of exalted and exotic existence composed of throbs, kisses and "understanding"—constituted the rockrib, the backbone and the whole works of it.

He felt sure that some day, somehow, somewhere he would meet THE girl—that he would know it instantly—that she would feel it simultaneously—that there would be a touch of the fingers, a meeting of the eyes, a rushing together of the lips—then Utopia.

Biggsey came from the country, it may be needless to add.

He had never seen just the kind of marriage he looked forward to, but he put that down to the supposition that the other men and wives he knew had not waited for their perfect mates, but had wed because of sordid reasons or on impulses or through weakness. His own farmer father and his own housewife mother had jogged along fairly well, but that wasn't Biggsey's idea at all. Why he couldn't remember that he had ever heard his father say to his mother, right out loud, that he loved her. They would sit for hours, she knitting and he reading the mail order catalogue. Biggsey wondered how such a union could have given to life such a poet.

He didn't know that his father, who had sowed and reaped and chopped and hauled in every sort of weather and every frame of mind, year after year, and worn patched overalls that he might send Biggsey to the county high school, and waded through snow and slush to get a doctor when Biggsey was sick, was a more inspired poet every hour of his whole life then his scribbling son in Greenwich Village, trying to analyze emotions and criticise the unemotional.

He had never heard his mother tell his father she loved him. But he had seen her roasting herself over the kitchen range three times a day for years, had seen her wash the family linen and scrub the family floor and walk softly when she got up in the middle of the night to cover Biggsey lest she wake his sleeping—yea, snoring—father. And he, the poet, thought he had never heard his mother tell his father that she loved him.

And then he met Claudia.

He knew before she did that she was the girl of his dreams. That part of the formula didn't work out quite according to his poetic Hoyle. He knew as soon as he saw that her lips pouted in a semi-parted smile and that her nose had the exact tilt of a Henry Hutt beaut and that her hair was the color of finespun gold and that her fingers were long and taper and that her arms were slim and slender and her ankles were slender and slim and her feet were tiny and her eyes were violet and that she was his ideal and would make a great wife. She, strangely, didn't know a thing about it, the less did she sense that Biggsey would make a scrumptious husband.

So he started giving her the run-around. He ran her dizzy with his love-making. He spouted his verse at her, he told her also without rhyme (and not with so much reason, either) his glorious dreams of marriage.

It so happened that Claudia was sick of posing for commercial photographers, tired of eating in automats, wearied of wearing warmed-over frocks. And it so chanced that a traveling salesman in woodenware, who, too, had seen in her what he had longed (if not waited) for, had just given her a flock of air because she had refused to marry him and keep on working. So Claudia was almost as receptive as she was seductive, and in due and decent time the glad hour dawned when Biggsey led Claudia to the justice of the peace, a ward heeler who chewed tobacco and who declared them one thereafter and thenceforth.

Biggsey knocked out fairly good wages as a poet. The poets have a union, and they get so much a line, just as do the men who set their poetry. Biggsey was a hound for lines. And since he had found his inspiration, he had run his string up into a very comfortable four-room apartment and eat-out scale.

Claudia had for years craved just that. She loved to sleep late, run around the house in woolined slippers and a Navajo robe, eat two kinds of pie for dessert and read the Sunday sups. When she went out she could tie a pair of velvet ribbons about her ankles in just such a way to make a millionaire's mistress envy her, and she could spot a beauty spot where no other woman ever did and yet make it seem as though it belonged there. But at home she yearned for her solid comfort and breakfast in bed.

She Could Tie a Pair of Velvet Ribbons About Her Ankles in Such a Way, and She Could Spot a Beauty Spot Where No Other Woman Ever Did and Make It Seem As Though It Belonged There.

She had never been a gold-digger or a vampire. But she had read and she had seen and she had mingled and she had done a lot of thinking during the years between her half-starved adolescence and her half-hearted marriage. She was no poet. To her physical facts were tangible, and she felt them and got her own impressions from their contours.

Claudia had an idea that three solid squares a day, a good spring under the mattress, running hot water, soft silky undies, taxicabs and plenty of leisure, composed pretty nearly a hundred-per cent. existence. She was no crook—she was willing to pay for these boons with the conventional specie of wifehood.

But when it came to asking that she turn out the innermost passion of her soul—well, Claudia didn't know she had any down there, and she was too lazy to turn her soul upside down at all. It sounded a trifle silly to her. But Biggsey was in love with a consuming conflagration within his being, and he entreated her to gasp into his ear that she was all his unto eternity, and that she had never known what life could be until he had opened its pearly gates.

Claudia wasn't a sufficiently accomplished liar despite her excellent education. She told him he was a good kid, and to please take a tumble to himself and let her be.

It took a year for Biggsey to convince himself that a great tragedy had befallen him.

For months he had hammered away at Claudia with hot-air appeals to her finer womanhood. He had talked her to sleep a hundred times with diatribes on the finding of one's true self under the veneer of mundane modernity. He had given her many a headache with verbal essays on the affinity of spirits. He had written odes to her unawakened soul and of his spirit calling to her in a macadamized and steam-heated wilderness. He had annoyed the poor girl many a time, but she had stuck. She was no welcher. She had undertaken the obligations of matrimony and she was willing to pay up and keep paying up, but this blithering boob was asking it in a strange currency of which she had none in her treasury.

And Biggsey got discouraged at last and realized that his heaven-made marriage with his preordained ideal had come to a slow, gradual stop—not a head-on smashup over which he might have written epics; just a stopping of the machinery. It gave him that dumb, dull sick sensation of a man who finds himself stupidly out of gas at the foot of a hill many miles from a Rockefeller foundation.

He told her, with hair tousled and bloodshot eyes, after he had sat up half the night rocking and moaning and holding his head, that they must part. She looked at him, puzzled. What had she done? What was all the shoutin' for? He told her of what he had dreamed and for what he had yearned. She said she didn't quite see where that threw her out of the flat—he had looked her over very carefully and had asked her to marry him and she had married him and she had since then executed all that the law demanded of a wife, and—

"The law? The law!" he shrieked. "Good Lord, that it should come to this. You have been a wife in every sense that the law provides. And that is your idea of love?"

"Who ever said anything about love?" chirped Claudia. "You volunteered that you loved me, which was very nice and I'm much obliged. You used a lot of three-syllable words, and I figured if it made you happy to look at it in a three-cylinder way, O. K."

"Then you never loved me—you tricked me from the start, eh?"

"Loved you? Sure I did. Why not? I married you and I've lived with you for a year, and I went around with you—when I wasn't too tired—and I never looked slant-eyed at any other man. What do you want from my young life?"

"Good Heavens! I am wasting my breath, my best heart-throbs, on a woman who doesn't understand. You went around with me—when you weren't too tired! Why, women have walked with bleeding feet over hot stones a thousand miles to kiss the marble monument over the cold grave of men they loved. And you talk of love—bah."

"If the stones they walked on were hot, why was the marble on the grave cold?"

"Oh, rubbish—figures of speech are lost on you."

"Figures of speech? Say—speaking of figures: the rent is due Monday, and I've got about ten smacks in the treasury. Please leave me a cold token of your burning devotion before you trek down to the poem foundry."

"I'll leave you nothing. I'll leave you, yes—to shift for yourself. You are no wife—you are no woman. You have broken my heart and shattered my every idol."

"Don't be silly, Hilly. I'm your little wife. The justice of the peace said so, and I guess he knows—he learned law in night school. So if you're thinking of leaving, don't forget to leave some change as you exit, and don't forget to send some along every week. You haven't got a thing on me. I can look the whole world in the face."

"The whole world—except me."

"And why not you? You gave me the east and west and the all over before you yammered for me to be just what I am right this minute. If you had a far-off idea in your bean that after we were united in holy bonds my ears would turn purple or you'd mine around in my perfect 32 figure and strike gold or something, that was your own idea.

"But you did raise your right hand and swear something. And now you want to renege because I don't conform to some queer notions that are all yours about how I ought to think and when my chest should heave. Well, you can't get away with it. This is the U. S., not Olympia or Utopia.

"Did you first fall for me because you thought I had a soul? Did you see stars the first time you carefully examined my exterior because you thought you had found the reincarnation of Juliet, or something? Nix. You got stuck on my looks. Well, here they are. They're yours.

"Now all that rot about ethereal souls and kindred spirits groping in the inscrutable is a lot of bull.

"And I'll tell you the lowdown on life. And I'll tell it to you on the level, because I'm no poet.

"I have been a fake as a wife. But not the way you think. I've been a cheater and a false alarm because I've just let you keep me and play with me and acted like a lazy showgirl except for the fact that I haven't ever tried to double cross you or take you. I've been derelict as a wife, not as a sweetheart. I can't breathe fervent protestations of hot air, because it isn't in my nature. But I've got two hands and two feet. And I can learn to cook flapjacks and keep a house looking human. And that's my proposition to you, Hilly.

"Sit down and let your hair alone for a minute. What I want to do is move out in the country and get a little home with some grass and a tree and a kitchen. I'll stick my lily hands in the hot water, and I'll do my own washing. And then, let's have a baby. Let's be a couple of people instead of being a bum poet and a model married out of slavery. Let's live. I'll show you whether I know what it's all about or not. I can't ask you to lay brick—you don't know how, and you don't have to. And you mustn't ask me to sob out free verse, because I'm no lyric-writer—and I don't have to, either.

"I'll be all the wife to you any man needs and ought to want. I don't want to trim you. I want to make good. I promised, and I meant it.

"My father and mother loved each other something fierce. They used to go at each other with butcher knives. I'll say that's love. I'm on the square—they managed to keep themselves boiling hot over each other. When they were talking to each other at all, they'd smooch and spoon and swear how much they adored each other. The rest of the time my old man was stewed and either unconscious or violent, and my ma was busting vases or out looking for him.

"The result was that I grew up my own way. I wasn't schooled right, I wasn't fed right, I wasn't raised right. When I was fourteen I beat it out where I could fight for my own food. And I fought until you came along. I haven't wanted to fight since. Least of all do I want to fight you. You're all right, Hilly. You've got a good heart. Only you've got a lot of delusions that you want to chuck off. You can write about that stuff, but, gee—don't try to live it. If you do, you'll live alone.

"Now—are you with me?"

Biggsey pressed his hand to his brow. He saw in reflection his own boyhood home—the devoted, dutiful, plodding mother. Why—she looked noble. She took on the graces of a duchess and the romance of a dreamer. He saw in retrospect his weather-beaten, unshaven father—the uncomplaining, willing, faithful old farmer. Why—he took on the aura of a game, unflinching hero, and the superb splendor of a knight.

"Claudie," said Biggsey, "you're the cat's ninth life. You're on."

She looked at him out of those violet eyes and Biggsey saw a sparkle there that he had never found before.

"Darling," she breathed, "you and I were meant for one another. There is more in this life than the gross physical . . . I love you . . . I love you from my innermost soul . . . kiss me!"

Strathconas Won from Peterboro--Queens Defeated by Varsity

Queen's Outgeneraled By The Varsity Players

Kingstonians Went Down to an Overwhelming Defeat Before Toronto—Batstone Scored Only Point.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Outpointed, and outgeneralled at every point of the game, Queen's fell before Varsity at the Richardson stadium on Saturday afternoon by the score of 24 to 1. On a field covered with mud and with rain falling the first part of the game Queens were absolutely lost and their errors of commission and omission were very noticeable. It was hard for the ten thousand fans to believe that Queens aggregation on the field was the same team that defeated Varsity in Toronto, and on the whole they were greatly disappointed with the showing of the Queens team, the verdict on Saturday precipitating a tie in the Intercollegiate Union necessitating a play-off for the championship next Saturday. Varsity played wonderful football and Queens line was helpless. In the heavy going they were unable to break Varsity line, while the back division never played worse, Leadley and Batstone both fumbled frequently and with Varsity wings right down on the ball, they had little chance to recover. Snyder, Hobbs and Duncan were bright stars of Varsity, Snyder turning in a sensational contest. For fifty minutes he was the king pin of the Varsity team, and then, with his team in the lead he retired, being replaced by Patterson. "Red" McKelvey worked like a trojan for the tri-color, but he received much punishment and was almost worn out at the end. Johnny Evens was watched too closely to be as effective as usual, while Bill Campbell played well. The work of the line was weak. Repeatedly Varsity bucked through for yards and the long spirals of Snyder proved hard for Batstone and Leadley to handle. The game was witnessed by the greatest crowd of fans ever at a football game in Kingston. There were about 10,000 at the game and 2,500 seats had been added around the cinder path. Special trains came in from Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto, and the Varsity contingent made as much noise as did the Queens rooters. After the game they paraded about the stadium and down streets, thence to their train, cheering and shouting for the great victory. The story of the play was a sad one for Queens. From the start they were outclassed and almost from the blow of the whistle it was seen that Snyder was to be the keystone of the Varsity attack. Time after time Varsity plunged through the Queen's line and Batstone and Leadley were lucky to run out his long kicks. After gaining Queens 45 yard line, Snyder hoisted a short kick and dashing through the line picked up his own kick and ran for Queens line, with no one in front of him. Walker chased him, and just as he reached the goal, Walker brought him down, but the Varsity man had scored the first touch down. Hobbs easily converted. From then on for the rest of the period Varsity put into play several trick plays and line plunges, but Queens bucked up considerably, Weber took a loose ball when over Queens line, but the ball was fumbled and a bunch of players fell on it. It looked as though Batstone had been forced to rouge, but the play was called back. From thirty yards out McPherson attempted a field goal, but his aim was wide and the ball went to the dead line, leaving the score 7 to 0 for Varsity at quarter time. At the start of second quarter Queen's looked their best. Evans tore a hole in the line for ten yards and Campbell then went around the end for a gain, Varsity's line held after this, however, and on a series of punts Snyder sent the ball to Queens 25 yards line. Hobbs on the third down placed an onside kick and Duncan recovered, going over for a touchdown which he converted. Queens wings were not playing up and were missing their tackles. Veale replaced Walker and showed some nice tackling. On an exchange of punts Leadley kicked to Hobbs and the ball was dribbled back across Queens line for a point. McPherson tried a field goal, but again was uncertain and a single point was scored. Snyder scored the sixteenth point on a drive to the dead line. Queens were completely overshadowed in the first half and their supporters had little hope that they would pull down the lead. In the third quarter it proved mainly a kicking duel with Batstone relieving Leadley in the kicking. Snyder scored both Varsity's points in the quarter by kicking to the dead line. Queens attempted line plays and missed many chances to kick for points. The going was very heavy and the ball extremely slippery, but the Varsity back were catching wonderfully. In the final quarter after a series of line plunges and kicks Varsity got possession at mid-field. On the first down, Somerville was given the ball and the dodging Batstone and Leadley ran around the end for forty yards scoring a pretty touch between the posts, Duncan converted from an easy angle. Snyder tired out fast and was replaced by Patterson. The absence of the Varsity star was not noticed and Queens twice went through for yards. Batstone kicked to the dead line for Queens only point. It was a question of kicking for the remainder of the game with Somerville kicking into touch on Queens 40 yards line when the whistle blew. While Queens were badly beaten and outgeneralled hundreds of supporters felt after the game that on a dry field Varsity would more than have had their hands full with Queens. The tri-colored offered no excuses for defeat, but vowed they would beat the blue and white next Saturday. The teams were.

Battling Siki.

Baye Phal, known to the fighting world as "Battling Siki", the Senegalese conqueror of Georges Carpentier, former idol of France Siki has been suspended by the French Boxing Commission which has also requested the International body to withdraw his title of light heavyweight champion of the world.

SIKI SENTENCED TO SUSPENSION

French Boxing Federation Has Disqualified the Sengalese For Nine Months.

PARIS, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press)—The Echo De Sports published a detailed account of the meeting of the French Boxing Federation at which the Senegalese, Battling Siki, was disqualified for nine months for his attack on M. Cuny, manager of the boxer, Prunier.

Cuny joined Descamps, manager of George Carpentier, in entreating for an acquittal, saying:

"Of coure it is deplorable, but is he entirely responsible? He holds a title too heavy for him. He is a child who has been allowed to play with a gun."

Descamps recalled that his protege, Carpentier, had always upheld the dignity of boxing—in fact, that he had been christened "The Ambassador of Muscle." "Don't rob him of the chance of recovering from Siki that which he has lost" he pleaded.

Various proposals for the length of disqualification were put forward, ranging from two months to two years, and the nine months sentence was finally accepted as a compromise.

The writer declares the color question is in no way involved and that it was not even considered. He proposed that as Siki volunteered for military service in 1914, he might be given "amnesty" in celebration of Armistic Day.

The culprit aroused certain sympathy before judgment was announced, declaring: "When I was plain Siki no attention was paid to my tricks; they were only laughed at. But since I became champion people get angry."

His manager, Hellers, accepted the situation philosophically, saying that "it was bound to come sooner or later."

"Siki has a heart of gold" he added, "but nerves that he cannot master. He thought that his action would prove him a true sportsman in the eyes of the spectators.

"He never wished to go to America, and I had the utmost difficulty to get him to promise to cross the Channel to fight in London.

"He has often declared that, if no longer able to box, he would sell shoe blacking and be quite as rich, and insisted he would prefer to abandon his pugilistc titles if not allowed to live as he liked."

TWO FAST GAMES PLAYED FRIDAY.

The first game Friday evening went to the Firemen, who made it their second victory for the week by defeating the Kiwanis 17 to 4. Dunkerly again did the big half of the work pitching great ball and he received air tight support. Neil was on the rubber for the Kiwanis.

Score by innings:
Kiwanis .... 1 2 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 — 4

The Gunners took the lead in the first half in the third innings, the had their chance and they pelted the Gunner fielders with hard hit balls scoring ten runs. The Gunners came from behind taking the lead of one run in the eighth and holding the Bowlers scoreless in the ninth. Piercy for the Gunners and Freeman for the Bowlers were the hurlers.

DUNDEE, Scotland, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press.) —Rudyard Kipling was elected rector of St. Andrew's University to-day.

Strathconas Too Strong For The Peterboro' Rugby Team

Lack of Experience Chief Cause of Defeat of Local O.R.F.U. Team Saturday Afternoon.

SCORE WAS 16 TO 2.

Peterborough's lack of experience was a handicap to them in Saturday's intermediate O.R.F.U. fixture at Riverside Park, and the Strathconas at Toronto won after a hard fought game by 16 points to 2. The visitors were in front all the way, the homesters only two points coming late in the last period when Northey booted twice to the dead line for singles.

The Toronto crew had a squad of twenty-two men in uniform and they substituted freely. While there was nothing particularly brilliant about their playing, they had a back field that kicked, caught and ran nicely, and their wing line was strong. They used a delayed buck that gained ground for them frequently and incidentally used a lot of holding and interference. Harris, the little centre half, was the pick of the visitors and the star of the game. He got distance and height in his punts, while he showed running and dodging ability above the average.

Peterborough trotted out a husky looking team and there is evidently a lot of available material if there was a fair chance to get it licked into shape. Lack of speed in getting their plays under way, especially in end runs, was a weakness that more practice would eliminate, and there are a lot of rough edges that might be rubbed off in the same way. Clare Stuart at middle wing was among the most conspicuous of the Peterborough crew. His line plunging was the best ground gainer they had, and he blocked a lot of the visitors' bucks, spilling the ball carrier for a loss. Emmet Sheehy and Bob Hamilton contributed some nice tackling.

The score by periods:

Strathconas	1	8	6	1
Peterborough	0	0	0	2

The teams were as follows:

Strathconas—Flying wing, Crozier; halves, Lang, Harris, Johnston; quarter, Gingras; snap, Flint; inside wings, Anderson, Lappin; middle wings, Hendry, McBride; outside wings, McCormick, Matheson; subs., Virtue, Lloyd, Portch, Patchel, Worthy, Hill, McEwen, Gray, Laird.

Peterborough—Flying wing, E. Sheehy; halves, M. Sheehy, McLeod, Northey; quarter, Brooks; snap, Batten; inside wings, Turnbull, G. Rutherford; middle wings, Sloan, Stuart; outside wings, Hamilton, J. Rutherford; subs., Hickey, Griffith, Young, Pogue, Jobbitt, Anderson, Whitehouse.

Referee—Davis, Toronto.
Umpire—C. Browne, Peterborough.

Play was fairly even in the first period and the Petes held the visitors in good shape, Strathconas scoring one point on a kick to the dead line by Harris. Neither team showed much of a repertoire of plays. Strathconas' best ground gainer being a delayed buck which they used time after time.

In the second period the visitors were on the aggressive throughout and added six points to their score, although they got the benefit of two doubtful decisions. Early in the period M. Sheehy caught a lone punt five yards in front of the Petes' touch line and carried the ball into touch. The linesman awarded a touch-in-goal on the play, giving the Strathconas their second point. The visitors got another break soon after when on a kick by Harris one of the Petes' wings touched the ball, putting the Toronto crew onside, and McCormick grabbed the loose ball and got away for a long run. After he was tackled and downed he passed to Lappin, who went over for a try, which Harris converted. It looked as if the ball was "dead" before the pass was made, but Referee Davis allowed the points. That left it 9 to 0 at half time.

Early in the third period Sheehy was forced to rouge on a long kick from Harris. Strathconas continued to press, and on a well worked onside kick by Gingras scored another try which was not converted.

In the last quarter the Toronto crew started off with another single, but the Petes held them well in check for the rest of the game, and broke into the scoring column themselves by two kicks to the dead line, leaving the final score 16 to 2.

PRINCETON WON FIRST OF ANNUAL RUGBY CLASSICS

Defeated Harvard 10 to 3 in Opening Clash of the "Big Three" Series — Yale Next Saturday.

OTHER GAMES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press)—Triumphing over Harvard, 10 to 3, in the first of the annual "Big Three" gridiron classics after a gruelling struggle, Princeton's alert, fighting eleven yesterday had strengthened its claims to the mythical championship in eastern ranks. The Tigers must face the bulldog of Yale next Saturday in a final test, but followers of the team that dashed spectacularly from behind to crush such elevens at Chicago and Harvard, were confident of a crowning victory.

While the Harvard-Princeton battle the centre of the east's football stage, keen interest was manifested in several other major games. Chief among these was Cornell's smashing victory over Dartmouth, 23 to 0, at the Polo Grounds; Lafayette's decisive defeat of Rutgers, 13 to 6 at New Brunswick, N.J. and Pittsburgh's sensational seven-to-six decision over Pennsylvania at Philadelphia—the second straight setback sustained by the Quakers in their checkered 1922 career, the seventh victory for the Panthers in their last eight engagements with the Red and Blue.

Cornell's hard-driving powerful eleven established itself firmly among the East's first flight by outplaying, although not out-gaining the Green team that held Harvard to a 12-3 score two weeks ago. And in Captain Eddie Kaw, all-American halfback, whose brilliant defensive and offensive play featured the game the Ithacans posses one of the outstanding stars of the season.

Army and Notre Dame fought furiously to a scoreless tie at West Point in the principal intersectional clash Saturday, a fumble on West Point's four-yard line in the last quarter costing the westerners their best chance to score. But the East came off victorious in most of the intersectional tussles—Boston College trouncing Baylor, a Southern institution 33 to 0; Navy overwhelming St. Xavier, of Cincinnati, 52 to 0, and Washington and Jefferson repealing the invasion of Wabash, 32 to 6.

Yale, employing its second and third elevens against Maryland while the regulars witnessed the Harvard-Princeton game, romped to a 45-2 victory. Penn. State displayed a return to form in downing Carnegie Tech., 10 to 0; Brown outfought Bates, 27 to 12, while five field goals helped Williams defeat Wesleyan, 22 to 7, in other important contests on the eastern schedule.

Princeton's triumph, coming on top of talk from Harvard sources that the two teams might not meet next year because of schedule limitations, shattered two Crimson traditions. It was the first defeat administered by the Tigers on Harvard's own field since 1896, and the first time since the advent of the Haughton system in 1908 that the same team has beated the Cambridge eleven twice in succession.

Standing of the Football League

	Played	Won	Lost	Drwn	Goals For	Agst	Pts
Da Laval	8	6	1	1	18	8	13
C.G.E.	8	5	2	1	21	13	12
Woollens	8	3	2	3	18	17	8
Comrades	8	2	3	3	17	13	7
C.P.C.	8	0	8	0	2	25	0

The Comrades show of strength on Saturday, which held the C.P.C. to a drawn game, was just sufficient to leave the De Laval team in the lead. A victory for the C.P.C. players would have given them 14 points and the cup. Individual medals for each player on the winning team will be presented by the Junior League in addition to the cup donated by Louis Yeates, which was won this year for the first time.

C.G.E. Met Defeat at Hands of Woollens.

The Woolens defeated the C.G.E. 4 to 1 in a junior league football game at King Edward Park, Saturday afternoon when these two teams met to decide their last fixture of the season.

Playing with the wind the Woolens had much the best of it and secured two goals in the first period from the foot of Montgomery. On changing the Woolens again proved themselves masters of the situation and found the net for two more goals. Through the efforts of young Vinet the C.G.E made a final rally and were rewarded with a goal from Millard but they were unable to score again and the game ended with the Woolens easy winners.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press.) — Mrs. Henderson, mother-in-law of Hon. T. A. Crerar, died suddenly Saturday.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

PARIS, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press)—"Battling" Siki the Senegalese heavyweight fighter, celebrated Armistice Day by donning the uniform of a Senegalese sharpshooter which he wore during the war. He promenaded along the boulevard until a policeman hustled him to a lockup, where he was charged with unlawful wearing of a military uniform. He was ordered home to change to civilian clothes.

FLIER KILLED.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press) — Lieut. John Blaney, army flier from Mitchell Field, L.I., was instantly killed yesterday afternoon at Brainard Municipal Field here while taking part in an airplane relay race in the Hartford aviation meet. His plane struck a tree and crashed when about to land.

WOOLLENS WON FROM RAYBESTOS

Double Bill of Soft Ball on Saturday Afternoon — Quakers Lost to the Engineers.

The Raybestos dropped their frist game Saturday afternoon losing to the snappy and newly sweatered Woolens team, 9 to 2. McLeod and a couple of other regulars were missed badly by the Raybestos. Russel was sent in in McLeod's place and the Woolens took nicely to his offerings, "Shiner" Clarke crashing out a clout that rolled to the far wall and went for a circuit.

"Benny" McLean was on the rubber for the Woolens. He turned in a good performance, and received good support.

The teams:

Woolens—Hopkins c, Hillier lf, Clarke 2b, McLean p, Legros 1b, Kennedy 3b, Stiles ss, Lang rf, Sims ss, sub Smith.

Raybestos—Ranger c, Russell p, Goursey 1b, Byers 3b, Kay ss, King lf, J. Russel 2b, Van Peer rf.

Second Game.

The Engineers turned back the Quakers after a snappy argument by the score of 6 to 3. The Electric got their counters in twos, the breakfast food gang got theirs by ones that was the only difference in the playing. Gandy started the game for the Quakers and was removed in favour of Gilchrist in the second. Gandy performed well at first. Langley received good support and had seven strikeouts.

The teams:

Quakers—Butcher 3b, Vincent lf, Foster ss, Turner c, Gandy 1b, Cunnigham 2b, Graham rf, LeBlanc ss, Gilchrist p, sub Brook.

Comrades Held C. P. C. Juniors to a Tie Game

Failure of the Packers to Secure a Victory Sends the Yeotes Cup to the De Laval Footballers.

A FAST GAME.

The Comrades and C.P.C. junior football teams battled to a draw Saturday afternoon, a fact which gave the DeLaval eleven possession of the Yeotes Cup and the medals which are to be presented to the individual players of the winnings team. A victory for the Packers would have put them in the lead but the Comrades came out with an unexpected show of strength and when the game ended the score stood 3 to 3.

Both teams were at full strength Curtis making a welcome re-appearance for the Packers.

Playing with the wind the Packers at once forced matters and Kilinbeck found the net in two minute from the start. Encouraged by the success from a nice centre from Mitchell, Anderson found the net again. The Comrades now took a turn and from long passing by the forwards Downer made a weak clearance, Edgar met the return and gave Davidson no chance. The Packers continued to have the best of it, but no further score was recorded until half time was called.

On resuming, the Comrades took charge of the game and kept the Packers on the defensive. J. Downer in clearing put the ball through his own goal making the game even. This put new life in the Comrades who came again and scored through the agency of Billingsley. The Packers were urged by their supporters to wake up and responded with a will and kept up a continual bombardment on the Comrades ritadel, which, eventually fell from a well placed kick by Curtis. Time was soon afterward called, leaving the game standing 3 all and the DeLaval winners of the Yeotes Cup.

There was a good crowd on hand and Kitchen refereed the game.

The teams were:

C.P.C. — Goal Davidson, backs Downer, Curtis; halves, T. Ball, Anderson, F. Ball; forwards, Mitchell, Haw, Edwards, Kilenbeck, Chambers.

Comrades—Goal, Saunders; backs, Edgar, Grant; halves, Slaughter, Halliday, Armour; forwards, Griffin, Edgar, Bradley, Wilson, Billingsley.

M'GILL SWAMPED BYSYRACUSE TEAM

Canadians Put Up a Great Defensive Battle But Syracuse Proved Too Strong.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 13.—(Candian Press)—The football team of McGill University of Montreal, under the handicap of shifting from Canadian rugby to the United States style of game, was defeated by Syracuse University, 32 to 0, Saturday afternoon. Much credit was due to McGill for a game fight against great odds. In the third period, in the shadow of their own goal, McGill gave one of the finest defensive exhibitions that has ever been seen here, and Syracuse was unable to make the distance, losing the ball on downs. Officials allowed the Montreal players freedom in their use of the lateral forward pass and this furnished a spectacular element to the international struggle. Keen tackling by McGill players kept their defeat from becoming a rout.

TURKS AT LAUSANNE.

LAUSANNE, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press)—Ismet Pasha and the entire Turkish delegation to the peace conference, numbering 18, arrived here at nine o'clock last night. IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

You know that as soon as you become engaged to a man etiquette demands that his parents call immediately upon yours. In the most correct circles this call is always made within 24 hours after the announcement.

If the young man happens to be an orphan his nearest relative should make the call. Even deep mourning does not excuse his family from this social obligation.

Wire rope, so far as known, was made first in Germany about 1821.

A FISH STORY FROM THE BAY OF QUINTE DISTRICT.

Old-time Fishing Days Return—What a Fish Hatchery Will Do.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 13. — The good old fishing days seem to be returning to the Bay of Quinte. Saturday a crowd of people on Front Street opposite the City Hall had a sight of a fish, whose kind once infested the waters of the Bay of Quinte and deposited their spawn on the rocky bottom of the Moira River.

In the Government pound nets off Gull Island, near Ox Point, was found a three-year-old spring salmon, weighing fifteen pounds and measuring 32 inches long and 9 inches through. It is a light watery weed green in color, with eyes bulging, small and as if overlaid with gold leaf, fins thick, tail large, the back mottled with darker spots. The fish has large teeth and purplish grey mouth. Several of these fish have been caught this season in the bay, weighing fifteen to twenty pounds.

Mr. Charles McKenzie, a local artist, told The Ontario that this fish in the old days was caught as far up as the lower bridge in the Moira. It is thought that lumbering and sawdust drove them out. The Department has been depositing salmon fry here. "In four or five years we shall be able to catch these fish in the bay without having to go to the maritime provinces," stated Mr. McKenzie, who was engaged making some sketches at the Government hatchery in Thurlow. He recalled how the late William Wallbridge had heard his father tell of buying one of these fish uptown; it having been caught by the lower bridge, the purchaser, who was not a tall man, having to hold his arm high to lift the fish's tail off the ground.

The scientific name of the spring salmon is oncorbynchus tschawytscha. In Indian the fish is known as the oye karo and the Salmon River as oye karone (the region of the salmon).

The presence of this splendid sample of fish is an illustration of the success of the work at the hatchery here which is in charge of Mr. Oakes, the spawn having been deposited only three years ago.

A MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS VIOLET MORRIS

The home of Mrs. Geary, Stewart street, was the scene of a happy throng on Friday evening, when a shower was given in honour of Miss Violet Morris, who is to be married this month.

During the evening she was presented with an electric iron, the gift of her work friends.

About 9.30 a very prettily decorated waggon was drawn in by little Evelyn and John Legros, which was laden with numerous useful presents, which were gratefully accepted by the bride to be.

After refreshments were served the rest of the evening was spent in music and dancing.

"HUMAN HEARTS"

GREAT FILM

"Beneath the spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands,
The smith a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands——"

Longfellow thus immortalized the man of the anvil in verses that will ring in school rafters as long as there are schools and graduating exercises.

A decade or so ago Hal Reid, playwright and publicist, made a stage hero of the village blacksmith by writing a stirring drama around just such a man. That play was "Human Hearts," which achieved immediate popularity, and was one of the best known melodramas of its time, outclassing even "Way Down East," "East Lynne," and other such favorites.

Now Universal has made a screen hero of the blacksmith in a feature adaptation of Hal Reid's play. House Peters, one of the most rugged character of the screen, was selected to play the leading role. Advance reports indicate he has made the smith a mighty man indeed. The story concerns the wholesome romance and the dramatic climaxes in the life of a Tom Logan, a small town blacksmith. It is said to be filled with thrills, heart interest and gripping suspense.

"Human Hearts" will be shown at the Capitol first part of this week. King Bagot, director of the picture, had played the role of Tom Logan in stock many times, and has always declared the play his favorite; hence, when he was chosen to take charge of the production, he used the greatest care in the selection of the cast. Among the favorites playing important roles are Russell Simpson, Gertrude Claire, George Hackathorne, George W. West, Lucretia Harris, Ramsey Wallace, Mary Philbin, H. S. Karr and Snitz Edwards.

Snitz Edwards will be recalled by many of the older generation as one of the funniest comedians on the stage. His antics always kept a theatre in an uproar, and he keeps up his record in this production.

MADILINE GEORGE IN "WOMA N'S GREATEST SIN," AT THE GRAND, TUESDAY, NOV. 14, MATINEE AND NIGHT.

AT THE ROYAL.

SHIRLEY MASON SCORES IN LATEST FOX PICTURE

Shirley Mason, dainty Fox star, is appearing in a type of play entirely different from anything she has produced heretofore in "Youth Must Have Love," the attraction which opens a three days' engagement at the Royal Theatre to-day.

Dealing in mystery, intrigue and innumerable thrills the story contains a red-blooded romance that holds the interest from title to tail-piece.

The theme of the picture is based on a youth unjustly accused of the murder of an old miser, who had won a fortune through the unfortunate circumstances of others.

How a beautiful and charming girl, whose father was indirectly implicated in the affair, finally succeeds in vindicating the youth as well as her father, provides an entertainment that surpasses anything Miss Mason has offered the screen in the past.

Joseph Franz, who has been responsible for any number of screen successes of the past year, directed the photoplay. A notable cast of screen artists, including Wallace McDonald, Landers Stevens, J. P. Lockney and Cecil van Auker, supports the little star. McDonald, who plays opposite her, is especially worthy of creditable mention for his finished portrayal.

AT THE REGENT.

"ALIAS LADYFINGERS" SAFE CRACKER STORY.

"Alias Ladyfingers," a photo-drama dealing with the career of a safe cracker who is decidedly out of the ordinary run of such individuals, is the latest Bert Lytell picture, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre. This swiftly moving story of an accidental criminal is a Bayard Veiller production for Metro, and it reflects that full dramatic quality which won Mr. Veiller such a reputation in the theatrical world by his "The Thirteenth Chair," and "Within the Law."

Mr. Lytell portrays the character of the young man who, educated by a notorious crook as a safe breaker, visits the home where he is being sought as the heir, and in ignorance of his relationship plans to ply his calling, resulting in many tense situations. Supporting Mr. Lytell are Ora Carew, Frank Elliott, Edythe Chapman, DeWitt Jennings and Stanley Goethals.

AT THE GRAND.

"WOMAN'S GREATEST SIN."

"Woman's Greatest Sin"—a problem drama of many tense scenes and strong situations will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre on Tuesday, November 14 with matinee.

It is being presented by Arthur C. Aiston well known for his former first-class productions, and is from the pen of Chas. A. deLima who for many years was associated with the late Chas. Froham.

The plot of "Woman's Greates Sin" revolved itself about the life of the heroine, and shows itself as a belief in the spirit world, and teaches an impressive lesson about the manner in which a mother's memory can guide a daughter aright at the time she seems likely to go wrong because she has a prejudice against marriage. At the critical moment in the young woman's life, she meets a man she truly loves. He possesses some strange power, calls it mesmeric, if you will, through which he puts the girl to sleep, in the course of this the panorama of what might have happened to her if she continued on her false ideas of marriage are depicited to the audience in three acts following, and the final surprise comes in the epilogue, and which surely hold the attention of the audience.

The Scranton Republican speaking of this attraction says the company selected to present the play is far above the average of those chosen for popular priced productions. Miss Viola Leach the leading woman is particularly strong in her emotional scenes while in the role of the man about town Walter Lawrence succeeds in giving a very pleasing performance. Miss Dorothy Galland in the role of an up-to-date flapper is both amusing and forceful, and the role of the negro maid is well acted by Miss Helen Courtney. The Manager of the Grand is to be congragulated upon being able to secure this attraction, and is very anxious to assure his patrons of a great treat.

A matinee will be given, when it is hoped the ladies will take advantage of the occasion.

"PRINCE CHARMING JR."

"Is Stuart-Whyte's new show a pantomine?" seems to be the question on everyone's lips these days. The answer is that "Prince Charming Jr." is and is not a pantomine. "Very definite", you say. Well here's the story.

Once upon a time, not so many months ago, there was, and still is, a Prince A real Prince Charming in everything which the name implies. This Prince was seeing a bit of the world before he was called upon to take up the profession of being a king. Owing to a railway strike, the command performance, which was to have been a feature of his entertainment whilst visiting Frontenac is about to be cancelled because the expected Theatrical Company does not arrive. However, their press agent is on the job, and waiting at the hotel to give them the glad welcome When he finds there will be no trains, he wires the stars to come in by aeroplane. Then he discovers that all the pretty waitresses and maids in the hotel were chorus girls who had been left stranded there by a bad theatrical season. Being somewhat of a director, the assembles them in the dining room between meals and teaches them the choruses of the show which was to have been given in honor of the Prince. The stars arrive by the air route and the show goes on much to the delight of the Prince.

Following the theatrical entertainment, the good people of Frontenac are giving a Cinderella Ball, in honor of the Prince. How he selects the Cinderella from among the beauties of old Frontenac, forms one of the daintest love stories ever told with music. To give any more of the plot away would be to dull the keen edge of your evening's enjoyment.

Among the musical numbers which you will be humming next day are, "Every Lane Must Have a Turning", "Love's a Democrat", "When a Friend of Mine Meets A Friend of Mine", "I'm Educated Now to Yankee Slang," "When Romance Rides Abroad".

This production has been costumed by Mahiou & Co., who are responsible for all the elaborate Ali Bon Hagin tableaux in the "Ziegfeld Follies".

Among the cast of principals are Miss Zara Clinton, Edward J. Keenan, Wilbert Avery, Jeannette Laforest, Billy Oswald, Harry Hoyland, Frank Farr and Victor Binns, while the chorus is Whyte picked.

The music was written by B. C. Hilliam, composed of "Buddies" "Home James" and "Sweet William" The book and lyrics are by Pierre Bayard

F. Stuart-Whyte, under whose personal direction the piece is being given, has taken a full year to assemble this wonderful entertainment.

Oh yes. Is it a pantomime, or a musical comedy, or perhaps a revue? Well, Mr. Whyte is leaving that up to you. It has everything.

"Prince Charming Jr." will be the offering at the Grand Opera House for two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, Nov. 17.

RELIEF CONCERT.

Tickets for the concert which will take place on Friday next, Nov. 17th, at the Conservatory Hall, are now on sale at Heintzman Hall at 75 cents each.

Everyone who possibly can should plan to be at the concert on that night.

It is well to remember that the object of the concert is to bring help to the unfortunate people of Northern Ontario.

Particularly at this period of the year should we be willing to help these brave people, for the Christmas season is near — that time of "goodwill toward men." At Christmas time most people in ordinary circumstances have luxuries added to their daily necessities of life.

It is well to remember that far from having luxuries, the people in the north have not yet even the bare necessities of life.

Every ticket sold means bringing these necessities to the people of the north.

These people will require help for many months to come. They are showing wonderful courage and endurance in the face of their great misfortune.

They ask your help. Do not fail them.

In purchasing your ticket you are not merely providing for yourselves a fine evening's entertainment. You are doing a much greater thing. You are helping those who are at present in want and who are suffering.

Give these people a helping hand. Be a helper!

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 13. — (Special.)—It was again very hard to find an adequate explanation in outside conditions for the unsettled condition of to-day's stock market.

The one disturbing occurrence was a further sharp break in French and Belgian Government bonds. It was indicated that the weakness in these Government securities was not a true measure of feeling in International banking quarters by the fact that the foreign exchanges were not affected. French exchange went off a bit at the start, and so did Belgian, but subsequently rallied. Sterling was steady, while the remarkable advance in Italian lire continued, completing a rise of nearly a cent from the low of October 26, just before the Italian political overturn.

For speculative Wall Street to pretend extreme concern over the European financial situation was rather absurd when these troubles have been in plain view even while operations for the rise were proceeding enthusiastically in August and again in October. It was pretty far fetched to say that the selling of stocks was based on apprehension regarding what the new Congress was likely to do. It may be, of course, that by holding up the supply bills the Opposition will force the President to summon an extra session in the spring. But in the first place this is only problematical, while in the second place it is a contingency far too removed to constitute a powerful motive for selling stocks at the present time.

The session on the stock exchange was half over before the turn for the better came. During the first two hours a lot of selling had come in, the usual liquidation following exhausted margins, but on the whole this selling was not as large as expected. From the viewpoint of the professional with a position on the short side, it was disappointing. Accordingly, short covering went on steadily from the outset, and in the afternoon along with buying which represented the repurchase of stock sold at considerably higher prices a month ago brought about a general rally.

MARKET NEWS.

NEW YORK, November 13. — Much better support was noticeable in the general list after initial selling had been absorbed. Wall street realized that the extra session of the Senate in March would only last for several days for the purpose of making nominations and performing other pafliamentary functions. No laws will be enacted, this fact caused speculative community to breathe easier regarding tax legislation as nothing in this direction can be done until next December, but the kind of buying which came into the market at the first hour is not that sort that bids up prices, and up to 11 a.m. the general list showed no rallying tendency. At that time another wave of selling was in the industrials.

NOON IMPROVEMENT.

NEW YORK, November 13. — Stocks in general list gained strength around 1 p.m. after showing decidedly better resistance during the noon trading. Sharp contraction in brokerage loans resulted from drastic liquidation of last week and short interest built up on decline was declared by many brokers to be the largest since the start of the year.

This improvement in the technical position became increasingly evident as the day wore on. Steel Common rallied more than a point from the early low of 104 1-2 and recoveries took place in SNJ, BL, Studebaker, and other leading industrials.

A SHARP NOTE IS SENT TO GERMANY

Allies Demand Apology for Passau Incident and Other Disturbances.

PARIS, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press).—The Allied council of Ambassadors to-day presented a severely worded note to the German Embassy for transmission to Berlin, in which an immediate apology is demanded for the recent incident at Passau, Bavaria and several previous disturbances.

The text of the note was not given out but it is understood to be one of the sharpest ever sent by the Allies on the subject of Germany's attitude toward military control exercised under the treaty of Versailles. It makes it very clear that Germany cannot expect withdrawal of the control commission for a long time unless her 'policy of evasion and interference ceases at once."

Mr. Webb with this Association's best wishes for a happy and successful pastorate in his new charge.

TURKS ARE IN AN UGLY MOOD

And Boast to Allies of Support From the Russian Soviets.

LAUSANNE, Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The mood of the Turkish delegates here for the conference is wholly different from that the crushed representatives of the Sultan who begged for mercy when the Treaty of Sevres was drafted three years ago. Their leader, Ismet Pasha, boasts of support from the Russian Soviets, and alludes to the uncertainty which the new Governments in Britain and Italy have given to the solidarity of the Entente. Having beaten the Greeks at arms, the Turks are apparently determined to recover practically all the European territory wrested from them by the world war. They are firm and confident that full sovereign rights will accrue to their Government through the conference.

PRELIMINARY CONFERENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press).—Efforts were continuing today among the Allies to reach an agreement upon the time and place for the conference on Near Eastern affairs preceding the Lausanne Conference. Lord Harting, British Ambassador, called on Premier Poincare this morning, and handed him a note proposing a conference with Lord Curzon to be held at London to-morrow or Wednesday.

It was stated that it would be impossible for Premier Poincare to go to London. He suggested that the conference be held in Paris or some other place convenient to Premier Mussolini of Italy, who also is unable to go to London.

WILLIAM MATHESON AT ROYAL THEATRE

Preaches the Truth of the Gospel as it is Held by All the Churches.

A large audience assembled last evening at the close of the services in the different churches in the Royal Theatre to hear a message from Evangelist William Matheson, who is at present conducting a mission in the city. Mr. Matheson's work is for the good of all the churches. He does not come as the advocate of any ism or denominational shibboleth. He has his own church connection and is an ordained minister, but no one could tell from anything he has said during the week he has been among us to what denomination he belongs. He preaches the truth of the Gospel as it is held by all the churches. And what preaching! He begins his address by reading a Scripture passage, and then he selects one of the verses read as his text. Then he takes off his glasses, lays down his book and without a scrap of paper or note proceeds to deliver his message. For an hour—for Mr. Matheson does not preach twenty minute sermonettes—he pours himself out in a perfect torrent of eloquent, informing, passionate speech. The outstanding characteristic of his preaching is the emphasis he gives to the love of God. He endeavors to get men to fall in love with God, to see and believe it, and be transformed by it. This note runs through all his sermons. He is thoroughly loyal to evangelical truth. He had a marvellous knowledge of the Word of God, quoting it frequently in his messages without referring to his Bible. Moody, the great evangelist, loved by all who came in contact with him, and who commended his message to all classes, rich and poor, educated and ignorant, gained the success which he did because of the wonderful love which was in his heart, and which he showed in his every message to the sinful and the lost. Mr. Matheson is like Moody in this respect. He is a preacher with a great big heart of love, often weeping as he gives his message, and as he tells of the love of God and pleads with sinners to be saved. He can be severe at times. He was himself saved with a wonderful salvation. He was saved from the worst of sins. His was no half way salvation. It meant the giving up of everything that related to the old life—liquor, tobacco, gambling, fighting. He gave his body utterly to Jesus Christ; as the temple of the Holy Ghost he wanted it to be clean and pure, and he wanted to be a living witness of the power of Christ to save. He wanted to be an example to others who were still in the gutter. As one looks at him—the most splendid specimen of physical manhood—looks at his face, so kindly and benevolent without one trace of his former life, he is led to exclaim: Behold what God has wrought! It is impossible to be a sceptic or doubt the power of God and see and hear Billy Matheson."

He preaches every night this week in Bethany Tabernacle. The meetings are being supported by members from all the churches. He believes he has a message for Peterboro and he is going to stay long enough till all hear it. It is to be hoped that the messages may so grow in power that it will be necessary to move to the largest auditorium in the city. His presence here ought to mean much to the strengthening of all the churches, to the reaching of the careless and to the social betterment of the life of the city.

A BROADENING OUT POLICY FOR U. F. O. WOULD BE SUICIDAL

So Declares J. J. Morrison Who Adds That at the Very Least it Would Mean an Immediate and Damaging Cleavage Among Progressives.

CREATE A MACHINE

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—(Special). "It's suicidal." Briefly and tersely, these two words convey the impressions of Mr. Morrison on the proposal to broaden out the Progressive party. "If it is tried it means the death of the movement, or, at the very least, such a cleavage that the damage will be irremediable."

"As proposed, the scheme will create an organization of officialdom to govern the people; what we want is the organization of the people to govern themselves."

"What is your chief objection to the proposal?" The Examiner inquired.

"Simply that it proposes to create a machine; a machine needs funds to run it," he continued, "and I take issue right there. In the first place we were never organized as a political entity, but rather as a unit to fight the economic battles of the farmer. Now it is proposed to enter politics bolus bolus. And when you create a machine with funds, there you are right back to the party system."

"You object to that?"

"Certainly, that is the very thing we have been hammering since we entered politics. Party politics are an abomination, and to eliminate the system, the farmers have entered the arena. Now it is proposed to form ourselves into a party."

"But is it not proposed to refer this matter to the local organizations?"

"Yes, that's all right if it is carried through in the proper method, but we have nothing in our constitution to provide for happenings of this nature."

"Then what should be done?"

"Notice of motion to adopt such a procedure should be given to the local organizations, like every other item of business."

"Do you wish the movement restricted to farmers?"

"Yes, always with the proviso that we believe in the responsibility of the ridings to choose whom they desire."

"Even if that man is not a farmer?"

"Certainly. The ridings are entitled to choose anyone whom they see fit."

"And would this man, if elected, be subject to recall by his constituents?"

"Absolutely."

A Patrol Man of Windsor Beat Up Badly 2 Prisoners

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 14.—Can. Press.—That Albert Maccaulay, the Windsor patrol man, accused of maltreating a prisoner had beaten up two prisoners prior to the one that he is alleged to have abused a short time ago, was brought out in evidence before a special aldermanic committee and the police commission at the resumed hearing into the charges last night. Nov. 22nd was set as the date for another hearing.

LAST WORD IN FIGHT TONIGHT

British Electorate Will Pick a New Parliament To-morrow.

LONDON, Nov. 14. — (Canadian Press).—The last word in Britain's election campaign will be spoken to-night, and to-morrow the electorate will pick a Parliament from 1,386 candidates seeking seats in the House of Commons.

In 373 constituencies the fight will be a duel between the candidates of two parties. In 243 other constituencies the battle is complicated by the presence of three or more contestants. Even the wisest political seers are uncertain as to the outcome. Everywhere the great puzzle perplexing organizers is how the women will vote. It is the experience of canvassers throughout the country that women are taking more practical interest in the elections than ever before, although the interest was frequently considerably keen even before they had a right to cast ballots.

INTEREST INCREASES IN MATHESON'S TALKS.

Meeting in Bethany Tabernacle by Noted Evangelist Last Night Largely Attended.

The meeting held last evening in Bethany Tabernacle by Evangelist Matheson was more largely attended than any held so far. Both the attention and the interest were intense. His subject was: "Not being ashamed of the Gospel," based on the words of Paul to Timothy, "Be not ashamed of the testimony of the Lord." Paul was not ashamed of the Gospel. If he were to come preaching the same message he preached all over Asia Minor, Europe and Rome, people would say that he was out of date, an old fogey. People think that we must invent a new Gospel to suit the age in which we live but the Gospel of Christ was intended for all ages. The needs of men in Paul's day are the same as the needs of men today. Men were sinners then; they are sinners now. The Christ whom Paul preached is the Christ whom we must preach. And we must not be ashamed to do so. Men are either for or against Christ. Whether you shall be saved or not depends upon your attitude to Christ. You are either on Christ's side or you are not. Are you prepared to take your stand for Him? We sometimes sing the hymn with the refrain: "Christ can depend upon me." Can He? Are you fighting as a soldier in His army? Napoleon said a fighting army was always a victorious army. The battle which Christ is waging against sin He is going to win; but that victory will be hastened or retarded according to whether or not His church is always engaged in the fight. The Bible speaks about the victory of Christ. It is sure. It may be that you have not been reading the Bible. The reason is that the devil does not wish you to read the book that speaks of his own defeat. You must not be ashamed to be seen reading the Bible. You must not be ashamed of being a soldier of the Cross. You must be prepared to make the sacrifices of a soldier: think of the self denial of a soldier. Think of his long marches, of his fastings, of his hunger, of his thrust; think of him going over the top, and giving his life for his country. Shall we not be prepared to give and to suffer for Christ? Shall we not be willing to fast for Him? Jesus said: "This kind goeth not forth but fasting and prayer." Are you praying for the success of these meetings?

Mishap at Substation Left Central Part of City in Temporary Darkness

The commercial district north of Charlotte Street was in complete darkness for an hour or more around midnight last night as the result of a switch burning out in the Simcoe Street substation.

The street lights were not affected by the mishap.

DISPELS THE GLOOMY PICTURE OF COST OF DEVELOPING POWER

R. R. Hall, K.C., Explains How Dams Number Four and Five Might Be Harnessed to the Advantage of Peterborough Power Consumers.

SAVE $25,000 A YEAR

Mr. F. H. Dobbin has a very refreshing communication in Saturday's Examiner under the heading: —"How Dams 4 and 5 Might be Harnessed for Power."

He draws a very gloomy picture of the cost of developing power at these two dams because all his figures are based upon the development of power on the west side of the river instead of the east side of the river.

The question is not how dams four and five might be harnessed for power? but the question is "how should they be harnessed for power?

My proposition is that the Dominion Government should bear the expense of building the reach of the canal on the east side of the river from a point above Dam No. 4 to a point below Dam No. 5, which would mean the construction of a 26' lock below Dam No. 5 and below the present Lock No. 5.

Cut Down Expense

By building this new lock the Government would do away with the expense of the maintenance of Dam No. 5 and would do away with the maintenance of the Lock at Dam No. 4 because only one dam would then be necessary on the site of Dam No. 4 which is already built and the new 26 foot lock would take the place of locks numbers 4 and 5.

The Dominion Government therefore would be at the entire expense of making this improvement to the Canal and would save a great deal of time to boats navigating the river by substituting one lock in place of two.

The retaining wall of the Canal below Dam No. 5 could be so constructed with head gates as to permit of power development below dam No. 5.

All the City of Peterborough would have to do would be to build a power house on the bank of the River, excavate its necessary wheel pits, instal its hydraulic machinery and its electrical machinery.

This would make one of the cheapest power developments on the whole Trent System, and hence it is, I have stated, after consulting with Hydraulic Engineers that notwithstanding the present high cost of construction, that power could be produced at this point at $10. per horse power, per annum. In making this estimate I have figured that the Dominion Government would not charge a rental exceeding $2300. per annum which is the annual rental that had been offered to a private Company in which I was concerned.

Waste Public Money

Mr. Dobbin is estimating the power cost of these two dams by having them developed on the west bank of the river is simply suggesting how public money could be wasted by the Dominion Government and by the City of Peterborough. The plan that I am suggesting shows how public money could be spent by the Dominion Government and by the City of Peterborough to the mutual benefit of both.

Mr. Dobbin does not take a hopeful attitude in his article because of the fact that he seems to be unduly depressed by reason of the fact that the Council acted upon very bad advice in connection with the construction of the Hunter street bridge and which involved this City in the expenditure of a very large sum of money but I would suggest to him that he forget all about Hunter street bridge and only remember it as a blunder not to be repeated. If power is developed at Dams four and five along the lines I suggest the City would make a saving of over $25,000 a year and this saving to power and light users, in less than 10 years would more than wipe out one half of the capital cost of the Hunter street bridge and a like development at Burleigh Falls would make such a large annual saving as to wipe out the other half.

ANOTHER "BLIND PIG" DISCOVERED

Police Confiscate Keg of Fire Water in Jakey Kurr's Shoe Shop on Charlottte Sreet.

A keg of potent hootch and two alleged customers, both of whom were arrested for being drunk, were exhibits held by the police this morning in support of their charge against Jacob Kurr, shoe repairer at 215 Charlotte Street, of keeping a "blind pig."

Chief Newhall sipped a spoonful of the brew of which about a gallon remained in the large wooden keg fitted with spiggot and everything, and according to the Chief it tasted like liquid fire.

It is said that one of the drunks swayed across the path of a policeman on Charlotte Street yesterday evening, and under inquisition he told where he got the stuff.

At any rate the police went directly to the shoe-shop and discovered the other customer, who was "well away."

The case was enlarged this morning.

CANADA COULD CLAIM TERRITORY IN MAINE.

Logical Effect of U. S. Entering League of Nations, Says Sir Andrew McPhail.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14, — (Canadian Press).—Canada would have a claim on the territory in Maine if the United States entered the League of Nations, Sir Andrew McPhail of McGill University, Montreal, told the Transatlantic Society here yesterday. He said that whereas the territory in Maine contiguous to the Canadian border was practically worthless to the United States, it could be of incalculable value to Canada because of its proximity to the St. Lawrence.

LORD BIRKENHEAD HITS AT LABOUR'S PROPOSAL.

Says Man Who Advocates New System Should Be in the Pulpit.

LONDON, Nov. 14. — (Canadian Press).—Some of the speakers in the British elections are giving attention to Labor's proposed capital levy. Speaking at Ilkeston, Lord Birkenhead stated that men who advocated the new system under which everybody got everything he wanted to do and nothing he did not want to do were thinking of the next world and should be in a pulpit, not Parliament. The only true rule was that every workingman was worth exactly that which, in competitive conditions, he could wrest from this hard world.

Edward Shortt, former Home Secretary, declared at Bolton that it was impossible to impose capital levy without doing ten times more harm than good. The Labor party stood for Socialism and was run by theorists, born and bred on theory, without an ounce of practical knowledge.

Sir John Simon declared at Clerkheaton that the statement that capital levy would not take capital out of business was quite incomprehensible, unless the intention was to have the State become shareholder in the industries of the country.

A GOOD THOUGHT.

"Christ is all and in all." — Col 3:11.

He who knows this knows what fully satisfies and cheers. He who knows this best has the deepest and truest peace, for he has learned the secret of being always a sinner, yet always righteous; always incomplete, yet always complete; always empty, and yet always full; always poor, and yet always rich. We would not say of that fulness, "Drink deep or taste not," for even to-taste is to be blest. But yet we say, Drink deep for he who drinks deepest is the happiest as well as the holiest man.—Horatius Bonar.

POSSIBLE NOMINEES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — (Special.)—Seventeen possible nominees for the Presidency in 1924 are already looming. Harding, Kenyon, Borah, Lafollette and Hughes are prominent.

WERE EDUCATED AT EXPENSE OF WORKING CLASS

Laborite Says Winston Churchill and Forbears Never Soiled Fingers With Honest Toil.

NEWS BY CABLE

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Robert Smillie, Laborite, speaking in Glasgow last night, referred to Lord Birkenhead and Winston Churchill as having said that Labor was unfit to govern the country.

Mr. Churchill and his forbears probably right down through several generations, Mr. Smillie said, had been educated at the workers expense. "If you could prove to the workers", declared Mr. Smillie, "that Winston Churchill, or any one who belonged to him, had ever soiled his fingers through honest toil since William, the Conqueror, he would commit suicide for the shame of it."

HAPPY HOMES WAITING

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—The Duke of Devonshire declared at Dudley last night that the colonies were calling for immigrants and he ventured to say that happy homes awaited young people in the Great Dominions. Canada, he added, was calling for British brains, capital and labor.

A QUESTION SOLVED

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—The troublesome question of how the meeting of Allies could be arranged before the Lausanne conference for the purpos of outlining the allied program has been solved.

Lord Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, has arranged to see Premier Poincare in Paris on his way to Lausanne, probably on Thursday and their conversation will be continued on the train, while Premier Mussolini will join them for a preliminary meeting at Lausanne on Sunday.

TRAINS RUN LOOSE

DUBLIN, Nov. 14. —(Canadian Press)—If member of the Irish Free State Parliament, which resumes Wednesday express in public what some of them have been saying in private there is sure to be a searching criticism of the government ineffectiveness against irregulars. The latter's policy of dislocating railway traffic is witnessed daily in the wholesale burning of signal boards. It has been a common thing to seize a train and let it run loose. It is inferred that there is some difference in the cabinet as to the method of dealing with rebels.

FOUR LAY DYING OF POISON ON LIGHTSHIP.

One Died on the Way to Charlottetown for Treatment Early This Morning.

CHARLOTTETOWN. Nov. 14. — Canadian Press. — Distress signals flying from the lightship at Bird Rock, Magdalene Islands, attracted the marine department cruiser early this morning, and when the officers reached the scene they found the lighthouse keeper, his brother, male assistant Bourke, and an aged lady, Mrs. Turbide, mother in law of Bourke, very ill, and Bourke's wife attending them. The three men and two women were rushed to Georgetown, but no doctor was available there, and they were brought to Charlottetown. Bourke died on the trip. It is presumed that they were suffering from some form of poisoning.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION HELD MONTHLY MEETING.

Last evening the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held their regular monthly meeting, the president, Mrs. S. E. Touchbourn, in the chair. Discussion of routine business was held, and votes of thanks moved to Mr. G. A. Gillespie and Mr. Gordon Matthews for use of their trucks during the paper collection held by the association, also to Mr. Richard Hall for the gift of two dollars at the same time.

Mrs. A. Mowat gave a very interesting and informative outline of the address given by Dr. Wallace Seccomb, of Toronto, to the Local Council of Women at their last regular meeting. Dr. Seccomb's talk dealt with the importance of correct diet to the prospective mother, and Mrs. Mowat's recital of his arguments was of interest to her hearers.

Mrs. W. H. Bolton, secretary, read one of the loan papers of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, entitled "Living a Life is More Than Making a Living." A musical programme was rendered, with vocal solos by Mrs. B. Singleton, Miss M. Kitchen and Miss H. Davidson, and an instrumental selection by Mrs. Massey-Cooke. Mrs. Fife and Miss Gwen. Doney acted as accompanists.

William J. Johnston Gave the City Long Service as Member of Council

William J. Johnston, who died at his home on Aylmer Street last night at nine o'clock, was a member of the City Council for nine years. He was first elected in 1904, during the Mayoralty of the late George M. Roger, and served continuously until 1908.

Then after a retirement of four years he was re-elected in 1912, and was several times returned until 1915, when he passed out of the civic arena when his health began to fail.

Ex-Alderman Johnston was esteemed by his many friends for the kindly, genial disposition lighted by his smile that was one of his most appealing characteristics.

In the performance of the duties and responsibilities of his office in the Council, in which he held various chairmanships, his work was marked by sincerity and fidelity, and the advancement of Peterborough was always close to his heart.

In his day he was one of the veterans of the Council, and a link between the administration of twenty-five years ago and the present.

Many of those who were elected with him in 1904 have predeceased him. The Council of that year was composed of G. M. Roger, Mayor; and Aldermen Henry Best, Jos. Batten, R. Clinkscale, R. F. McWilliams, Robert Hicks ,E. F. Mason, James Edgcumbe, Harry Rush, Frank Adams, W. Scott, Dr. M. A. Morrison, and W. J. Johnston

TWO EXCELLENT TALKS AT THE KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. A. Y. McNair and Mr. Russell Widdifield Were the Speakers—A Busy Session.

HELP FIRE VICTIMS

Dr. A. Y. McNair, director of the Provincial laboratory here and Mr. Russell Widdifield, City Solicitor, were the speakers at to-day's Kiwanis luncheon. General C. H. Mitchell, D.S.O., C.M.G., C.B., M.E.I.C., was unable to reach Peterboro on the noon train. He will be here this evening in time to address the engineers at their annual banquet. Rotarians R. L. Dobbin, A. L. Killaly and Peter Westbye were among to-day's guests. Rotarian Westbye expressed the regret of the local engineers at their inability to produce General Mitchell at to-day's Kiwanis gathering. To-day's booster was Kiwanian Jack Jarry and it fell to the lot of Leslie Unitt to tell the gathering what he knew about his fellow Kiwanian. Mr. Unitt also made an appeal for assistance on behalf of the fire sufferers in the northland. This assistance can best be provided by purchasing tickets for the benefit concert that is being held in the Conservatory of Music on Friday evening of this week. This concert was commended by Kiwanian John Allan and Kiwanian W. Lawson, President Frank Whitehouse presided and kept Sergeant-at-Arms J. John busy collecting fines for various misdemeanors.

Provincial Laboratory

Dr. A. Y. McNair gave an interesting resume of the work of the ten provincial laboratories that are located in central points throughout the province, including the one in Peterboro. By means of these laboratories, doctors are able to get quick results on laboratory test work and in this way many lives are saved. The provincial government's policy of providing free laboratory service for the betterment of public health started in 1906 with one laboratory in Toronto. In the treatment of communicable diseases such as diphtheria typhoid, smallpox and others, delay is often fatal. Where the doctor can get a quick report on a swab sent into a laboratory, recovery from diphtheria is almost assured. As a rule where a doctor is not able to make a definite diagnosis of what appears to be a communicable disease he will resort to the use of an anti-toxin with good results rather than wait for the finding of the analyist. By having a laboratory located in Peterboro much quicker results can be obtained and the doctor is saved the delay that would follow if he had to send to Toronto for a laboratory test.

The work of the Provincial laboratories is absolutely free. In the 17th or 18th century the average length of life was twenty years. This by the scientific development of medical skill has been increased to forty years. Dr. McNair predicted the time might come when the average length of life might approach sixty years.

Municipal Government

Kiwanian Russell Widdifield gave a striking historical review of municipal government as it existed hundreds of years ago starting with the Roman Empire and coming down to the present age. In the days of the Roman Empire, the city of Rome was noted for its advanced forms of municipal enterprise. It possessed among other things, waterworks, and a public bath, capable of accommodating over sixty thousand persons at one time. Business closed with day light owing to the lack of an adequate system of lighting and the police force consisting of seven thousand men who served in the dual capacity of police and firemen.

In France the mayors of the larger municipalities are selected by the government in Paris but nominees for this position must be a member of the municipal Council.

In Germany great care is taken to fill municipal offices with men of outstanding ability and one professor who has made a study of municipal government is authority for the statement that Berlin is the best governed city in the world. Ten thousand persons participate in the government of Berlin.

In conclusion Mr. Widdifield pointed out that no municipal constitution would necessarily ensure good government. What we require, said the speaker is municipal patriotism. One of the chief duties of Canadian citizenship to-day is the practice of civic patriotism and an active participation in the affairs of the civic administration. In the matter of municipal advantages such as parks, public institutions and many other things, Peterboro is fortunate and with the right kind of civic patriotism is destined to be one of the finest cites in the Dominion.

Rules Legislature Had the Power to Imprison Editor

QUEBEC, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—An application for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of John H. Roberts, editor of the Axe, from custody was rejected by Justice Bernier this morning.

He held that the Legislature had power to pass a special bill for the imprisonment of Roberts.

LOCAL MEMBERS OF A. O. F. SAT DOWN AT BANQUET TABLE

Thirty-Third Anniversary Event Graced by Presence of Several Distinguished Guests.

The thirty-third anniversary banquet of the Court Stanley A. O. F. was held last evening in the Montgomery House, where about eighty officials, members and visitors sat down to a sumptuous banquet. The Order was honoured by the presence of several distinguished local speakers, as well as two High Court officials from Toronto, Bro. H. C. Wilson, H.C.R. and Bros. A. Martin, H. C.S. The gathering was led into the banquet room by S. Leith, playing the bagpipes.

Should Be Proud.

Dr. C. C. King, who proposed the toast to the Empire, remarked how proud we should be as Canadians of being a part of such a great Empire as the British, which stands for justice and fair play. Our Emipre is looked up to by all the other nations as the greatest in the world. And here the speaker expressed his hope to soon see all of its vast resources in full development, and unoccupied areas all settled. The reason for this country's drawback, concluded the speaker, is due to the lack of capital.

TALK ON THE HOME GARDEN BY G. BALDWIN

Has Practical Knowledge of Subject, and Address in Peterboro Was Interest-Holding.

BLOOM CONTINUITY

The board room at the Chamber of Commerce was filled to the doors last evening with men and women, who listened with eager attention to the address to the Horticultural Society on "Home Gardens," given by Mr. George Baldwin, F.R.H.S., of Toronto. Even when the lights went out temporarily later in the evening, no one moved, and Mr. Baldwin, whose address was made very interesting by his evident thorough and practical knowledge of his subject, continued in the interval to answer questions from the men and women in the audience.

Dr. J. E. Middleton occupied the chair, and, before introducing the speaker, gave an explanation of the system used this fall for distributing bulb options. Heretofore the bulbs have been sent out to the members, but it was discovered that some were not used, one lady, according to Dr. Middleton, having informed him that she was uncertain of their use, and still preserved them carefully in a paper bag on a pantry shelf. This year, therefore, those desirous of getting their bulbs are requested to call Mr. Leon Frazer on the telephone.

Address Illustrated.

Mr. Baldwin, whose address was illustrated partly with lantern slides, and later, with an illuminating little blackboard talk, showed some beautiful views of his own garden, a moderately large patch of ground which contains a miniature greenhouse where he brings his seedlings along, and grows tomatoes and cucumbers, the latter including varieties of the "telegraph" cucumber which won their grower several prizes at the Toronto Exhibition.

Speaking of the desirability of having in any garden a "continuity of bloom," Mr. Baldwin referred to, and illustrated, his own experience in this regard, from the lovely French paper white narcissus of the first springtime to the aster of later months.

The hyacinth was shown, and Mr. Baldwin related an incident in which an amateur helper of his planted nearly 150 bulbs of these flowers the wrong way up. Although the speaker admitted that this tale sounded ridiculous, he said that the plants were discovered later blooming below ground in their light soil, the flowers all a yellow tint, which later righted itself on the plants being restored to their rightful position in the earth.

Phlox Perennial.

The phlox perennial was recommended as an exceptionally good filler, from the early white Miss Lingard to the final dark red Tragedy. Peonies were good for the continuity scheme, the Therese, a shell-pink, with great fragrance, being recommended, and lilies also, with their diet of fresh water and granulated sugar. Lilies require something hard to force their way through, said Mr. Baldwin, recommending a good pounding down of the earth above their heads when planting them.

Roses should be buried underground during the winter months. Mr. Baldwin waxed enthusiastic and a trifle poetical, as the true gardener usually does, over the beauties and color and fragrance of his pet rose, the new Los Angeles, with its cerise-tinted, gold and yellow beauty. To "rosarians" also, he recommended the climbing variety in the Kaiserine Augusta Victoria, which he has re-named for his own amusement, the "Mrs. Baldwin." Liquid manure and pruning were necessities for the climbing rose.

Attractive Gladioli.

To a "rosarian," he said, gladioli had particular attractiveness. He thought gladioli were like the description the man gave of beer, "there is no bad beer, but some is better than others." These lovely flowers, and asters, which extended for months in their various bloomings, were good to fill in gaps in the perennials,—and in the blooming shrubs, he recommended particularly the different varieties of hydrangea.

Vegetaable Garden.

Passing to the vegetable garden, Mr. Baldwin referred to weeds as a blessing in disguise, as they necessitated the cultivation of the ground which filled up the cracks that let the moisture out and kept the air in. He showed samples of the Spanish onions, of the peanuts, with their cultivation akin to that of the potato; of the celery, which he has grown in his Toronto kitchen garden, and referred to the 2,000 gardens in vacant lots of that city which are being cultivated, mostly by ex-service and often partially crippled men, who have made money out of their work. In his blackboard talk, Mr. Baldwin illustrated the proper method of apportionment for the kitchen garden space, giving one section of taproots, another to legumes, a third to tubers, and alternating the arrangement of these from year to year, mainly for the purpose of outwitting the designs of the various bugs which pick out their favorite vegetable and wait for it from season to season in its own particular habitat. An illustration was given of the wrong method of placing manure, which often result-

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT IS FIERY ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Indian River Is Swept By a Conflagration--Loss Is Ten Thousand Dollars

Election Campaign Sends Out a Deluge of Oratory

Leaders of All Parties Are Making a Last Effort to Swing the Tide of Votes in Their Direction.

LABOR UNCERTAIN.

LONDON, Nov. 14—(Associated Press) —Election oratory was again in full swing yesterday. Premier Bonar Law, recovered from his indisposition, travelled to Glasgow, where he addressed a meeting last night. Former Premier Asquith was on the same train to attend a meeting of his constituents at Paisley. Lloyd George shows undiminishing energy in this respect, surpassing all his competitors in campaigning activity. He left Criccieth for Bolton and North England, and as is his custom, addressed little gatherings on the way.

All the great leaders, however, have long since exhausted anything in the shape of novelty in their various advocacies, with the possible exception of Winston Churchill who having entered the fray at the last moment, is still able to infuse the spice of interest in his speeches, and he is also perhaps more a victim of hecklers than the other leaders. He was even howled down at Dundee yesterday.

As the campaign nears its end it is interesting to observe how the Labor Party has unwittingly provided its opponents with what these opponents consider their best campaign ammunition. Conservatives of varying color, Liberal-Unionists and Asquithian Liberals, all join with the greatest gusto in attacking Labor for its advocacy of a capital levy and nationalization of industries. The avidity with which all the parties seized upon these points is the measure of apprehension felt on all sides when the campaign started as to the high possibilities provided as to Labor entering the next parliament in strength, this apprehension being based on the great success of Labor in recent by-elections.

The Labor leaders quickly realized that open advocacy of a capital levy had been a mistake in tactics, which, in the opinion of most observers of to-day has lost them an enormous number of votes by frightening the lower and middle classes, who might otherwise have voted for Labor as the only real alternative to the return of a coalition or a Conservative Government. Bonar Law, speaking at Glasgow, concentrated on this point and declared that anything which makes the capitalist afraid to employ his capital does the greatest possible injury to trade, and therefore increases unemployment.

"You cannot start a system of this kind without shaking to its foundations the whole fabric on which our business is conducted," said Bonar Law. He pointed out that one burning desire evinced after the war was to get rid of government control and return to private initiative and added —"Whatever else this country may do with the lesson here during the war, and in Russia, before our eyes, we are not going to try an experiment like that."

Winston Churchill, addressing a meeting of women at Dundee yesterday, where he was subjected to much hostitlity from a number of Communists admitted that he had formerly advocated nationalization of the railways, but had experienced an experiment of government control during and after the war which caused him to change his view.

Austen Chamberlain, addressing a meeting of business men in Birming hom devoted himself to national finance, emphasizing how the improvement in British credit owing to the late government's courageous policy and effective taxation had enabled the government to borrow more cheaply and save money in the payment of the debts to the United tates and elsewhere.

Although it is generally conceded that advocacy of a capital levy has diminished the Labor chances, it is also universally agreed that Labor is likely to secure a much larger representation in the new than in the old Parliament. The lowest estimate places the Labor successes at one hundred seats, as against 77 in the late House.

It is possible that votes that would otherwise have been given to Labor may now be given to the Asquith Party, in which case Labor's loss would be the Liberals' gain, and although Labor has consistently refused to enter into any compact with the Liberals in election campaigns, there is nothing to prevent the two parties from working in co-operation in Parliament as on most questions their platforms are almost identical.

The only thing certain is that the election will doubtless provide many surprises. Labor has but few organs in the press in London, for example, only one daily paper. It would, therefore, be rash to judge of Labor's chances by a perusal of the press. much will depend upon how far the working class electorate can be persuaded to believe that a capital levy, which cannot affect them directly, will injure them indirectly by retarding revival of trade, thus producing more unemployment.

EX-ALDERMAN W. J. JOHNSTON PASSES AWAY

Five years Councillor of Ashburnham Village, ten years Alderman of the City of Peterborough; and for years an active member of George Street Methodist Church, enjoying the esteem and respect of this whole community, Wm. J. Johnston passed away at his home, 641 Aylmer Street, at nine o'clock last night, in his fifty-seventh year.

The late ex-Ald. Johnston was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston, and was born in the City of Peterborough, where he had resided all his life. Engaged in the building and contracting business for thirty-five years, he was stricken with a paralytic stroke seven years ago, when fifty years of age, followed by a second stroke three years ago, since which time he had been confined to his home.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes J., one daughter, Florence, of this city, one son, Douglas, of Smith Falls; also by one sister, Mrs. F. O. Allison, and three brothers, Joseph, Herbert and Ernest, all of Peterborough.

Funeral service will be conducted by Rev. W. Harold Young at the family residence. Thursday afternoon, at two o'clock; interment in the Little Lake Cemetery under Masonic auspices.

GARAGE AND STOREHOUSE AT INDIAN RIVER ARE DESTROYED

The Loss is Estimated at Ten Thousand Dollars --Fire Was Caused by a Lamp Which Exploded in a Garage.

STORY OF THE FIRE

INDIAN RIVER, November 14.—A fire which broke out shortly after midnight destroyed the service garage of Mr. Frank Vann. The loss to the garage and other buildings that were damaged by the fire is estimated at about ten thousand dollars. The fire originated from a lamp that exploded, and in a few minutes the fire was beyond control. Mr. Vann, who had his residence over the garage, lost in addition to the garage and an Overland car, the contents of his home. Mr. Vann's loss is placed at two thousand dollars.

The Farmers' Dairy Company had a quantity of material stored in the burning building. The company's loss is estimated at $3100.

Soanes Bros., general merchants, had a storehouse filled with flour, feed and other merchandize. The loss on this will amount to about $5000.

The store caught fire several times but the fire was extinguished by a corps of willing helpers who were attracted to the scene. The flames from the burning buildings illuminated the country for miles around. The fire threatened to break away several times and wipe out the entire village, but with the aid of a number of residents in the village and district, the flames were held in check. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

No Split in Ranks of Progressives

EDMONTON, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—"There is no split in the ranks of the National Progressive party," declared W. T. Lucas, M.P., federal member for Victoria, on his return to Edmonton yesterday morning from Winnipeg. He added that the Alberta members were solidly behind Robert Forke, the new leader of the party. He charged that an attempt had been made to make it appear that the party was split on the question of leadership and that the Alberta members were not backing their new chief.

FREIGHT CARRIER EARNS LARGE SUM.

CRIES OF CHILDREN WARNED OF FIRE.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 14. — (Canadian Press.) — Thirty-five thousand dollars in freight charges will be earned by the steamer W. Grant Morden which will leave tonight with 450,000 bushels of wheat and 50,000 bushels of barley, one of the largest cargoes ever carried on the lakes. The Morden has made several trips this season with earnings running from $20,000 to $30,000.

With the close of the regular period of navigation but sixteen days distant, there is a concerted demand at lower lake ports for ships to take grain and good prices are being offered. The vanguard of what is said to be a large fleet coming to the head of the lakes for cargoes was due last night when about ten vessels arrived, all light and immediately commenced to load.

SHIP GOLD TO CANADA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.— (Canadian Press.)—The New York Trust Company yesterday shipped one million dollars in gold coin to Canada. This is the fourth shipment of the kind by this company since September 14. The movement of gold to Canada has assumed considerable importance lately because of the favorable position of the Canadian Dollar in the New York money market. The dollar was quoted yesteray at 1-8 of one per cent. premium.

U.S. FARMERS ARE LAYING PLANS FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Recent Election Has Put the Farm Bloc Leaders in a Stronger Position Than Ever.

LOW FREIGHT RATES.

WASHIGTON, November 14. Canadian Press. — Farm bloc leaders in the United States Congress and the officials of the farmers' organizations throughout the United States are much encouraged over the results of the recent elections and are already laying plans for aggressive action in Washington to bring about legislation which the agricultural industry demands. This includes legislation for a new system of rural credits in which the farmer can obtain loans for six months to three years on the security of his livestock and products, legislation to revise the Transportation Act for the purpose of bringing about lower freight rates, and a number of other matters. Stoppage of the issue of tax-exempt securities is one of the things the farmers demand.

At one time the opponents of the farm bloc in Congress and elsewhere were rejoicing that it was soon to be crushed. Nothing of the sort has occurred. Instead it is looming up stronger than ever and along with those Republicans who are radical and independnet in the two Houses, will hold the balance of power in the new Congress.

Public sentiment in the agricultural States as disclosed by the elections, indicates the insistence of the farmers on law-making to afford them relief as to credits, freight rates and so on. Consequently agricultural members in Congress, who might like to sit down and fold their arms, do not dare do so. Inaction would mean they would be driven out of office two years from now.

Already the agricultural members of the House are holding informal conferences with a view to controlling the House Committees and the House organization after March 4th as far as possible.

Earthquake Leaves Over 3500 Homeless

SANTIAGO, November 14. — Canadian Press. — The homeless at Coquimbo and vicinity number 3500, according to the official despatches, which do not estimate the number of dead from the earthquake and tidal wave. The suburb of Victoria was destroyed. From last despatches come reports of the disaster at Copiapo and Chanaral, the latter place being without food. Copiapo is in dire need of medicine assistance. Firemen and boy scouts are doing all possible to render aid to the destitute. The municipal theatre and the principal church were among the buildings wrecked by the shock, and nearly all the dwelling houses at Cipiapo were levelled.

LADY ASTOR HAS A HARD FIGHT TO RETAIN HER SEAT

Her Enemies Accuse Her of Having Prohibition Tendencies and Have Named Her 'Pussyfoot.'

EXPECTED TO WIN.

PLYMOUTH, England, Nov. 14. —(Canadian Press).—Feeling is unusually bitter in Viscountess Astor's campaign here. She is having a hard fight to retain her seat and there has been a remarkable display of heat. Personalities and abuse have driven party politics into the background. One charge which the voters have brought against Lady Astor, and one which counts in this community of workingmen, is her stand on liquor. The favorite epithet of those who oppose her is "Pussyfoot," and her opponents use the word as though it were a crime.

"I am not trying to take away anyone's beer," is Lady Astor's answer. "I want to give the voters freedom to control the drink trade; the brewers too often control trade in political."

The Countess says she would not countenance any confiscation of trade without compensation. The real struggle is between her and her Independent Conservative rival, Dr.

"I Had Bilious Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yonker, Sask., writes:

"I suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and used to have bilious attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. My stomach would be so weak that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my sister's advice, I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me feel like a new woman."

AN IMPOSSIBLE REQUEST.

In connection with the dismissal by the Privy Council of the appeal of the Grand Trunk management against the award of the Board of Arbitration which found the preference and common stock of that company to be of no value, it is interesting to note that there are rumors of a petition that is to be presented by the holders of preferred stock, asking the Canadian Parliament for consideration.

The contention will be, of course, that the British investors had been le dto believe, because dividends were paid on these stocks for a long period, that there were considerable assets behind them.

The Canadian Government, however, should give such requests little beyond a courteous reception.

Canadians have had to provide millions every year meeting interest obligations, that without this aid would have had to be assumed by the shareholders of the Grand Trunk.

The people of this country cannot be expected to do anything further. They already have more taxes than they can comfortably carry, and if any petition of the suggested nature comes along, Parliament should remember, as the Globe puts it, that its first duty is to the over-burdened taxpayers of the Dominion.

THE CIVIC SLIDE.

It is said that the proposed civic toboggan slide at the east side of the Ashburnham Bridge may not eventuate this winter because of fear on the part of the Council that the expense will be too great.

Many citizens will hope that the report is not true.

Canadians do not capitalize their bracing winter weather half enough.

There is too great a tendency to imitate the bear and den up for the cold weather, preferring the vitiated atmosphere of the overheated house to the clear frosty health-giving air outdoors.

Anything therefore that will bring a large number of people outside for an hour or two and at the same time provide them with healthful exercise and who'esome recreation is to be encouraged.

There is nothing better than tobogganing.

A civic slide, properly managed, should to a large extent be self-sustaining, and the initial cost should not be heavy enough to offset the item represented on the other side of the ledger in the shape of healthier and more contented citizens.

It is to be hoped that this matter will be given every consideration and not dropped so long as the cost is not prohibitive.

"BROADENING OUT."

An editorial note in these columns yesterday which stated that the resignation of Hon. T. A. Crerar might have the tendency of accentuating the class aspect of the Progressive movement was written before the result of Saturday's conference was known and did an injustice to the Farmers' party.

It was thought that the departure of Mr. Crerar might open the way for the Wood-Morrison policy of a purely class organization.

Apparently the reverse has been the case.

The Progressives have decided to "broaden out," to borrow Mr. Drury's phrase, and to endeavor to form a party that will attract to it and be open to all classes in the country.

Such a decision is not likely to please either Mr. Wood, of Alberta, or Mr. Morrison, of Ontario, and both of these leaders have a large following who think as they do.

What the result will be is difficult to conjecture.

It is by no means clear that the broadening out process will win as many recruits for the Progressives as will be alienated by the new policy.

Certainly many of the old guard will resent the throwing down of the bars.

Already it is reported that Capt. Jos. Shaw, M.P., has withdrawn from the party because of his opposition to "broadening out."

His will not be the last defection for the same reason.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION.

Christmas is not too far away to begin planning for it. Many of the churches have already begun to lay plans for the proper observance of Christ's natal day. There is so much about Christmas coming up with thoughts of it that, if one were to write, he could easily cover many pages and scarcely know it—and yet, half of this sweetest story would remain untold, says the Brockville Recorder and Times.

What a happy thing it would be this year to pick out somebody you know who ordinarily will not have a happy Christmas—somebody whose life is not all "roses and sunshine"; somebody, whose story has been written with the pen rust of disappointment and despairing difficulties; somebody, whose soul has been pinched and his heart choked by the circumstances of fate, over which he or she had no control, but who remains firm in the conviction that there still is a Santa Claus, even though Santa disappeared out of his or her life in childhood forever.

Think a little and you will see in your mind this man or woman, or mayhap a child On every side they will be found. If you knew the inside story of that man or that woman you do not like because of "something or other"; perhaps it you would draw a little closer and raise the curtain of their lives, you would stand back in amazement, and then wonder why you had disliked them without knowing why. Perhaps—but why go on?

Let us begin now to think of some one to make happy this Christmas—some one who is undoubtedly overlooked in the mad, glad rush. Perhaps this some one may be rich or well-to-do financially; it does not matter, whether rich or poor, make it a point this year to remember some of these unfortunate unhappy victims around whose lives fate seems to have hung a pall.

PETERBOROUGH'S FAILURE.

A correspondent in a time'y letter calls attention to the general disregard in Peterborough of the King's request for two minutes' silent prayer on Armistice Day in memory of the Empire's dead.

The failure of our citizens as a whole to pay this simple tribute is characterized as a disgrace, and the indictment, although drastic, must be accepted as in a large measure justified.

Once more it has been proven that Peterborough people are not demonstrative.

They are careless in the outward show of loyalty—even though there is not the slightest doubt of the soundness of their allegiance to the Empire.

The disrespect shown while the National Anthem is played is another indication of the same tendency. When God Save the King is played at the end of a theatrical performance it is rarely that half the audience stand at attention. Most of the others hurry for the exits as though the building were on fire, or busy themselves with coats or wraps.

Saturday's Armistice Day neglect to honor the memory of the men who did not come back showed no improvement over last year.

Even some of our public schools failed to fly the flag, and, as the Examiner pointed out, bare poles were the rule, rather than the exception.

Our municipal government cannot be absolved of some share in the blame for the city's failure to recognize the significance of the occasion.

In most Ontario municipalities a proclamation from the Mayor called the citizens' attention to the period of silence and urged general observance of the King's request.

Peterborough's civic administration supported no such leadership, and doubtless the omission had considerable to do with the falling down on Saturday.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There must be something in names after all, when the Farmers select a Forke as their new leader.

Noting that the United States is to take a census of hogs, the London Advertiser suggests that the names of those chaps who sit on one seat and put their feet on another in the railway coaches should be sent in. Road "hogs" might also be listed.

The British election fight ends to-morrow, after what is described as the soberest and tamest campaign in recent years. And yet few elections have been so complicated.

The 50th anniversary of the Manitoba Free Press, Winnipeg, is alike a credit to Canadian journalism and a revelation of the rapid progress and growth of Western Canada.

A farmer near Ottawa was fined $20 for killing a skunk on his farm. It is hard to keep a thing like that a secret.

The only Christmas shopping that people seem to be trying to do early this year is with the coal dealers.

The Horticultural Society is doing much to make Peterborough a more attractive city. It's membership should be largely increased.

NEW THEATRE TO COST SEVEN MILLIONS

Actors Get a Warm Welcome Back to Stage—Will Seat Three Thousand.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—Taking an all-nigth trip to see a vaudevile show!

That is what some of New York's "four hundred," with its chief art dramatic and literary critics and connoiseurs, did when they came to this city to take part in the opening of B. F. Keith's new $7,000,000 theatre and building here.

In this theatre party were Mrs. Carrol Livingston Wainwright, who was formerly Miss Edith Gould; Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, sister-in-law of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and other prominent New York society members.

This building is the world's greatest theatre building. Unusual features make it unique; an art gallery lined with masterpieces and decorated with antiques; marble columns, large crystal chandeliers, a rug from Cechoslovakia; two women's smoking rooms and a marble lined art gallery looking down upon the gallery of art.

The auditorium carries out the gorgeousnes of the reception rooms It seats 3000.

Back stage, the actors get as elaborate a welcome as do the patrons. Barber shop, beauty parlor, bathrooms, golf training course, rest rooms, tailor shop, laundry and kitchen are some of the conveniences. There is also a playroom for actors' children. And down in the basement is a special animal room with bath.

The value of the theatre alone is placed at about $3,000,000 by Manager John F. Royal.

System Run Down Blood Out of Order

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is, when, as a rule, it is improper circulation of the blood.

All they need is a good tonic to build up the system and put the blood into proper shape.

For this purpose there is nothing on the market to-day to equal.

Burdock Blood Bitters

It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. H. Poole, Port Dover, Ont., writes:—"My system was run down and my blood out of order, and I suffered a great deal from pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. A friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle and before it was used I found it was doing me good. I kept on until I had taken three, and now I feel like a different woman.

My husband also took it and it has built him up."

FLAPPER ASSAILED.

Chicago Girl Students Call Her Harsh Names; No Effect Seen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Girl students of Adelphi College paused long enough here in the campaign to raise $1,000,000 for their school to call the flapper names. The names, however, according to the latest reports, have not lengthened the flapper skirt, heightened the flapper heel, or uncurled the insolent flapper hat brim.

Here are some of the choice epithets thrown at the flapper for the benefit of the dictionary makers: "Youthful intellectual nonentity"; "A flippant, flighty, forward, facetious faker, primarily interested in clothes, boys, and herself." A young girl "whose common sense and brains are minus, while her efforts to attract are plus.' A 'modern coquette in sterotyped clothes.'

Some of the bright definers limited the flapper age to 21 years, but others held that the phenomenon of flapperism has nothing to do with age, but it is a state of mind.

Western Canada Union Will Make Suggestion at the C.R.U. Annual.

CALGARY, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—When C. E. Chown, of Winnipeg, travels east to the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union he will have authority from the Western Canada Rugby Union annual meeting in Toronto Saturday to suggest several corrections and improvements to the present rules. Among these will be one fathered in the West and proposed by Arnold Wark, of Calgary, namely, the forward pass, as adopted in the American game. Wark has given this matter considerabe study and has worked out a concise set of regulations governing the play that make it a feasible and attractive feature both from the standpoint of the player and spectator.

He is confident that the play can be successfully introduced into the Canadian game and claims that it will open up the play to such an extent that "bucking the line," which has gained favor with Canadian coaches since the recent adoption of interference rules, will be more of less related to the discard.

Epworth League.

The school room of the Methodist Church was filled last evening, the meeting being in charge of Mr. Thos. Craighead, who has charge of the Missionary Department.

An excellent programme was rendered, a most interesting feature being a drama, "The Challenge of the Cross," given by several young ladies, all of whom acquitted themselves with the greatest credit in presenting the lesson of the cross.

Miss Nellie Hoover, as the Sweet Evangel, as well as the cross bearers, Misses Frances Dingman, Myrtle Forde, Grace Payne, Alice Rutley, Beatrice Airhart, Ruth Taylor, impressed upon their hearers the need of willing services.

The Sunday School choir, in charge of Mrs. C. W. Turner, rendered appropriate familiar hymns during the presentation of the drama.

Mr. George Lucy rendered a piano solo in his usual capable manner, which was heartily applauded.

Mr. Walter Lowe's cornet solo also elicited hearty applause.

At the conclusion a meeting of the young men and boys was called by the pastor, Rev. H. B. Kenny, to organise for some form of midweek activity, such as Trail Rangers or Tuxis Square.

The deceased, who had not been in the best of health for some time, underwent an operation over a week ago, and although her condition seemed to be improving the end came suddenly. The late Mrs. Douglas was a woman of kindly dispositoin, and had a host of friends who regret her early demise. She is survived by her sorrowing husband and by one brother, Mr. Robert Collins of Hastings, and one sister Mrs. John A. Mitchell, of Campbellford. The funeral takes place this afternoon from the home of her brother, Mr. Robert Collins, Hastings, service being conducted by Rev. M. L. Syrup Pepsin Loved By Hosts of Babies

Half a teaspoonful will make a fretful youngster happy and playful

THE mother has her choice of many remedies for her baby's minor ills, but she should be careful which remedy she selects lest she do the child harm. What might be safe for herself may do injury to an infant. You will find that if the little one cries and doesn't want to play that its bowels are constipated. First look carefully to the diet and give the child one-half teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. You will then see results in a few hours. You will not have to force it on babies or children: they actually ask for it, it is so pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. It is a mild, gentle vegetable laxative that everyone finds effective and pleasant. It is better for you and yours than purgatives, coal-tar drugs, or salt waters and powders, which may concentrate the blood and dry up the skin; or mercurial calomel, which may salivate and loosen the teeth.

Use a safe laxative like Syrup Pepsin, and especially for the children, for invalids, growing girls, nursing mothers, elderly people, and persons recently operated upon who need bowel action with the least strain. Mrs. H. Lefever of Medicine Hat, Alberta, always gives her little girl Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. May Stephen Sharpe of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., is never without it in her home. Your druggist will supply you, and it costs only a cent a dose. Try it in constipation, colic, biliousness, flatulency, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

LADY ASTOR

Bayly; he is for "freedom and liberty, lower taxation and the old British sporting spirit."

Dr. Bayly opposes liquor control which Viscountess Astor sponsored in the last House.

Labor has a candidate in the person of Captain Brennan, but Lady Astor has much enthusiastic Labor support, including one of the Labor leaders, F. H. West. Mrs. Isaac Foot, wife of the Liberal candidate whom Lady Astor defeated in her first campaign, is speaking in her behalf.

Although nominally a Conservative, the Viscountess declares herself a social reformer, and says she is more at home with the poor than the rich. Viscount Astor appears with his wife at all meetings. Her most effective work, as in her first campaign, is canvassing among the people; the workmen's wives crowd about her and applaud her. They form the greater part of the audiences at her indoor meetings and cheer her repartee when she scores off interrupters, who shout "Pussyfoot."

The Bayly section has issued libel writs against a number of her supporters, one against Maude Royden, a prominent woman preacher.

Local predictions are that Viscountess Astor will be returned with a sweeping majority.

Harvest Festival Services in the Parish of Millbrook and Cavan—Personals.

"Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness," therefore "Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord", was the key note for the Harvest Home services observed in the parish of Millbrook and Cavan on Sunday, November 12th., when Rev. C. T. Muirhead, of Bowmanville, preached at St. John's Church Ida, in the morning, at Christ Church, Bailieboro, in the afternoon, and at St. Thomas church, Millbrook, at 7 p.m. All of the churches are tastefully decorated with grains, autumn fruits, vegetables, and flowers, for the occasion, a cross of red poppies being placed above the Roll of Honor in the church here, and a number of these appropriate flowers were also used upon the altar. Special music was prepared by the choirs the anthem in the afternoon being, "O, Jerusalem, praise the Lord", with solo by Mrs. William Luhney, and in the evening, "Rejoice in the Lord", Miss M. Money taking the solo, and also singing a beautiful selection, "How lovely are Thy Dwellings" after the offering had been taken. Mrs. W. C. Allen presided at the organ for the first two services, and Miss Mamie Collins in the evening here, the voluntaries in each case, at the opening and closing and while the offering was received, being one of the most enjoyable features of the musical part of the day's worship. Mr. Muirhead took his text in the evening from Psalm 116: 12 to 17, and beginning with the question of the 12th verse, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits towards me?" went on to state hat while it would be impossible to mention all the "benefits" God in His goodness has bestowed upon us, yet some might be enumerated; for instance, the bountiful harvest from coast to coast in our land, doubtless in answer to prayer, is certainly a cause for thanksgiving; so is also the fact that peace and tranquility prevail, while in less fortunate countries red revolution brings suffering, and uncertainty of life and property. Other nations look with envy at our stable government, unlimited resources, freedom from strikes which tie up the railroads, and bring distress along this and other lines, and at our gradual but sure restoration to normal conditions industrially and socially, following the unrest which was the natural outcome of the great war. But our greatest cause for thanksgiving is that "we have seen God in the face of Jesus Christ", while two-thirds of the world are still without a knowledge of the Saviour. A real spirit of thankfulness will express itself, not only with the lips, but in he life; there is nothing so despicable as pretence, and the worst thing in religion is to be 'always talking, praying, and singing, and doing noth ing. The "sacrifice of thanksgiving" of which the Psalmist speaks, must be a real sacrifice, and include an intense desire to "walk before Him in righteousness and holiness all our days".

Day of Prayer

The annual W. M. S. Day of Prayer, in connection with the Methodist church, will be observed during the last week in November, each Auxiliary to fix the date to suit best the convenience of its members. Usually Thursday, (November 30th, this year), is the day of the week chosen by the Society here; an excellent program is prepared by the Board in Toronto, and a season of rich spiritual blessing results from the service.

Mr. R. W. Allen of Toronto, finance commissioner for the diocese will be here next Sunday, November 19th and will speak ine the thre churches of the parish beginning with St. John's in morning, Christ church in the afternoon, and St. Thomas the evening; here will also be a meeting held in the S. S. Hall here on Monday when Mr. Allen will deliver an address which will be of interest to all connected with the parish, and to which all three church es are urged to send representatives.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Crago, of Darlington, were guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Recently spent a week end with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Given, Toronto.

Born: At Zion, on Monday, November 6th., to Mr. and Mrs. Merton Thexton, a son.

Misses M. Money, M. O'Brien, J. Needler, G. Hood and M. Smith motored to Peterboro, on Saturday and attended the opera, "Chu Chin Chow" at the Grand.

The sum of $56.13 was realized from the sale of poppies on Armistice Day here, and will be forwarded to the Christie street Hospital, Toronto, for the disabled soldiers.

Miss Kathleen Lancashire has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Toronto.

"SALADA" TEA

H 982

"The most Delicious Tea you can buy"

Soak coloured things half an hour (white things one hour, two hours, over night or whatever time is convenient) in Rinso suds.

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing rompers, school ginghams, play clothes etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add two quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rinsing and the dirt just runs away. No need to rub on the wash board so that holes come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product, scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking — different from soaps, chips and washing powders, and used differently.

Do not put Rinso into the tub from the package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow directions as above. After soaking the clothes wring them into machine, add enough fresh Rinso liquid, operate and rinse, and you will have the sweetest, cleanest clothes you ever saw.

Spn ground alspice; 1½ cups seeded raisins; 1½ cups currants; 2 cups suet; ¾ cup chopped peel; ½ cup blanched almonds; ½ T. Spn salt. Mix well 3 eggs and ½ cup brown sugar. Stir in 1 cup milk. Recipe

Caramel Sauce

2 cups granulated sugar; 2 cups water; butter size of walnut; 2 tablespoons cornstarch—dissolved in cold water; 1 teaspoonful vanilla; ½ cup of the sugar to be browned. When golden brown add butter. Bring to boil, add starch and vanilla.

Recipe

Christmas Cake

Mix 1¼ Cup Roman Meal; 1 cup flour; 9¼ cups currants; 1½ cups Sultana Raisins; 1 cup chopped lemon peel; ¾ cup blanched almonds; ¼ T. Spn ground cloves; ½ T. Spn ground cinnamon; ¼ T. Spn ground ginger; ¾ T. Spn alspice; pinch nutmeg. Cream well 5 eggs, 1 cup Brown sugar; add 1 cup butter; ¾ cup molasses. Stir both mixtures together, beat well. Bake in well greased tin 2½ to 3 hours, moderate oven.

Add ROMAN MEAL to Your Daily Diet.

ROMAN MEAL

ROMAN MEAL is the only balanced combination of whole grains—wheat, rye, Flaxin, and comminuted bran. It is a delicious family food, to be used as porridge, or baked into anything half and half with flour. By using Roman Meal in some way every day, with plenty of milk and some leafy vegetables (preferably uncooked) you provide your body—and the bodies of your children—with every element necessary to sturdy health and long life, and correct the "deficiencies" of modern "excess acid" and "deficiency" foods. Roman Meal aids digestion, positively relieves constipation.

With one exception the most economical cereal sold.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Watchful Care of Health Necessary

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Marvelous Help

Cumberland Bay, N.B.—"I was troubled with weak feelings, headache all the time, a cough, fainting spells and pains in my back and side. I could not do a single bit of work and had to be helped out to the hammock where I lay in the fresh air from morning until night and I had to be carried up and down stairs. After other medicines had failed a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she said it was excellent for anyone in the family way. Before the first bottle was taken, I could walk alone and as I kept on with it I got stronger until I was able to do all my work. My baby is now six weeks old and is a big, fat, healthy fellow. I am sure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and I recommend it to any woman in that condition." Mrs. MURRAY J. BANTON, R.R. No. 1, Cumberland Bay, New Brunswick.

Cannot Praise too highly

Winnipeg, Manitoba—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me, owing to my condition, but told me to expect another miscarriage. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started right away and every one noticed what a different woman I was in a short time. I went and engaged my doctor and he did not know me, I was so well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a 'fine bouncing baby' to use the doctor's own words. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine and anyone seeing me before I took it and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. What it has done for me it can do for any one in the same condition. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial." Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Found it Great Relief

Chicago, Illinois—"I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all prospective mothers. I suffered from weakness and faint spells and had to lie down twice a day for an hour or so before I could go on with my work. My cousin, who lives in Wisconsin, has used your Vegetable Compound for over five years and she came to us for a visit and I so recommended it to me, saying she would pay for the bottle if it did not help me. I took that bottle and got more as I found it gave me great relief. I recommend it to my friends and sisters and am willing for you to use these facts to help others." Mrs. I. J. KUHNSEL, 1813 W. 17th St., Chicago, Illinois.

(By Stuart P. West)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(Special) — Exchange rates were decidedly strong to-day. In as much as quite a body of financial opinion believes that the European uncertainties have been the chief factor in the recent decline on the stock exchange, the important point on the stock exchange again to-day was that if this were really so, the foreign exchanges would have gone with stocks and bonds, but quite the contrary prevailed.

Sterling was up nearly ten cents in the pound from its low at the time of the first Turkish crisis six weeks ago. French Francs were more than a half cent higher than the extreme limit decline last week and Italian Lire, while somewhat off on the day, were selling at $4 75 as against $3.83 1-2, little more than a fortnight ago.

These recoveries were not consistent with the idea of profound concern in international banking circles regarding either the Turkish outlook or German reparations. Another important point was that while foreign government bonds were heavily sold as they had been on the previous day, with new low records for the year in French and Belgian issues, the French internal 5's were up over a point in the London Market, and British Consols were likewise higher. While, doubtless, it was still true that there was a certain amount of genuine uneasiness on the part of American holders of dollar loans on account of the reparations uncertainty and what it might lead to, a great deal of the selling represented the throwing over of these foreign bonds by people who had been caught in the stock market decline and were obliged in this way to re-inforce their position.

LOCAL MEMBERS

In response to Dr. King's toast to the Empire, G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., gave a short address on the great responsibility of Canadains as members of the Anglo-Saxon race, to the British Empire. Our responsibilities, stated the speaker, are just as great now as they were when we sent our boys in '14-'18 across the seas to defend this wonderful Empire of ours. We are now responsible for payment of our taxes and those debts which we incurred during the recent World War.

The success of the Empire, continued Mr. Gordon, is due in a great measure to the high standard of character and ideals of the Canadian people. Our responsibilities are equal to our efforts, he stated, and we must teach foreigners resident here to inculcate Anglo-Saxon ideals as well as character. If we measure up to our responsibilities, Canada will come to be a new Britain in a very short time.

In conclusion Mr. Gordon explained why this empire has been the most successful of all nations, and with all its unlimitable resources, it has, he concluded, opportunities that no other people have. By unswerving loyalty and fidelity to their empire and to themselves Canadians can make of Canada a leader among the world's nations, even as Great Britain from whence she sprang, is herself to-day.

Main Features.

The responses to the toast proposed by Bro. H. McWha to the A.O.F., by Bro. H. C. Wilson, H.C.R. and A. Martin, H.C.S., were among the main features of the evening. Bro. Wilson outlined the work and progress of the order since its establishment in 1834. The sun never sets on the Ancient Order of Foresters, at the present time, stated the speaker. He also explained that the best development for a young man is to be had in a lodge room.

Bro. A. Martin fully explained the direct benefits received from the new insurance plan that the A.O.F. has adopted. This is not controlled by a company, but by the Order itself.

The other speakers were compelled to be brief in their remarks on account of the lateness of the hour, and the absence of light, which failed the gathering during the middle of their programme.

Good Music.

The music of the evening was supplied by Mr. V. Boorman at the piano, which had been loaned to the A.O.F. by Heintzman & Co. for the occasion.

TALK ON THE HOME GARDEN

Speaking of house plants, Mr. Baldwin deplored the use of too much water, which caused rotten and useless soil conditions, and also recommended a small pot for the cultivation of large-leaved plants, as in the case of the rubber plant. Soft soap and water for washing foliage was another hint, and, for sick plants of any house variety, the following recipe was given: Powdered sulphur, nitrate of soda, crushed charcoal and slacked lime, mixed dry in equal parts and placed in a tin can. A teaspoonful in two quarts of water is the quantity used.

Good Insecticide.

For a good insecticide, Mr. Baldwin recommended borax water, and alluded to the woman who showed him a fearful and wonderful result in half-dead peonies from a thorough drenching in hot water to remove the insects which he considered indispensable in devouring the sticky substance on the peony which prevents the buds from expanding properly. The difficulty in the lack of bloom on some peonies was ascribed to a large taproot that required to be cut up and transplanted. The speaker also recommended particularly the using of the hose minus the nozzle, as the proper method of directing the moisture where it was required, viz., to the roots, rather than the foliage of any plant.

PERCY TOWNSHIP FARMER GETS JUDGMENT FOR $100 DAMAGES

Edward Hubbel, Who Lives on Hastings-Warkworth Road, Wins Suit Against Landlord—Chattels Were Seized For Distress.

Plaintiff Awarded Costs.

Judgment for $100 and the release of chattels held under seizure has been given by Judge Huycke in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Hubbell of Percy township in their suit against Allen C. Copperthwaite and his sister Elizabeth Copperthwaite of Dartford; George A. Wiggins, bailiff, Warkworth and Clark Sweet, farmer, of Burnley, for $500 damages and other compensation. The case was tried here on October 31, with G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the plaintiffs and W. L. Payne, K.C., of Colborne for the defendants. The written judgment follows in part:

This is an action for damages for illegal distress, and to restain the same; a motion for an injunction was made before me to forbid the distress being carried out. I made an order prohibiting the same until the trial, and fixed an early date for the trial.

The plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Hubbel had been for sometime yearly tenants of the farm in question from the father of the Copperwaite defendants, who had died sometime during the past year. The lease between the deceased father and the Hubbels was an oral or verbal one only.

Had New Tenant.

In August, 1922, the defendant Allen Copperthwaite made tentative arrangements with the defendant Clark Sweet for the rental of the farm to him. After doing so, but before a formal lease was given to Sweet, Copperthwaite induced the plantiffs to sign a formal written lease of the farm in question for the current year, rent to be payable the 1st of December, 1922, and the lease to terminate on the 1st of March, 1923.

On the 16th of September, 1922, under a provision in that lease, the defendants Copperthwaite, made a seizure under a Distress Warrant against the plaintiffs and the defendant, Wiggins, was their bailiff in that behalf, although the rent was not due and the distress is therefore premature from that standpoint. The defendants, however, justify the seizure on the ground of a special clause in the lease, which provided that in case of sale, or disposal, of the tenants' property so that there should not be sufficient distress on the leased premises, and of this the lessors to be the sole judges, that they should be at liberty to seize and that the current year's rent should forthwith be due and payable; and the same somewhat cumbrous clause provides later on, that in such event there should be a forfeiture of the term. The defendants justify the distress under this clause saying, first: That the plaintiffs had sold and disposed of their farm stock and implements or part of them, and secondly: That consequently there was insufficient distress on the premises and that they were the sole judges of that fact.

Deny Sale of Goods.

From the evidence I gather that it was the second contention only that they relied upon in the first instance. The plaintiffs deny any sale or disposition of property, and further say there was ample distress on the premises to protect the landlords. The only thing brought up to justify the first contention, that is of the sale or disposal, was that five yearling cattle had been purchased from the Hubbels by Mr. John Allen and taken from these premises in question. On this evidence is not as complete and definite as I would wish. It must be remembered, however, that the right to distress is a special and extraordinary remedy, and that the parties exercising it must be expected to prove their right to do so clearly and conclusively. The Copperthwaite-Hubbel lease was drawn on the 16th of August. The evidence as to these five young cattle dence as to these five young cattle is that a tentative arrangement was completed and delivery made. Mrs. Hubbel says, and she is the only witness who seems to be at all definite about the date, that the cattle were taken away by Mr. Allen from their place on the 15th of August, the day before the lease was signed, and therefore before it could be operative. Her husband is not sure of the date he says it was about the middle of August. Mr. Allen is not sure of the date, he says it was sometime in August that he completed the purchase and took them away a short time after. As against this the evidence of Allen Copperthwaite says that it was on the 8th of September. His only reason given for saying so being that on the evening of that day he saw Mr. Allen driving these particular cattle past his home; but he does not know, or say he knows, whether or not Allen took them from the farm in question on that day, or where he was taking them. This being so I must find that these cattle were sold and disposed of before the execution of the lease in question, or more strictly speaking that the contrary is not proved; that being so there was no sale or disposal of any goods by the Hubbels after the execution of the lease and thereby to justify the acceleration of the payment of the rent, and on that ground the plaintiffs must succeed as the defendants made a wrongful distress before any rent was due.

As to the second contention, the amount of distress, if that were important, I might find difficulty in deciding. When the landlords are made sole judges, it does not mean, as I take it, that they can act arbitrarily or harshly, they must act reasonably, as reasonable people should. The goods seized are valued anywhere from two to four hundred dollars. The year's rent was $165.00 to which there would be added taxes in addition. There was some other property not of great value on the farm besides that seized. The whole property on the farm I would, from the evidence, find to be worth from $300.00 to $350.00. Putting it at the minimum $300.00, is that such a sum as would justify the seizure even if otherwise it were permissible; a very careful man might consider it doubtful; I would think on the whole that there was sufficient distress on the farm to secure the rent and taxes.

None of the goods have been disposed of, and I presume are all on the premises in question in as good a condition as before, with the exception of two and a half acres of fodder corn which was seized and not cut by anyone; the result of this is that the corn has been destroyed by the frost and is now useless. Its value is variously rated by several of the witnesses. This is the only serious element of damages affecting the plaintiffs and may be prejudicial to them in view of destroying at least a portion of their winter's fodder for stock. The plaintiffs seem to have thought the clover seed in the field must was under seizure too and did not deal with it, but it was not under seizure and if it has been wasted or destroyed it is their own fault and not that of the defendants.

Judgment will be entered in favor of the plaintiffs for $100.00 and costs subject to taxation. The Statute provides that in such cases "full satisfaction" by way of damages must be given to the party aggrieved. The plaintiffs have been deprived of the use of all this property since the 16th of September, the date of seizure; a jury would probably give much more punitive damager, but I think considering everything the above is sufficient.

Question of Jurisdiction.

A question arose in argument, not before, as to my jurisdiction to try this case. There had been no motion to change the Venue, and the objection was simply made that the action should have been brought in the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, the farm in question and the parties residing in the Township of Percy, Northumberland County. As the crow flies the farm in question is about equidistant from Cobourg and Peterborough. The railway connection and means of transit are much more convenient to Peterborough. This is perhaps not an element to be considered; it was argued that the County Judges' Act. 1919, 9 Geo. V. Cap 26 and the subsequent Districting, gives me jurisdiction. Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham, pursuant to this legislation, were made into one district by an order-in-council dated the 14th of June, 1921, which became operative on the 1st of July, 1921, and is still in force. Under the provisions of this Statute and the powers given me therein, I have assumed to deal with the matter in question.

The goods seized will be released and delivered forthwith and free of all charge to the plaintiffs. In addition judgment for $100.00 for plaintiffs with costs, against the two Copperwaites and Wiggins. The action aaginst Sweet is dismissed without costs.

SECTIONAL MEETING OF THE W. M. S. OF PRESBYTERY.

Gathering at Lakefield Presided Over By Miss Dickson of Peterborough.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 14.—A sectional meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Peterborough Presbytery was held in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday morning and afternoon. The meeting was largely attended by delegates from Peterboro, Lakefield, Springville, Hall's Bridge and Lakehurst. The morning session opened at 10.30 o'clock and was presided over by Miss Dickson of Peterborough.

This session took the form of a conference, and was most instructive Miss MacPherson of St. Paul's, Peterboro, gave a very helpful address on "Prayer." At the conclusion of the session the ladies of the local society served lunch in the school room.

The afternoon session proved to be a most pleasant and profitable one, representatives of the sister societies in the village being present. After devotional exercises, Miss MacGregor, field secretary for the Dominion, gave a very interesting address on the larger view of the work and dealt with the problems of the foreign-born population in Western Canada. Her address in that respect was particularly instructive. The speaker emphasized the need of more real Christianity among our own people.

A solo by Miss Cullen was greatly appreciated. Mrs. Nelson of Peterboro gave a very interesting report of the General Council held recently in Galt. At the close of the session afternoon tea was served.

German Lust For Dollar Gives Crooks Easy Mark

HAMBURG, Nov. 14.—German police and the American authorities here are looking for an American who recently lifted several million marks from the hard-worked German printing presses by a dodge of more than usual subtlety. The ruse he has worked throughout Germany for several months is that of the certified check, and is ony one of the many frauds now flourishing here in deals for American currency or alleged currency.

This gentleman offers a check on the National Bank of Philadejhia, certified by various red and blue and green stamps. It is further certified by the name and seal of Mr. Scattergood, director of the Quaker relief in Germany, known and loved in Germany for works that have been appropriate to his name. And the check is till further "guaranteed by the pohtograph and signature of the gentleman cashing it. The whole document is so impressive that many Germans gladly pay money to get it.

Defraud Hotel Men.

Another American has been paying his hotel bills with "travelers' checks" similar in appearance to those of various reputable concerns. He is now sitting in a Hamburg prison. American consular officers throughout Europe, but especially in Germany, are beseiged with complaints from persons who have brought such documents.

Within the last year the bank notes of the Southern Confederacy have come into quite active circulation in Europe. The $50 Confederate notes are in especially high favor Their close resemblance to real American currency makes them easy to pass on Germans or German-Americans, always eager for American "valuta."

Counterfeits Transparent.

More serious is the passing of actual forgeries of American bank notes, which have been on the increase of late. Apparently the counterfeiters have learned that the European field is less dangerous than the American, and have organized for the sale of their wares in Germany. The counterfeit notes can easily be carried across by sailors, who can dispose of them without difficulty in so busy a center as Hamburg, and can depart, leaving no trace. Some of the counterfeits are of the most transparent kind. One American consulate in Germany was recently asked as to the authenticity of a note issued by "The National aBnk of Ozone Park, New York."

In Lithuania, recently a woman asked an American official about the genuineness of a "dollar" she had received in payment for goods of solid value. It was a printed slip of paper, about the size of a dollar bill. It read: "$1 The Blank Medicine Company of Chicago, Ill., U.S.A., has this day issued one share of preferred stock to John Smith, of a value of $1." It was dated 1892. The Blank Medicine Co., probably once existed. But it certainly did not dare hope, when it issued "stock" to defraud a citizen of Chicago, that it would also succeed in defrauding a farmer's wife in Lithuania.

APPRECIATED SERVICES PRESIDENT BIBLE CLASS.

Address to Dr. A. P. Rogers Before Leaving Here For Galt.

Dr. A. P. Rogers was presented with the following address on the eve of his leaving this city, by the Adult Bible Class, of the George Street Methodist Church, of which he was president:

Dear President:

"It's hard to part when friends are dear." The truth of this quotation has been brought home to each one of us during the past fortnight since we learned of your intended departure to your old home, at Galt. During the brief time you have been a resident of our fair city, a member of George street, and an active and valued worker in our beloved class, we have learned to respect and admire you for your uprightness of manner and speech, for your kindly and willing ways and for the ever-readiness of both you and Mrs. Rogers to assist, even if it meant a sacrifice, in any good cause. We realize that our class has been helped not a little by the faithful service you have given us, and we feel also assured that this helpfulness has been reciprocal, and that you will carry with you to your new field of labor many bright ideas and inspiring thoughts. Such beautiful thoughts, for example, as were given us a few Sundays ago by our good brother, Oldham, when he said "We are all redeemers to a certain extent."

"Dark clouds have sometimes silver linings," and while we are very sorry to lose your fellowship and helpfulness it may work out for the best. We were sorry to lose our good brother, McGill, but he is now president of a new class as large or larger than our own. It is scarcely necessary to remind you that in going to your new home both you and your good wife will carry with you the very best wishes, of every member of our class, both for your temporal and spiritual success; and we shall be delighted to hear from you at any time of your success, and also with regard to any new or helpful ideas which we might put into practice in our class work.

Signed on behalf of the class:
S. A. OKE,
H. F. STABLER,
A. STEWART,
T. MARK.

LINDSAY DOCTORS HEAR WHEN SPOTTERS PART.

One Doctor Touched for $200—A Druggist Fined $100—All Got Blue Envelopes.

LINDSAY, Nov. 14.—Quite a scare has been thrown into the ranks of the local doctors and druggists. A number of them having been served with "blue papers" for infractions of the O.T.A. A few days ago "spotters" who posed as members of a theatrical company called on a number of doctors and secured scripts which were filled by the drug gists. It appears that the doctors issued more than one script to each man and these were filled by the druggists. It was announced yesterday afternoon that one doctor had pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. A druggist also admitted his guilt and was fined $100 and costs. Two other doctors as well as two druggists have been served. These cases will be disposed of this week.

BONAR LAW'S APPEAL STRIKES A NEW NOTE.

Freedom from Harassing Legislation Is the Country's Greatest Need, Declares Premier.

LONDON, November 14. Canadian Press. — That the country at present time needed above everything else freedom from interference and harassing legislation, was the declaration of Premier Bonar Law here last night. It should, he said, be left to its own energy and initiative to struggle through the difficult morass in which it has found itself. That was his main appeal in the election and he believed that the country would endorse this view.

IN MEMORIAM.

GIBBS.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Robert Gibbs, who died Nov. 14, 1919:

No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who lost can tell
Of the griefs borne in silence
For the one I have loved so well.

Time may heal the broken heart,
Time may make the wound less sore
But it cannot still the longing
For the one I loved so well.

—Wife, Daughter and Son.

IN MEMORIAM.

SHANNON.—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Shannon, dearly beloved mother of Mrs. B. Dennis, Toronto:

The one we loved is now at rest, her fond true heart is still.
The hand that always helped us,
now lies in death cold chill.
How sweet to memory still, but death has made a loneliness this world can never fill.
In thought I see your dear kind face and kiss your tender brow,
But in my aching heart I know I have no mother now.

—Daughter.

LOST OF MEN CONFESS TO 20-YEAR-OLD GIRL.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Nov. 3.—Taking murder confessions has become an art for Anna Yoos of this city.

Anna is only 20, yet she is considered one of the greatest assets in the office of Ellis Parker, wizard detective of Burlington county, N.J.

After Parker has arrested a man he says to him, go ahead, and tell this girl all you know.

And most of them do, he adds.

Anna has taken the confessions of 13 men charged with murder and of more than a hundred others in the last two years.

She studies each of her cases. Often she works until two or three o'clock in the morning on a case.

This rosy-cheeked girl has seen life in its hardest truths. Yet it has not shattered her nerves, she says. In fact, she expresses a liking for the work. Her kind of work, she explains, is good for the morals.

"When people hear about the crimes of life,' she declares, 'they see that the result is always disastrous.

Conservatives Will Have Largest Group in House

All Parties Raise the Old Political Cry of Ruination If Their Opponents Are Elected.

WOMEN CANDIDATES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(Associated Press.)— While all the newspapers of Great Britain practically concede that the Conservatives will have the largest group in the House of Commons, if not a majority over all the others combined, even the Liberal papers, which opposed the Coalition, are in no-wise satisfied with this prospect.

The Manchester Guardian, which is the strongest pillar of Liberalism, points out that the Conservatives are a minority party and that there is danger that the country will be ruled by "a majority of the minority," meaning the extreme wing of the party. It argues that the section of the party represented by Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Northumberland, and others like him, is composed of reactionaries, who would ruin the country if they had their way.

"They are full-blooded protectionists and a steadfast menace to our established commercial system," says the paper. "They are militarists and would land us in reckless foreign enterprises; they are for the rule of force, and nothing but force, in India; they would restore to the Lords the power of veto over the Commons.

The Guardian finds, in conclusion, the only security against them is Bonar Law, "who," it says, "himself is a Conservative, an Orangeman and protectionist, and whose health may not long stand the strain of his position."

Lloyd George's opponents accuse him of inconsistency, declaring that when speaking in a constituency where his group is most strongly opposed by a Conservative candidate, he says the greatest menace to the country is reaction, but where the opponent is a Laborite, he says the greatest danger is revolution and assaults on capital.

Joseph Devlin's campaign in the Exchange Division of Liverpool is running strong. This district is composed mostly of business places and people engaged in business there who have their homes outside the district, but who have the choice of voting in their home or business district. Their wives also have the same choice. The Conservative organization, which fears possible success for Mr. Devlin, is making a thorough canvass of the wives of the business men in this division to induce them to choose the business district, instead of the residential district as their voting place. Thus great uncertainty exists as to the outcome.

The prophets believe that of the thirty three women candidates about ten are likely to be elected. The two sitting members, Viscountess Astor and Mrs. Wintringham, as well as Lady Cooper, are regarded as almost certainties.

The Standard also picks Miss Susan Lawrence, Miss Eleanor Rathbone, Dr. Ethel Bentham and Miss Annie Swan as most likely, with Miss Helen Fraser, a Glasgow Georgite, whom it describes as the most remarkable of the woman candidates.

The british custom is to display the portraits of the candidates in the windows of houses, and this custom is tending to kill the theory that women generally vote as their husbands do. In the manufacturing towns in the Midlands and North, a large proportion of the houses display pictures of two candidates, showing that the man is for one party and the wife for another. The tendency is said to be for working men to vote for the Laborites and their wives for the Liberals. Thousands of families are divided on this line.

Among all the Labor candidates, H. G. Wells has been the greatest object of public curiosity; his meetings have proved great drawing cards. Mr. Wells' speeches have been a disappointment to all but the intellectuals, who are well represented in the party. Mr. Wells reads his speeches from manuscript, and this style fails to thrill his hearers, most of them want something more exciting and spontaneous than lectures.

Major John Jacob Astor, running at Dover as a Conservative, suffers from the fact that he is of American origin and that his wealth is in the United States. Whenever heckled on this subject he tells his audience that he is bringing his money to England. His opponent, Sir Thomas Polson, who is an Irishman, got into the last House as an Anti-Waster. He is for cleaning out at once and entirely from Mesopotamia, Palestine and Egypt, while Major Astor clings to Mr. Bonar Law's programme of moderation in all things.

MRS. TIERNAN TO DROP NEW CASE AGAINST POULIN.

Going to Chicago With Baby to Live to Tell Children the Truth.

SOUTH BEND., Ind., Nov. 14.—There will not be a second Tiernan-Poulin trial. This statement was made by Mrs. John P. Tiernan at the Tiernan home.

"I am now content to let the decision rendered by Judge C. L. Ducomb rest as final. I've thought about it a great deal, and now I've made up my mind. Judge Ducomb was really fair. Of course, he spoke most severely about me, but I was guilty. He condemned Poulin just as he deserved. And he protected my little boy. The Tiernan name is a good name and he's given that to my baby. What could I gain from a second trial"

Mrs. Tiernan spoke with the repudiated baby in her arms. The other two children played in the adjoining room, from which the little one had just crawled to find his mother.

Going to Chicago to Live.

"I have my plans clearly made," she continued. "As soon as I get my divorce— in a few weeks now—I will go to Chicago to live. Mr. Tiernan will support me and the two older children.' Then, with a smile for the little boy, she added, "And mother will see that you are taken care of, even if she has to go without shoes.'

"There is nothing for me now but my children, she explained. "Of course, to stay here in South Bend would mean just to stay in the house all the time. To go to my parents would be impossible, too, for although my mother has stuck by me through it all and my father, though less sympathetic, would be willing to have me, people in that little town would give my children and me no peace. When I was home recently after the trial and went with my parents to a theatre a crowd stood outside waiting to see me.

"No, there is only one thing for me to do—take the children to a big city and try and forget.

To Tell Children the Truth.

"People say my children will always be marked. They say that they will be pointed out all through life. Perhaps—but I think the children will understand. If necessary I will explain everything to them, so that they will not have to hear anything from outsiders.

"But I won't give them up. Mr. Tiernan would like to have the girls in a school but I couldn't leave them They are all I have.

"And baby—nothing could make me give him up. It is not that I love him more than the others—it's just because he's so little and my youngest.

Prof. Tiernan has agreed to Mrs. Tiernan's plan for divorce and will make no contest. Mrs. Tiernan explained. She will take her maiden name, rent a little apartment in Chicago, and live with and for her children.

"Prof. Tiernan says he will come to see the children every week," she added. "But you know, men don't take it so hard; they forget so much more easily than a woman.'

Gets Letters from Men.

Naively, too, she tells of the letters she gets from men.

"They write to ask me to marry them,' she explained, half amused. "They always start out by saying that they will be glad to stand by me if all the world turns me down. You know sympathy. But Mr. Tiernan says that is just the way they fool a woman, so I don't even answer them.

"Why, just imagine! One man said he thought I was the most beautiful woman he ever saw. You see that's the way they do. It will be a long time before I trust a man again.

"But I couldn't go through another trial," she insisted. "I just could not stand it again."

Had Bad Pains In Her Heart

Nerves Were Very Bad

Mrs. John Case, R. R. No. 4, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"I wish to say that I have been bothered very much with my heart and nerves. I doctored with two different doctors, but did not find much relief. I would have such bad pains in my heart, at times, I would be almost afraid to move or breathe, and at night I could not sleep. If the pains in my heart were gone, my nerves would be so bad I could not lie still and would only get a little sleep by being tired out. My stomach was also very bad and I could not eat but very little, and then only certain things or I would have so much distress which always made my heart worse.

I had been suffering for nearly two years until one day I was talking to our druggist about the way I felt. He advised me to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a fair trial. I have now taken five boxes and am feeling so much better, I am able to do my own work, and can eat anything I wish. I cannot praise

SAVED BY CRIES OF CHILDREN

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.— (Canadian Press.)— But for the cries of her children which aroused Mrs. M. Richer when they awoke and found that their bedroom was enveloped in smoke at 3658 Notre Dame Street East, on November 6, it is probable that the family would have been suffocated. She testified before the Fire Commissioner here yesterday that it was the third fire that had occurred on the premises, the other two being due to defective wiring. HOPING FOR A DRY SCOTLAND.

Scotland's Foremost Worker in Temperance Cause Arrives in Canada.

QUEBEC, Nov. 14.—Prominent among the Canadian Pacific steamer Metagama's passengers to arrive here was the Rev. T. Cremarty, Smith Presbyterian minister in charge of Cambridge Church, Scotland, on his way to Toronto to attend the convention in that city of the World Temperance League, held in Canada this year. Rev. Mr. Smith who is recognized as being Scotland's foremost worker in the cause of temperance, in an interview said Scotland's Temperance Union was making decided progress in the case and agitation for non-granting of licenses. He said that the Permisses Bill Association, founded six years ago, and the Scottish Temperance League, founded 65 years ago, had united into one organization, for purpose of carrying into effect the bill of 1913. Regarding the Scottish Temperance Act, which gives inhabitants of every voting area the right to vote on the liquor traffic every three years, and the non-granting of licenses, a vote was taken in 1920 which resulted in a majority voting for no change. However summing up figures of that vote the total majority was only 12 per cent. This was the largest vote taken on a first occasion in any country in the world, and he felt that when the next vote will be taken in 1923, the vote of 1920 would be wiped out and replaced by a majority vote in favor of a dry Scotland.

GOOD SPECIMENS OF SETTLERS REACH HERE.

Finest Class of Scottish and Irish Immigrants This Season.

QUEBEC, Nov. 14. — When the Canadian Pacific line Metagama docked here, from Glasgow and Belfast the new settlers who arrived and passed the immigration inspection were among the finest aggregation of Irish and Scottish manhood and womanhood to have arrived during the present season of navigation. Besides married couples with 116 children and 19 infants, there were a splendid specimen of young men and young women who have come out to settle in Canada. In conversation with the third class passengers, they were unanimous in stating that there were a very large number of farmers in Scotland waiting the opportunity to come out and settle in Canada.

QUARREL PUTS CASE INTO PUBLIC COURTS.

Love-Polygon Said to Exist — Picture Actor Files Cross-Suit.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Were it not for a dispute over their $20,000 home, there might never have been charged that a love-polygon exists, whose main points are alleged to be taken up by Anita Gibson Finigan, society favorite, and her husband, Raymond Finigan, movie actor.

Inability to decide on the disposition of the home, say attorneys in the case, forced the quarrel into the ocurts and brought out names of others who are said to occupy the corners of this many-sided polygon.

Finigan, who is known to the picture world as Ray Hanford, has filed cross-suit against the former society belle of Oakland, Cal., and has named Frederick B. Warren, wealthy New York miller, and William Harrison Clem, Indian oil magnate, as co-respondent. Several other names are added.

Clem, dapper, striking and well known in California, Kansas and Oklahoma, is said to be a scion of the Osage tribe, enriched by oil royalties Finigan charges Clem accompanied his wife on a deer hunt unchaperoned.

Similarly Finigan accuses Warren of lavishing money upon his wife.

Mrs. Finigan, on the other hand, alleges cruelty, violent temper and even threats of death. Each makes a bifter denial of the complaints and plans to fight the action to the end.

MUST HAVE WARRANT.

DETROIT, Mich, Nov. 14. — (Canadian Press.) — The Federal prohibition "navy" operating in the Detroit river, suffered a reverse yesterday when Commissioner Hurd handed down an opinion that seizure of motor boats suspected of carrying liquor from Canada was illegal, unless the liquor agents first obtain a search warrant. Prohibition heads had contended that to obtain warrants in each case would greatly hamper the work of their department.

Three Points of Superiority

Beauty!

THERE is no prettier kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware. Diamond Ware utensils are light blue and white outside and milk-white inside. Pearl Ware utensils are grey and white inside and out. Beautiful ware!

Cleanliness!

There is no cleaner, brighter-looking kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware, and there is none easier to keep clean. Soap and hot dish water are all you need, because grease, dirt, stain, taint or tarnish can get no grip on SMP enamel. It's so hard and smooth. Wipes sweet and clean like china.

Durability!

There is no more durable kitchen ware than SMP Diamond or Pearl Ware. With reasonable care, good glazed steel cooking utensils last for years. Diamond and Pearl utensils are made of open hearth steel—heavily coated with a specially tough, hard, porcelain enamel. There is no better enameled ware made.

Umpire Saved Hasty From Biggest Boner of the Season

Throwing the ball away without the permission of the umpire is something new in the way of ivory stuff. In the old days every now and then some coacher would ask a "rookie" pitcher to see the ball.

Occasionally the obliging "rookie" would throw it to the coacher, who would then let the ball go by, while the runners dashed for the plate.

The players to be involved in the latest escapade of that sort were Charley O'Leary, of the Yankee, and Bob Hasty, of the Athletics.

Several years ago, in a game at the Polo Grounds, with runners on second and third, O'Leary, coaching on third, requested Hasty to let him look at the ball.

Umpire Saves Hasty.

The umpire saved Hasty. Feeling that he should pass judgment on the ball, if anything was wrong, the umpire called time just before Hasty obligingly tossed the ball to O'Leary.

Of course O'Leary stepped out of the way and both runners scored. However, the umpire sent them both back, as he had previously called time, suspending play.

Pitcher Hodge, of Chicago, and Second Baseman Ward, of New York, figured in the two freak "bonehead plays" of 1922.

Due to the concrete stands, a ball is usually rendered unfit for play when it hits the rough concrete. If the player discovers the ball is rough he is supposed to throw it to the umpire for his inspection.

Failure to do this thing caused some very unpleasant moments for Hodge and Ward.

Hodge Pulls One.

In a game at Detroit, with Chicago leading by one run, Detroit got runners on first and second. Hodge pitching, made up his mind that the ball was unfit for play and deliberately threw it into the Detroit dugout.

The umpire in charge was forced to score the runner from second and advance the other runner to third. That runner also scored. Chicago managed to win out with a run to spare, so the "bone" on the part of Pitcher Hodge wasn't so costly as it might have been.

On Decoration Day in New York the Yankees were leading the Athletics, 2 to 1, up to the eighth. In that inning, with one down, Johnston singled against the right field wall. The contact with the stand cut the ball badly.

It was thrown to Second Baseman Ward, who, seeing that it was unfit for play, threw it into the New York dugout, which entitled Johnston to go to third. He scored on a sacrifice fly, tying the game.

Punts Eleven Times, Not One is Returned

The recent Michigan-Ohio State gave furnished two features probably never before recorded in a game.

Michigan punted eleven times in this game. Not one of Harry Kipke's kicks could be returned. Two were over the goal line, and nine were out of bounds.

Among these out-of-bound kicks were two that went more than 50 yards. One of them was outside on the 11-yard line and still another on the 14-yard line.

In no other game on record has every ball kicked by one side been kicked so that it was impossible to return it. Kipke's placing of the ball was uncanny.

The other feature was that Michigan, the winning team, did not once use a close formation on defense.

A week before, Michigan, playing against Vanderbilt, had been stopped in her attack whenever the close formation was used by Vanderbilt's nine-man defense line, so after that game, Coach Yost of Michigan threw out every play that called for a close formation.

College Play-off To Be at Montreal

It was officially announced yesterday that the play-off for the college championship between Varsity and Queen's will take place at Montreal, at the Molson Stadium, next Saturday. The vote for Montreal was McGill, Queen's and Royal Military College, while Varsity voted to play either in Kingston or Toronto, at the choice of Queen's. If Queen's had decided to come to Toronto, Varsity agreed to devote sufficient money from the gross gate receipts to enable 1,000 Queen's undergraduates to come to Toronto and see the game for $3, with the clubs sharing fifty-fifty in the gate receipts after this amount had been deducted.

MULLER IS HELD BACK BY COACH.

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 14.— Is "Brick" Muller, star end of the University of California, and an All-American selection a few years back, through as a football player?

The failure of Muller to do much this fall has given rise to such a rumor. Coach Andy Smith insists there isn't a word of truth in it.

A year ago Muller injured his knee badly. He still favors it, but according to the coach he will be fit when called upon.

Coach Smith says that he is saving Muller for the game with Stanford on Nov. 25, and the big post-season game with some eastern eleven, which he feels sure California will win the right to play.

Muller pulled a tendon about three weeks ago. This minor injury, plus the desire of Coach Smith to have him in the best of shape for the big games, accounts for the failure of the great end to break into the California lineup.

PRO COACHES ARE BARRED FROM THE AMATEUR BENCHES

Effect of the Amendment to the Constitution of the O.B.A.A.

NEW SCHEDULE.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association on Saturday it was decided to make some amendments to the constitution, "that professional coaches with amateur baseball clubs would not be permitted to sit on the bench or direct play during the games, and that all affiliated associations and leagues must adopt the provincial body's residence rule, which is January 1st."

The annual meeting in April will have to ratify these amendments to put them into effect. In connection with this W. J. Smith stated that some of the O.H.A. senior clubs were considering the advisability of barring pro. coaches altogether. Mr. Smith was incorrectly reported as saying that the O.H.A. senior clubs had definitely decided to bar senior coaches.

The discussion over the championship schedule was brought to a close with the Hamilton association introducing an amendment which was accepted and will be brought up for a final decision in April. It is as follows.

"That each association or league affiliated with the O.B.A.A., to participate in the play off for the Ontario championship, must declare winners and be prepared to enter finals (where one league only is operated) on the date as enumerated in the schedule herewith:

"Juvenile, second Saturday, August; Junior, second Saturday, August; intermediate, third Saturday, in August; Senior, last Saturday in August.

"Where more than one league is operated additional time be allowed as follows:

"For two leagues, one additional week; for three leagues, two weeks; for four or five leagues, three weeks, and each league or association must positively abide by this rule or forfeit all rights to enter championship play-off."

BRINTONS NOSED OUT BY WOOLLENS

Pitchers' Battle Between McLean and Bishop Proved a Thriller.

The Armouries last evening was thronged with fans to see the Woollens hand out a 4 to 3 defeat to the fast Brinton team in a softball game. The game was tight, and provided excitement all the way.

The Woollens retired in order in the first innings, being struck out by Bishop. The Brintons sent Bob Ross across for a run in the first. Neither scored in the second. But a couple of hits in the third sent Sims and Hopkins across for the Woollens' first counter and Legros made it three for them when he scored in the fourth. The Brintons failed to score in these innings, but in the fifth a two-bagger by Ross sent Shaughnessy and Taylor across, putting the Brintons on even terms. The next three innings were filled with sparkling and errorless sball.

In the seventh Hilliar made a running shoestring catch of a low fly. In the eighth an error put a man on for the Woollens, and they scored him on a hit, making the winning run. McLean retired two of the three batters to face him in the eighth on strikes, and held them from scoring. Neither team scored in the ninth.

"Benny" McLean pitched his usual brand of ball for the Woollens. He covered lots of ground and received good support. Bishop was just as good for the Brintons.

Taylor, who has perhaps the best throw to second of any catcher in the League, caught several stealing.

The teams:

Woollens—Hopkins, c; Hilliar, rf; Clarke, 2b; McLean, p; Legros, 1b; Kennedy, 3b; Stiles, ss; Stuart, ss; Sims, lf.

Brintons—Ross, 1b; Corbett, rf; Bishop, p; Anderson, 2b; C. Shaughnessy, 3b; Rose, ss; Cripps, ss; C. C. Shaughnessy, lf.

Shaughnessy, lf; Taylor, c.

KIWANIS SWAMPED IN SOFT BALL GAME.

The first game last evening in the men's softball bill between the Kiwanis and the K. of C. looked like a relay race to the spectators, with the Knights always on the runways. They swamped the Kiwanis by 34 to 1.

Murphy hurled well for the Knights, and the men behind him gave good support. The Caseys wielded the bat like blacksmiths and ran like Marathoners.

The teams:

Kiwanis — Neil, p; Phelan, c; Weber, 1b; Phillips, 2b; Cummer, ss; Craig, 3b; Dick, lf; Oke, rf; Copping, ss. Sub, Grant.

K. of C.—Primeau, ss; Sheehy, 1b; O'Hern, c; Rose, ss; Rutherford, 2b; Grady, lf; Murphy, p; R. Sheehy, 3b; J. Rutherford, rf. Sub, Wolfe.

ALBERTA PULLS OUT.

CALGARY, Alta., November 14.—Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, at its annual meeting held here on Saturday, decided that owing to the disorganised state existing as a result of the coal strike during the past summer, it would be unable to live up to the residence rule of 1st August, as necessitated by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Consequently Alberta so far as senior and intermediate hockey is concerned likely will not compete in the inter-provincial championship play-offs during the spring of 1923.

LAST SOCCER GAME TO BE ON SATURDAY.

The De Laval and C. P. C. Juniors will meet at the Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon; kick off at 2.30. The Yeotes cup will be presented to the winners on the grounds at the conclusion of the game. Louis Yeotes will be present, and will bring His Worship Mayor Taylor to say a few words to the boys.

As this is the last game of the season all roads should lead to Riverside on Saturday.

S. Calladine will referee the game.

TRICK PLAY IS BIG SCORER FOR YOST.

Since Fielding Horace Yost has coached at Ann Harbor Michigan teams have scored more than 50 touchdowns from one play, a delayed double pass between the half backs while the fullback plunged into the line to camouflage the trick.

It was this play that gave Michigan her first touchdown against Ohio State, Harry Kipke running 26 yards around the Ohio State right end.

The old point-a-minute football machines of Yost used it and Al Hernstein, one of the great backs of his day, scored seven touchdowns against Beloit in one game, running this play for each touchdown.

The play has been worked, of course, with variations, but the basic principle has never been changed.

PRODUCE MARKETS

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 14— (Canadian Press.)—In sympathy with the strength in the Winnipeg market a very firm feeling prevailed in the local market for spot supplies of cash grain, but demand from all sources was somewhat limited and business was quiet. There were no further changes in the flour market. An active business continues in millfeed under an urgent demand. Prices for rolled oats were firmly maintained. Trade in baled hay was quiet. There was no change in the egg market, but the undertone was very firm. Total shipments to date were 5,813 cases less than in the same period of 1921.

Demand for potatoes was somewhat limited.

There was no improvement in the demand from any source for butter. Total shipments to date have been 251,346 packages more than in the same period of 1921.

A firm feeling continues in the cheese market, but the volume of business was small. Total shipments to date for the season have been 246,167 boxes less than in the same period of 1921.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Covering by shorts late in the session brought about a rally in the wheat market after it had held within relatively narrow limits, but at a slightly higher average under the influence of Winnipeg strength and higher quotations in Liverpool. The close was unchanged to 1 1-4c. higher, with December $1.16 1-4 to $1.16 3-8 and May $1.15 to $1.15 1-8. Corn was 1-8c. lower to 1-4c. higher; oats a shade off to a like advance, and provisions unchanged to seven cents up.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, May 14.—(Canadian Press.) — Receipts 5,630 cattle and calves; 1,045 hogs, and 930 sheep and lambs.

The cattle market opened yesterday morning under fairly heavy offerings with the quality generally plain. Early bidding was decidedly slow. The few good killing cattle and the more desirable kinds of stockers and feeders weer priced mostly in line with Saturdays' close.

The sheep and lamb market maintained a steady tone.

Fair to good lambs sold from 8.50 to 10.00, light weight sheep 6.00 to 6.50, and fair to good quality mutton 4.00 to 5.50.

The hog market advanced 25 cents thick and smooths changing hands at 9.50 and select bacon at 10.45.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.— (Canadian Press.)— A new order is reported filled for storage eggs for export at 35 1-2 f.o.b. seaboard. There seems to be a little better feeling as to the Canadian storage situation. Fresh specials and extras continue to advance and the demand exceeds the supply. At Ontario country points shippers are paying to producers 44 to 50 and making sales of straight gathered at 48, candled current receipts 60 f.o.b. cases returnable. Some sales of uncandled storage are reported at 38 f.o.b. cases returnable.

Toronto firm and unchanged.

Montreal firm, specials jobbing 68 to 70, other grades unchanged.

Winnipeg dealers quoting 28 to 32 for straight receipts delivered, fresh extras and specials mixed jobbing 62, storage extras and firsts mixed 40 to 42, seconds 33.

Saskatchewan dealers quoting 30 to 40 for fresh, but receipts are practically nil, storage jobbing 32 to 35, retailing 40 to 45.

Alberta markets firm and higher. Receipts of fresh practically nil. On the farmers' market new laid is selling up to 60.

British Columbia easier, local fresh 58 country points with 60 offered for specials. Special jobbing 65 to 70, extras 63 to 65, local storage firsts 40, seconds 38.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

AT THE GRAND.

REMARKABLE PLAY.

"Woman's Greatest Sin" will be seen in a special engagement at the Grand Theatre tonight.

This remarkable play from the pen of Chas. A. deLima, and presented by Arthur G Aisfon, the well-known producer, is a play that will make a new era in the world of the American drama. Mr. deLima has had a vast experience having been translator, and adapter for the late Chas. Frohman.

The story takes a prologue, 3 acts and an Epilogue to unfold its many situations, and it climax comes at the last moment of the epilogue.

A well known authoress so steeped in the subject for which her books are famous, refuses to marry a young man of wealth and position who has loved her for some time. He is in despair at her refusal, and tries to find a means to bring her to his way of thinking. His experiment places the authoress in touch with a side of life of which she knew nothing, and it is through this contract that she learns the greatest lesson of her life.

Mr. deLima has not minced matters in bringing before the public this great subject, and at the same time not forgetting to make his play so entertaining and full of good comedy, and dramatic situations that it will be sure to please the most fastidious audience.

"Woman's Greatest Sin" will live for years, and will cause comment from all who witness the play. Some of the scenes were suggested by Miss Mallette's great story, "A Fly in the Bottle."

Matinee will be given at which the management hope the ladies will be present, as the subject matter will be particularly interesting to them.

"PRINCE CHARMING JR."

"Shows may come, and Shows may go; but Whyte's go on forever."

So it would seem; as this is the eleventh season, that F. Stuart-Whyte, the well known pantomine producer, has made his annual Canadian coast-to-coast tour, each year with continued success.

"Gone but not forgotten" to misquote again, are his "Cinderella," "Alladin", "Robinson Crusoe", "Red Riding Hood," and a host of others equally successful, and yet again this year, from his inexhaustible stocks of ideas "different", he has conceived another brilliant success in the form of a pantomimical fantasy of youth "Prince Charming Jr."

The dark ages of "home-brew" and "recipies" are with us; but here is one that will take a lot of beating:—

"Take the beauty and gilt-edge talent of a Zara Clinton; add the individual humor of that "dry" Scotch comedian Billy Oswald; mix it with grace, youth and beauty of "Whyte-picked" 'feminity; flavour with the melodies of that well known composer of "Buddies", B. C. Hilliam; fashion in the mould of a Stuart-Whyte personal direction; serve in the lavish splendor of a Stuart-Whyte setting; garnish with girls, gowns and gorgeousness, call it "Prince Charming Jr." and you will have a palatable an entertainment as the most epicurian critic could wish."

This appetizing attraction will be the offering at the Grand Opera House for two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, November 17.

AT THE REGENT.

"ALIAS LADYFINGERS"
SAFE CRACKER STORY.

"Alias Ladyfingers," a photo-drama dealing with the career of a safe cracker who is decidedly out of the ordinary run of such individuals, is the latest Bert Lytell picture, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre. This swiftly moving story of an accidental criminal is a Bayard Veiller production for Metro, and it reflects that full dramatic quality which won Mr. Veiller such a reputation in the theatrical world by his "The Thirteenth Chair," and "Within the Law."

Mr. Lytell portrays the character of the young man who, educated by a notorious crook as a safe breaker, visits the home where he is being sought as the heir, and in ignorance of his relationship plans to ply his calling, resulting in many tense situations. Supporting Mr. Lytell are Ora Carew, Frank Elliott, Edythe Chapman, DeWitt Jennings and Stanley Goethals.

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

POWERFUL FILM OPENS AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"Human Hearts" is Really one of the Great Pictures of the Year

"Human Hearts" which opened an engagement of three days at the Capitol Theatre yesterday, is fully entitled to be termed 'One of the really great pictures of the year". It is a story of Mother love, a story of life. "Human Hearts" was written by Hal Reid, father of Wallace Reid, and enjoyed a success as a stage production a score of years back.

"Human Hearts" will catch the hearts in any audience. It is of absorbing interest. House Peters in the role of Tom Logan brings to the part a sympathetic understanding that makes his role a real, masterpiece. His performance in this feature and "The Storm" stamps him as one of the finest actors on the screen to-day.

The story deals with the life of a city siren who weds Tom Logan to obtain the deeds to his father's farm, under which lies rich coal deposits. The granite-hearted father senses her plan and cut Tom out of his will. Later the father sees his daughter-in-law in company of a released convict He tries to stop her from running away and is killed. Tom fears his wife will be sent to prison and takes the guilt upon himself. How it turns out? You would not enjoy the picture if the entire plot was revealed, but you can be sure that you are going to be thrilled by the remarkably strong climax.

At the Royal, for Three Days Commencing Thursday.

Catarrh. Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity, and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous, because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach, while the Bisurated Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover, the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach, and sweeten its load contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant, and easy to take, and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure Bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

The Worm Turns

(By Arthur L. Clarke, Editor The San Francisco Chronicle.)

It's time for the newspaper worm to turn. Every so often some self-righteous individual with an ingrowing disposition rears back on his hind legs and emits a doleful howl anent the unreliability of the press.

Inadvertent publication of any news story not strictly conforming to the facts invariably is the signal for a sweeping condemnation often by those who know better.

In virtually every big city of the country men and women of more or less standing in the community are prone to assume a smug air of wisdom and to assert with conviction: "You can't believe a word that you read read in the newspapers."

It has come to be quite the common thing with these volunteer critics not only to disparage the press, in so far as concerns the authenticity of its news, but likewise to impugn the motives of newspaper managements.

The most charitable thing they find to say concerning the character of newspaper writers in general is: "Oh, well, you can't blame the reporters so much; they have to write what they are told by the men in charge."

If statements of this kind came from ignorant people and reflected only the attitude of the uninformed it would be folly to take cognizance of them. Unfortunately this is not the case.

Bankers, lawyers, brokers, merchants, railway officials, society women, ministers of the gospel, steamship officials and others who pride themselves on their probity and personal integrity, too frequently do not hesitate to lie incontinently to the newspapers.

Rumor reaches a newspaper office to the effect that a bank merger is to be consummated. A reporter is sent to ascertain the facts. Does the bank president admit the truth of the rumor but ask that for business reasons, the matter be not made public for a few days? He does not. He tells the reporter there is no truth in the rumor. A few days later the deal goes through and—the newspaper knows the bank president lied.

A public official grants an interview in which he makes certain statements. The next day political or other pressure is brought to bear. Does he come out in the open and admit his mistake or his change of heart? He does not. He promptly repudiates the interview of the day before and—the reporter knows he lied.

A society matron's daughter becomes engaged to a prominent man, but the family is not ready to make the announcement. Does the society matron tell the truth and ask that the matter be kept quiet for a few days? She does not. She pretends surprise and denied there is any foundation for the rumor. The following week the announcement is made and—the society woman knows the woman lied.

So it goes on down the line. People who would not think of deceiving business associates, people who would scorn to resort to untruth or subterfuge in ordinary affairs, men and women whose word literally is as good as their bond in financial matters—these are the people for the most part, who have no compunctions of conscience about deliberately lying to a newspaper representative.

The remarkable feature of the situation is that the very persons who so carelessly handle the truth when talking to a newspaper representative are the first to raise a howl over the unreliability and inaccuracy of the press.

Every newspaper reporter in the country knows his job is not worth two cents if he is detected intentionally misrepresenting facts or misquoting what has been told to him. His job is to tell the truth of what he sees and hears and in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred he can be depended upon to get things straight and to write exactly what has been told to him.

CRASHED CAR INTO HORSE AND BUGGY

Henry Scriver of Hastings is Arrested on Three Charges.

This morning in the local police court, Henry Scriver, of Hastings, was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley with having liquor or home-brew in unlawful possession, reckless driving, and being intoxicated. The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Geo. Cookman and License Inspector Joseph Stewart, who arrested Scriver last night in Hastings.

Crown Attorney Hatton and Mr. Joseph Wearing together conducted the prosecution.

When accused of having liquor or homebrew in his possession in a car on the road between Havelock and Norwood, Scriver pleaded not guilty. To the charge of driving a car while intoxicated, he also pleaded not guilty and also to the charge of reckless driving on the same road.

Scriver, it is stated, was speeding on the road between Havelock and Norwood, while intoxicated, and crashed into a horse and buggy, throwing the occupants out and smashed both buggy and car. He then proceeded to Hastings, where he was arrested by Geo. Cookman and Jos. Stewart.

The case was remanded until next Tuesday morning, November 21, at 11 o'clock in the County Court rooms, so as to get the witnesses together.

When accused requested bail, Magistrate Langley pronounced a bail of $2,000, to be paid by prisoner, or two securities of $1,000 each.

LOCAL DOCTORS CLEARED.

It has been suggested that the Examiner might publish the fact that the $200 penalty imposed on Saturday by Magistrate Langley for selling drugs did not reflect on any of the local medical men.

TORONTO, November 14.—Canadian Press. — That more copies of the Bible were sold in Italy than of any other book published in Italian, that evangelists could now travel through the country unmolested; and that he was ready to hear at any moment of the second article in the constitution, providing for state religion, had been swept away, and that Italy had now a splendid system of education, were among notable points made by Right Rev. W. Burt, Bishop of New York Methodist Episcopal Church, at the opening of the Canadian Evangelistic conference here yesterday.

THE SITUATION IN EUROPE NOW VERY NEAR FINAL CRASH

Food Riots and Slaying in Many Parts of Germany and People Giving an Ear to Both Monarchal and Bolshevist Whisperings.

WIRTH HAS RESIGNED

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—(Special). — German leaders to-days sought a combination of political groups sufficinetly stable to produce a premier. The Wirth Government resigned last night after nineteen stormy months of office.

Refusal of the United Socialists to join a coalition which included the German People's Party, which is backed by Hugo Stinnes and other Conservative elements, was the immediate cause of Wirth's downfall. Without the Socialists he had not a sufficient majority to carry on in the face of adverse financial conditions and the reparations tangle.

Radical Left Wing

The radical left wing of former independent socialists, which has been after the Chancellor's political scalp for more than a year, finally succeeded in pulling him down by persuading the United Social Democrat party to reject coalition with the Stinnes group.

Reorganization of the Wirth Government has been going on for over a period of several months, during which time the Chancellor has been hard pressed by external difficulties involved in the reparations disagreements. Time after time Wirth has succeeded in holding together disputants within Germany's inner political ring by sheer force of his own personality. Defection of the socialists is not considered a reflection upon the chancellor personally.

Wirth resigned in October, 1921, after having been in office a little over five months. At that time the cabinet was reorganized with Wirth again at its head.

Killed in Food Riots

Eight persons were killed and many seriously injured in food riots which broke out in various parts of the country yesterday.

In Cologne, where four were killed the police were called upon to break up an alleged communist demonstration in the market place. Besides the four dead, four were injured.

During the raid the police seized hundreds of pamphlets calling for a general strike.

British troops have been called upon to assist the police. It is estimated that there are 50,000 unemployed in Cologne.

Four persons were killed and many wounded in riots in Dusseldorf.

May Try Bolshevism

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Germany, as the result of downfall of the Wirth Cabinet, is now tempted to try Bolshevism or a return o a monarchial torm of government, is the belief of diplomatic and official circles here.

The German crisis greatly increases the fears of statesmen regarding the general European situation, now believed by some to be nearing the "final crash".

The American Government, it can be stated, is following most closely the events in Europe, and especially in Germany. What, if anything, can be done by the United States to save the situation abroad, is now one of the biggest questions before this government.

May Start Young's Point Dam Soon

Tenders Are In, Mr. Gordon Advised by Department

Mr. Gordon telegraphed yesterday to the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals to learn whether the Young's Point Dam contract had been awarded, and received the answer that the matter is now before the Government, and all tenders are in. Early work this fall and during the winter has been urged by Mr. Gordon so that it would anticipate any unemployment that might take place this winter, and relieve it to some extent.

The telegram in reply was as follows:—"Your wire re Young's Point dam matter now before Council as soon as order in Council received, will advise you." — G. A. Bell.

BRITAIN GOES TO THE POLLS

No 11th Hour Development Lessened Uncertainty of the Result.

LONDON, November 15. Canadian Press. — The electorate of Britain swarmed to the polls by millions today in England, Scotland, Wales and Ulster, to elect the fourth parliament of the reign of King George V.

No eleventh hour development has lessened the uncertainty of the result. The few prophets who venture forecasts tie strings to their predictions.

Bonar Law made it clear yesterday at Glasgow that he would be dissatisfied with anything less than an independent unionist majority. Experienced observers express strong confidence in such a result. However gamblers betting on the result in the London insurance market yesterday had to pay a rate which indicated that a majority of Conservatives and independent unionists over all other parties was regarded as almost certain, but the odds were 7 to 3 against the expectation that the Conservatives would get a majority of 80 or more.

The morning papers to-day earnestly appeal to the electors to exercise their franchises and to take nothing for granted.

DISCOVERY TO REMOVE CAUSE DREAD MALADY

Cure for Diabetes Announced at Meeting of Rochester Medical Association and Approved.

REMOVE PANCREAS

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 15. — (Special,)—A discovery that is believed to pave the way to a cure for daibetes and so remove one of the major causes of death was announced at a meeting of the Rochester Medical Association by Dr. John R. Murlin, Director of the Department of Vital Economics at the University of Rochester.

The discovery, revolutionary in its effect upon disease, was described in the following words of Dr. Murlin at the close of his address:

"We claim the credit for having proved first that pancreatic extract can restore the lost power to oxidize sugar to animals rendered diabetes by removal of pancreas. This we have confirmed many times the past summer and this we maintain is the crux of the whole problem the best method of preparation for administration to human case probably has not been accomplished. We must find a way to give it by mouth, as thyroid extract is given, and then the terrors of diabetes will have disappeared, one of the major causes of death will have been completely removed."

Dr. Murlin acknowledges the work done in Rochester with him in working out the problem by Dr. Harry D. Clough, Dr. Arthur M. Stokes, Dr. C. B. Gibbs, and Dr. Clyde C. Sutter.

Disease Well Known.

The general nature of diabetes is too well known to require elaboration. It was established as far back as 1889 that the pancreas is the seat of the disease. Certain cells in this organ produce what has been labelled "Glucopyron," meaning a sugar-bearing substance. When these cells fail to function, the sugar in the system is no longer burned, but is excreted through the kidneys, and diabetes exists. The problem, then, was to furnish a substance for the work of these pancreatic cells, which could be accomplished by introducing into the system an extract made from healthy cells.

Dr. Murlin began working on the development of this idea in 1912, while Assistant Professor of Physiology in Cornell Medical College. Associated with him in carrying out the experiments was his Assistant Professor of Pedriatics at John Hopkins University. With the exception of one encouraging experiment on a human case in 1912, all of their early work was done with animals. By 1916 they were able to publish satisfactory results, showing that a dog with pancreas entirely removed, could burn sugar when given an extract from its own pancreas.

Shortly after that Dr. Kramer left Cornell. Then the war took Dr. Murlin into the service, after he had received the appointment as head of Rochester's new department, coming here in 1919 and getting his laboratory organized he set out on a two year programme, with confidence that he could conquer the diabetes problem within that period.

Now, entirely unknown to Dr. Murlin, one of these odd coincidences which are frequently cropping out in the world of research which was taking place, Dr. F. G. Banting had been inspired by much the same idea and was working along very similar lines in the laboratory of Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, Professor of Physiology at the University of Toronto.

Dr. Murlin did not receive any intimation of Dr. Banting's work until last December, and he did not see any report on its results until April of this year. This served to speed up his own endeavor; another laboratory assistant was added to his staff, and a programme of very intensive work laid out for the summer months. As a result they were able to give the first injection of the new extract to a human patient early in July and have been treating cases with more or less regularity and gratifying results ever since.

You Who Have Eyes to See Be Not Blind to the Needs of the Sightless

You who have eyes with which to see and enjoy the manifold beauties of this world and its man-created pleasures are asked not to be "blind" to the tag day appeal for the Canadian sightless on Saturday.

The funds collected by this day's tagging (supported by the young ladies of the local chapters of the Daughters of the Empire, will contribute toward one of the most worthy of all causes— "to lighten the darkness of the helpless blind by educating them up to a position of comparative independence." In fact, the question involved to some extent in these tag days is, "Shall the blind be miserable beggars or happy, contented working citizens?" And Peterborough citizens will, it is hoped, contribute generously in support of that institution, maintained in Toronto, where the blind of both sex are taught to work and read, and given opportunity for engaging in some of the enjoyments of modern life.

The cardinal points of this institute for the blind are: Instruction in work, library and publishing department, industrial department for men and women, massage classes, "prevention of blindness department," home teaching department, aftercare department, social relief committees, sales room department, normal home teachers' class; placement work.

And surely the thought of such an institution established for the present and future welfare of our blind brothers and sisters will stimulate this community to rise to the occasion on tag day, and do so handsomely.

J. H. BURNHAM WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE.

Rumour Has Connected ex-Federal Member with Designs on Provincial Seat.

Regarding the rumor that has been current for some time that Mr. J. H. Burnham will be asked to stand as an independent for the Ontario house at the next election, Mr. Burnham says he has no intention of standing again. He added that Separate schools, concerning which his nomination is being spoken of, can be attacked only on the principle of prohibition, which disregards all rights, legal and moral when the general public welfare is said to be at stake. This doctrine, as he pointed out before, was approved by Catholic ecclesiastics and holds good against schools since it cannot be confined to one thing only. What his private opinions were, Mr. Burnham declined to state.

TURK DEMANDS SHOCK ALLIES

Turks Did Not Overlook Anything — Note Sent to France and Italy.

LONDON, November 15. — Canadian Press. — The British Foreign Office, it was stated in an authoritative quarter to-day has telegraphed to the French and Italian governments a memorandum in which Great Britain declares that the main Turkish demands which are to come before the Near East peace conference at Lausanne are not regarded favorably by the British government.

Great Britain stands by agreements previously made with her allies, according to memorandum. She regards unfavorabiy the three main Turkish demands: namely, plebiscite in Western Thrace, rectification of Syrian frontier in favor of Turkey, and abolition of capitulations.

DEFINITE RESULTS OF ELECTIONS THURSDAY

But Indication of How Britain is Voting Given Tonight.

LONDON, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Polling in the elections began at 8 o'clock this morning, closing in most cases at 8 o'clock this evening, but in many of the urban districts at 9 o'clock, in order to give the workers ample time to vote.

In more than half the constituencies ballots will not be completely counted or announced until Thursday, but the figures from over a hundred constituencies will be declared to-night between 9 o'clock and midnight. These should be amply sufficient to give a good indication of how the country is going, more especially as these announcements will include some rural districts as well as urban constituencies.

The completion of the new Parliament, however, will not be definitely known until to-morrow.

Secretary's Report.

Secretary John Edgar read a letter received by the society from Rev. Canon Quartermaine, of Renfrew, who expressed his intention to be present at the annual meeting of the society here on Tuesday, 21st November, at 8 p.m., in the Chamber of Commerce.

The secretary also reported that there were 21 inmates of the Shelter this month, three new ones coming in, and eight going out, also that there was no sickness during October.

Mr. Powell Reports.

Local Agent G. W. Powell, in his report, stated that five applications had been received by him seeking children for adaption, during the month. He also reported one complaint to the society, seven Police Station cases, and four wards returned from foster parents.

Receipts.

The receipts included $299.25 from the George Street branch, $96.00 paid in for board of children, $1,527.20 from tags, and several others, making a possible total of about $1,600.

The condition of the Shelter, continued Mr. Powell, is poor in respects to the old steps at the south end of the building. Then the cesspool which had been uncovered by City Engineer R. F. Parsons must be recovered, or the development of typhoid fever germs, may be expected. He also advocated that the insurance on the Shelter be increased $500.00.

Action Taken.

The Board concluded to close the south door of the Shelter to eliminate all need for using the old steps complained of by Agent Powell. Also that the old tree facing the building shall be removed and the cesspool adequately covered.

The question of additional insurance on the Shelter and contents was referred to the secretary and Agent Powell to investigate and report.

SKATING FATALITY.

EDMONTON, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Mrs. Hoe Chalifeaux and her six year old daughter Jean were drowned on Sunday afternoon when six persons enjoying a skating party on Lake Baptiste, fifteen miles northwest of Athabasca, broke through the thin ice and were precipitated into the deep water.

UNEMPLOYMENT NOW AT A LOW EBB IN STATES

Results of Natural Survey Show Satisfactory Improvement—Those Who Want Work Can Get It

SAME IN CANADA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(Jas. T. Kolbert, United Press).—Unemployment this winter will be at its lowest ebb since the war days, experts at the Department of Commerce and the Labor Department stated today, on the basis of a natural survey.

Few people who want work need go without a job, they stated. They foresee an acute labor shortage, particularly in the unskilled labor industries, early in the spring.

This probable labor shortage and the lack of railway equipment may put a brake on the expected business boom.

Little unemployment exists today, the departments said. Last year at the time when the acute situation caused President Harding to convene his famous unemployment conference, more than 3,000,000 workers were jobless.

The tremendous building program of the past year, particularly during the spring and summer months, provided places for hundreds of thousands of skilled and common laborers. The hundreds of millions of dollars worth of new equipment ordered by the railways was another factor in the situation. Labor activity has been increasing in constantly widening circles. Until now many cities, mainly Pittsburg and Philadelphia, are suffering for lack of workers in the basic industries.

Clerical workers alone report a dearth of jobs. These men and women could find places in industry if they were willing to accept inferior jobs, the Commerce Department stated.

Fear of labor shortage with its consequent reaction on prosperity has resulted in a demand for lifting of the immigration restrictions.

IMPOSED FINE FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Magistrate Langley Lenient on Man Who Had Paid Damages.

In this morning's Police Court, Alfred Craig, a young married man of 22 years, was brought up before Magistrate O. A. Langley on the charge of careless driving on the highway and for smashing a buggy which he crashed into near the City Waterworks about a month ago.

Mr. Joseph Wearing made a strong plea for leniency on behalf of the accused. Craig had paid in full, stated Mr. Wearing, the amount of money asked for by the injured party to repay the damages to the buggy. The accused also pleaded guilty when arrested by Provincial Constable G. Cookman. Another fact pointed out by Mr. Wearing to the Magistrate was that he had borrowed money to pay for the damages, and was now unable to pay a large fine, so the consequences would be imprisonment; furthermore, the accused was highly esteemed by his employer, Mr. Wedlock.

Mr. G. Hatton represented the Crown.

The Magistrate, taking all matters into consideration, pronounced the fine of $10 and $11.25 costs on Craig. "The reason that I am so lenient," stated the Magistrate, "is because it is your first time before me, and of Mr. Wedlock's high esteem of you."

Though Craig's charge was a serious one, the Magistrate stated that he had to be more severe in future cases. He was willing to help the young man, who had been so manly in his court dealings, but if brought up again he would have to take into consideration this offence. "This reckless driving of motor cars must be stopped," concluded Mr. Langley.

A WOLFE ISLAND MAN DRAGS GUN OUT OF A BOAT AND IS INJURED.

KINGSTON, Nov. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Allen Davis, of Wolfe Island, aged 25 years, was shot this morning while out duck hunting. Mr. Davis was pulling his shot gun out of the boat at Big Bay, four miles below Marysville and the gun went off, the force of the shot tearing away part of Mr. Davis' left arm and making a large hole three inches under the heart. Dr. Spankie of Wolfe Iseland, attended Mr. Davis, who was brought to Kingston General Hospital, where he was attended to by Dr. Begard. His condition is considered very serious.

Still Many Worlds For Engineers To Conquer

A National Duty, Gen, Mitchell Told Peterborough Branch of E. I. C. to Strive for Solution of the Many Urgent Problems That Are Delaying Progress.

THIRD REUNION

To the Peterboro branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada at their third annual re-union and dinner, which was held in the Empress Hotel last night, General C. H. Mitchell of Toronto University, gave the challenge of the manifold opportunities for public service in solving some of the urgent problems of today by achievements comparable with those great engineering inventions and developments that are the marvel and the pride of the present age. His enumeration of a formidable list of the pressing needs that have special application and interest to Canada was rendered all the more impressive by the simple manner of their definition and explanation and by the high standing of the speaker, who is Dean of the Faculty of Engineering in the University of Toronto.

General Mitchells speech was perhaps the most striking of the evening but scarcely more thoughtful although in a different vein, than that of Mr. R. A. Ross of Montreal, who suggested that engineers should push back their horizons beyond purely technical limits to include such work as is generally indicated by that of Herbert Hoover. Mr. Ross intimated that such an expansion was becoming imperative as a result of the large number of men who were graduating from the engineering faculties of the Universities. If they had "to bludgeon their way into these jobs," Mr. Ross believed that engineers should do so for the reason that they were specially qualified for them.

The reunion was in every particular a fine success. The dinner itself was excellent, the speeches thoughtful and witty and the entertainment had all the spice of variety.

Mr. P. P. Westbye, general manager of the Wm. Hamilton Co. Ltd., presided and around him at the head table was a veritable galaxy of bright lights of the engineering profession in Canada, and also local representatives of sister professions.

Among the guests were General Mitchell of Toronto, R. A. Ross of Montreal, a member of the Royal Hydro-Electric Engineering Commission, Professor Peter Gillespie of the University of Toronto, Alex. Grant, Engineer on the Welland Canal, Fred Newell of the Dominion Bridge Co., Montreal, Fraser A. Keith, Montreal, general secretary of the E.I.C., R. B. Rogers, Peterboro, Rev. Robt. Pogue of the Ministerial Association, Dr. Edward Wood of the Medical Association, Dr. J. J. Craig of the Dental Association, J. F. Strickland and V. J. McElderry of the Peterboro Law Association, R. F. Downey of the Teachers' Institute, E. L. Miles, engineer and superintendent of roads for Victoria County, Walter Reesor Lindsay, John Crane of the Rotary Club, W. G. Henderson of the Kiwanis, A. E. Caddy of the Trent Canal staff, Campbellford, A. L. Malcolm of the Hydro-Electric engineering staff, Campbellford, G. B. Smith, Hydro-Electric Staff, Belleville, Jas. H. Hunter, a past chairman of the Montreal branch, E.I.C. and A. L. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal.

HAS A VOICE IN OWN ATTITUDE

Canadian People Are Arbiters of Canada's Action in War or Peace.

CARLETON PLACE, November 15 (Canadian Press). — "Outside of a very few, the people of Great Britain expect Canada, through her Parliament, to have a say as to what attitude this country is to assume in the matters that so vitally affect her interest, and her well being.

"It was the first time in the history of Canada that this country was asked to participate in the war in which Britain might be involved. In other words, the offer came from Canada when the need was seen to exist. Canadian people can be loyal to the British traditions and the British Crown, and yet say 'no' to the propositions made by the men who happen to be in power."

With this declaration, the Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia and Defence, speaking here last night, closed his reference to the Near East situation as it affected Canada. He added that the attitude of Canada in asking for more information was confirmed by the attitude of Premier Bonar Law.

Mr. Graham was speaking in support of the candidature of David Findlay, the Liberal standard-bearer in Lanark.

CONFERENCE WAS HELD TORONTO ON WATER POWER DEAL

TORONTO, November 15.—This morning the difficulties which have arisen as between the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba and the Dominion government are being canvassed. The question of provincial rights which Ontario claims have been sacrificed by the Dominion government in declaring dams, etc., on Lake of the Woods for general benefit of Canada will be dismissed. Manitoba is interested in the matter because power for the city of Winnipeg is derived from the Winnipeg river which has its source in Lake of the Woods. Levels of Lake of the Woods naturally effect power development on this river. In conference interests of Manitoba are being looked after by Premier John Bracken and Attorney General Craig, while former Attorney General T. H. Johnson is acting as counsel for Winnipeg river power interests. Premier E. C. Drury, L. V. Rorke, Director of Surveys for Ontario, H. G. Acres, chief Hydro engineer for the Hydro-Electric Commission and G. Grant, Premier Drury's private secretary, are present for the Province of Ontario. Provincial representatives were received by Premier King, Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Interior, and Hon. J. J. and Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs, J. B. Challies, director of water powers branch of Government, W. J. Stewart, Dominion Hydrographer, and S. S. Scovil, Engineer of Lake of the Woods Control Board, were present. Conference was private.

DRINK WATER OFTEN IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts if Back hurts or Bladder Troubles

To much meat may form uric acid, which excites the kidneys; they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region; you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Drink lots of water also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged, kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to help neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in correcting kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Election Campaign Was Both Orderly and Quiet

A Great Deal of Curiosity is Expressed Over the Results of the Polling But No Excitement.

THE RURAL VOTE.

LONDON, November 15 (Associated Press). — The most uneventful election campaign in modern times and also the most orderly—for there has been but little of the usual accompaniment of disorderly or interrupted meetings—came to an end last night with the leading figures in the struggle engaged in speechmaking up to the last moment.

The campaign has been unique, in that there is no great clear-out question before the public therefore the electors who will record their votes to-day must be in a puzzled mood, for not only is there no outstanding issue, but in the present perplexing divided condition of the political parties, they cannot base their decisions on mere party predilections.

The election canvassers confess themselves hopelessly unable to make forecasts on account of the unprecedented reticence of the electors concerning their preferences.

This is usually attributed to the desire to hide their sentiments, but it more likely is due to the fact that the electors themselves are unable to express an opinion where there are no plain issues.

No Excitement.

If the elections themselves have not greatly excited the country, there is almost unprecedented curiosity to know the results of the polling, which begins at 8 o'clock this morning, closing in most cases at 8 o'clock in the evening, but in many of the urban districts at 9 o'clock, in order to give the workers ample time to vote.

Never before have such elaborate arrangements been made to give the public an early tally of the pollings. For instance, in London suburban train services, buses, trams and tubes will be kept running to an unusually late hour for the convenience of the citizens waiting up to learn the outcome, which will be flashed from the newspaper offices, big stores, and other buildings by all kinds of ingenious devices, while some of the papers are arranging to telegraph the results at intervals to their readers at small cost.

Late Returns.

In more than half the constituencies the ballots will not be completely counted or announced until Thursday, but the figures from over two hundred constituencies will be declared on Wednesday night between nine o'clock and midnigh.

These should be amply sufficient to give a good indication of how the country is going, more especially as these announcements will include some rural districts, as well as urban constituencies. The complexion of the new Parliament, however, will not be definitely known until Thursday.

Busy in London.

London will be a busy and excited city until long after midnight tonight; excitement promises to be high at political election dinners and ...ners, while hotels and restaurants are preparing special election dinners ... suppers.

Perhaps what is being decided, above all in the polling booths today, is whether Great Britain shall return to the party system in politics or follow most of the European countries in the adoption of a group system.

The Conservatives have made a great bid for a return to straight party politics, but it seems extremely likely that their efforts will ch frustarted and that the new Parliament will consist of a number of groups with confused political boundaries.

Premier Bonar Law and his adherents profess great confidence in the return of their party with a working majority, but this confidence is not shared in other quarters. It is based to a large extent on the belief that the rural voters will, as in the past ,remain true to Conservative traditions. This, however, is one of the uncertainties of the election.

The Rural Voter.

The exigencies of the war gave agricultural labourers high wages such as they never enjoyed in the past, and thereby gave them new standards of life and a new outlook; they were placed in an almost similar position as the town industrial workers, with wages boards to regulate the scale of wages.

In the past year, in conformity with the universal fall in wages and a great reduction in the price of wheat and other agricultural produce, agricultural labourers lost these advantages, the wages boards disappearer, and conditions reverted to something approximating pre-war conditions.

It remains to be seen whether these conditions will draw the rural voter from his time-honoured allegiance to the Conservative Party. If so, it will be the Asquithian Liberals who will benefit, as the Labour Party concentrates its attention on urban constituencies because the appeal of labour is mostly to the industrial worker in the towns.

There is general agreement that the Asquithian Liberals will come much better out of the elections than was expected a few weeks ago.

To sum up—the two unknown factors in the most open election for many years are: How will the women vote, and to what extent the advocacy of a capital levy has injured the prospects of the Labour Party. Another moot point is how far Lloyd-George retains his old ascendancy with his countrymen.

Somebody Is Going To Be Disappointed

LONDON, November 15 (Canadian Press). — While the political managers decline flatly to make any official predictions as to the result of to-day's elections, the Star succeeded yesterday in getting unofficial estimates from the various headquarters of what the managers expect.

According to the Star, the Independent Liberals claim for themselves 145 seats in Parliament, the Labourites claim 150, the National Liberals 75, and the Conservatives 365, including Unionists of all sorts.

These figures total 745, so it is apparent somebody is going to be disappointed, as there are only 615 seats to be filled.

TOTAL OF DEAD IN EARTHQUAKE KEEPS GROWING

Fresh Details of Disaster in Chile Are Coming in Slowly — All Telegraph Lines Are Down.

SLIGHT TREMORS.

SANTIAGO, November 15 (Canadian Press). — Each hour brings further details of the great disaster to Chile caused by the earthquake and tidal wave, and each new report received from the Provinces which suffered the full force of the convulsion adds to the list of dead and the enormous damage already recorded.

Advices yesterday afternoon from Vallener, in the Province of Atacama, say that the total dead recovered thus far at that place number 1,500, while the adjoining town of Freirina is in complete ruins, the casualties not being known.

An official compilation by the Ministry of the Interior, based on reports received by that Department earlier in the day, gave the number of dead in six towns as 886, and the injured 2,410.

These towns were Vallenar, Copiapo, Coquimbo, Huasco, Chanaral, and Freirina.

This compilation, therefore, did not take into account the hundreds of smaller places within the radius of the earthquake, which are virtually shut off from communication because of the breakdown of telegraph lines.

Twelve hundred miles of the coast line felt in varying degrees the effects of the great tidal waves, which followed the earth shocks, and for a large proportion of this distance seaports, towns and villages were inundated. Now, nearly four days after the disaster, thousands of families are wandering about the countryside. Their distress is great, for they have little clothing and few supplies.

Again yesterday severe earth tremors shook the Province of Coquimbo and other places, and strange illuminations were observed last night over the sea off La Serena and at Copiapo.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15. — The night of November 13th was Soctch night in the Lakefield branch of the A.Y.P.A. Rev. A. W. Among the pictures were Edinburgh castle, Scott's monument, Holyrood, Abbotsford, St. Giles' cathedral, the battlefield of Flodden, Melrose Abbey, Dryburgh and Jedburgh Abbeys and many other beautiful pictures.

Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald sang a delightful Scotch solo, Mrs. Dawson and Miss Adcock rendered "Annie Laurie" as a duet in a very pleasing manner and Mrs. Lawrence Graham convulsed the audience with some typical Scotch stories.

A number of visitors were present and the evening was spent pleasantly and profitably.

THREE LITTLE DOGS NOW FIGHT FOR INHERITANCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press)—Judge Henry Horner of the Probate Court is busy deciding a case in which three little dogs are fighting for their inheritance. They are the alleged offspring of Trixie, heiress to the income from the $37,000 estate of Mrs. Margaret Howard who died last June.

Under the terms of a will filed last year Trixie and her sister, Frixie, were named principal heirs. They were to enjoy the income from the estate during their lives, after which the bulk of it was to go, without restriction, to the Arkansas Children's Home at Little Rock. The court has been called upon to decide whether the will is legal.

Pilotless Planes Will Fly 90 Miles

WASHINGTON, November 15 (Canadian Press). — The pilotless army airplane, equipped with an automatic control device said to be more accurate and dependable than any human pilot, has been developed to a point where it has made successful flights of more than 90 miles, it was announced yesterday by the United States Army Air Service.

The announcement declared the results produced after a long series of experiments constituted the "most important postwar development of the many novel ideas of new engines of war."

It was added that the experiments had shown it to be possible to "shoot" bomb-laden planes, without pilots, at targets on or off the ground with astounding accuracy.

North Bay Man Accidentally Shot His Friend in the Abdomen — Wound Not Serious.

NORTH BAY, Ont., November 15. —Canadian Press. — While pointing a .22 rifle, which he did not believe was loaded, and directing a jocose remark at his friend who had just entered the store, Sidney Caplan, a young business man of North Bay, on Monday evening accidentally shot and wounded Philip Brown a tailor, whose shop is across the street from Caplan's store. The accident occurred about 5.30 when Brown who had been collecting some money in aid of a Jewish fund, ran into the store to announce the result of his canvas. He was slapping his trousers pocket which contained the money.

Caplan, according to the reports of the accident, was handling his rifle and raised it with the remark: "This would be a good time to hold you up!"

The rifle exploded, the bullet piercing Brown in the abdomen, and necessitating his removal to the hospital. It was stated yesterday that the wound was not serious.

Caplan, who failed to report to the police immediately after the accident, was taken into custody about 11 o'clock, and was released at midnight on $500 bail supplied by H. Pried.

Chief of Police Morbey admitted that the affair was purely accidental but stated that a charge of some kind would be laid.

BARNYARD PETS OF MANY YEARS AGO.

Several additional specimens of remains of prehistoric animals were discovered in what is known as the Edmonton formation in Alberta, by an expedition from the Royal Ontario Museum, headed by L. Sternberg, during the past summer.

The remains of a stegosaurus, an animal of which very little is known, was found. It is only a small skeleton, but this fact does not lessen its scientific value. The skull of a horned dinosaur, about five and a half feet long, was discovered, with horns curving over the eyes. The head and neck of a duckbill dinosaur were also found.

IRISH SOLDIERS VOTE BY MAIL AND PROXY.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15. — (Canadian Press.)— The electoral bill will be introduced in the Dail Eireann today. The Bill provides that no policemen may be registered as a Parliamentary elector, but Free State soldiers may not only vote but will be permitted to do so by mail or by proxy. Soldiers, however, are the only personse given this privilege.

BIG LUMBER CARGO.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— Loaded down with five million feet of lumber to be used for the extension of wharves in the eastern section of the port of Montreal, the steamer Margaret Coughlin arrived here yesterday from Vancouver with the largest cargo of its kind that ever entered the harbor. The cargo, consigned to the Montreal Harbor Commissioners, was shipped by the British Empire Lumber Corporation, Limited, and consists of British Columbia Douglas Fir, in size 12 inch by 12 inch and varying in length up to sixty feet.

Dr. W. L. McDougald, President of the Harbor Commission, said that work will continue all winter on the improvements for which the timber will be utilized, and that employment will be afforded for approximately one thousand men.

TO INVESTIGATE MURDER.

QUEBEC, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.)— John A. Sullivan and Eusebe Belleau have been chosen as solicitors for the general public to appear at the Royal Commission meeting which is to be held on Tuesday, November 21, to investigate into all the circumstances surrounding the murder of Blanche Garneau here two years ago and the action taken by the Attorney General's Department in the case.

PROGRESSIVES ARE UNITED IN ALL PROVINCES

Alberta Members May Not Agree on a Few Points But There is Absolute Unanimity.

THE ORGANIZATION.

CALGARY, November 15. Canadian Press. — "Although there is a pronounced difference of opinion between the Alberta members and the majority of the Progressive federal members in regard to the methods of organization, the Alberta members believing that the initiative should lie, not with the elected members but with the constituencies in regard to parliamentary policy, there is absolute unanimity," declared Alfred Speakman, M.P., for Red Deer, the whip of the Progressive party in Alberta, who was in Calgary yesterday.

Mr. Speakman stated that a distinct step forward had been taken at Winnipeg in the matter of parliamentary organization by the creation of an executive council, elected by representatives of the members from each of the provinces.

Mr. Forke was chosen by the conference as a whole as chairman of that council and leader. Each province thus had a distinct vote in the parliamentary policies to be followed by the whole group.

"I think in adopting this form of parliamentary organization the members have set a precedent of great value," he said. "It is one of the strongest features of ou rorganization. It assures collaboration in the development of parliamentary policy in a more effective way than has been possible under the old form of organization," said Mr. Speakman.

The diameter of the earth at the equator is 7926.5 miles, but at the poles, since the sphere is flattened in that direction, only 7900 miles.

Province of Quebec Has Big Surplus in Treasury

Provincial Treasurer Reported Over Five Millions on Hand on June 30, 1922—Big Surplus Estimated For 1923 — Quebec Has Not Had to Issue Any New Debentures.

QUEBEC, November 15. Canadian Press. — A surplus of $5,033,419.45 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and an estimated surplus of $557,908.75 for the year ending June 30, 1923, were announced by Hon. Jacob Nicol, the Quebec Provincial Treasurer when he delivered his budget speech at the meeting of the Provincial Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon.

The financial situation in the province of Quebec, said the Provincial Treasurer, was unique in the annals of the province, and nothing like it had ever been equalled in any other province in the Dominion. At a time when all the other provinces were issuing new bonds ,when even the nations of the world were forced to mortgage what was left to them to meet their obligations, Quebec was not only not obliged to issu : any new debentures, but was even able to redeem bonds and stocks to the amount of $249,687.28.

The Province of Quebec, said the Provincial Treasurer, was the least taxed and the least indebted of any of the provinces in the Dominion.

The ordinary re ue for the fiscal year 1921-22 amounted to $8,598,652.92 over the estimates, and th. expenditure was $3,769,1 72 over the estimates.

The ordinary revenue amounted to $18,291,346.36, and the ordinary and extraordinary expenditure represented $17,733,437.61, leaving an estimated surplus of $557,908.75.

SISTERS ASSAULTED BY TURK SOLDIERS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press.) — Another disagreeable aspect to the general situation has arisen from reports from Brusa that two French Sisters of Charity have been assaulted by Kemalist soldiers, who forced an entrance into a convent. The French authorities here have vigorously protested to Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist Governor of Constantinople, demanding an immediate explanation and assurance against a repetition of such assaults.

LLOYD GEORGE ENDS HIS TOUR AT STOCKPORT

Ex-Premier Made Nine Speeches on the Closing Day of His Campaign — Denounced Labor Policy

LONDON, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.) — Former Premier Lloyd George to-day continued his electioneering campaign by addressing meetings in Lancashire towns, including Stockport. At Stockport he said he was not a man who had spent his life fighting for the rich. He did not know how many years still were left to him, but he was not going to spend these years fighting for anybody except the under dog.

From Stockport Lloyd George went to Bristol, addressing meetings from the rear of the railway car on the way there. At Bristol he made his ninth and closing speech of the day and the fortieth of his tour. He devoted his remarks mainly, as most of the leaders continue to do, to denouncing Labor's advocacy of a capital levy.

Winston Spencer Churchill, although still weak from his recent illness, addressed four meetings today at different parts of Dundee. He again was subjected to much heckling owing to the pungency of his oratory. Herbert H. Asquith, Viscount Grey, Austen Chamberlain, the Duke of Devonshire and other leaders all addressed their constituents to-night, giving them final advice on how to vote.

At Stores Named Below

One 10-Day Tube

This week only, any store named below will hand you a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Just present the coupon. Make this test now and watch the delightful effects. It will be a revelation.

Look Next Week

See how teeth glisten when the film goes

Note what beauty you have gained

For your sake and your family's sake, start making this test today. Then look next week and see the changes that occur.

Millions of people of fifty nations are now brushing teeth in this new way. Dentists everywhere are urging them to do it. You can see the results wherever you look—in teeth that glisten as they never did before.

Now see them on your own teeth. Go get this free tube at your store.

Film makes teeth dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Food stains, etc., cloud that film. Then it forms a thin dingy coat. Film is also the basis of tartar.

The ordinary tooth paste leaves much of that film intact. Thus most people's teeth, until lately, were clouded more or less. Beautiful teeth were less common.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the tooth brush, they became almost universal.

Now millions combat it

Dental science has, for long, sought ways to fight that film. Two effective methods have been found. Able authorities, by careful tests, proved them beyond question. Now millions of people are using them daily, largely by dental advice.

One method acts to curdle film, the other to remove it. And this is done without the use of any harmful scouring agent.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. It includes some new essentials and avoids some old mistakes. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it.

Some Pepsodent effects

Film coats are more readily combated. The teeth become highly polished, so film less easily adheres.

Pepsodent also multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Thus Nature's great tooth-protecting agents are given manifold effect, while soap-and-chalk pastes reduce their power.

These results are bringing a new dental era in millions of homes the world over. And these whiter, safer, cleaner teeth mean life-long benefits. When you find them out, you will want your people to enjoy them.

They use it

The dainty people you see, who show white teeth, are probably users of Pepsodent. You see them everywhere. To women it means new beauty, new charm; to men new cleanliness. To children it means new protection against troubles you have had.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

A few days will convince you that this is a method essential to you and yours. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

MR. MORRISON'S OPPOSITION.

J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, is utterly opposed to the "broadening out" policy announced after Saturday's conference of the Progressive representatives.

He declares the programme is "suicidal."

Mr. Morrison's opposition is significant, albeit not surprising.

He has always been against any widening out of the Farmers' movement, preferring to keep it purely and simply a class organization, and so far he has succeeded, so far as Ontario is concerned, in keeping the majority of the farmers in line with his own views.

If he is able to do so now—and it is difficult to think of any one who has more influence in the locals than Mr. Morrison—his prediction that the "new policy will be the death of the movement, or at the very least such a cleavage that the damage will be irremediable," promises to be verified.

The Secretary of the U.F.O. possesses the power of stirring up a farmer audience.

He is not above appealing to class prejudice, and he talks in homely language, not a word of which is lost.

If he decides to embark upon a crusade in Ontario against the "broadening out" plan, there is every chance that there will be a wedge driven into the Farmers' party that will split it wide apart.

The Agrarian movement seems to be at the parting of the ways, and a good deal will depend upon Mr. Morrison's attitude and actions.

His opening shot is not reassuring to those who believe that the movement should be extended to include all those who believe in the political doctrine advanced by the United Farmers.

THE APPLE PROBLEM.

A Toronto paper has been endeavoring, without a great deal of success, to solve the problem that the Examiner has more than once brought to its readers' attention, why it is so difficult to secure good Ontario apples in the cities of this province.

It is stated that non-Ontario-grown apples are given the preference in display in every nine out of ten retail fruit stores in Toronto.

The same condition of affairs is to be found in Peterborough.

Go into any fruit store and ask for good apples and they'll show you British Columbia fruit and ask you from 60c to 75c a dozen for apples.

These apples, brought two-thirds of the way across the continent, at heavy expense, which is, of course, carried by the consumer, are superior to the home-grown product only in appearance and in the attractiveness of their packing.

So far as flavors and texture are concerned, the Ontario apple, grown right at our door, is infinitely superior.

Yet we have to pay 5c each for British Columbia fruit, bringing carload after carload across the continent, while the first grade Ontario apples are shipped out of the province to other markets.

It is almost impossible to buy our own apples in some Ontario fruit stores.

Yet Ontario apple growers complain that the price offered for their product is not enough to make it profitable to spend time in caring for their orchards.

It looks as if the only solution is for the Ontario growers to copy the example of their British Columbia rivals, pay more attention to the packing of their apples and stage an advertising campaign that will put Ontario apples back in the prominent place they should occupy.

HAS SERVED ITS DAY.

Figures given by Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education, indicate that the little red school-house has served its day.

They also furnish proof of the necessity of finding a substitute, and consolidated schools seem to be the only remedy in sight.

Certainly Ontario cannot go on paying large grants to schools in which the attendance consists of only a handful of pupils.

The Minister of Education says there are 1,932 schools in this province with an attendance of below twelve, and 1,800 more in which the average attendance is but a dozen.

Grants are actually being paid to six schools with but one pupil each.

Twenty-seven have only two, fifty have three and there are no fewer than 641 schools in Ontario with an attendance of from six to nine pupils.

That sort of thing should not be tolerated much longer.

What private business could be conducted on such lines and hope to succeed?

Peterborough county has schools of this kind, and so have nearly all the counties of the province.

It is surely time the people awakened to the folly of attempting to carry on schools with two or three pupils and decided to adopt the more economical, more effective and common-sense plan of consolidated schools.

The Minister of Education is a firm believer in that plan, and he should exert every effort to see that the rural ratepayers are educated to the necessity of a change.

The little red school-houses of Canada have done a valuable service for this county, and some of the Dominion's most famous sons received their early education in such buildings.

They are as obsolete now, however, as oxen for transportation purposes.

THE REVERSED FLYWHEEL.

Some of the greatest machines invented by man depend upon huge flywheels for their sustained driving force rather than the engine which generates the nucleus of the power. The engine maintains the momentum of the flywheels and the machine runs swiftly and smoothly at its task as a result.

The dawn of the twentieth century witnessed the comparatively smooth operation of the greatest machine of all—Civilization, says the Veteran, the official organ of the Great War Veterans' Association. The flywheel of human desire for advancement, impelled by the engine of economic and social power, was travelling with increasing speed and smoothness. Small defects from time to time were quickly repaired without apparently affecting the operation of the great machine. Then on that historic early August day, more than eight years ago, one of the cogs slipped, the smooth progress of the machine was suddenly interrupted, and with the application of the emergency brake, it came to a stop with a rending and crashing that threatened disintegration.

The operators stood aghast. Shorn of some of its principal cogs, the machine could only run backwards—reversed from construction to destruction. Slowly, and with the bearings groaning because of turning against the smoothly worn grooves which had previously facilitated operation towards construction, the machine again gained impetus. The flywheel of human endeavor soon ground the bearings smooth in the opposite direction, and as the months advanced the machine operated with less faltering — destroying with even greater facility than it had built.

Four years ago to-day Modern Civilization as a machine of destruction reached the apex of its power. Its success was so great that the forces working against it were ground into submission. Then the hour came for reattaching the missing cogs and again reversing the gears.

Four years have taught us that the human machine was more quickly adapted to destruction, than construction. Four years have shown us that cogs of that machine cannot be displaced even temporarily without causing the whole to run unevenly. Four years have taught us that the repair men of pre-war days, the diplomats, were at the best makeshift mechanics—that those who had the greatest part in the construction of the machine—the common people of all nations—are the only mechanics with sufficient knowledge of its intricacies to make lasting repairs of the damage wrought. Even they have been appalled by the magnitude and complexity of the task.

Slowly—perhaps almost imperceptibly—the great machine of Civilization is being adjusted. The days of working and waiting for the time when it shall again resume its onward progress of construction seem long, but the moment is becoming nearer.

May Armistice Day one year hence find the flywheel of human desire for advancement giving impetus to the great machine, with all the cogs meshing evenly and the bearings running smoothly.

THE VOGUE IN MURDER.

Murder as a social activity, as a way out of a difficulty, as an expression of personal disapproval, is gaining in popularity in the most interesting way. A cursory perusal of a single day's batch of newspapers brings to light eleven murder cases of a highly picturesque and unusual nature. These are real high grade, big news murders, not the ordinary shootings that are continually going on in four-line paragraphs between patrol officers and common thugs ;these are genuine human interest murders; one of them, the celebrated Hall-Mills murder, is being handled like a serial in the New York dailies, and our neighbours south of the line eat their morning toast and eggs to the accompaniment of murder details that make them hold their spoons suspended half-way to their mouths as they peruse the newspaper propped up against the sugar bowl.

The fact that simply springs from the murders as they are presented in the news is that murder is something that numerous people are finding very easy to do—and are going out and doing it. A lady has a grievance—generally at a gentleman (because many of the murders here under notice are committed by women); instead of sitting down crushed under her grievance she procures a revolver, walks into his office, and says to him: "Will you stop this nonsense" He says: "No." And she pulls the gun out of her muff and shoots him completely dead there and then, without further discussion. The lady who did this shooting has just been acquitted in Philadelphia.

Or, a lady whom we will call Mrs. A., invites another lady, Mrs. B., for an auto ride. When they are well out in the country, Mrs. A. suggests they get out and walk around for a bit. They get out. Mrs. A. says to Mrs. B.: "My husband gave you that motor car." Mrs. B. says: "No, he didn't." Mrs. B. then takes a hammer out of her muff and hits Mrs. B. on the head with it, and after a while Mrs. B. is murdered very thoroughly indeed. This case is pending just now in the Courts of California.

Or, a young lady feels herself slighted by the gentleman with whom she has been keeping company. He treats her in a cavalier manner. He shows her a list of fifty women who have been his friends. The young lady walks out, buys a gun, comes back, fills the gentleman full of holes and lead, and says she did it in the interest of women folk generally. She is a pretty young lady. The jury accepts her explanation, and she is acquitted. This was the Peggy Beale case of Kansas City.

Or, a young woman has to look after her old father-in-law. The old gentleman is evidently a bit of a worry. He needs a lot of attention. The young woman gets tired attending him. One morning she feeds him a large dose of arsenic. The old gentleman worries nobody any more. In Court the young woman says: "I did it because he was such a care." She goes to jail for life. This is the Hodell murder case of White Cloud, Michigan.

Or, a clergyman and his wife come home from church one Sunday night. A lady visitor is shown in. She converses with the cleric and his wife for a few minutes and then takes her leave. The clergyman escorts her to the front door. In the hall she unlimbers a huge revolver, shoots the clergyman through the body. He drops dead. She shoots herself in a vital place; drops dead on top of him. Clergyman's wife rushes out, finds bodies stacked upon the carpet. This is the Christler-Carlton murder and suicide in Havre, Montana.

These are only a few samples, but their quality is obvious, and there is a considerable body of public support behind some of them. Thus when the jury acquitted Peggy Beale, the audience in the Court room cheered; and in another murder, not listed above, the "jury, composed of six men and six women, acquitted two men and a woman, largely, the record indicates, because the victim had said all women were bad, and the wife of one of the defendants was a bum," a finding which should make other male persons pretty careful upon those occasions when they feel called on to offer general opinions on the weaker sex.

In the United States, where the cases cited, and numerous others not cited, have happened, some people are becoming rather indignant about all the murders, and are demanding that they be stopped? It is true a murderer might be hanged once in a while for the encouragement of the others, but then who could hang a pretty young lady who looks so charming as she sits in Court with a string of pearls around her neck? It is a very difficult problem. Meanwhile the murders go on. We pick up a newspaper just brought in and see where somebody has pushed somebody else off a roof—death ensuing. With the Court room cheering verdicts of acquittal for admitted murderers, it is apparent that in the United States the whole business of murder is moving to new social levels. — Manitoba Free Press Evening Bulletin.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

HAVE WE FORGOTTEN?

Editor Examiner:

Sir, — As I stood at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets on Saturday morning as th clock chimed the eleventh hour, a few ladies and a solitary man only amongst the numerous people in the immediate vicinity appeared to be aware of the significance of eleven a.m. the eleventh day of November.

These few only, remembered the 60,000 Canadian and hundreds of thousands of soldiers and sailors of other countries who laid down their lives that we might live in comfort and enjoy our freedom.

The same few only, apparently, amongst the crowd could spare two short moments once a year for the purpose of silent prayer in memory of the boys whom we shall see no more.

Is that revelent of Peterboro's appreciation? It appears so. If only some of our departed heroes could have been present Saturday and seen that the majority of this city's inhabitants had forgotten them, what could their thoughts have been It is almost impossible to imagine.

Last year I happened to be on Yonge Street, Toronto, when the warning was given, and as the numerous chimes rung out immediately everyone paid homage for two brief minutes and the scene was most impressive. One old gentleman, appeared to forget the occasion, but was quickly reminded. Who, on such occasion is responsible for the state of affairs in Peterboro? This year I understand is a reptition of last, which is a disgrace to the city. The civic authorities in my humble opinion, should, like other cities, take action on these occasions. It must be apparent to everybody Saturday morning as signals were given by a number of factories.

Most assuredly the majority amongst that morning's throng must have had some friend or relative who made the supreme sacrifice. Had they forgotten, did they want to forget, or was the inconvenience too great? The latter appears to me to be a feasible reason.

It is comforting, however, to read in the evening paper that in other cities they remembered. It is humiliating in the extreme that the majority of Peterboro's inhabitants do not observe this very pathetic occasion in a fitting manner. The editorial in Friday's issue of the Examiner on the question was very timely and appropriate, but it appeared to be ignored by many, and did not have the desired effect.

FEDERATED WOMEN'S INSTITUTES MEET.

Gathering in London, Ont., Proved Most Successful Convention Yet.

The eighth annual convention of Federated Women's Institutes of Western Ontario was held in Masonic Temple, London, Ont., Nov. 7 to 9, and was the best convention yet held in that city. Much of its success was due to the untiring efforts of President Mrs. Geo. Edwards, and her staff of workers in Western Ontario, together with assistance rendered by the Department of Agriculture, under the supervision of the genial Superintendent, George Putman, and his assistants.

Many of the outstanding personages of Ontario were there, as well as Mr. Saparo of California, the greatest specialist on co-operation on this continent, and Mr. Woodsworth, a member of Parliament for Winnipeg.

Tuesday afternoon was given over to the discussion of community work and the child.

Miss Crone, leading the discussion, pointed out needs of rural schools and their surroundings.

City Gave Banquet.

The city of London tendered a banquet to the members present, at which they welcomed the guests, Mrs. Todd, Dominion President; Mrs. Edwards, Provincial President, and Dr. Patterson of Toronto replied on behalf of those present.

George Putman pointed out the value of the Women's Institutes' organisation in the evening and showed the value of helps offered by the Department of Agriculture.

Electricity on Farms.

Wednesday morning was taken up by discussions of electricity on the farm by Miss Grant, and by Mrs. Sutherland Ross on women in agriculture and the possibilities of adding to their income as well as comforts.

Mr. Saparo, the greatest man of the day in California on the question of marketing, was able to be present and give an address on the possibilities of Ontario when organized. He pointed out that Ontario had advantages possessed by no other country, including the agriculture, fruit and dairy products, and her nearness to her legitimate market, the British Empire. He showed how we might gain and hold that market, not by larger production, but by production of better quality, grading and marketing. He also showed the loss to producer and consumer by our dumping process, and drew attention to the fact that British Columbia was selling inferior apples in Toronto at higher prices than Ontario was getting for apples that won that place at the various fairs, because they understood packing and marketing and worked in co-operation to push their markets in the world.

Mr. Saparo appealed to women to study conditions not only of Ontario, but of the world, and lend a hand in the development of Ontario, the favored land of the world.

Talk on Federation.

Mrs. Edwards spoke on Federation, and asked for the support of all branches, aptly demonstrating by comparing the co-operation between the Federation and the Department of Agriculture to a waggon wheel, saying the department is the centre or hub, the branches the spokes and the Federation the rim that binds all together.

Mrs. Pankhurst, in her faultless manner, gave an address on social hygiene.

Social Evils.

Dr. Patterson pointed out that many social evils were the outcome of laxity of home responsibilities, combined influence of moving pictures, the public dance-hall and automobiles, where young people were left to their own devices.

She appealed for a movement for supervised amusement, and asked mothers to provide more home amusement and not leave the cure of the young to the public.

Thursday was taken up with discussion of how to extend the work by Miss McLellan, Mrs. Middleton and Mrs. Chipps.

Every Dollar Comes Back

With Substantial Dividends

A Young Man's Investment

A satisfactory medical examination secures him a Capital Return Policy—combining Savings, Insurance, and Investment.

His policy means good health and future success, which improves his standing in the eyes of a certain "important person."

His tendency to save and invest creates a favorable impression upon his employers.

He finds his savings of great assistance in buying a home.—

And as time goes on he is enabled to enjoy many of the good things of life.

Have you ever heard of an absolutely safe investment, purchased by instalments, which does not require the payments to be completed if you become disabled, but, instead, pays you a monthly income as long as you live?

—which cancels all further payments in event of death and pays immediately the full amount you had set out to save?

—or, at the end of 20 years, absolutely guarantees to return to you every dollar you have deposited in annual premiums, with substantial dividends?

The Capital Return Policy

is a new departure in life insurance policies which the Canada Life introduced to the public. It has carried out the above program for a great number of policyholders who wisely took advantage of it.

This Policy Gives You---

1. Immediate Life Insurance protection for your home.

2. Cash values, available in emergencies, which, with the substantial dividends added at stated intervals, make your policy a valuable business asset.

3. At the end of 20 years you can draw out all you have paid in, along with dividends which have been compounding at interest;—

Or, you can take a Special Cash Guarantee, along with the accumulated dividends, and continue the policy (fully paid for) earning dividends as long as you live,—

Or, this Special Cash Guarantee may be applied to increase the amount of your policy—for example, a $5,000 policy would be raised to more than $7,500.

And in addition---

Suppose some day you should become totally and permanently disabled through accident or illness. Immediately all further deposits would cease, and you would receive $50.00 a month as long as you live—and the $5,000 would be paid in full at your death. (This feature is added for a small extra payment yearly, which is not returnable with the regular deposits.)

A UNIQUE EVENT IN HISTORY ANGLICAN CHURCH, MILLBROOK

Community Gathering Bid Farewell to Rev. C. R. Spencer and Family —Presented With a Purse of Gold.

MILLBROOK, November 15. — An event unique in the history of Millbrook took place last evening, when a community gathering was held in the Armouries to say farewell to Rev. C .R. Spencer, M.A., Mrs. Spencer, and family, who are leaving on Wednesday for their new home, the Bishop having confirmed Mr. Spencer's appointment as rector of Shanty Bay, East Oro and Hawkesbury.

A striking tribute to the popularity of the guests of the evening was the fact that fully six hundred people were assembled to do them honour, the building being taxed to capacity for their accommodation.

The Reeve, Mr. W. T. Wood, acted as chairman, and during the evening he, as well as the other speakers, voiced the general feeling that not only in the discharge of his clerical duties as assistant to Rev. Canon Allen in the parish of Millbrook and Cavan, but in the civil and military life of the community as well, Mr. Spencer has proved himself an interested and worthy citizen. Members of the G.W.V.A. were in uniform out of compliment to Major Spencer, and the local battalion, also in uniform, acted as ushers.

The opening number on the programme was a piano duet by Misses M. Collins and E. Richardson, followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, "Donald, My Laddie," with piano and violin accompaniment by Miss S. Hetherington and Mr W. Johnston, of Centreville.

The Reeve then requested that Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, the members of their family (nine children in all, for even Bay Mary was present), and Mr. Holmes, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Spencer's father, who has spent much time in Millbrook, would come to the platform, the audience singing "For they are jolly good fellows," as they complied with the request.

On behalf of th citizens, including the three churches, and the various organisations to which Mr. Spencer belongs, the Reeve then read the following address, after which Rev. J. Wilks presented him with a purse of gold, the contents amounting to $440.00, adding a few well-chosen remarks with the concluding statement which called forth hearty applause: "If you don't find good neighbours in your new home, you will soon make them, for you know how to do it."

The Address.

To the Rev. C. R. Spencer, M.A.

The various association, convened here to-night to bid you farewell, and to wish you God-speed, representing as they do the different denominations, fraternal societies, military organisations, and others, desire in some suitable way to give expression not only to their esteem, regard and affection for you personally, but also their appreciation of, and thanks for, the large and important part you have taken in the community life of Cavan and Millbrook since you came here as assistant minister of the parish of Cavan upwards of twelve years ago. While not neglecting the many and exacting duties of that high office, your sympathies and activities have extended beyond it and embraced many other lines of usefulness.

Interested in military matters, you early qualified for, and succeeded to, the command of the Millbrook Company of the Durham Light Infantry, and, in conjunction with this, undertook the training of the School Cadets, to such good effect that, when on the outbreak of the Great War the clarion call of duty came, not only yourself but many of those who had been trained and prepared by you were ready to respond and offer to their King and country all that man can give.

After enduring the hardships and trials of that great ordeal, of which those who passed through them are alone qualified to speak, you returned to take up again your clerical and civil duties here, and again exemplified the fact that your sympathies and interest were wider than your creed. Your fellow-citizens evidenced their appreciation of your services and worth by electing you a member of the School Board, and, in the following month you attained the unique distinction of being immediately appointed its chairman, a position which you have ever since filled, and still fill, with honour and credit to yourself and the Board.

Your recognition of the fact that a man's brother is not he alone of his own household, or of his own faith, is shown by your interest in the fraternal societies to which you belong, and in which you have attained to position, of the highest honour and influence.

We who are here this evening representing those who have been constantly associated with you in these varied interests and activiteis, desire to emphasise our appreciation of the absolute sincerity, broad, human sympathy, and strong sense of duty which have ever characterised your life and conduct, and, while we naturally exceedingly regret your departure, we rejoice that for you it means greater influence and responsibility, greater opportunity for service, and for the development of those attributes which we have valued so highly in you while here.

In war you were a good soldier. In peace you have been a good citizen. In peace and in war alike we believe you a good soldier of Jesus Christ, and a good citizen of His kingdom on earth. We doubt not that in the future, as in the past, you will meet the difficulties and discharge the duties that present themselves to you as well in your high and holy calling as in other fields of service, faithfully, honourably, courageously, and capably.

To you, to Mrs. Spencer, and your family, we wish every good wish. For you we crave every blessing.

Signed on behalf of the General Committee,

W. T. Wood, Chairman.
P. Stinson, Secretary.

Millbrook, 14th November, 1922.

Mr. Spencer's Reply.

In his reply, on behalf of himself his wife and family, Mr Spencer who was deeply moved, stated that "gratitude is written across my heart to-night;" and also said it would be thirteen years on the 9th of next January, since he first came to Millbrook; being then in his 29th year. "It has been a great pleasure to serve you," he continued; "you have got hold of my heart, and the hearts of my wife and family." Referring to his part in the great war, he stated that after receiving his appointment as Chaplain from the late Sir Sam Hughes, he had always endeavored to carry with him the "Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God," and he also referred to his delight in being associated with his spiritual brethren here in God's service. The fact that Colonel McLaughlin, a former commanding officer in his overseas battalion, was on the platform, gave peculiar pleasure, and the kindness of his Masonic brethren in presenting him that evening with the handsome Past Master's jewel, which he was wearing, received special mention. The happy associations with Rev. Canon Allen during his curacy here, were feelingly referred to by the speaker, who added "and for his fatherly words of wise counsel and of kindly constructive criticism, I thank him from the bottom of my heart." In his concluding remarks Mr. Spencer spoke of his pleasure in seeing "my boys, who are very dear to me," in uniform, and acting as ushers for the evening, and stated: "This day, November 14, 1922, is the most memorable of my life, and will ever be green in my memory, and that of my wife and family."

Other numbers on the programme were a solo, "When the heart is young," by Miss Ethel Richardson; addresses by Rev. Canon Allen, Rev. S. T. Tucker, Col. McLaughlin, a trio, "The Night Shades are Falling," by Mrs. Gervan, Miss Richardson, and Mr. H. W. Johnston, addresses by Rev. G. S. Gervan, S. S. Staples, M. P. P., Mr. James Paul, (who spoke more particularly for the Royal Black Knights Preceptory, No 945, of which Mr. Spencer was an officer), a solo "Keep on Lookin' on the Bright, Bright Side," by Miss M. Money and an address by Mr. A. A. Smith, who was church warden during Mr. Spencer's tenure here, spoke for the laity of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan, for the Masonic Order, and for the School Board, to which Major Spencer had been elected in 1918, having then the unique distinction of being almost immediately its chairman, the highest office in the gift of the Board and one which he filled ably and creditably, and to which he was re-elected each year ever since.

The reeve, in closing the meeting, expressed his pleasure in the success of the evening and the hope that other community gatherings might be arranged for when matters of civic interest could be intelligently discussed, urging especially that that those present would attend the public meeting ne.t week when the proposed addition to the school would be presented by Mr. Hogue, of Toronto who was coming to explain the entire situation, financially and therwise. He mentioned this, Mr. Wood said, because he knew Mr. Spencer was deeply concerned in the question and had worked hard to have it satisfactorily settled.

The singing of "For Auld Lang Syne," by the entire audience, and the National Anthem, brought to a close an occasion that will long be remembered as one of the most enjoyable in the history of Millbrook and the adjoining townships. Miss Mamie Collins in her usual efficient manner, presided at the piano throughout the evening.

STRANGE DEATH OF ARTHUR CRAWFORD

'The Man With the Wealth of Funny Ideas' Was Found in the Bronx With Bullet in His Heart

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.) — Lying against the mossy bank of a secluded ravine in the Bronx, a lighted cigarette dangling from his smiling lips, the lifeless body of Arthur Crawford, humorist, "the man of a wealth of funny ideas," was found yesterday, a bullet wound in the heart. A revolver lay at his side.

The report of the shot, heard by a passerby, attracted him to the ravine. He summoned policemen, and in Crawfords' pocket they found a letter, addressed to his son, an instructor in physical education at Columbia University, and a will. The letter contained a key to a safety deposit vault and informed the son he would find $8,000 in the Bank of Montreal.

Born fifty-five years ago in Montreal, Crawford was graduated at Lincoln College at Sorel, Quebec, and from the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. He began his career in 1892 in the drama "Dartmoor," and later appeared in other stage productions.

He left the stage in 1896 to write paragraphs, jokes and anecdotes for humorous publications.

He was widely known as "A.C." For years he had furnished artists with ideas for many of their best pieces and behind the artists' name on such drawings, after a plus sign, appeared his initials.

PARIS, Nov. 15. — (Canadian Press.)—Germany must find some way of getting eight hundred billion marks worth of grain to feed her people during next year, the Reparations Commission learned in its investigation in Berlin. CONGRESS WOMAN NOW PRACTICING FOR HER TASK

Purposes That Referendum Be Taken Which Will Render a Declaration For War Impossible

UP TO THE PEOPLE.

(By Roy J. Gibbons

CHICAGO, Nov 15—Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, newly elected congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, is practicing for her job in Washington.

Cleaning house!

When I entered the home of Mrs. Huck, she met me with a dust rag. She had just put the finishing touches to the top of the family piano. A cloth was tied about her hair and she was dressed just as any other house wife during the morning dusting.

Mother, politician, wife and housekeeper—all these roles have been crowded into her 40 busy years now terminating in an honor which never before had been bestowed on a woman east of the Mississippi. She is going to Washington to fill the unexpired term left vacant by the death of her father, William E. Mason, over a year ago.

"You've just come in time", she greeted me with a smile. "I'm practicing for my job at the capital.

"Cleaning! Do you get what I mean?

"But there's one thing, above every thing else for which I'm going to Washington. That is to make the country safe from war. My father was against war. And it is to fulfill his ideas, suddenly terminated by death, that I am accepting the post.

"War Up to People"

"War is needless and futile. I purpose to have a referendum taken on the subject which will make a declaration for war impossible, except in case of attack upon this country, without first submitting the question to a direct vote of people.

"Whatever else I can accomplish that has far-sighted effect I will also strive for. But to end war. That is my main mission and purpose."

Politics is no new game for Mrs. Huck. Ever since a girl of 16 she has been plunging into one campaign or other.

With her father, she went about the country listening to his stump speeches, and on occasions made addresses herself in his behalf.

Her husband is a civil engineer. They met in Washington while attending high school together during a time when her father was serving as senator.

They have been married almost 20 years and have four children, three boys and a girl.

She is "Carrying on"

"I will only be in Congress until next March, when my term expires," she said.

"Miracles cannot be expected in so short a time from anyone. But at least, I can plant the seed of what I stand for and what my father stood for.

"It is for him that I am carrying on. My platform is one of open-mindedness.

"I am a Republican only so far as my party represents Republicans. But I—I am a conscience candidate, and I will vote with my conscience.

"I will not represent any particular group, but with the opportunity afforded, I will be especially interested in progressive legislation for women.

"I am dry and don't care who knows it. And above all else I am a woman, with the heart and feelings and sympathies of a mother.

"And just as you see me cleaning my house here to-day, with that same kind of zeal and earnestness will I endeavor to discharge my duties to the people.

"The job ahead of me is a great one. I take it with fear and trembling and with a prayer on my lips But there are two great incentives and examples to spur me on and keep me guided right, I hope.

"These are my faher and his record, and the voters who sent me to represent them."

WOMEN, END WAR!

The next 50 years will see an end of all war. Women and mother will accomplish that, says Mrs. Mason Huck.

They have sickened to death of sending their sons and offspring to be fed into the maws of cannon.

They represent a new intelligence which is just dawning and will soon make itself felt upon the affairs of the world.

War is only justifiable in event of direct and unwarranted attack.

Aggressive war fare can never be reconciled with justice by whatever name it is called.

Year after year from now on, more mothers will be elected to aid in conducting the affiars of state.

It is they who will usher in the millenium.

Women, you must insist upon voicing your say as to when life can be taken, for it is you who gave life to the world.

War must go. It is going.

It should only be made possible after all the people have voted for or against it.

I hope to at least plant the seeds for such a thought to make such referendum possible.

PROTESTING AGAINST SWARM OF OFFICIALS.

Austrian City Petitions Government For Relief From Burden.

VIENNA, Nov. 15.—(Associated Press)—When the new boundary line was drawn between Austria and Hungary last summer the little Burgenland watering place at Sauerbrunn, not far from Vienna, fell to Austria. Now its inhabitants have petitioned the Austrian Government for relief from the burden of officials thrown upon them.

They state that under Hungarian rule one official administered the commune, while now they have 200 Austrial officials and their families as rulers. They declare that these officials have requistioned the hotels and many villages and while formerly the resort averaged 8,040 visitors every season, this summer it had only a few hundred.

CHINESE PLAY TAKES HALF YEAR TO ACT

Company Introduces Innovation to U. S. Audiences.

SHOW LACKS CURTAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The latest thing in dramatic in San Francisco is the Chinese play, and it is proving quite a novelty.

The players are all direct from China, and, in the words of Joe Chan, Chinatown butcher, and "angel" of the show, are "alle samee Doug. Fairbanks, Mary Pickford" in China. Chan recently leased a theatre and put the company on for a six months' engagement.

The company was engaged for six months because it takes six months to put on the play.

The staging of the play is an innovation to American theatregoers. In the first place, there is no curtain. There is no back drop. There is no scenery. There are no acts, the play being a continuous performance.

Tapestry is Limit.

A simple Chinese tapestry hung at the back of the stage is the limit of decoration.

The actors are dressed in flowing Chinese robes and move in stately fashion around the stage, droning in high Chinese accents.

Seated on the stage, nonchalantly smoking a cigarette is a young Chinese in a black costume. Occasionally he gets up, stretches himself, and wanders around. No one pays any attention to him.

He is the scene shifter. Because he is dressed in black, all the Chinese in the audience understand perfectly that he can't be seen—he's invisible. That's just as much a regulation convention in China as the "Asbestos" on the curtain in America.

When any "stage business" is necessary, the young man gets up, gets the property in question, and replaces it when down. If there is a wooing scene out of a window, he obligingly holds up a window frame until the hero and heroine gets done conversing. When she wants to sit down, he saunters across the stage and hands her a chair. But, of course, he can't be seen.

Man Acts as Heroine.

The heroine of the play is a man, a noted actor—or actress—in China—Chin Far Dart. He always plays women's parts. In China it is considered an outrage to permit women on the stage—it lowers the dignity of the male actors. But in America—well, two real women are permitted to play minor parts.

As to what the play is all about, Joe Chan, the butcher, says that it is 1,000 years old, and a very respectable Chinese play. As for the rest, a better impression was gained from the policeman on the Chinatown squad who stays around to see that peace is kept.

"A bad man, you see, gets lousy drunk, and then he swipes a swell chicken," explained the policeman. "Then there's a young guy that's really got a case on this dame. He hears about the kidnapping business and goes out to clean the old gent up. The dame is afraid of the bad man. When he really thinks he's got her dead to rights, she begins hollering. This young guy hears her, and busts into the place—y'understand, they got these paper walls in China. Well the young guy and the old gent go to it with swords, and, of course, the young feller finally bumps the old gent off, and gets the girl. Hell—it's simple, but here I gotta stick around six months while they drag it out!"

INDIANS ATTEMPTED TO OBSTRUCT TRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.)—Charged with attempting to obstruct a train, sixteen Indians from the Sioux Reservation are held in jail at Fort Frances, Ont., according to information obtained here yesterday.

J. H. Bannerman, chief special agent of the Canadian National Railways, when questioned on the report yesterday, said it seemed to be the act of mischievous young Indians. The young men, from 18 to 21 years of age, broke the top of the switch, then broke the lock and turned the switch to divert the train to a siding. The engineer of the Winnipeg-Toronto train, noticing the wrongly turned switch, put on his emergency brake and stopped the train before any damage was done.

The Indans lay in the bush, waiting to see what would happen and they were subsequently apprehended.

CANARIES TO WARBLE LIKE NIGHTINGALES.

Produced By Bird Fancier After Ten Years of Experimenting.

BREMEN, Nov. 15.—(Associated Press)—After ten years of experiments, a Bremen bird fancier has succeeded in producing canaries with a nightingale warble. The cross-breed was attained by using nightingales as "singing masters" for young canaries, and rearing the latter entirely removed from the sound of any other bird note except the warbling of their "instructors."

The breeder's chief difficulty was at first found in the fact that normally nightingales sing only during two months of the year, and his purposes required a longer uninterrupted period of instruction for the canaries. He was finally successful in changing the moulting, non-singing periods of certain nightingales so that some sang from May to July, other from June to August, and still other from August to October.

Using these birds he kept newly-hatched canaries continually within hearing of their warbling. Several generations of breeding showed that birds reared from the original students instinctively possessed the nightingale warble, and that "instructors" could be dispensed with for the offspring except for "polishing off" their singing.

PARIS WOMEN REFUSE TO BUY EXPENSIVE DRESSES

PARIS, Nov. 15.— (Associated Press)—Disheartened and saddened by the evident determination of the women of Paris to adorn themselves simply, in the matter of dress, those who are interested in the selling of laces, feathers and embroidery have come to ask the women for mercy.

M. Dior, Minister of Commerce, dwells upon the stagnant condition of the industries which provide feminine finery, and tells the fashion artists they must do something about it. The answer given him is that the dressmakers are powerless.

"This simplicity which troubles M. Dior," one leading gown designer said recently "saddens us as much as it does him." Our models are simple because they are inexpensive, and please our clients. The eighth hour day, taxes, high wages and customs decrees, involving onerous reciprocity like the American tariff bill which came into force lately, all make a cheap and plain dress necessary."

The newest models shown are without lace and brocades and of plain and cheap materials.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF FARM YOUNG FOLKS EAST PETERBORO

Visiting Delegates Were Suitably Entertained — Medals Presented For Competitions in Oratory —Outlook For Future is Bright.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The East Peterboro County United Farm Young People held their second annual convention in Chamber of Commerce Rooms, Peterborough.

Representatives were there from the U.F.Y.P.O. branches in Norwood, Zion, Peterborough, Cordova, Havelock, Lakefield, Indian River and Warsaw.

The County President, Miss Pearl Petrie, was in the chair, assisted by Fred Crowe, County vice-president Miss Lillian Gardner of Norwood acted as secretary.

Peterborough U.F.Y.P.O. entertained the visiting delegates who came by early train to breakfast from 8-9a.m. in the U.F.O. rooms. Mrs. H. R. Shields and Miss Mabel Grant, the committee in charge, proved very efficient hostesses.

After this the young people went to the Chamber of Commerce where the morning session was held.

Debating Contest.

Arrangements were made for a live county debating competition among eight of the U.F.Y.P.O. clubs during the winter months. Topics were chosen for each debate throughout this competition and the young people are off to a good start with the first debates in the first week in December.

With fifty-six different topics under debate, the coming winter promises to be one of instruction and fun for the young farmers. Interest is keen and the race for the County Cup, donated by the U.F.O. promises to be a close one.

The afternoon session was held in the U.F.O. rooms. It was opened by community singing, the new U.F.Y.P.O. song for which the young people are indebted to Mrs. Hamblin of Warsaw, proving most popular. This song reads as follows:

We're the U.F.Y.P.O. of Peterboro town;
If you want to know us well
Come in where're you're down;
We hold our meetings twice a month,
Debates our evenings crown;
Heads, Hearts and Hands, altogether.

Hurrah! Hurrah! the U.F.Y.P.O.!
Hurrah! Hurrah! we're going to make it go;
We work and play; and vote and win;
Give every one a show;
Heads, Hearts and Hand, altogether.

The country is watching us the U.F.Y.P.O.
They see in us the bloom of youth;
They know we're bound to grow
The men and women tried and true,
Who fear not any foe;
Heads, Hearts and Hands, altogether.

The Y.P.O. is here to stay;
We hope you understand;
Our work is all laid out for us—
To cultivate the land,
To cultivate our brains as well, for the right to take a stand;
Heads, Hearts and Hands, altogether.

Another interesting feature was the Oratorical Competitions, open to three members from each club in the County.

Harold Lewis of Peterborough U.F.Y.P.O. in splendid speech on "Farm Young People's Needs" was the winner of the gold medal in the Senior competition.

The gold medal in the Junior competition was won by Cecil Bolton of Indian River U.F.Y.P.O. who gave a very interesting address on "The Responsibility of Farm Young People in relation to Politics."

The winner of the silver medal in the Junior competition was Miss Gertrude Moloney of Cordova Mines (Belmont township) U.F.Y.P.O., who gave a very helpful address on "How to make U.Y.Y.P.O. meetings entertaining and interesting."

At the conclusion of the speeches in competition, the County President presented the medals, which will make most suitable souvenirs.

Then a social hour was spent with the following programme: recitation, Miss Cressa Crowe of Warsaw; recitation, Mr. Cecil Bolton of Indian River; piano solo, Miss Lillian Gardner of Norwood; recitation, Mr. Fred Crowe of Lakefield.

Mr. Roy Sanderson of the resolution committee gave a splendid outline of the course in rural leadership held annually for two weeks at the O.A.C. He urged that each club in the County make an effort to send one representative to take that course, and bring back to the club new ideas in arranging programmes and social activities.

Review of Work.

The County President then reviewed the work of the past year and ably presented the aims and ideals of the U.F.Y.P.O.

The question drawer brought forth many interesting discussions.

Officers Elected.

This was followed by the election of officers for next year, the retiring officers requesting a rest from the responsibilities of office, and urging that others be given this opportunity for service in the movement. The election resulted as follows:

President—Mr. Harold Lewis.
Vice-President— Miss Pearl H. Petrie.
Secretary—Miss Lilian Gardner.

Throughout the discussions in the Convention one formed a splendid spirit of good will that augurs well for the future success of the Farm Young Peoples' Movement in this county.

The Convention closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

School Board Submit Plans For New School to the Municipal Council—Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 15. — The school board appeared before the council at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, and submitted plans and specifications for the proposed addition to the present school building. A. A. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the board, gave a detailed statement explaining the situation from the financial aspect especially, and a practical discussion followed, the speakers including Rev. C. R. Spencer, chairman of the board, Rev. S. T. Tucker, J. A. Vance, L. C. Russell and others. There were a large number of ratepayers present.

I. E. Needham adressed the council, presenting a counter petition signed by forty or more of the ratepayers, asking the council not to pass the bylaw until it has been first submitted to the people at the polls.

The final decision was to have Mr. Smith write to Toronto and secure Mr. Hogue, the High School Inspector, to address a public meeting, the date to be announced when the latter can promise to be here. All ratepayers will be urged to attend, and have the matter thoroughly discussed when Mr. Hogue is here. Council then adjourned until after the public meeting, when they will meet again at the call of the reeve.

Automobile Accident.

What might have proved a serious motor accident occurred on Sunday afternoon about 2:30 p.m. at the corner of King and Tupper streets, when two cars going in opposite directions collided, bending the axle and breaking off the bumper of the heavier car, while the lighter one was driven back possibly eight feet with the impact, the radiator being badly damaged, one light and the fender twisted, and the windshield broken. Ex-Warden A. J. and Mrs. Henderson and Mr. Leonard Henderson, who were in the larger car, were on the way to Cobourg, when the accident occurred, while Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, and baby, with Mrs. Davidson's father, Mr. Dodds, were proceeding to Oshawa, but in each case the cars had to be taken to the garage for repairs, and the intended afternoon, when following the regu-

An Appreciation.

A pleasant event took place at St. Thomas Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, when following the regular session, on behalf of the officers, teachers and scholars, the four sons and four daughters of Rev. C. R. and Mrs. Spencer were presented with tokens of the love and appreciation with which they were regarded, previous to their removal from this parish on Wednesday of this week. To the girls, Misses Hilda, Thelma, Alixe and Margaret, were given "Torpedo" bar pins, sterling silver, and set with rhinestones, while handsome pearl-handled pocket knives were given to the boys, Selby, Thos., George and Charles, an informal address being made by the Superintendent, Mr. G. Fowler, and the gifts presented by Mr. Robert Stone. As the superintendent pointed out, the removal of Mr. Spencer's family will mean the withdrawal of scholars who have been most regular in attendance, faithful in the preparation of the lessons and loyal in their support of everything which was undertaken for the betterment or the maintenance of the school. Suitable replies were made by the recipients, who with their teachers and classmates are feeling very keenly the ordeal of parting.

Mrs. (Colonel) Earchman, who has been visiting her sister, Miss E. Hutchison, 7th line of Cavan, since Thanksgiving, returned to her home in Carleton Place, on Friday, Colonel Earchman, who was here for the holiday, coming up again and joining his wife for the return journey.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dawson have removed to the residence on Marshal street formerly occupied by Mrs J. B. McMahon. The latter is with her daughter, Mrs. H. Lang, 7th line Cavan.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Rev. Lawrence conducted both services in the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Girard Graham exchanged with him.

Rev. Hughes conducted the service in the Anglican Church, and at the close the A.Y.P.A. presented him with a very handsome service book. Mr. Hughes takes a great interest in the work of the A.Y.P.A. The memorial tablet to Pte. Percy Cooper was decorated with poppies by his mother.

The Women's Institute provided the poppies for a handsome wreath which on Sunday was placed on the Dummer soldiers' memorial monument. The wreath itself was the work of Mrs. A. F. Choate.

USE OF PRIVATE MONEY FINDS COUNTERPART IN HISTORY.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(Associated Press)—The action of the German Government in allowing certain firms print their own money in small denominations, recalls a somewhat similar state of affairs in the early years of George III. in this country.

In those days the amount of copper coin in circulation was totally inadequate and tradesmen all over the country issued tokens of their own which attained almost equal standing with the regal coinage. One manufacturer in Birmingham issued over 9 million pennies and 3½ million half-pennies in the course of a few years, and the amount of 'tokens' in circulation in 1870, outnumbered the genuine coinage.

BURNED THE "KAISER" AND GUY FAWKES

How the Youth and Young Manhood of Omemee Celebrated Armistice Day Saturday.

TORCHLIGHT PARADE.

OMEMEE, Nov. 15. — Armistice Day was fittingly observed in Omemee on Saturday morning, when a very impressive church service was held in the Anglican church, Rev. Mr. James, the rector of Christ church, conducted the service. Rev. Mr. Stillman, pastor of the Methodist church, led in prayer and afterwards read the Scripture lesson. The address, which was given by Rev. R. F. Scott, of the Presbyterian church on "Remembrance and Gratitude," was very appropriate and most excellent.

At exactly 11 o'clock the bell started to toll and continued for the two minutes while the congregation remained in silent prayer for the heroic Canadian dead. The service was brought to a close by the singing of the hymn, "Lest We Forget," which was quite in keeping with the day.

Torchlight Procession.

The annual celebration on Armistice night was again observed by many of the smaller boys on Saturday evening. A torchlight procession made up of Indians, negros, cowboys and other characters, followed by the 'Kaiser' and the family mourners, drawn on a horseless carriage, were seen in the parade, which proceeded up the main street and thence to 'Sandy Point,' via George street. At Sandy Point the dummy Kaiser was placed on a huge fire and before long nothing but ashes remained. The spectators were not as many as in previous years, the probable reason being the celebration of Guy Fawkes night by the older youths, who appeared in fancy costumes and were led in the parade by an amateur band to where the destruction of Guy Fawkes took place.

Anniversary Services.

Anniversary services were observed in the Anglican church on Sunday last, the occasion being the eightieth anniversary of the church. The weather was ideal and needless to say the congregations were most encouarging to the pastor, Bishop Sweeney of Toronto, who has a territory of 10,000 sq. miles, covering 300 parishes, was the speaker for the day and delivered two most excellent addresses. A childrens' service was held in the afternoon. The choir rendered special music.

A Fowl Supper.

On Monday evening a fowl supper was held in the basement of the church, the proceeds of which were most gratifying amounting to over $200. The following programme was rendered after the supper:

Hymn — Onward Christian Soldiers.
Prayer—Rev. Mr. James.
Solo— Mrs. B. Hume, "Open the Gates of Jerusalem."
Remarks—The Rector.
Anthem—By the choir.
Address—Rev. R. F. Scott.
Duet—Mrs. Hume and Miss Hart, "Lead Kindly Light."
Address—Rev. R. F. Stillman.
Quartette—"Now the Day is Over."

Bishop Reeves, of Toronto, then addressed the large gathering. He directed his thoughts to the life and work of the missionaries in the Rainy River district, taking for his subject, "Who Should Despise the Day of Small Things."

National Anthem—God Save the King.

THE X-RAY FOR CANCER CURE NEAR PERFECT

Through Invention of a Young Scientist the Last Stumbling Block Declared to Have Been Removed

IS REVOLUTIONARY.

SAN RANCISCO, Nov. 15.—X-ray can at last be measured!

Through the invention of a young scientist the last stumbling block is declared to have been removed from the path of medical men who would use the penetrating rays in treatment and cure of cancer.

Revolutionary in its nature, this device will make it possible to measure accurately, and hence to regulate, the amount of ray given off by a machine. It has been under the observation of University of California experts and other specialists

With its adoption the X-ray will forge ahead of radium in cancer treatment, it is declared.

Frank Rieber, is the inventor. A young X-rayologist, Rieber is already known in medical and scientific circles, even though he may have been unheard of by the public About one year ago he proved that American genius could best German science in the race of an economical subsitute for the costly radium treatment.

That German scientists had been using the X-ray for treatment of malignant growths had been generally known, but America had been unable to contrive any device that would run up the voltage of an X-ray machine until it reproduced the vibration and petetrating quality of the radium ray. Then came Rieber with such an invention.

"I realized that the machines in use were unable to determine what quantity of ray was given off," he explains. "Some sort of yard stick to measure it was vitally needed before any degree of perfection could be reached.

"Some machines would give off a stronger ray than others. Some would give off a longer ray; some a shorter. There was much confusion. There was always a danger that some patients would be given too strong a ray; that a cancerous growth might be overdosed or underdosed. One might be treated too much and another too little. You can readily see that a medium of measure was needed. This has now been found—at least so all our tests prove."

With the first announcement of the invention comes also reliable information that Rieber's invention has successfully been treating cancer in a dozen different test and treatment stations. Practically all the big research and hospital laboratories are now equipped with radium duplicating machines, it is said.

Medical science is not yet ready to give out statistics, the correspondent was informed, but they are said to be of a most optimstic nature.

INTERNATIONAL CO. TAKES OVER GERMAN SHIPYARDS

DANTZIG, Nov. 15 (Associated Press)—The great shipbuilding works and railway shops at Dantzig, formerly belonging to the German government, have been turned over to an international company under a fifty years concession.

This was the expedient determined upon by the English, French and Italian commission appointed by the Council of Ambassadors in Paris to settle the contention between the governemtn of Poland and the municipality of Dantzig as to who should have these works. Thirty per cent. of the shares of the international company has been taken by Cravens Company, of England, thirty percent by the Societe Batignolles of France, and the remaining forty per cent by a group of Dantzig and Warsaw banks. The board consists of three Englishmen, three Frenchmen, two Poles and two citizens of Dantzig.

The first business of the new company will be assembling of 7,000 freight cars recently imported by Poland from America.

Why Corns?

Just say Blue-jay to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE HELD A MEETING

Interesting Addresses and a Report on the Annual Convention.

A very interesting meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held of St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night. The meeting was well attended by the members. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien was present, and discussed the questions of the League with interest. The Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien addressed the meeting. The Rev. Fathers Costello and McHenry were also present.

A very pleasing musical program was enjoyed by those present. An instrumental duet was rendered by the Misses Mary and Lucille Nolan. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. W. Donovan of Montreal, and Miss Martha Baumer played very acceptably on the piano, Miss Marian Hayes acting as accompanist.

Miss Mary Lonergan acted as chairwoman, and Miss Josephine Collins as secretary.

Miss Margaret Heffernan, who acted as delegate to the second annual convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, held at Winnipeg, in September of this year, gave an interesting and detailed account of the proceedings of the convention. The formal opening of the meeting was marked by an address from the Most Rev. Alfred H. Sinnott, D.D., Archbishop of Winnipeg. His Grace referred to the kindness shown our Canadian boys during the late war by the C.W.L. of Great Britain, spoke of the changed status of women in modern life, and of the important place they now held, and impressed upon the members the necessity of directing their attention to matters of national import, instead of wasting their time on petty local needs. He remarked that it had been the practice of conventions to pass numbers of resolutions which were never carried out, and hoped that this meeting might set an example in this regard. He referred to the importance of work amongst the immigrants and commended most heartily the work of the Sisters of Service. He urged co-operation in all endeavors between the women of the west and of the east.

Miss Guerin of Montreal, president of the League, spoke of the work of the society in education, child welfare, suffrage, dance, dress, social reform, censorship of the film, morality and immigration. She described her visit to Rome, at the International Convention of the Catholic Women's League, when she was accorded the privilege of a private audience with His Holiness Pope Pius XI.

Considerable discussion took place with regard to immigration work, and literature, the latter culminating in a resolution, as follows:

"Believing that some restriction of the large circulation through the Canadian mails and the extensive sale on Canadian news stands of United States magazines, particularly those of a sensational, immoral, salacious or blasphemous character, is desirable, and that the present condition is harmful to Canadian ideals of citizenship, and demoralizing to our youth, and that it retards the growth of Canadian magazines:

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Catholic Women's League respectfully urges upon the government the advisability of putting in force some effective and permanent form of censorship, or of taking such other steps as will effectually curtail their sale in this country."

It was also resolved to co-operate with all existing organizations throughout the Dominion in Travellers' Aid Work, and that it record its sympathy with the national work being done for the blind.

The next annual convention will be held in Halifax, in June of 1923.

FENELON FALLS GIRL MISSING FROM HOME.

Family Disputes Caused Her to Run Away and Leave Her Sick Mother.

LINDSAY, Nov. 15—Family disputes caused the leaving home of a young Fenelon Falls girl this week. It appears that for some time past the young girl has been rather dissatisfied, and on Monday morning took the train for Lindsay, and then apparently for Toronto. A sick mother was left at home, unable to do much for herself, or to look after the household affairs.

An anxious father immediately set out in pursuit, and arriving at Lindsay sought the aid of the local police. At the time, Chief Short was absent from the office, but Detective W. H. Howard, of the Grand Trunk force, happened to be nearby, and gave valuable assistance.

It is expected that the young girl will be located, and that she will return home willingly when explanations are made.

The Toast List

Mr. Westbye proposed he toast to the King and Mr. Allison "The Institute", which was replied to by General Mitchell and Mr. R. A. Ross.

"The Branches", was proposed by Mr. Keith, and was responded to by Professor Gillespie of Toronto, Mr. Grant of St. Catharines and Mr. Hunter of Montreal.

"The Sister Professions" was the toast given by Mr. Killaly with replies by Rev. Mr. Pogue, Mr. Strickland, Dr. Wood, Mr. Downey, Dr. Craig, Mr. Crane and Mr. Miles of Lindsay.

The musical programme included choruses from a song sheet, a solo by Mr. Manning, and several selections by the "Engineers' Sextette" composed of Mr. Manning, W. A. Ross, Mr. Rose, Mr. Dickieson, Mr. Gates and Mr. Cruthers. The personal "hits" of their stanzas were hilariously received. Mr. Barry played the accompaniments.

GEN. MITCHELL'S ADDRESS.

General Mitchell remarked that Peterboro was a centre of engineering activity in Ontario. It had produced many of the men whose names were associated with some of Canada's greatest projects, from Sanford Fleming down to the men of our day, such as Ross, Grant and others. After illustrating the progress that had been made in engineering by contrasting the old G.T.R. locomotives with the "moguls" now in use, General Mitchell said that in railroad management alone there were greater problems confronting the engineers of to-day than most persons imagined. The breaking of rails at crossings and "frog" points, the prevention of the ends of rails from sinking into the earth, the "strings" used as rail fasteners, the problem of paint used for structural steel, the question of water supply, which in Ontario is different from that in Manitoba, and that of Manitoba from Saskatchewan, these were some of the difficulties that were were worrying railway managements.

"It all sounds simple," said General Mitchell, "but I was talking a few days ago with a high official of Canada's National Railways, who was wringing his hands over some of these problems. How is the Engineering Institute of Canada going to be a factor in solving these problems?"

Colonel Mitchell pointed his question by a story of three stonemasons who were separately asked what they were doing. The first of them replied that he was cutting stone; the second said that he was working for wages; and the third answered that he was helping to build a cathedral.

"Let us feel and think as if we were working with the spirit and the object of the stonemason, who said he was helping to erect a cathedral," was the Colonel's counsel.

Herculean Labors.

General Mitchell declared that if engineers did not attack and solve the exigent problems of to-day some one else would, Business men, financiers or others. He cited fifteen of the difficulties that are now demanding a solution. Among them were the following: the economic organization and operation of the national railways; the economic electrification of railways now operating by steam; the building of new electric railways; the development of permanent highways systems, municipal, provincial and Dominion wide; long distance electric power transmission; the delivery of cheap electric power to farming communities; the operation of hydro-electric power plants in cold climates, as in the northern parts of this country; the recovery of minerals from low grade ores, and the present waste at our mines; electric smelting; the continued research, and reconnaissance of our natural resources; what more can we learn of oil deposits in the north-west; of copper and gold in Saskatchewan and Alberta and Labrador; the construction and surfacing of highways; development of cheap motor trucks; a substitute motor fuel for gasoline; the development of apparatus for electric heating; the production of nitrogen from the air for the refertilization of Canada's western prairies.

General Mitchell said that these were problems for Canadian engineers to cope with, to keep them thinking and working. It was a national duty to endeavor to secure their solution, "and in due course we will get our reward," he concluded.

Nurse Recommended Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bothwell, Ontario.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. D. MAXWELL, R. R. No. 2, Bothwell, Ontario.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.) — The trade in cash grain on the local grain market was quiet, demand from all sources being limited on account of higher prices asked in the west. Prices of flour were marked up another ten cents a barrel in sympathy with strength in the Winnipeg market. Millfeed advanced one dollar per ton owing to the active demand and the marked for rolled oats was very firm. There was no feature in the baled hay market. A feature of the local egg market continues to be the strong feeling for strictly new-laid and prices advanced to 75 cents per dozen. Prices of other grades ruled firm.

The market for potatoes was rather quiet. The butter market was quiet. A fair business is reported in cheese.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press.) —Wheat tended upward in price yesterday, with special notice being taken of assertions that an advance in Italian lire during the last 30 days had increased the purchasing power of Italy as much as 30 cents a bushel on wheat. The market closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish, to 1 5-8c. higher, December $1.17 5-8 to $1.17 7-8 and May $1.15 1-2 to $1.15 5-8. Corn gained 1-2c. to 1 3-8c., and oats 1-8 and 1-4c. to 1-2 and 5-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from 15c. decline to a rise of 10c.

SIX-YEAR-OLD HAD BRONCHITIS EVERY WINTER

Bronchitis generally begins with chills, followed by fever and a harsh dry, hacking cough. There is a raising of phlegm, which at first is of a light color, but, as the trouble progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color and is sometimes streaked with blood.

All those who are troubled with bronchitis will find in Dr. Wood's Pine Syrup a remedy that will stimulate the bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, sooths the irritated parts, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Oliver C. Lemage, South Rustico, P. E. I., writes:—"My little six-year-old girl had very bad attacks of bronchitis every winter. In the evening and during the night, she would have fever and choke up, and had a wheezing in her chest. We tried several cough medicines, but they never seemed to do her any good. A neighbor advised us to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which we did, and after she had taken two bottles she got perfectly well."

PROSPECTS FOR HOCKEY SEASON ARE VERY GOOD

P.A.A.A. Has Appointed Grover Halpin to Coach the Seniors and Walter Jackson the Juniors.

GOOD SUPPORT.

Grover Halpin, coach, and Ed. Dugan, trainer, for the Intermediate O.H.A. team, and Walter Jackson, coach for the Junior O.H.A. team, is the announcement from the Hockey Committee of the P.A.A.A. Assisting Walter Jackson with the Juniors will be Lew. LeBarr, Sr., and Orville Kenneally. On the invitation of the Hockey Committee, Rev. Paul Costello has accepted the office of honorary patron of the Junior team.

It is recommended that a junior league be organized with an age limit of nineteen years, to be fostered by the Senior City Hockey League, with a view to developing players for the O.H.A. teams. It is further recommended that the Senior City League delay the opening of the series until January 15, and also that Intermediate O.H.A. players do not take part in the games of the league.

Blue and white will again be the colors of the teams, the jerseys to be light blue with white trimmings, and bear the letter "P."

So much for a start. The Hockey Committee have reason to believe that they will receive the solid support of the hockey players. Grover Halpin has had a lot of hockey experience to help him in handling the Intermediates. Walter Jackson should make good with the Juniors. Add Ed. Dugan, himself an athlete of no mean ability, to the job and local hockey has two teams, the majority of the players home-brews, trained and coached by Peterborough talent. It looks good on paper, and should get results.

Every attention possible will be given to the Juniors. From the two teams of last season it will be possible to select one team that should be a winner. The Hockey Committee have the players from the H. N. S. squad of last season and the good-will of the society as well. Several of these youngsters, among whom is Scotty McPherson, are promising hockey players.

SIKI'S LIFE STORY

By Battling Siki

As Told to Milton Bronner, NEA Staff Correspondent

CHAPTER TWO—Siki Learns to Box

I saw hard times in Marseilles when the money the German dancer left me gave out. Often I was cold and hungry.

I worked long hours washing dishes and drying them and getting little pay and not much to eat. Some of these Marseilles restaurant and hotel bosses knew how to get the work out of you.

Then I had a piece of luck which was afterward to change my life, as the German dancer did. I met Paul Latil, a boxing instructor at Marseilles. He gave me lessons for nothing. He showed me how to build up strength, how to box and duck and crouch.

A lot of newspaper fellows have written that I have a jungle style of fighting, and that I am a sort of chimpanzee who has been taught to wear gloves. I was never in the jungle in my life. I haven't seen many chimpanzees and never saw any fight.

Builds Up Style.

Every fighting man builds up his own way of hitting the other fellow and of trying to keep from being hit. Call it by what name you will, the whole game is to hit the other fellow and keep from getting badly hurt yourself.

If I can bend and stoop in such manner that all the other fellow can hit is my elbow or the top of my head, that's my game. He can't hurt my elbow, and I have a black man's head. It can stand a lot of bumping.

Latil used to get sore because my crouch was not very elegant. I told him it made no difference if it got there. Soon, as I got bigger and stronger, I used to help with his gymnasium classes—and kept on washing dishes.

I got my first chance as a fighter in 1913, when I was sixteen. I knocked out Jules Perroud at Toulouse in eight rounds. I was a kid in years, but manly in build and heft.

I wasn't a bit scared. I may have been nervous. You know, the crowd and noise. But Siki has never been scared. He's a Senegalese, and they are fighters, as the Germans found out.

Later that year in Toulouse, I knocked out B. Nicolas in 2 rounds and beat Frank Roose on points. I was beginning to get a rep. But it didnt bring much money.

Got Little Money.

I used to fight for 50 or 60 francs! It seemed an awful lot of money for beating a man.

Early in 1914 I had bad luck. I lost to Jean Audouy in ten rounds on points. I beat Frank Roose again on points in July. That was my last public fight for some years.

Things looked good. I was getting offers to fight other good men for better purses. I was getting stronger right along and learning from each man I fought.

For one thing, I learned that the crouch Latil hated was very useful. I would go in the ring, act nervous, shuffle, crouch and swing my arms wildly.

Learns From Other Fellow.

People laughed and the other fellow would think he had a frightened easy mark before him.

Sometimes he would pull his best punch and land it. I would go down for a count of six or seven. It was only a rest for me, time to think. I wanted to puzzle how the other fellow had landed that blow, how I left myself open. I rarely did it a second time.

Once I learned his style, I made my defense and knew how to go after him. I usually succeeded.

Then came the war, and an end of boxing carnivals in France.

DEMPSEY SEEKS MEN TO CONQUER

Siki Would Have Filled the Bill But Beckett is Now the Choice.

"Battling" Siki, from all reports not much of a fighter after all, but endowed with ability to absorb at least all Carpentier had to hand him, seems to be through. His nine mon'' s' suspension in France about disposes of him as effectively as Jack Johnson was shunted years ago.

The chief mourners in the Siki demise will be his manager, and at least one promoter—the one who would have benefited by the one big gate the Senegalese would have drawn.

Siki's knowledge of boxing is said to be practically nil, but Carpentier could not hurt him with the hardest punches he had to offer, and it was easy enough after that.

The chief business of the New York promoters now is to find somebody who can draw a gate with Dempsey, and Siki, as the conqueror of Carpentier, filled the bill, no matter how crude the dark French soldier is. Now Beckett is being seized to make a Dempsey opponent.

Spirit of Reds Made Big Hit With Moran.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 15.—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is positive that in Louis Fonseca he has the leading rival for Roger Hornsby, premier batter of the National League.

Recently while here looking over one of the big football games Moran found time to discuss baseball. He was very enthusiastic over the showing of his club in finishing in second place. Even better to Pat than the mere finishing second was the manner in which it was done, the gameness it required. The Reds had to win a double header on the last day from the Pirates to nose them out, and that is just what they did.

Pat feels that with a bit of strength added here and there his club will be in shape to make the going very interesting for the Giants next year.

"Fonseca was a big help to me last season," said Moran, "and he is bound to be a much improved ball player next season. He is a natural hitter and will push Hornsby hard for his honors. Fonseca doesn't hit them as far as Hornsby, being content with singles.

"A good infield means everything. My infield was a bit inexperienced last year, but should be much improved next season. Fonseca, Cavaney and Pinello sure have made good."

SERGEANTS WERE TOO MUCH FOR PRIVATES.

The Sergeants put it all over the Privates in the softball game at the Armoury last evening, defeating them 14 to 3. The Privates made their only show of strength in the fifth frame, when they scored all three of their runs. They got two other men as far as third in this inning, but both were retired before they reached the scoring station. The Sergeants, on the other hand, scored at least one run every time they went to bat, with the exception of the second inning when they went out in one-two-three order.

The players were:

Sergeants—Stott, p; Mitchell, c; Wood, 1b; Hensby, 2b; Calladine, 3b; Kitchen, ss; Varty, lf; Mitchell, cf; Gaskell, rf.

Privates—Thomas, p; Williams, c; Grant, 1b; Hamblin, 2b; Grant, 3b; Ronco, ss; McBride, ss; Mitchell, lf; Wheeler, rf.

Score by innings:

Sergeants	101311214—14
Privates	000030000— 3

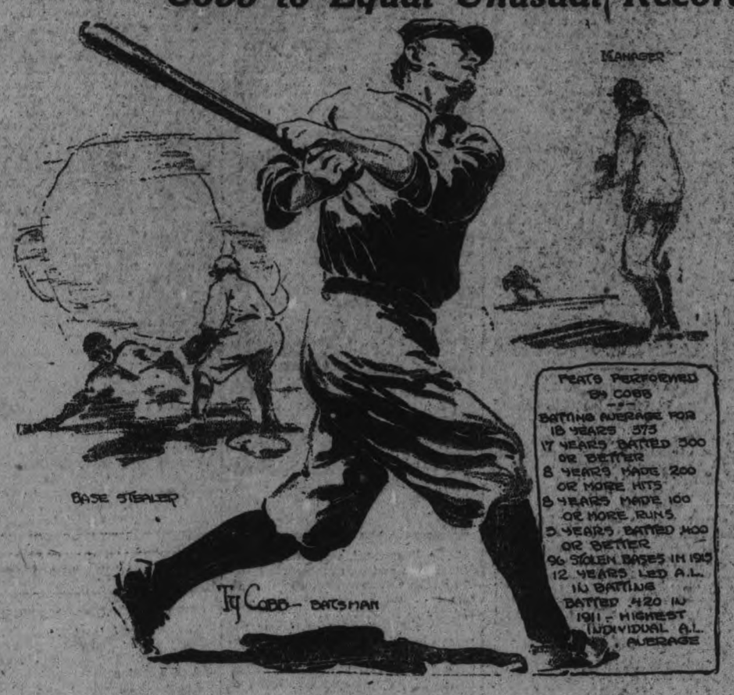
Disputed Hit is Allowed, Enabling Cobb to Equal Unusual Record



By BILLY EVANS.

During the season of 1922 Cobb of the Detroit club added several new records to his credit.

Of his several notable performances none pleased Cobb better than his season's batting average of an even .400.

It was the third time in his career of 18 years as an American Leaguer that Cobb batted .400 or better.

In 1911 Cobb achieved the best mark of his career, .420. He came back in 1912 with .410. His ambition to hit .400 for three consecutive years was broken when he piled up the mark of only .390 in 1913.

Getting an even .400 in 1922 however has enabled Cobb to tie the major league record. It was formerly held by Jesse Burkett, who batted .400 or better in 1895, 1896 and 1899.

Since the close of the present season there has been considerable discussion as to whether or not Cobb really did hit .400 because of a questionable hit.

The argument has been closed by President Johnson of the American League, which has announced that the disputed hit has been allowed.

The final averages of the American League as published had Cobb at bat 527 times and making 211 hits for an average of .400.

A few weeks later the official statistician noted that there was a difference between his records and the unofficial averages. His records gave Cobb only 210 hits, bringing his average just below the prized mark, or .399.

A careful survey of the averages showed that in a certain game, played at New York in May, the news bureaus credited Cobb with two hits while the official score sheet gave him only one.

It's a rule of all news bureaus that the official score sheet shall be followed in sending out the results. In this game Cobb hit a ball over second that Scott got in front or but was unable to get his man at first.

At first the official scorer ruled it a hit, but later, changed his mind and credited Scott with an error.

An investigation shows that a dozen experts were in New York press box that day and eleven of them gave Cobb a hit on the play, among them being Fred Lieb, president of the Baseball Writers' Association.

The preponderance of evidence proved that Cobb deserved a hit and the disputed bungle was allowed. The official score said that he first ruled it a hit, and after thinking it over believed Scott should have handled the play and scored it an error.

WILDCATS CLAWED WAY TO VICTORY

Caledonians Put Up Good Battle and Made Things Look Interesting With a Rally in the Ninth.

The Wildcats proved a little too much for the Caledonians in last night's softball game, and defeated them to the tune of 20 to 14. The game was a good one, and when the Scots started in on a rally in the ninth frame it looked for a little while as if they might still pull a victory out of it. They sent three runs home before any of the side were retired, but the Wildcats then got busy, and though one other man got home and one got to third, the necessary three men were put out before the Callies got too dangerous.

The players were:

Wildcats—Bradley, p; Delahaye, c; Miller, ss; Ward, 1b; Elliot, 3b; Cooper, rf; Frank, 2b; Sowden, lf; Sexsmith, ss.

Caledonians—Burgess, ss; Thompson, 3b; MacKenzie, 1b; Ackford, c; McMillan, p; French, ss; Veitch, rf; Anderson, lf; Jackson, 2b.

Score by innings:

Caledonians	120030044—14
Wildcats	13313522x—20

BECKETT-CARPENTIER BOUT.

LONDON, November 15 (Canadian Press). — Negotiations are proceeding for a bout between Joe Beckett, the British heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, the meeting to take place in London early in the New Year.

The arrangements are still in a tentative stage, neither the date nor the hall in which the fight will be staged having been decided upon.

EXPECTS BENTLEY WILL MAKE GOOD

McGraw Has No Idea of Trading Him to the Cincinnati Team.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—While he doesn't put it in so many words, John McGraw has a sneaking notion that he's going to drive his New York Giants to another National League pennant—maybe to world's championship.

"My club looks very much better than it did this time last year," McGraw says.

It will be recalled that his "last year's club" won the pennant and made the Yanks look like bushers in the series.

"Last winter we had Toney and Douglas, two uncertainties, on the pitching staff, and now we have McQuillen and Scott, two dependable pitchers in their places. I expect much next season from my young pitchers. Jonnard probably will be a regular, and Young Johnson, Blume and Svengross are most promising," McGraw said.

"Naturally we are expecting much of Bentley, and there is no reason why a player of his ability should not make good in fast company."

McGraw said he would start Jimmy O'Connell, his $75,000 San Francisco star, as a regular in centre field.

"I want the boy to know that he's going to get every chance from me to make good. He is in no danger of losing his job even if he doesn't start off like a million dollars. He's young, and it may take him some time to get adjusted to his new surroundings," he said.

McGraw intimated that any plans he had entertained to secure Eddie Roush from the Cincinnati Reds have been abandoned because he feels that he is not needed enough to part with the money, and the players that the Reds would be sure to ask of him.

The Giant leader also denied that he had secured Bentley to use him in a trade with the Reds.

"I would trade him to Cincinnati, but the Reds would have to give me Rixey, Donahue and a few others for him. Naturally I do not have any idea that Cincinnati wants him that bad," he said.

The Giants have not picked a training camp for 1923, and up to the present time the club bosses haven't given it much thought. McGraw may take his squad to California, or he might accept any of a dozen or more invitations from various other sections, he said.

PUNTED FOOTBALL 96 YARDS.

What is believed to be one of the longest kicks ever recorded since the inception of football is credited to Hoge Workman, Ohio State halfback, who, in Saturday's contest against Chicago, punted the pigskin 96 yards. Workman is one of the most versatile stars in the west and can almost get a touch with forward passes carrying 35 to 40 yards.

MONTREAL WOULD WELCOME CONACHER.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—The Herald yesterday said: "Is Lionel Conacher, the best all-round athlete in Canada, coming to Montreal?

"The famous Argo halfback would look pretty sweet in a local football uniform and rumors are not wanting to the effect that the 'human express train' would not be averse to leaving Toronto and locating in this city. It is said, indeed, that there is a strong possibility of his doing so."

Morocco formerly was the Roman province of Mauretania, for which the giant liner of that name was called.

Bill Kew Invented Billiards Pawnbroker's Three Golden Balls Were the First Used

A dozen different writers have given as many diversified accounts of the origin of the game of billiard, but no one has as yet given authentic proof as to who was the particular genius who really gave the game to the world. Question arises to the name of billiards. Answer is nobody knows. Therefore the following story is just as authentic as any of the countless tales that have preceded it in days gone by. It is an old English yarn, quaintly told, and carrying with it at least a far-fetched semblance of probability. It was printed in a London journal of some 60 years ago, and was reproduced here when the game was in its infancy in this country. It is given here as an historic as well as literary curiosity, in which it is believed all loyal knights of the cue will be interested.

"It is not generally known that billiards was first invented by a pawnbroker. About the middle of the 16th century, there was one William Kew, a London pawnbroker who during wet weather, was in the habit of taking down the three balls which were the insignia of his vocation, and with the yard measure pushing them into the stalls. A Black Letter manuscript found on the dusty shelves of the Royal Library, says: "Master William Kew did make a board whereby a game is played with three balls, and all the young men were greatly recreated, chiefly the young clergymen from St. Pawles, hence one of ye strokes was named a canon having by one of the said clergyman been invented. The game is now known as Bill Yard because of Bill Kew did first play it with a yard measure. The stick is now called a Kew or 'Kue.' It is easy to comprehend how 'Bill Yard' has been moderated into billiards, and the transformation of 'Kew' or Kue is equally apparent."

If the budding clergymen and all-around sports of that far-away time were recreated by the primitive board of Bill Kew, what would they have thought of the slate and marble beds and speedy elastic cushions of the present day?

Or what would they have given for a seat at the International tournament being held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, November 13 to 21 inclusive. The greatest masters of the cue that the game has known will perform there.

Schaefer, world's champion; Hoppe, former champion of the world; Conti, champion of France; Horemans, champion of Europe; Hagenlacher the German champion; Yamada, champion of Japan, and young Cochran—a champion without a title.

Here and There in Sportdom

Look out for the Greybirds of Lindsay, Ont., in the next annual battle of the Central Ontario League. Somebody started a story that the Greybirds were done, but the Lindsay Post has seen another vision, and here it is: "The local ball moguls are already working on next year's team. This year they learned a lot of things and gathered a lot of experience, and the teams of the league are given fair warning that Lindsay is coming and coming strong. A winter is short, and the possibility of a January 1 residence rule has started organization at a much earlier date than usual."

* * * * * * *

The resolution from the semi-annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. that leagues failing to be ready to play semi-final games be refused the right to play for the silverware, is the right move if the O.B.A.A. will accept the resolution and enforce it. This problem was discussed at the annual meeting last spring, but no progress was made. Leagues have shown a tendency to hold back because they were aware from past experiences that early finishes meant long waits for Toronto winners. If the Toronto association would take the lead, other associations and leagues would, no doubt, lend their assistance.

The local industrial plants are winning a goodly share of the honors in sports. The Canadian General Electric Co. have baseball and soccer championships; the Quaker Oats Co. have the Gordon Cup, and the De Laval Co. possesses the Yeates Trophy, emblematic of junior football honors. These victories will create more interest in sport and recreation, among young and old, in the several plants, all of which will help in the city-wide movement.

Collegiates travel to Oshawa next Saturday for the second game in the Interscholastic series for group honors. Here's to the Collegiates. It was a great victory here, but it will be a hard game at Oshawa. Last fall the locals won and lost in the home-and-home series, and gained the group title by winning the third game at Port Hope.

Brintons, who occupy the lowest rung in the softball standing, hardly deserve that fate. The team has contributed two of the fastest games played to date, and they were just as good as the other fellows when defeated by one run by Woollens on Monday night. Baseball fans who take delight in watching the outdoor game will find the softball contests interesting and full of excitement, with a lot of fun, as an added attraction, when the Kiwanis go into action.

THE IRON TRAIL, Capitol To-morrow

"THE IRON TRAIL" AT THE CAPITOL, TO-MORROW

THE SITUATION

Wirth, whose cabinet resigned last night, were not oblivious of the feeling that he had outlived his usefulness and now has become the victim of his policy, of indecision and inactvity which found its culmination in the government's failure to make practical arrangements with the Allied reparations commission during the course of its recent visit to Berlin.

Ever since the assassinaton of Foreign Minister Rathenau, the Chancellor has been described as a man who apparently possessed no inspiration, no initiative. This attitude gave weight to the assertion that Rathenau was Wirth's inspiration and guiding force. With the passing of Rathenau, Wirth's policy of fulfilment 'diminished day by day. He admitted collapse last summer, when he announced the government's slogan as "Bread first, then reparations". Foreign criticism of alleged weakness of the cabinet emanating from London as well as Berlin during the last few days contributed to undermining the chancellor's position, even in the ranks of the coalition party. His belated espousal of the Peoples' Party as a necessary adjunct to the government definitely alienated the support he had been receiving from Socialists.

BERLIN, November 15. Canadian Press. — President Ebert is taking steps to-day toward the formation of a new cabinet following the resignation of the Wirth Government last night. During the night the situation was one of utter confusion. A number of solutions of the crisis have already been suggested. One is for a cabinet of "business men without party affiliations," while another probability concern itself with a ministry composed only of the bourgeoisie party. It is quite uncertain whether Wirth will again be commissioned to constitute a new ministry but his further availability as Chancellor is strongly doubted.

THE LOCAL KIWANIANS PREPARING FOR SHOW.

Musical Part of the Work Is In Charge of Martin Chenhall.

The local Kiwanis Club is staging a monster Minstrel how at the Grand Opera House on the nights of 29th and 30th November. Practises have been carried on consistently during the past month and the finishing touches are now being attended to.

The music is in charge of Martin Chenhall, the capable organist of St. Paul's Church and this in itself should insure undoubted success.

Every Kiwanian is undertaking to sell a number of tickets and the public should receive them heartily. The funds are to be used in connection with their work at Jackson Park and we understand the show is being put on under the endorsation of the Peterboro Health Association. The public is requested to keep these dates open and support this worthy cause. Tickets 75c.

At The Theatres

GRAND—Tuesday, Nov. 14—The sensational drama, "A Woman's Greatest Sin."

CAPITOL—House Peters and a superb cast in thrilling story, "Human Hearts." Also other features and comedy.

ROYAL—A romance of hearts and sweethearts, Shirley Mason in "You Must Love." Also, Fox Comedy, Al St. John in "The City Chap," and other features.

REGENT—Bert Lytell in "Alias Ladyfingers," and balance of high-class programme.

AT THE GRAND.

WOMAN'S GREATEST SIN

Peterboro people are not very interested in discovering "Woman's Greatest Sin" judging by the attendance at the play of that name at the Grand last night. It proved a rather unusual melodrama, albeit the old familiar platitudes of this kind of attraction were strongly in evidence. Chas. A. De Lena is responsible for the play which is staged in prologue, three chapters and epilogue. Madeline George as Anna Wakefield, writer of fiction, was the star of the cast, doing excellent work, while Joseph Ferguson gave her splendid support.

A MUSICAL SUCCESS.

F. Stuart-Whyte, well-known pantomime producer, describes "Prince Charming Jr." his latest musical success, which will be the offering at the Grand Opera House for two nights and a Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, Nov. 17, as his "eleventh musical box o'tricks."

Box o'tricks is an apt characterization of the show for there are more than a dozen different scenes, which engage the eye in rapid succession and in each of which a galaxy of talent reveals its capacity in the art of entertainment.

Woven from the familiar Whyte material, the show has not a dull moment.

The finished technique of Zara Clinton is in evidence in her character song, "The Hallies Howed an Horful Lot to Hus," in which type of number the Ottawa Citizen states "she has few equals;" while her versatile ability is portrayed in her change to the scarlet and blue of the dashing Royal Northwest Mounted Police in her "Reginald from Regina," song hit of the season.

"Prince Charming Jr.," possessed of unusual and beautiful settings, a wardrobe both lavish and lovely and a talented assemblage of performers, provides the quality of entertainment that undoubtedly holds the widest appeal, and will please the t.b.g. as well as the t.b.m.

AT THE REGENT.

"ALIAS LADYFINGERS" SAFE CRACKER STORY.

"Alias Ladyfingers," a photo-drama dealing with the career of a safe cracker who is decidedly out of the ordinary run of such individuals, is the latest Bert Lytell picture, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre. This swiftly moving story of an accidental criminal is a Bayard Veiller production for Metro, and it reflects that full dramatic quality which won Mr. Veiller such a reputation in the theatrical world by his "The Thirteenth Chair," and "Within the Law."

Mr. Lytell portrays the character of the young man who, educated by a notorious crook as a safe breaker, visits the home where he is being sought as the heir, and in ignorance of his relationship plans to ply his calling, resulting in many tense situations. Supporting Mr. Lytell are Ora Carew, Frank Elliott, Edythe Chapman, DeWitt Jennings and Stanley Goethals.

AT THE ROYAL FOR THREE DAYS, COMMENCING TO-MORROW ALSO THIRD EPISODE OF BUFFALO BILL SERIAL.

MUSICAL TREAT AT THE CAPITOL.

An ideal program will be offered at the Capitol Theatre the last half of his week— The Menning Sisters, refined Musical Artists will provide excellent entertainment to all classes of Theatre-goers. The Menning Sisters exponents of the Harp and Violin, have scored a hit in every big city in the United States, having travelled over the Keith Vaudeville Circuit, this wonder Act includes Solos, Duets and Concert Numbers.

"Stirring melodrama with all of the spectacular features and none of the crudities of this popular style of entertainment," is the classification that the motion picture officials have given to the new big Rex Beach production of his great Alaskan railroad story, "The Iron Trail," which will be the feature at the Capitol Theatre beginning Thursday.

The new Beach production, was made under the watchful eye of the famous author himself. Every location was approved by him as being faithful to the Alaskan country in which the theme of his story is laid, and the all-star cast that portrays the leading roles and the incidental characters were approved by him before any of the scenes were made.

In reproducing the spectacular railroad construction scenes, Mr. Beach in close collaboration with Director R. William Neill elaborated on his original vivid descriptions and the reported result is that the film version is twice as blood-stirring as the book.

Snow and ice, rain and thaw, and the feverish rush to lay the tracks of the pioneer railroad through the Alaskan wilderness before the terrible winter closed down on the workers, and the desperate opposition of enemies in human form a profusion of high spots that keep intense interest suspended from start to finish.

Those who have read the book and who are acquainted with the popular artists that play the leading roles, will anticipate the strength of this new production, in visualizing Wyndham Standing as "Murray O'Neil," Thurston Hall as "Curtis Gordon," Reginald Denny as "Dan Appleton," Alma Tell as "Eliza Appleton," Harlan Knight as "Tom Slater," Betty Carpenter as "Natalie," Lee Beggs as "Dr. Gray," and Eulalie Jensen as "Mrs. Curtis Gordon."

The production was made under the direction of R. William Neill from the scenario of Mr. Beach's prepared by Dorothy Farnum.

TWO YOUTHS DESTROYED GRAND TRUNK PROPERTY.

Fined $16.75 and $11.75 Respectively in Lindsay—A Warning to Others.

LINDSAY, November 15. — For carrying shot guns and trying their markmanship on the windows of a tool house on Grand Trunk property just west of Adelaide street, two Lindsay youths were fined $16.75 and $11.75 respectively.

Court was held before Police Magistrate Bradford, the information and charge being laid by Detective W. H. Howard, of the G. T. R. force, whose headquarters are in Peterboro. It appears that the two young boys peppered the windows of the tool house with shot, and also took aim at other objects in the vicinity, doing considerable damage. They pleaded guilty and were fined as above.

In imposing a fine Magistrate Bradford stated that the boys were liable to a prison term, but owing to their youth, and the fact that they came of good families, he decided to deal leniently with them. However, their punishment should be a warning to others, and in future the penalties for such an infraction of the law would be more severe. It was pointed out that there is a danger of boys tampering with the signals and switches, and that some day a serious catastrophe might take place.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

In India most girls are betrothed in childhood. When a girl has reached the age of 11 and her father has made no matrimonial provisions for her she may take the initiative and secure a husband for herself, though she may never marry anyone in the caste below her own.

The Indian bride's dower is in jewels. Old families give one daughter emeralds, another pearls and another sapphires. Usually a girl's dower jewels are of one variety.

Mont Blanc, one of the world's best known peaks, is, in height, only the thirty-fourth.

WEDDING BELLS

WOOD—DICKSON

WESTWOOD, Nov. 15. — On Tuesday, November 7th., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dickson was the scene of a beautiful wedding when, their daughter Eva Isabell, was united in marriage to Melleville F. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Wood of Keene, at 4 p.m. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strain of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by the bride's sister, Miss Lena. The drawing room which was so beautifully decorated with ever-green and white and under a beautiful arch the ceremony was performed by Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mus. Bac., A.T.C.M. of Camborne assisted by Rev. D. M. Stinson, B.A., B.D., of Westwood. The bride looked charming in a gown of white charmeuse with overdress of shell pink georgette with bead trimming. Her veil was tastefully arranged with a wreath of orange blossoms, the only ornament being a pearl sunburst, the gift of the groom. She carried a sheaf of Ophelia roses and fern. The only attendant was the bride's little sister as ring bearer gowned in shell pink silk, she carried the ring on a silver tray.

After the ceremony and the signing of the register, the bride lead the way to the dining room, which was prettily decorated in red, white and blue, and partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner. Only the immediate relatives were present. The bride's going away costume was of nigger brown satin, trimmed with gold beads. The groom's gift to the pianist was a wrist watch, to the little ring bearer a cameo ring. The bride and groom were the recipients of a host of valuable presents, including a nice sum of money, showing the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

(By Stuart P. West.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. —(Special.)—After two hours to-day of considerable uncertainty, during which liquidation had to be absorbed on a large scale and fresh attacks by operators for the decline had to be met, the stock market experienced a turn for the better.

Even in the minds of the most pessimistic the question was one of inside and not outside conditions. There was no indication that current trade news was disappointing or that the decline of the last three weeks on the stock exchange foreshadowed a change for the worse in the business situation. On the contrary, all the evidence coming to hand had persistently supported the belief that industrial operations are expanding and in most lines are returning a larger profit; and the advance in grain and cotton prices since the middle of September has been an incident of the greatest importance in its bearing upon the outlook for 1923.

The main thing which professional Wall Street had in mind again to-day was the possible extent of the forced liquidation which had been gathering momentum on the two previous days until it had brought the market in the closing hour of Tuesday to a state of semi-demoralization. Whether or not this liquidation was reasonable was not considered. It was sufficient that pools and individuals who had become over extended in their operations for the rise during the summer and again in the early autumn, had finally been driven to get out as best they could.

At times like this status are lost sight of and it is simply a case of the downward movement continuing until the victims of the decline have finished their sacrifice selling and stocks have passed into hands that are fully able to hold them.

That this position was reached in the course of the first hour or so to-day, or at least that it was closely approached, seems quite evident.

One of the most helpful occurrences of the day was a rapid recovery in French Government bonds, the extreme weakness in which had been very unsettling in the markets of the previous days. Both the 7 1-2's and the 8's, representing the external dollar loans, rose over 2 points and other foreign government bonds were drawn along. The improvement in French foreign exchange was maintained and thus grounds for a better feeling at least temporarily, were afforded regarding the foreign situation.
